MONROE COUNTY NEWSPAPERS.

BY L. B. SQUIER.

MONROE CITIZEN.

The beginning of newspaper work in Monroe county dates from some time in the year 1854, when L. P. Rising began the publication of a small paper called the Monroe Citizen. Mr. Rising came from Cattaragus County, New York, bringing with him a knowledge of the printer's trade and a small printing outfit. He settled near the western line of the county, about two miles from Sparta. Here he cultivated a small farm and also got out a paper about 8x12 inches in size, which he printed on a press of his own construction. Nominally it was issued at Sparta and the subscription price was $1.00 per year. It did not appear with regularity, but at intervals, according to the opportunities of the eccentric farmer-editor. The period of existence of the Citizen was limited to about two years.

SPARTA HERALD.

This was the first regular newspaper in Monroe county; was published under different names at different periods in its history. The Sparta Watchman was established at Sparta in the spring of 1855 by Milton Montgomery and J. D. Condit. This was prior to the entrance of any railroads into the county and the printing outfit obtained at Beaver Dam was brought to Sparta by wagon. After publishing the paper one year Montgomery and Condit sold it to Lucius M. Rose, who had been connected with the Watertown Chronicle. Mr. Rose changed the name of the paper to Monroe Freeman, and published it until the spring of 1858, when it was purchased by David McBride, who had previously published the Mauston Star. He changed the name to the Sparta Herald, which the paper has retained to the present time with the exception of the two years 1867-1869. In the spring of 1867 the paper passed into Democratic control and was called the Sparta Democrat. It was edited by William Jay Whipple, who afterward went to Winona and published the Winona Democrat. In 1869 the paper again came into the possession of D. McBride, who associated with him in the business his son, W. McBride. They rechristened the paper Sparta Herald, and from that time to the present it has been sturdily Republican in politics. In 1884, after the death of D. McBride, the newspaper property passed into the hands of his two sons, who have published it under the name of McBride Brothers, and it is still so published, although owned by W. McBride. The paper is an eight-column folio, printed all at home.

So far as can be learned the first effort to establish a Democratic newspaper in Monroe county was in 1859, when the Sparta Democrat was started by two men, Richard M. Copeland and George Babcock. The publication of this paper was discontinued after about six months.

Another attempt at a Democratic paper in Sparta was made in 1863 by two brothers, Henry and Harrison Hayden, who had been previously employed by the Herald. It was published only a few months, the Haydens having some disagreement with their Democratic backers, and was discontinued, the Haydens moving away.

SPARTA EAGLE.

The Sparta Eagle was a second Republican paper started at Sparta in 1860, as the result of dissensions among Republican politicians in the county. William H. Farnham and Luther B. Noyes were the publishers one year, after which the latter retired and the paper was continued by Mr. Farnham until 1868. In that year he sold it to George Redway, who came from Ohio, and subsequently his brother, R. E. Redway, had it for a time. After this the paper frequently changed hands. D. B. Priest, Carson Graham and William Nelson, all of Viroqua, were connected with it between 1869 and 1871. In the latter year it was owned for a time by W. R. Finch, afterward editor of the LaCrosse Republican-Leader. He sold it to R. C. Bierce, of Viroqua, and Henry Rising, a son of the editor of Monroe county's first paper, the Citizen. In the fall of 1871 the paper was sold to D. W. C. Wilson and Theodore F. Hollister. The following year Mr. Wilson withdrew and the Eagle soon after died.

who had stepped outside of the door, peeped in and said in a hoarse whisper: "You eternal fool, he's deaf and dumb."

The opening of the Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad to this place in 1858, gave a new impetus to business and to immigration. The track was laid as far as the tunnel from the east, and also westward from the tunnel to LaCrosse. But the tunnel itself was something that required months to complete. An engine and some cars were drawn over the bluffs for use on the western part of the line; and for some six months the trains ran to and from the tunnel on both sides, passengers having to foot it across the bluff from one train to the other. During this time Sparta had no railway depot,—a freight car, switched off of the main track, answering the purpose, as it was of ample dimensions to hold the waiting passengers and their baggage at that time. Later, a neat depot was erected with other necessary buildings; and later still,, a dining hall and hotel known as the Winship House.

The Letson Brothers, in 1858, put up a sash, door and blind factory. L. H. Mather came to Sparta the same year, built a block of buildings on Water street, and opened a drug store which he kept for several years. Mr. Mather's enterprise is to be seen all over the city. He erected more handsome buildings here than any one man in this place. J. W. Smith and family made their advent this year. Mr. Smith engaged at that time in the hardware business. His son, J. E. Smith, kept a variety and auction store on Oak street. J. J. French, a dealer in guns and ammunition, with H. Palmer & Co. D. B. Howe, of the firm of Aylesworth & Co. D. McBride and family were among the new comers of 1858. D. McBride was the editor of the "Herald," which has been conducted since that time to the present with only a slight interruption. Mr. McBride was postmaster at Sparta for eight years, commencing with President Lincoln's administration.

Late in December of the same year another newspaperman, Capt. D. W. C. Wilson, took up his residence here. He did not at that time, however, enter a printing office. During 1860 and 1861 he served as justice of the peace. In the summer and fall of 1861, he held war-meetings, and in November of that year was made lieutenant of Company D of the Eighteenth Wisconsin Regiment, going into service January, 1862. He was taken prisoner at the battle of Pittsburg Landing, April 6, 1862, and was in various prisons in Alabama and Georgia, until paroled at Richmond, Virginia, which occurred in October of the same

"Go ye - - - - into all the world."—Matt. 28:20.

Down through the years the people have always been missionary minded. In the past the missionary giving has been largely to the Cunningham mission of Japan. Also during the years there has been much done for the camp grounds of Lake James Christian Assembly, Angola, Indiana. Our missionary dollars of today are not only going to the effort of the camp but also we are partially supporting three missionaries, namely: Harold Dunson, working with the Indians in Oklahoma; Wesley Walker, working in Hokaida, Japan; and Archie Fairbrother, working with the people in Assam, India.

As we grow in grace and knowledge of our Lord, so we continue to enlarge our missionary outlook.

THE CHURCH — TOMORROW

During the past month we have completed our second annual Daily Vacation Bible School. The spirit and enthusiam that goes with youth gives the Church much hope for tomorrow. We have a fine group of young people that meet each Sunday evening in a Christian Endeavor Society preparing themselves to become the leaders of the Church of tomorrow.

We are proud of our fine young people's choir that faithfully fulfill their part in the worship each Lord's Day morning. Recently they were guests on a local television program and as a choir they have been much in demand in the area Churches.

THE CHURCH — YESTERDAY

A History of the Cedar Lake Church of Christ

For some time prior to 1855 a few scattered Christians in the vicinity of Cedar Lake, feeling the need of a religious service, desiring to worship God and remember their Saviour, began meeting in various places. Sometimes they met in homes, sometimes in barns and sometimes the meeting place was a school house. The Clark school house was the first one used for this purpose. Later they met in the log school house at Hesse-Castle, then at the Cedar Lake school house. The people continued to worship there until the present house of worship was erected.

The Church was partially organized on June 7, 1855, then organized in full on June 25, 1855, with a membership of forty-eight people. The charter members are as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thomson
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shatto
Mrs. Casander Clark
William Shatto

On June 25th the Church was organized and the following officers were elected. Serving as shepherds of the flock were Elders M. J. Boland, W. Farrington, William Brand, and William Cox. Serving as the servants of the congregation in the office of deacon were Nathan Powell, Samuel Thomson, and J. E. Thomson.

These people, no doubt, enjoyed worshipping together as though they were meeting in the finest of buildings. Soon their vision grew to reach out and win other souls to Christ. They realized that they would soon be needing a building of their own and plans were begun to start work on the present building. The building was completed in May 1868 and dedicated in December of the same year. The regular pastor at that time was Elder Hadsel. The carpenter work was done by Joel Thomson and Mr. Stage.

We owe much to these pioneers of the faith as they labored together to build a lighthouse of the faith in this community.

History of Cedar Lake Organization Church of Christ.

In the year 1846-'47 emigrating from the eastern part of Ohio to Fairfield and Smithfield Twps. and desiring to continue their Christian fellowship and worship and not having a house of worship, the following persons— Mr and Mrs J. E. H. Thomson, Mr and Mrs Henry Shatto, Mr and Mrs Wm. Cox, Elizabeth Shatto and Miss Casander Shatto met from house to house; the first meeting being held at the home of Henry Shatto in Fairfield Twp.; after which for want of room— meetings were held in barns and later in school-houses; The Clark school-house being the first one used for this purpose. After which they went to the large log school-house at Hesse-Castle, then to the Cedar Lake school-house where meetings were held regularly until the complete organization of the present Cedar Lake church.

Those remaining of this number are Mrs. J E. H. Thomson age 85 and Mrs Casander (Shatto) Clark now living in Kalamazoo, Mich

[illegible]

As a result of the continued efforts of these 8 members their number was increased to 16 members: Rachel Harmer being the only surviving member of the 8 added during the time.

In May, 1860 Elder Lister held a meeting at Hesse-Castle school-house which resulted in an organization of 25 members, of whom Mrs Loretta Smalley and Elsie Farrington are all that remain.

These 25 members later united with the original 16 members, known as the Cedar Lake organization making a membership of 41.

The Church had no regular minister at this time but was ministered to by the following: —Wm Dowling James Hadsel, Randal Froat Robert Rawson, Sterling Mc Bride, Elders Fusselman, Wanamaker and Hanselman Wm Aylesworth, N. N. Bartlett and C. Q. Oviatt.

In the fall of 1867 they began holding business meetings to consider the building of a church house.

The comitte on building were — Wellington Farrington, Wm Brand, John Parnel and Joel Thomson; The carpenters were Joel Thomson and Mr. Slage. The church was dedicated in Dec. 1868 by N. N. Bartlett; the regular pastor at this time was Elder Hadsel.

It is very interesting to hear the few of these old members who are yet with us, and in whose honor this meeting is held, tell of the "old times" how they sacrifised and often walked several miles, carrying their children to the meetings: and of driving their ox teams hitched to heavy wagons, driving through woods and over corduroy roads and having to carry axes along to remove trees that were often blown down across their roads, and often the wagons would cut down to the hubs in ruts and mud. Some who owned horses rode horse-back.

Sometimes poor people would walk, carrying their shoes and when near to where the meeting was held would dress their feet. The houses were lighted with yellow candles.

The lanterns used were tin in which were cut holes to represent flowers through which came the light. So anxious were these pioneers to attend their meetings that at one time Rachel McBride now Rachel Harms and Lucy McBride walked to Newville (a distance of 22 miles) to attend a yearly meeting; during one of these meetings as high 50 visiting members were entertained in one home and we doubt not that the visitors enjoyed their entertainment as well as in our time where 2 or 4 are entertained. To note the way in which some of the ministers were paid for their labors,—Elder Hadsel was paid in vegetables and carded wool.

One of our early ministers recieved a load of pumpkins for performing a marriage ceremony

In the year of 1877 in the month of June Elder J. W. Shepherd came and hired out to the church; he preached most of the time for ten (10) years, doing much good in increasing the membership and won many warm friends, never to be forgotten and history would be incomplete if we would not mention a few of the many amusing incidents which occured during his long labor with us. One Sunday he said to our dear Sister Smalley - I am intending to go home with you today to dinner - She hesitated and said - I havent any bread as my bread did not raise yesterday. I will have to make pan-cakes. Shepherd said - that will just suit me as I just love pan-cakes -. Sister Smalley then said - I have no pie baked - Well, sister - I will just eat one more pan-cake: Well said she I might just as well invite you as I see I cannot get rid of you anyway.

At another time when he was holding a meeting in the winter he drove home after meeting each evening as he lived in Waterloo about six (6) miles from the church.

And as I said, Preachers did not always get money for their labors.

He took anything he could use, and one evening he was given two chickens to take home: Their feet were tied and put in the back of his buggy. He drove home after church and when he arrived home one chicken was gone, and he thought it would freeze, tied and it might snow, so he put his horse away and walked back three miles and saw it in the road ahead of him; so he felt sure of "biddie" now and when he went to pick it up she flopped her wing and rose in the air and sailed over the fence into the field in the snow and he had a fine chase as when he got near, the bird had flown; However, as you all know how preachers like chicken, he followed until he captured her; then he walked down to the railroad and saw a freight-train standing and he thought he would ride so reached up and pulled himself up and the train crew thought he had been out stealing chickens, as it was then about 3 o'clock in the morning. He told his story but thought they were not fully convinced of the truth of his statement.

David A. McBride was born July 23, 1832 in Portage Co. Ohio. His parents were Richard McBride and Samantha Smith who were married May 15 1823 Ravenna, Portage Co. Ohio. They moved to Smithfield Twp. DeKalb Co. Ind. in the year 1847 to 1849.

Joel Thompson and his wife Maria Jane McBri (sister to Dabid McBride) made the trip to DeKalb Co. in 1847 the trip being made by team to Cleveland Ohio, thence to Toledo, Canal boat to Ft. Wayne, Ind. and team to DeKalb Co. Ind. It is quite likely that David and Rachel and other members of their families came at this time

David purhased land in DeKalb Co. as shown in Deed Book 1836 to 1860 Vol K. p. 108 Auburn, Ind.

The members of the community started a Church named the Cedar Lake Organization (Disciples) later named The Cedar Lake Church of Christ, Rachel, David and their parents were Charter members and Rachel wrote a history of the Church in 1909.

David and Rachel had two children Emma Lavina born Jan. 30, 1855 and Mary Laticia born July 5, 1859.

David enlisted in the Union Army Oct. 22, 1862 and before he left for duty he and Rachel had their photos taken with Emma and Mary. They are in large oval frames and Daisy Brugh Getts (da of Emma) has the orginals.

David was called to duty Nov. 16, 1862 at Indianapolis, Ind. and was a Private, Co. G, Fifty Fourth Regiment Ind. under Captain Carlow,

Daniel D. McBride
Rachel S. White

Daniel D. McBride was born July 25, 1832 in Portage Co. Ohio. His parents were Richard McBride and Lamenthe Smith who were married May 10 1828 Ravenna, Portage Co. Ohio. They moved to Smithfield Twp. DeKalb Co. Ind. in the years 1847 to 1849.

Jack Thompson and his wife Maria Jane McBride (sister to Daniel McBride) made the trip to DeKalb Co. in 1849 the trip being made by boat to Cleveland Ohio, thence to Toledo, Canal boat to Ft. Wayne, Ind. and team to DeKalb Co. Ind. It is quite likely that David and Rachel and other members of their families came at this time.

David purchased land in DeKalb Co. as shown in Deed Book 1836 to 1840 Vol. K, p. 108 Auburn, Ind.

The members of the community started a Church named the Cedar Lake Congregation (Disciples) later named the Cedar Creek Church of Christ. Rachel, David and their parents were Charter members and Rachel wrote a history of the Church in 1949.

David and Rachel had two children Emma Jane born Jan. 30, 1855 and Mary Eliza born July 5, 1859.

David enlisted in the Union Army Oct. 22, 1862 and before he left for duty he and Rachel had their photos taken with Emma and Mary. They are on this page facing and Bea Baugh Seitz (da. of Emma) had the originals.

Daniel was called to duty Nov. 11, 1862 at Indianapolis, Ind. and was a Private Co. H, Eighty Fourth Regiment Ind. under Captain [illegible]

While in the service at Burnside Barracks, Ind. he wrote a letter to Rachel and told of conditions in the Army. This letter was dated Nov. 3, 1862 and is in the possession of Lurah DeVoe, great granddaughter.

David's time in the service was short as he died of illness (not mentioned in Milt. Rec.) Milt. Rec. says "disease". He died on board a boat Die Vernon (Dia Vernon) enroute from Memphis to Cario, Illinois. Date of death Jan. 18 or 19, 1863. Several other soldiers died at this time and they were all buried at Mound City Illinois in unmarked graves.

Joel Thompson, brother-in-law to David heard of Davids illness and went in search of him. He went to Mound City and had the body disintered and brought back to his home and he was buried at Cedar Lake Cemetery March 1, 1863. This record is in detail in David's military record from the National Archives Washington D.C.

Rachel, left a widow married Frederick Harmes Dec. 20, 1864. He had four Children, Joel Harmes, Alice Harmes, Angeline Harmes & Henry Harmes.

A daughter was born to Rachel & Frederick Harmes and named Eva. (known as Aunt Eva) She would be a half-sister to Emma McBride Brugh.

Mary Laticia died Sept. 19, 1867 and Rachel recorded the date on "tablet paper".

According to military papers John Shatto grandfather was Emma McBrides first guardian but later Joel Thompson her uncle was appointed and he kept the $500 the government paid Emma

AUBURN RESIDENT DIES AT AGE OF 82

Asthma and Heart Condition Fatal to Mrs. Eva Cramer, Widow of Nelson Cramer, at Sanders Hospital

A lifelong resident of the Auburn area, Mrs. Eva Harmes Cramer, age 82, died at the Dr. J. A. Sanders hospital in Auburn at 3 p.m. Monday of asthma and a heart condition.

Mrs. Cramer who has been suffering from asthma for the past four years had been bedfast a week prior to her death and was taken to the hospital last Saturday afternoon.

The body was removed to the Dilgard & Cline funeral home in Auburn for burial preparations. Friends may call at the funeral home.

Mrs. Cramer was born about 10 miles north of Auburn on Oct. 11, 1871, daughter of the late Frederick and Rachael Harmes.

In December of 1919 she and Nelson Cramer were married in Auburn. Mr. Cramer died four years ago last January.

After the death of her husband Mrs. Cramer and her daughter, Mrs. Nellie McIntosh, resided at 405 North Main street, Auburn.

Surviving besides the daughter are six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. Mrs. Cramer was a lifelong member of the Church of Christ.

The body will be removed from the funeral home to the Church of Christ in Auburn at noon Thursday for funeral services which will be conducted at 2 p.m. Thursday.

The Rev. Arthur Garrigus, pastor, will offiicate at the services and burial will be in Cedar Lake cemetery.

REV. BECKETT IS DEAD AT AGE OF 72

Auburn Resident was the Pastor of St. John's Evangelical & Reformed Church near Hudson

The Rev. Russell G. Beckett, 72, of 405 North Main street, Auburn, pastor of the St. John's Evangelical & Reformed church, of near Hudson, died at the DeKalb Memorial hospital in Auburn at 4:55 a.m. Wednesday.

Rev. Beckett died from a coronary occlusion. He had not been feeling well for the past week and entered the hospital five days ago.

The body is at the Dilgard & Cline funeral home in Auburn, where friends may call after 3 p.m. Thursday.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday at the First Church of Christ in Auburn with the Rev. Clinton Moser, pastor of the Auburn Missionary church, officiating. He will be assisted by the Rev. Lyle Harvey, pastor of the First Church of Christ and the Rev. Carl O. Wirey, associate pastor of the First Methodist church of Auburn. Burial will be in Roselawn cemetery, near Auburn.

The family requests that memorials may be made to the United Church of Christ at Hudson.

Rev. Beckett was born in Tyler county, West Virginia, on Oct. 22, 1892. He was the son of the late William and Dorcas Hanes Beckett.

In a ceremony performed on Oct. 5, 1957, he and Nellie R. McIntosh were united in marriage. They had resided in Auburn for the past eight years. He was a member of the home membership of the First Christian church of Auburn.

Surviving in addition to his wife are three sons, Gordon of Elkhart, Delbert of Taft, Calif., and Gene of Cleveland, O.; two daughters, Miss Yvonne Beckett, also of Cleveland and Mrs. John Holman of near Auburn; six grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; a brother, Erving of Craig, Colo., and five sisters, Mrs. Lura Carmeter, Mrs. Mary Hawk and Mrs. Edith Bobo, all of Hollywood, Calif., and Mrs. Florence Bertsch of Cincinnati, O., and Mrs. Addie Miller of Greenfield, O.

Rev. Russell G. Beckett, 64, minister residing at Minerva, O., and Nellie R. McIntosh, 63, self-employed and a resident of Auburn. The couple will be married at 1:30 p.m. today in a double ring ceremony to be performed at the Church of Christ in Auburn. The pastor, Odin Memering, will officiate at the ceremony. A reception for the immediate family will be held at the home of Mrs. McIntosh's daughter, Mrs. John Hol-husband of 715 North Van

Dear Mrs. Moore,

At the annual banquet of the DeKalb County, Indiana Genealogical Society, I met Mr. Richard Newcomer, who said that he knew someone who was interested in one of the lines I have been working on. He later sent me your name and address. So let me introduce myself. My name is Carolyn Rensch Cripe. My parents were Naomi Putt and Raymond Rensch. Naomi's parents were Maude Brugh and Frank Putt. Maude's parents were Emma McBride and William Brugh. Emma's parents were David McBride and Rachel Shatto. David's parents were Samantha Smith and Richard McBride. And Samantha's parents were Moses Smith and Mary Abell.

My aunt, Lurah Putt DeVoe Phillips, spent many years researching various branches of the family, but she had assumed that the only way she would be able to find Samantha's ancestry would be to research the McBrides. After I retired, I was pleased to have time to do some research of my own, and found Samantha's parentage in THE HISTORY OF PORTAGE COUNTY and online in PIONEER WOMEN OF PORTAGE COUNTY. I was able to trace the Abell line back fairly easily.

However, the Smiths are another story. I knew Moses was from Kent, Connecticut, and I suspected that Noah Smith, Senior was his father. I hope you can help me with the Smith family.

Mr. Newcomer said that he had been unable to find the gravestone of Samantha and Richard McBride for you. My husband and I visited the Cedar Lake Cemetery last weekend, and we did not find the stone, either. Many stones are illegible. I had been in that cemetery only once before, at least 50 years ago. We plan to go back again sometime this fall.

Mr. Newcomer also said that he had gotten family information for you from my cousin, Jennie King Phillips, so I probably cannot tell you a lot that you don't have already, but I will answer any questions that I can.

I'm very pleased to know that I have another cousin.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Cripe

Dear Mr Newcomer,

Thank you for the DeKalb Diggings. I have the family you listed, but not all the children. (Joel & Maria Thomson)

Now I have another question for you.
In my early records, I have a George Barnes II b. 1813- d. 1851.
The info says died at Smithville Ind and brought back to Ravenna Ohio for buriel by Ridgley Funeral Home.
Samantha Smith McBride would have been his aunt, so very likely it is my George II that I cannot find. He was the firstborn of George Barnes I and Phila Smith Barnes. Samantha was a Smith also-- sister to Phila.daus of Moses Smith b. in Ravenna O

I would sure appreciate it if you could check anything there that might give me a clue to George II.

I even tried to find the Ridgley name but could not (Funeral Home)
If this is not he, then I assume he went to perhaps Ill or Mich.
George I ,his father, went to KeKalb Co Illinois.
I think these people settled around where the four states cornered.

Then again I cannot find the younger sister Maria who md. John Thomson and went to Indianna. I think she went to your area. I do have one death which ~~any~~ may be her if she lived into her late years. Not sure of it.

This is a lot of questions but I will gladly re imburse you if you can come up with something solid.

I would still like to come to Auburn but not very good prospects.

I turned 80 last month but am pretty spry still.
My mind seems to be good. Genealogy and crossword puzzles make good mental excercise. I am able to drive and keep my own apartment. So I am thankfulto God fot that.

Hope to hear from you again. I sure appreciate the info.
Thank you very much.

Happy Hunting!!

Dear Friends,

Thank you so much for list of Cedar Lake Cem & info. I would still like to visit, but doubt it,

The Smith Family Gen. is pretty well documented & available at the Historical Museum Library.

Are you aquainted with Gertrude Wickham's book "Pioneer Women of Portage Co." Samantha & family are in that book. (2 Vols),

I have the Smiths back to 1630 if anyone is interested & probably to 1500's but not proven yet, It looks like they were from near London, Eng. Immigrant Giles Smith (Gylles Smythe?) to Hartford, Ct, (proven)

Thanks again & Merry Christmas to you too!

Sincerely,
Lila Mae

Dear Sirs;

I am Lila Mae Cannon Moore of Ravenna Ohio Portage Co. My great great Aunt Smaantha Smith McBride was born in Ravenna, d.o. Moses Smith. Her sister was my great ~~g~~ great grandmother. (Phila)
I know Samantha McBride is interred at Cedar LKake Cem in your area. Is there anyone who can take a picture of her stone? It may be with her husband Richard McBride. I will re imburse for a snap shot.

It took a long time to find them. Is there any book which you could send by inter-library loan concerning early history (Genealogy) of the family?
Send to Reed Memorial Library Ravenna Ohio 44266 if avaiable.

I am OhioFirst Family member. SAmantha was just a little girl when the Smiths came to Portage Co from Kent, Conn. 1806. Her brother Sluman was the first burial at Maple Grove cemetery here. He was age 17 in 1813. The ~~c~~ cemetery is still increasing.

OUr Smith immigrant ancestor was Giles Smith who came to Hartford Conn ca. 1632. Then to Fairfield ,Conn & Kent Conn

I would be happy to share data with you or a family ~~k~~ member who may be interested in Smith family.
I have put a Smith notebook at Ravenna Historical Museum and Gen library. also Public Library.

Moses Smith and his family that stayed in Ravenna, occupy the oldest part. In fact he donated some toward the land in 1813. He died 1818.i.e.- Maple Grove Cemetery.

This was wilderness when they arrived.

Sincerely;

Lila Mae Cannon Moore

Hi Carolyn,
Yes, I do have Family Tree Maker but it is version 6 and won't open your attachment. That's frustrating for me to be so close to new information and can't see it - darn. Thanks, Kes

Could you make a FTM Genealogical Report and just copy it into the body of your E-Mail to me, not as an attachment?? You might have to make one for the McBRIDE Family and one for the SMITH Family.

Notes for THEODORE A. REMPIS:

from "History of DeKalb Co" - 1914

"After his marriage, in 1887, he came to the home farm and lived there about one and a half years and then moved to the J. E. Thomson farm, the girlhood home of his wife, where he lived for six years. On account of his father's illness he then moved back to the home farm which he rented, and in the year 1907 bought the farm from his father, the place comprising one hundred and sixty acres. This farm he improved in many respects, building a number of substantial buildings, cleared up a good portion of the farm, drained it, and other wise putting it in excellent condition for successful agriculture, so that it is now one of the leading and most productive of the township. He has been very progressive in his farming methods, using up-to-date ideas and slighting no opportunity to advance the condition of the place."

I got both of the Biography Stories from the DeKalb County Roots Web Site, such a good site!!!!

I'm going to copy my notes from Richard McBride right here:

Biography of Theodore Rempis, pages 889/890/891/892/893.
History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

Mrs. Rempis' maternal grandfather, Richard McBride, was born December 25, 1792, at Carlisle, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, and came to DeKalb county with his wife, Samanthe (Smith) McBride, whom he married on May 15, 1823, the location in this county being 1850. Here they bought a farm of forty-eight acres, of which he cleared about forty acres and put the same in good condition. This is what I have in David A. McBride's notes:

Biography of David A. McBride, Volume II, page 643. Presidents, Soldiers, Statesmen; H.H. Hardesty, Publisher, New York, Toledo, and Chicago, 1894.

Was born July 24, 1832, in Portage County, Ohio. He is the son of Richard and Samantha (Smith) McBride, both deceased; he settled in DeKalb County, Indiana in 1849, and there, October 5, 1851, married Rachel S. Shatto, who was born August 10, 1834, in the same county as was her husband; their children were Emma L., and Mary L., deceased. The parents of Mrs. McBride Harnes, were John & Margaret (Leonard) Shatto; the father is still living.

Our subject, was engaged in farming, when at the age of 30, he enlisted at Indianapolis, October 6, 1862, as a private in Co. H, 54th Ind. V.I., under Capt. Carter. In January 1863, he was taken sick with chronic diarrhea, was placed on the marine hospital boat, "DeVernan", at Memphis, where on January 18, 1863 he died; he was buried in an unknown grave 8 miles from Cairo, Illinois. The dead being taken off the boat at Mound City; his wife, fearing he had died, sent her brother-in-law, Joel Thompson, in search of him; he traveled 1000 miles, tracing him to this unknown grave; he was recognized by the marks on his person and the silver buttons in his vest; his remains were brought home for interment in the Cedar Lake Cemetery, Smithfield Township, DeKalb County.

The wife of our subject furnished the Sanitary Department at Waterloo, a great amount of articles, as bandages, pillows, etc., for the sick and deserving soldiers; a great deal of credit is due the women, who wo patriotically contributed to the needs of the soldiers. John L. Shatto, a brother of the wife's, was a member of Co. G, 44th Ind. V. I.; he died in the hospital at Evansville, Indiana and was brought home for burial; her Grandfather Shatto was in the War of 1812, and her Grandfather Leonard was in the Revolutionary War; the widow of our comrade married a second time, Frederick Harnes; they have one child, Eva M.; their address is Waterloo, DeKalb County, Indiana.

I, William McClaren Lockhart, was born May 27th 1834 at Lexington, Richland Co., Ohio, the son of James and Jane McBride. My father, James Lockhart was born in County Tyrone, Ireland, was the son of William and Mary McClaren Lockhart, was left an orphan in infancy and was brought up in the families of his father and his mother's people, learned the trade of a linen weaver, at the age of 25 he emigrated to America with his Uncle James McClaren and family, locating in Pennsylvania where he worked on a farm for James Clard for six years, first year at six dollars per month, balance of the time at seven dollars per month. He then learned the trade of distiller in the employ of James McColough, a Presbyterian preacher. He was in religion a Protestant raised in the Baptist faith and a member for that church but in this country united with the Presbyterian church, he was in Ireland a member of the Orangemen and Anti-Catholic society.

Descendants of Robert McBride

Generation No. 1

1. ROBERT[1] MCBRIDE was born in Native of Ayshire, Scotland ?. He married ROSEANNAH GREENFIELD. She was born in Native of Ayshire, Scotland ?, and died in Springfield, Cumberland County, PA.

Notes for ROBERT MCBRIDE:
Robert and Roseannah (Greenfield) McBride had 5 children, all were born in Springfield, Cumberland County, PA. - (found in one of the stories that Richard was born in Carlisle, instead)
Jane married James Lockhart and was my GGG Grandmother.
Robert was in the War of 1812 in the Battle of Lundy Lane. He got a disease from the war and died a few years later.
Richard died in Smithfield Twsp., DeKalb, IN.
John died in Pierceton, Kosciosko County, IN.
David died in Sparta, Wisconsin. He was the editor of the Sparta Herald.

Notes for ROSEANNAH GREENFIELD:
Died from an injury from a fall.

Children of ROBERT MCBRIDE and ROSEANNAH GREENFIELD are:

2. i. JANE[2] MCBRIDE, b. Abt. 1796, Springfield, Cumberland County, PA; d. August 28, 1858, Smithfield Twsp., DeKalb, IN - at age 62.

2. JANE[2] MCBRIDE (ROBERT[1]) was born Abt. 1796 in Springfield, Cumberland County, PA, and died August 28, 1858 in Smithfield Twsp., DeKalb, IN - at age 62. She married (1) ??? ??? Bef. 1819. She married (2) JAMES LOCKHART Aft. 1820, son of WILLIAM LOCKHART and MARY MCCLAREN. He was born Abt. 1793 in County Tyronne, Ireland, and died August 22, 1877 in buried at Waterloo Cemetery.

Notes for JANE MCBRIDE:
We aren't really sure about Jane's marriages. We found an Augustus McBride that was half brother to our William & his brother, Robert, so we are figuring she was previously married? His story should be under his name.

Notes for JAMES LOCKHART:

Mom has an old family bible that says James Lockhart came to the United States with an uncle (Just like the letter from William McClaren Lockhart.) and he worked on a farm in Pennsylvania for 2 years. It was James Clark's farm - he made $6/mo the 1st year & $7/mo the 2nd year. He married Jane McBride in Ohio.

I got the birth dates for James & Jane from the Family Tree's on the back of Grandma's Pictures of the G. & G. Q's Parents. It doesn't add up right for James' death. I wonder if he's buried at the Waterloo Cemetary? I figured if he died in 1872 at the age of 88 he would have been born in 1784. I wonder what happened to his parents? He is also mentioned in the DeKalb County, IN, 1914 book in his descendant's reports.

James Lockhart was a linen weaver in Ireland. Orphaned in infancy & brought up by the families of his parents. He came to America at the age of 25 with Uncle James McClaren & family, locating in PA. He was born a Protestant, raised a Baptist, and was a Presbyterrian here. In Ireland, he was a member of Orangemen & Anti-Catholic Society.

James Lockhart, the aged father of Robert M. and William C. Lockhart, died of old age at the residence of his son, R. M., in this place on the 22d of August. The funeral services will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon, to which all of the friends and acquaintances of the family are invites. James Lockhart was born at Balla Golla, County Tyrone, in the province of Leinster, Ireland, August 17, 1793 and was in consequence 84 years and 3 days old when he died. He emigrated to this country in 1819 and has ever since been a good citizen and warm lover of his adopted country. Before emigrating to America he had become a member of the order of Orangemen, and was also a member of the Baptist church. After reaching his adopted home he attached himself to the Presbyterian church, of which he was still a member in good standing at the time of his death. He remained in full and unimpared possession of his intellectual faculties until within a few hours of his death, and then went into a peaceful slumber from which he passed away without a struggle, at peace with God and man.

Augustus McBride was brought to Ohio in his infancy, was reared there, and became a carpenter by trade. He died in the City of Mexico in February, 1848, aged twenty-nine years, while serving as a soldier in the Mexican War. He and his wife were identified with the Methodist Episcopal denomination. They had three sons and one daughter, three of whom are now living, namely: Judge Robert W.; Mary J., widow of R. S. McFarland, of Lawrence, Kans.; and James N., of Waterloo, Ind., Mrs. McBride married James Sirpless for her second husband, and they had four children, three now living: Albert B., of Lawrence, Kansas; William A., a farmer living near Shiloh, Richland Co., Ohio; and Mrs. Nellie Beeler, a widow of Lawrence, Kansas. The mother of this family died in 1896 on her farm five miles from Mansfield, half a mile from where she was born. She was aged 72 years at the time of her death. Her father, Wesley Barnes, was born in Virginia in 1796; of English descent. He was a farmer and one of the pioneers of Richland County, Ohio, settling there in 1816 but he died near Kirkville, Iowa, in 1862, aged 66 years, and was buried in Kirkville cemetery. He married Mary Smith, whose father, as well as his brothers, was in the Revolutionary war.

Notes for WILLIAM MCCLAREN LOCKHART:
He was in the civil war - union side.

DeKalb County, Indiana -- 1914

There is a scientific historical consistency in the compilation of publications of this nature, since here are perpetuated for future generations the life records of those who have been factors in the industrial and civic life of their respective communities and who have commanded the confidence and esteem of their fellow men. Such works are cumulative in value as the years fall into the abyss of time, and it is right and proper that the achievements of those who have proved themselves worthy in connection with the varied activities of their day should find such memorials as those offered in this connection.

William McClaren Lockhart was born on May 27, 1834, at Lexington, Richland county, Ohio, and was a son of James and Jane (McBride) Lockhart. The name Lockhart is believed to have originated in Scotland in the time of Robert Bruce, the famous Scottish chieftain. Sir Stephen Lockard was charged by Robert Bruce that in case Bruce were slain in a coming engagement Lockard was to take his heart out and put it in a small iron casket to return to Bruce's homeland. This he did and when the troops wavered in a desperate charge he threw the casket containing the heart into the midst of the enemy and bade the -troops follow the heart of Bruce. They charged bravely, thus inspired, and won the victory. Lockard recovered the heart and returned it to its home and was from that time called Lockheart instead of Lockard.

James Lockhart was a native of county Tyrone, Ireland, and was a son of William and Mary (McClaren) Lockhart. He was left an orphan in infancy and was reared in the families of his father and his mother. He learned the trade of a linen weaver and at the age of twenty-five years emigrated to America with his uncle, James McClaren, and family, locating in Pennsylvania. There he was for six years employed at farm work, at first for six dollars a month, and later for seven dollars a month. He then learned the trade of a distiller in the employ of James McCullough, a Presbyterian preacher. Mr. Lockhart was in religion a Protestant, having been reared in the Baptist faith and a member of that church, but in America he united with the Presbyterian church. In Ireland he had been an enthusiastic Orangeman, strongly anti-Catholic in his convictions, and after coming to America was intensely loyal to his adopted country, and, though a Democrat in principles, stood firmly for the Union, recalling that on being naturalized he had sworn to support the Constitution of the United States. His wife, Jane McBride, was a daughter of Robert and Rosamond (Greenfield) McBride, who emigrated from the north of Ireland soon after their marriage, locating at Springfield, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania. Their parents both came originally from Ayreshire, Scotland. Robert McBride, a brother of James McBride, was a soldier in the war of 1812, taking part in the battle of Lundy's Lane. In 1854, Robert McBride Lockhart, a brother of William C., came to DeKalb county, Indiana, and began the erection of a sawmill in Smithfield township. On December 17, 1855, William C. came here, and in the spring of 1856 their parents, James and Jane Lockhart, came here, also locating in Smithfield township. From his early childhood until arriving at his majority William C. Lockhart lived in Lexington, Ohio, where he received a little schooling. When he was about ten years of age his father was caused a heavy financial loss by a dishonest partner, which reduced him from a competency to an indebtedness of five hundred dollars above the value of all his property. His creditors were called together and they told him to get rid of his partner, keep his property, continue in business and pay out as best he could, they having absolute belief in his honesty and integrity. This he did and when William C. was twenty-one and his brother, Robert, twenty-three years of age, they had paid all but fifty dollars of the indebtedness and had a property of a cash value of nine hundred dollars. The financial condition of the family interfered with the education of the boys, who received by very little schooling, but they did the best they could and made the most of their opportunities. In the fall of 1854 William C. passed a teacher's examination and taught school with seventy-five pupils under him, in which he was very successful, being earnestly urged to take the school another year, but this he refused. The Lockhart brothers operated the mill owned by their father, part of the time night and day and a part of the time fourteen hours a day, and it is related that William C. Lockhart obtained much of his needed sleep on the roof of this mill.

Money was exceedingly scarce, although they worked hard, but they were greatly encouraged by the attitude of their father's creditors who had shown the utmost confidence in the integrity and ability of the family to pay out, and even when the boys had some money to pay, they told them to use the money in the business and pay when convenient. They eventually paid every debt in full.

At the outbreak of the great Civil war the brothers were greatly shocked at the news of the defeat of the Union forces at the battle of Bull Run, and they agreed that they should make a sacrifice for the Union. Each offered to go as a soldier, but finally it was decided that William should go. After a few days spent in settling his business affairs, he enlisted in a company which he had helped to organize and of which he was made first lieutenant. Just at that time he was taken with typhoid fever, in which he was seriously ill and had several severe relapses. The man who took his place became a colonel inside of a year. By June, 1862, Mr. Lockhart had recuperated and enlisted in Company A, One Hundredth Regiment Indiana infantry, and although he could have had a higher rank, he declined it. In the

By June, 1862, Mr. Lockhart had recuperated and enlisted in Company A, One Hundredth Regiment Indiana infantry, and although he could have had a higher rank, he declined it. In the following summer he was taken ill and, after being in the hospital, was sent home oii furlough, and in the following autumn was honorably discharged over his protest because of physical disability. His heart was so enlarged that the doctor said that if he did not die soon it would be a wonder. Twenty years later Doctor Swarts told him that nothing but indomitable will had saved his life, although he had a naturally fine physique. He was a faithful and courageous soldier, did his duty and endured many hardships while he was in the service. He was discharged on October 22, 1863, after serving fourteen months and nine days.

On December 22, 1864, Mr. Lockhart married Elizabeth Spencer, at Shalersville, Ohio, but after a few years of happy wedded life, her death occurred on October 16, 1867, and she was buried at Waterloo, DeKalb county. She left one daughter, Jennie M., who is now the wife of James Craig Day, of Waterloo. On May 6, 1669, Mr. Lockhart married Mary E. Hickox, to whom a son was born on November 28, 1872, Robert W., who is now a successful farmer of Smithfield township, this county, and who is represented elsewhere by a personal sketch in this work. On February 6, 1884, Mrs. Mary Lockhart died of heart failure, and on October 17, 1887, Mr. Lockhart married Julia Osborn, a sister of his former wife, her death occurring at Waterloo on December 16, 1891. On January 4, 1894, he married Elizabeth Ames Ashley.

To revert to Mr. Lockhart's business experience, after he had sufficiently recuperated after his discharge from the army he resumed the lumber business with his brother. They operated the old sawmill and also bought hardwood lumber at many points on the railroad and canal, which they sold at Eastern markets. They were prospered and gradually extended their business into central and southern Indiana in 1868. In December, 1869, Mr. Lockhart moved his family to Crawfordsville, Indiana, and operated his business affairs from that point, erecting a large sawmill, a well equipped planing mill and later a wood working shop. They also operated a sawmill in Parke county. Shortly prior to the panic of 1873, an invoice showed them worth ninety thousand dollars, with advantageous contracts in hand for a large amount of business. The panic came on and hit the Lockhart Brothers hard, and in addition to their financial distress, their mill in Parke county burned, as did their dry kiln at Crawfordsville. Many of their customers who owed them large sums of money failed in business and could not pay, but in spite of these discouraging conditions and though brought face to face with bankruptcy, they held on to an honest course in their business affairs and in the hope of helping his fortune William C. extended his operations to Iowa. Here he was successful and was beginning to recover financially, when a flood washed a big boom of logs away, entailing the loss of over twenty thousand dollars. After several years in Des Moines, Iowa, Mr. Lockhart disposed of his business interests there and in January, 1885, he returned to Crawfordsville, and in the spring of 1886 he moved to Waterloo where he lived until his last marriage, when he moved to Fairfield township, where his death occurred on February 25, 1910, at the age of seventy-five years.

About 1879 or 1880, a murderous attempt was made on the life of W. C. Lockhart. Mr. Lockhart was seated at the table in his office busily engaged in writing, when the report of a rifle was heard and a bullet whizzed unpleasantly near his head. Some fifteen minutes were suffered to go by before investigation was made to see from where the bullet came.

It was finally discovered that the person who fired the shot occupied an empty wood house just across the railroad out and about a quarter of a mile away, and fired through a knot hole in the wall. What object the would-be assassin could have in attempting to take the life of Mr. Lockhart, is not known. One theory is, that offense was taken by someone at the active and pustifiable energy displayed by Mr. Lockhart on election day, he having been a regularly appointed challenger.

William Lockhart was a man of positive character and fine personality. Though deeply interested in the welfare of the communities where he lived he persistently refused to accept public office. It is said by one who knew him well that he never said a cross word in his life, was unselfish in his disposition and nobly wrought for the good of others. Fraternally, he was a Mason and an Odd Fellow and was a regular attendant and supporter of the Baptist church. He was an enthusiastic worker in the temperance cause, especially among his many employees at Crawfordsville, among whom he exerted a beneficent influence. His wife, who also was enthusiastic in the temperance work, was an active member of the order of the Good Templars. Mr. Lockhart was slow to make a promise, but once given it was never broken. Modest in his attitude and demeanor, he often failed to receive the credit due him, allowing it to go to others without protest. His Irish blue eyes were symbols of truth. Although naturally hot tempered, he was strong enough to control his feelings, and because of his earnest and gentlemanly demeanor among his associates he was held in high regard. His words carried weight and his thoughtful expressions received a hearing wherever he was known. He is best thought of by those who knew him best, and in the communities where he lived he at all times enjoyed the sincere regard of all who knew him because of his high character, gentlemanly qualities and earnest desire to do that which he felt to be right.

Biography of Christian C. Buss, pages 725 / 726. History of De Kalb County, Indiana. Inter-State Publishing Company, Chicago, 1885.

Christian C. Buss, the eldest of twelve children of Christian and Margaret (Staley) Buss, was born in De Kalb County, Ind., July 2, 1844. He father was a native of canton Berne, Switzerland, and after arriving at manhood came to the United States and located in Ohio, where he married Margaret Staley, also a native of Switzerland. In 1843 he came to De Kalb County and entered eighty acres of land, and then returned to Ohio and moved his family to the new home, making the journey with ox teams. He lived one season on the farm of John Husselman, and then moved to his own land, which he had been preparing in the meantime for his family, erecting a log house and clearing a part of the timber. He made this place his home till his death in 1867. His widow survived him a few yeas. They had a family of six sons and six daughters, two sons and five daughters are living. Mr. Buss was a graduate of a high school in his native country, and was one of the finest German scholars in the county. He worked at the cooper's trade in his early life, and later at the carpenter's trade. He was a skillful mechanic, and many buildings are still standing in De Kalb County as an evidence of his handiwork. C.C. Buss, the subject of our sketch, was reared a farmer, and in his youth learned the art of surveying. His father owned a saw-mill, and when not in school he assisted on the farm and in the mill. He subsequently went to Smithfield Township and ran the Lockhart Mills three years; then returned to Richland Township, where he is now doing a good business, buying and sawing hard wood lumber. His farm contains 120 acres of choice land, all well improved, and is one of the most valuable in the township. He was married March 14, 1866, to Elizabeth, fourth daughter of William and Barbara Park. To them have been born eight children, seven of whom are living---William H., John H., Isaac H., George H., Charles L., Barbara M., and Belle. Eda May died in infancy.

The death of William C. Lockhart, which occurred at the home, Fairfield Center, last Friday evening, removes one of the well known pioneer citizens of the county. He had been a helpless invalid for nearly three years, caused by a stroke of paralysis, and he was a great care to his devoted wife during all these months in which he was bedfast. The deceased served as a member of Co. A, 100th Regt. Ind. Inf. and for years prior to his death he had not enjoyed good health on account of heart failure and other disabilities. He was a brother of R. M. Lockhart, who preceded him last April, father of Mrs. J. C. Day of this place and Robert Lockhart Jr., of Smithfield township. The funeral took place at he home Monday and the interment in the Waterloo cemetery. Comrades of Post 52 G. A. R., of which he was a member, served as an escort and as pall bearers at the cemetery, and the ladies of W. R. C. No. 27 furnished a silk flag as a remembrance of his army service. He was about seventy-seven years of age. The obituary will appear next week. (Re: Waterloo Press - March 3, 1910)

Mary Emily Lockhart was born in Brimfield, Portage county, Ohio, May 26th, 1833, was the fourth daughter of Joseph and Sarah Hickox, whose family consisted of six daughters and two sons. Four sisters and one brother yet survive her. She was converted and became a member of the Baptist church at Greentown, Ohio, at the age of 16, changing membership with change of residence to Lexington, O., Mansfield, O., Crawfordsville, Ind., DesMoines, Iowa and a few days previous to decease, receiving her withdrawal letter from the church at DesMoines, to again resume membership in the Baptist church, at Crawfordsville, to be accompanied with her son and daughter, both of whom she had the happiness of seeing converted and admitted to membership with her at DesMoines. She was married to W. C. Lockhart, at Mansfield, O., May 6th, 1869, and not only assuming the duties of wife and companion, but that of mother, to his motherless child, three and a half years of age, and it can be truly said she had proved the trust of mothers in every sense, and as a wife, most faithful, loving and indulgent to a fault. She died very suddenly at the family residence in Crawfordsville, Ind., on Friday morning Feb. 13th, 1885, with no one but her son in the house, her husband being absent, attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, near Crown Point, Ind. Her remains were brought to this place, on Tuesday, the 17th inst., where funeral services were held at the Reformed church, conducted by Dr. Z. W. Shepherd, assisted by Rev. F. F. Christine, after which burial took place in the family lot in Waterloo cemetery. Mr. Lockhart has the sympathy of a host of friends in this vicinity, as well as in other localities where they have lived. Among the friends from a distance at the funeral of Mrs. W. C. Lockhart, on Tuesday, were the husband, and son, Robbie, and Miss Jennie Lockhart, and Mr. and Mrs. John Stroh, of Crawfordsville, Mrs. Osborne, a surviving sister, who lost her husband a week previous and who resides at Crown Point, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. John Shaffer, of Auburn. Messrs. B. B. Long, Samuel Moody, Theodore Imhoff, H.H. Knott, Charles Bassett and Robert Patterson were the pall bearers at the funeral of Mrs. W. C. Lockhart, and the choir under the leadership of Mr. J. C. Boyer was composed of the following persons: Mr. Bowman, Will Dickinson, Mrs. Celia Fisher, Misses Lille Spencer, Aggie Leas and Frankie Ryan, the latter presiding at the organ. Notes for David A. McBride:

Biography of David A. McBride, Volume II, page 643.
Presidents, Soldiers, Statesmen; H.H. Hardesty, Publisher, New York, Toledo, and Chicago, 1894.

Was born July 24, 1832, in Portage County, Ohio. He is the son of Richard and Samantha (Smith) McBride, both deceased; he settled in DeKalb County, Indiana in 1849, and there, October 5, 1851, married Rachel S. Shatto, who was born August 10, 1834, in the same county as was her husband; their children were Emma L., and Mary L., deceased. The parents of Mrs. McBride Harnes, were John & Margaret (Leonard) Shatto; the father is still living.

Our subject, was engaged in farming, when at the age of 30, he enlisted at Indianapolis, October 6, 1862, as a private in Co. H, 54th Ind. V.I., under Capt. Carter. In January 1863, he was taken sick with chronic diarrhea, was placed on the marine hospital boat, "DeVernan", at Memphis, where on January 18, 1863 he died; he was buried in an unknown grave 8 miles from Cairo, Illinois. The dead being taken off the boat at Mound City; his wife, fearing he had died, sent her brother-in-law, Joel Thompson, in search of him; he traveled 1000 miles, tracing him to this unknown grave; he was recognized by the marks on his person and the silver buttons in his vest; his remains were brought home for interment in the Cedar Lake Cemetery, Smithfield Township, DeKalb County.

The wife of our subject furnished the Sanitary Department at Waterloo, a great amount of articles, as bandages, pillows, etc., for the sick and deserving soldiers; a great deal of credit is due the women, who wo patriotically contributed to the needs of the soldiers. John L. Shatto, a brother of the wife's, was a member of Co. G, 44th Ind. V. I.; he died in the hospital at Evansville, Indiana and was brought home for burial; her Grandfather Shatto was in the War of 1812, and her Grandfather Leonard was in the Revolutionary War; the widow of our comrade married a second time, Frederick Harnes; they have one child, Eva M.; their address is Waterloo, DeKalb County, Indiana.

8. Maria Jane^3 McBride (Richard^2, Robert^1) was born July 26, 1824 in Revenna, Portage Co., Ohio. She married Joel E. Thompson November 30, 1845. He was born November 30, 1824 in Shalersville, Portage Co., Ohio, and died June 12, 1903 in near Waterloo, Indiana.

Notes for Joel E. Thompson:
Sept. 6, 1850 Census -- Smithfield Twp. -- DeKalb County -- Copied it to my harddrive. There was a Mary E. McBride, age 13, living with Joel E. Thompson.
Joel E. Thompson, age 25, m. to Maria, 2 children; Cilicia, age 7; & Almira, age 9 mo.; also had a Jacob Croy, age 11 with them.

Huh! I wonder if this is her? I wonder if Monica is really Maria? I bet it is, because I have it that they married in 1845. I found it & it says Maria - I just misread it - I will make a copy of it later if I need, too. I wonder if I'm misreading Cilicia's birthdate, because they wouldn't have been married at that time & Maria would have been 18 when she was born. I don't know!!!! Should probably move this to Joel's notes.

Joel E. Thomson was born at Shalersville, Portage county, Ohio, on November 30, 1824, spending his early days in that place. He came to DeKalb county in the early days, settling on the well-known Thomson farm, Smithfield township, which, by hard work on the part of both himself and his wife, was developed into one of the best farms of the county, it being characterized by modern improvements in every respect. On November 30, 1845, he married Maria J. McBride, the daughter of Richard and Samanthe (Smith) McBride. One December 25, 1899, he fell and broke his leg, from which accident he was crippled for the remainder of his life; but he bore his affliction with patience and without complaint. His crippled condition, together with poor health and declining years, forced him to break up their home life and in 1902 he went to live with his daughter, Elva Lillie, with whom he afterward resides. He became a member of the Church of Christ at Shalersville, Ohio, when nineteen years of age, and through his efforts the Church of Christ at Cedar Lake, Smithfield township, was organized, he and his wife being charter members. Of this society he served efficiently as elder until his death, which occurred near Waterloo, June 12, 1903. Politically, he was a staunch Republican, taking a deep interest in local public affairs. He was the father of seven children, one of whom died in infancy, the others being: Cilicia A., deceased; Almira A., deceased; Francis Edwin; Ida Alice; Charles Sterling and Elva Lillie. Of these, Ida became the wife of Ameron P. Benjamin, a farmer, now deceased, and she lives near Cedar Lake, Smithfield township. She became the mother of nine children, one of whom died in infancy, and the others being, Orlie, Clayton, Marion, Jennie, Irma, Russell, Mary and Austin. Francis Edwin, who is a farmer in Smithfield township, married Laura A. Farrington, and they had six children, Carleton, Guy, Frank, Jay, Anna and Benjamin. Charles, who lives at Ashley, Indiana, married Elizabeth Parnell.

I got Maria Jane Thomson's name from a story about her daughter's husband, it's entered into his notes & also in my family tree charts folder under Richard McBride (so I can ctrl & f).)

Mrs. Rempis' mother, Maria Jane Thomson, was born at Revenna, Portage county, Ohio, July 26, 1824, and in company with her husband made the long and tiresome journey to DeKalb county in 1847, the trip being made by team to Cleveland, thence by boat to Toledo, canal boat to Fort Wayne, and the team to DeKalb county. Her father was a member of the Christian church, was trustee of his township one term, and also justice of the peace and road supervisor. Robert Wes McBride, Judge of the Thirty-fifth Judicial Circuit, was born near Mansfield, Richland Co., Ohio, Jan. 25, 1842, a son of Augustus and Martha A. (Barnes) McBride. His father was a volunteer soldier of the Mexican war, and died in the City of Mexico in February, 1848. His mother, now the widow of James Sirpless, resides at the old home, five and a half miles southeast of Mansfield. When thirteen years of age Mr. McBride went to Iowa and remained seven years. He acquired a good education in the common and high schools, and when seventeen began teaching in Mahaska County, Iowa. He taught three years, and in 1862 returned to Ohio and clerked in the hardware store of B. S. Runyan a year. In 1863 he entered the service of the United States as a member of Union Light Guards, Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, and independent squadron of Calvary of picked men organized by Governor David Tod, and remained a member of this organization till it was mustered out, Sept. 14, 1865. After about eight months of active service he became disabled and was assigned to detached service as clerk, and served successively from clerk to a military commission at the central guard-house, Washington, and in the Adjutant-General's office till mustered out. He was then appointed to a citizen's clerkship in the Quartermaster-General's office, which he resigned the following November and returned to Mansfield. He taught school at his old home in the winter of 1865-'6, and devoted his leisure time to the study of law. In the spring of 1866 he came to Waterloo, Ind., and obtained employment as clerk and bookkeeper for R.M. & W.C. Lockhart, still continuing his law studies. During the session of 1867 he acted as one of the clerks of the Indiana State with his vocation of farming. He assisted in building all of the early school houses, barns and bridges, and had exceptional talents in mechanical lines. Word was received here Monday morning of the death of Mrs. Daisy Cooper, of Brooklyn, N. Y. she had been ill for three weeks of pneumonia, and had several relapses. She was taken to a hospital in that city for care and her mother, Mrs. R. W. McBride, of Indianapolis, arrived at her bedside the first of last week. Death came at five o'clock Sunday evening. The deceased was fifty years of age and was at one time a resident of Waterloo, living here with her parents. She was a popular young lady when she lived here, and since her residence in Brooklyn she has made many friends. The funeral will be held at Indianapolis.

Senate, and at the April, 1867, term of De Kalb Circuit Court was admitted to the bar. In September, 1867, a partnership was formed with Hon. James I. Best for the practice of law, but in July, 1868, this partnership was dissolved and he practiced alone till December, 1870, when he formed a partnership with Joseph L. Morlan, the firm being McBride & Morlan. In 1876 William H. Leas was admitted to the firm which was dissolved by the death of Mr. Morlan, Aug. 23, 1878. After Mr. Morlan's death, Mr. McBride practiced alone till November, 1882, when he was elected Judge of the Thirty-fifth Judicial Circuit, composed of Noble, DeKalb and Steuben counties. Judge McBride was for several years Captain of Waterloo Rifles, Company A, Third Regiment, Indiana Legion, and is now Lieutenant-Colonel of the regiment. He was married Sept. 27, 1868, to Miss Ida S., eldest daughter of Dr. J.N. Chamberlain, of Waterloo. They have four children---Daisy I., born Sept. 25, 1869; Charles H., born Nov. 11, 1871; Herbert W., born Oct. 15, 1873, and Martha C., born Feb. 13, 1876.

While Judge R. W. McBride and wife, of Indianapolis, were in attendance at the Grand Army encampment held at Elkhart last week they received intelligence of the death of their son, Charles H. McBride, which occurred Thursday morning in Chicago. The deceased was forty-seven years of age and was born in Waterloo where he spent his boyhood days. He went with his parents in 1890 to Elkhart where they resided three years and then moved to Indianapolis. Mr. and Mrs. McBride left during the afternoon for Chicago. They did not know that their son was in Chicago, but stated that he had recently recovered from influenza but that they thought he had fully recovered. The remains were taken to Indianapolis where the funeral was held later. Charles H. McBride was a member of the 157th Regt. and served in the Spanish-American war he was married to Miss Minnie Cohu, of Brookville, Ind. His wife died a short time after their marriage and since that time he has traveled extensively. The deceased leaves his parents, a brother Capt. Herbert W. McBride, who served in the Mexican border trouble and also in the World war, having recently written a book entitled Emma Gees, two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Hoster, of Indianapolis and Mrs. Kent Cooper, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Hoster was also in attendance at the convention of the Daughters of Veterans at Elkhart, and was in that city at the time of the death of her brother. While there she was a guest of Hotel Bucklen and had her diamonds and jewelry stolen, amounting in value of several hundred dollars. (Re: Waterloo Press - May 15, 1919)

Tuesday afternoon at about four o'clock, after a long illness and much suffering. Twice she met with an accident by falling and breaking her hip, and as a result was confined to her home for the most of the time since her husband's death about four years ago. Mrs. McBride was about eighty years of age, and was a very estimable woman and one who possessed many good qualities. She had friends by the score. Surviving her are two sons, Harry N. and Robert W. McBride, of this place, and two daughters, Mrs. Chas. Shoner, of Ft. Wayne, and Mrs. W. H. Saam, of Tiffon, Ohio, besides grandchildren and other relatives. The funeral will be held at the late home this forenoon at ten o'clock, Rev. Solomon F. Harter, of the M. E. church officiating, and the remains will be interred in the Waterloo cemetery.

History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

The visitor to the highly improved farm of this gentleman, in Smithfield township, finds it difficult to realize its former state and the many hard stokes necessary to bring it to its present condition. There is little in the commodious residence, fine barns and outbuildings, cultivated fields and lowing herds to suggest the pioneer period, but this beautiful place represents a link in that remarkable evolution which, in the lifetime of men still living, has converted Indiana from a wilderness to a smiling garden. Robert William Lockhart was born on November 28, 1872, in the beautiful city of Crawfordsville, Montgomery county, Indiana, and is the son of William C. and Mary Elizabeth (Hickox) Lockhart. William M. Lockhart was born on May 27, 1834, at Troy, Richland county, Ohio, a son of James and Jane Lockhart. James Lockhart was a native of county Tyrone, Ireland, and was a son of William and Mary Ann [McLaren) Lockhart. James was left an orphan in infancy and learned the trade of a linen weaver. At the age of twenty-five he emigrated to America, locating in Pennsylvania, where he worked for several years and then learned the trade of a distiller. He was intensely loyal to his adopted country in her hour of need, being a strong supporter of the Union and the Constitution. In 1856 James and Jane (McBride) Lockhart came to Smithfield township, DeKalb county, bringing with them their son William C. The latter had from early childhood until his majority lived in Lexington, Ohio, where his father, through the dishonesty of a partner, became bankrupt. William C. and his brother nobly determined to pay the father's debts and this they did, though it meant tremendous exertion and untold hardships. The financial condition of the family interfered with the education of the boys, who received very little schooling. William C. Lockhart was a soldier for the Union during the Civil war, where he was severely wounded and was discharged from the service because of physical disability after about fifteen month's service. In 1864 he married Elizabeth Spencer at Salesville, Ohio, her death occurring in October, 1867. On May 5, 1869, Mr. Lockhart married Mary Elizabeth Hickox, and to them were born, on November 28, 1872, a son, the immediate subject of this sketch. On February 6, 1884, Mary E. (Hickox) Lockhart died, and on October 17, 1887, Mr. Lockhart married Julia P. (Hickox) Osborn, a sister of his former wife. Her death occurred at Waterloo, Indiana, on December 16, 1891, and on January 4, 1894, he married Elizabeth Ames Ansley. After recovering from his army wounds, Mr. Lockhart resumed the lumber business, in which he had been engaged before the war and was quite heavily interested in this business for a number of years. In December, 1869, he moved to Crawfordsville, Indiana, where he was engaged in the sawmill business, and in which he was very prosperous, so that just prior to the panic of 1873 and invoice showed the business to be worth ninety thousand dollars, with many good contracts on hand. Along with the panic came serious losses by fire, the mill in Parke county and the dry kiln in Crawfordsville being burned, and many creditors failed to pay them what their owed. They had hard work stemming the tide, but, extending their business to Iowa, they began to recover financially, when the flood washed out a big jam of logs, the loss amounting to more than twenty thousand dollars. In January, 1885, Mr. Lockhart went out of business and returned to Crawfordsville and in the spring of the following year he moved to Waterloo, where he lived until his last marriage, then located in Fairfield township, where he died on February 25, 1910, at the age of seventy-five years. A good business man and indefatigable worker, he enjoyed the universal respect of all who knew him. He was a Mason and Odd Fellow and a regular attendant of the Baptist church, being an enthusiastic worker in the cause of temperance.

Robert W. Lockhart received a good common school education at Waterloo, Crawfordsville and Des Moines, Iowa, and was then employed at different vocations and in different places until the fall prior to his marriage, and after that event he located, in 1894, on the farm in Fairfield township, which he operated for nine years. He fell heir to forty-five and one-half acres of land from his father, which he sold and then bought eighty acres of good land in Fairfield township. Eventually he sold this tract and bought one hundred and sixty acres of on November 28, 1872, in the beautiful city of Crawfordsville, Montgomery county, Indiana, and is the son of William C. and Mary Elizabeth (Hickox) Lockhart. He fell heir to forty-five and one-half acres of land from his father, which he sold and then bought eighty acres of good land in Fairfield township. Eventually he sold this tract and bought one hundred and sixty acres of land in section 17, Smithfield township, which is the present homestead, and to this he has devoted his undivided attention, so that today there are few farms in this favored section of DeKalb county which are its equal. It is known as the old Joel E. Thompson homestead. Not only has the fertility of the soil been maintained, but the permanent improvements on the farm made by Mr. Lockhart have been noteworthy. The large, up-to-date, roomy and well arranged barns and other substantial outbuildings, the house of modern and attractive appearance, the well-kept fences and all other incidental accessories of an up-to-date farm attract the attention of the passerby, and add to the value and desirability of the place. Mr. Lockhart has been intensely progressive in everything he has done and the barn erected by Joel E. Thompson was the first one built along modern ideas in this township. He has now lived on this farm for five years and has already achieved a splendid reputation among his fellow agriculturists. On February 25, 1894, Robert W. Lockhart married Mary Catherine Hartman, the daughter of Joel E. and Sarah (Gushwa) Hartman, who are referred to elsewhere in this work. This union have been born six children, namely: Carl W., Ralph Russell, Mary Dorothy, Eda Grace, Wilma, deceased, and Robert Spencer, the latter being the eighth generation of Robert on the McBride side of the family. Politically, Mr. Lockhart was formerly a Republican, but is inclined to the support of the Progressive party, believing that the principles as advocated by Theodore Roosevelt and other distinguished advocated of Progressive principles to be the most conducive to the welfare of the American people. Mr. Lockhart was appointed township committeeman of the Republican party, but in 1898, because of pressing duties of his private business he resigned the position after one year of effective service. Fraternally, he is a member of the Modern Woodmen of America at Ashley, while, religiously, though not a member of any church, his sympathies are with the Baptist faith. Mr. Lockhart has no special fads or specialties, but contents himself with general farming operation, not neglecting stock raising on a moderate scale, and although enjoys the reputation of being a painstaking and prudent husbandman. Because of his business success and his high personal qualities, he is held in high esteem by his fellow citizens of Smithfield township and is entitled to rank among the representative men of his profession in DeKalb county.

In 1900, 1910 and 1920 they were farming in Fairfield Twp., DeKalb Co., Indiana (census). Ellis and Emma lived for many years outside of Hudson, Indiana. Ellis often preached at a small church near Hudson. The church may have been Mennonite, because his granddaughter, Janneta "Maxine" (McClish) Hecht, remembers going with him and the ladies wore white caps and Ellis "wore his collar backwards."

Notes for ELVA LILLIE THOMPSON:
This is the girl that married Theodore Rempis, where I really found a lot of info about Richard McBride's family. I think maybe Joel E. Thomson might be Joel E. Thompson - maybe not, I need to check the census info a little more carefully - but I have to find them first. My Great Grandfather, Robert Lockhart bought the old Joel E. Thompson homestead.

Notes for THEODORE REMPIS:
Biography of Theodore Rempis, pages 889/890/891/892/893.
History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

Among the farmers of DeKalb county, Indiana, who believe in following twentieth-century methods is Theodore Rempis, of the vicinity of Smithfield township. He comes of a splendid family, one that has always been strong for right living and industrial habits, for education and morality, and for all that contributes to the welfare of the commonwealth. Such people are welcomed in any community, for they are empire builders and as such have pushed the frontier of civilizations ever westward and onward, leaving the green, wide-reaching wilderness and the far-stretching plains populous with contented people and beautiful with green fields; they have constituted that sterling horde which caused the great Bishop Whipple to write the memorable line, "Westward the course of empire takes its way."
Theodore Rempis was born on May 9, 1861, on section 32, Smithfield township, DeKalb county, Indiana, the son of Charles Lewis and Elizabeth (Middleton) Rempis. The father was a native of Wurtemberg, Germany, born March 21, 1830, and at an early day emigrated with his parents, Louis and Louisa (Berg) Rempis, to America, locating first at Massillon, Ohio. In 1853 they came to DeKalb county, purchasing a farm of one hundred and twenty acres in Smithfield township, where the father built a log house and barn, clearing forty acres of the place, and through his strenuous efforts lost his health. His death occurred in December, 1859. His wife survived him several years. While the family was residing at Massillon, Ohio, in 1851, the subject's father went to California in order to endeavor to improve his financial situation among the gold mines. He made the arduous trip by way of the isthmus of Panama, reaching the gold fields on the Uba and Feather rivers, where he spent three and a half years, working a part of the time near Portland, Oregon. He helped to make the first brick used in the city, He was successful on this trip and with the money thus earned came back to DeKalb county in 1854 and purchased a farm. On May 15, 1856, he married Elizabeth, the daughter of William Middleton, one of the pioneer residents of Waterloo, who served in the Civil war as a member of Company K, Forty-fourth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry. There were born three children: William Henry, who lives in Los Angeles, California; Franklin Lewis, who married Martha Frager on March 8, 1882, and died on December 16, 1899, leaving one child, Ruth. His wife died on October 7, 1883. The daughter, Ruth, eventually married Charles Haines, a farmer in Grant township, this county, having two children, Edward and Carl; Theodore A., was the third child born to these parents. In1856 Charles Rempis became a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, but in 1860 transferred his membership to the United brethren, to which faith he remained a faithful adherent during the rest of his life. He helped to prepare the timbers and build the church of the United Brethren, the first house erected for public worship in Waterloo and which for a number of years was the only building for that special purpose in that town. He retired from active farm work in 1895 and thereafter made his home with his son, the subject of this sketch, who now lives on the farm developed by his father. Later Charles Rempis took up his residence in Waterloo, and in 1907 went to live with his granddaughter, Mrs. Ruth Haines, in Grant township, where his death occurred on November 9, 1910. His brother, Henry Rempis, born October 11, 1838, lived at Massillon, Ohio; but in 1853 his family moved from that city to the old farm in Smithfield township, DeKalb county, coming by wary of the Ohio canal to Cleveland, across the lake to Toledo, and by the Wabash canal to Fort Wayne, thence overland to DeKalb county. Here his father bought one hundred and twenty acres only forty of which was cleared. At that time Henry Rempis was only fifteen years of age, and he took his part in the arduous labor connected with the clearing and improvement of this land, and because of the death of his father and his older brother, William, and the marriage of his brother, Charles, it became necessary for him to practically shoulder the duties of maintaining the family home. This prevented his enlistment in the Union cause in the Civil war, as he earnestly wished to do. Being compelled to remain at home, he bought the interest of the heirs, took up the real work of the farm, and, being a mechanical turn of mind, he was enabled to make many permanent and substantial improvements on the place, and by honest labor and strenuous efforts he achieved a splendid success as an agriculturist. In the face of severe reverses by fire and other losses, he accomplished many valuable improvements by careful management and honest methods on the farm, including building a commodious farmhouse into which the family moved in 1875, later erecting a large bank barn in place of the one destroyed by fire. In this new home the mother died in 1877. In 1888 the subject's foster son, Charles Olcott, was drowned, and on August 12, 1898, his daughter, Lena Amelia, met a like fate. In March, 1906, Mr. Rempis resigned the active work of the farm and moved to Waterloo, where he resided until his death, which occurred on January 11, 1908. He never identified himself with any church, but was a faithful attendant and supporter of the United Brethren church, to which the other members of the family belonged. He also attended the Christian church at Cedar Lake, Smithfield township. On November 5, 1871, he married Mr. Sophia French Olcott, and to them were born three children, Laura Luella, Lena Amelia and Mrs. Olive Matilda Willis. The subject of this sketch received his education in the common schools in Smithfield township, and worked on the home farm as soon as old enough.

(I seperated it here, so I can find it easily. Need to put it back later - still the same paragraph!!!!)

After his marriage, in 1887, he came to the home farm and lived there about one and a half years and then moved to the J. E. Thomson farm, the girlhood home of his wife, where he lived for six years. On account of his father's illness he then moved back to the home farm which he rented, and in the year 1907 bought the farm from his father, the place comprising one hundred and sixty acres. This farm he improved in many respects, building a number of substantial buildings, cleared up a good portion of the farm, drained it, and other wise putting it in excellent condition for successful agriculture, so that it is now one of the leading and most productive of the township. He has been very progressive in his farming methods, using up-to-date ideas and slighting no opportunity to advance the condition of the place. On October 19, 1887, Mr. Rempis married Elva Lillie Thomson, the daughter of Joel E. and Maria Jane (McBride) Thomson, and to them there were two children, Clarence V. and Lester L. They also, on July 25,1902, adopted a girl, Thelma Mays, from the Indianapolis

Orphan Asylum. The eldest child, Clarence married Ruby Parnell and now lives on the home place, following the pursuit of agriculture. Joel E. Thomson was born at Shalersville, Portage county, Ohio, on November 30, 1824, spending his early days in that place. He came to DeKalb county in the early days, settling on the well-known Thomson farm, Smithfield township, which, by hard work on the part of both himself and his wife, was developed into one of the best farms of the county, it being characterized by modern improvements in every respect. On November 30, 1845, he married Maria J. McBride, the daughter of Richard and Samanthe (Smith) McBride. One December 25, 1899, he fell and broke his leg, from which accident he was crippled for the remainder of his life; but he bore his affliction with patience and without complaint. His crippled condition, together with poor health and declining years, forced him to break up their home life and in 1902 he went to live with his daughter, Elva Lillie, with whom he afterward resides. He became a member of the Church of Christ at Shalersville, Ohio, when nineteen years of age, and through his efforts the Church of Christ at Cedar Lake, Smithfield township, was organized, he and his wife being charter members. Of this society he served efficiently as elder until his death, which occurred near Waterloo, June 12, 1903. Politically, he was a staunch Republican, taking a deep interest in local public affairs. He was the father of seven children, one of whom died in infancy, the others being: Cilicia A., deceased; Almira A., deceased; Francis Edwin; Ida Alice; Charles Sterling and Elva Lillie. Of these, Ida became the wife of Ameron P. Benjamin, a farmer, now deceased, and she lives near Cedar Lake, Smithfield township. She became the mother of nine children, one of whom died in infancy, and the others being, Orlie, Clayton, Marion, Jennie, Irma, Russell, Mary and Austin. Francis Edwin, who is a farmer in Smithfield township, married Laura A. Farrington, and they had six children, Carleton, Guy, Frank, Jay, Anna and Benjamin. Charles, who lives at Ashley, Indiana, married Elizabeth Parnell. Mrs. Rempis' mother, Maria Jane Thomson, was born at Revenna, Portage county, Ohio, July 26, 1824, and in company with her husband made the long and tiresome journey to DeKalb county in 1847, the trip being made by team to Cleveland, thence by boat to Toledo, canal boat to Fort Wayne, and the team to DeKalb county. Her father was a member of the Christian church, was trustee of his township one term, and also justice of the peace and road supervisor. He was a farmer, but also had learned the trades of butcher, carpenter, cabinetmaker, undertaker and shoemaker, following these several trades at times together with his vocation of farming. He assisted in building all of the early school houses, barns and bridges, and had exceptional talents in mechanical lines. He also made cheese for the market for fifteen years, having thirty to forty cows on the farm for this purpose. Fraternally, in early years he was a member of the Independent Order of the Odd Fellows. He was a staunch member of the Christian church and performed a great deal of charitable work which never reached public attention, giving generously, also, to all worthy church and public enterprise. Because of his upright life, generous disposition and genial nature he was beloved by the entire community and enjoyed universal esteem. Mrs. Rempis' maternal grandfather, Richard McBride, was born December 25, 1792, at Carlisle, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, and came to DeKalb county with his wife, Samanthe (Smith) McBride, whom he married on May 15, 1823, the location in this county being 1850. Here they bought a farm of forty-eight acres, of which he cleared about forty acres and put the same in good condition. In the war of 1812 he was a member of the Home Guards, and by the laws of the state became a voter at the age of twenty years for this service. In 1821 he moved to Revenna, Ohio, and to Indiana in 1849. He was an active member of the

Orphan Asylum. The eldest child, Clarence married Ruby Parnell and now lives on the home place, following the pursuit of agriculture. Joel E. Thomson was born at Shalersville, Portage county, Ohio, on November 30, 1824, spending his early days in that place. He came to DeKalb county in the early days, settling on the well-known Thomson farm, Smithfield township, which, by hard work on the part of both himself and his wife, was developed into one of the best farms of the county, it being characterized by modern improvements in every respect. On November 30, 1845, he married Maria J. McBride, the daughter of Richard and Samanthe (Smith) McBride. One December 25, 1899, he fell and broke his leg, from which accident he was crippled for the remainder of his life; but he bore his affliction with patience and without complaint. His crippled condition, together with poor health and declining years, forced him to break up their home life and in 1902 he went to live with his daughter, Elva Lillie, with whom he afterward resides. In 1821 he moved to Ravenna, Ohio, and to Indiana in 1849. He was an active member of the Democratic party until 1863, when the Democratic Legislature refused to vote appropriations to feed and clothe the Indiana Union soldiers, and thereafter he allied himself with the Republican party. During the year 1863 he went to live with his daughter, Maria J. Thomson, because of physical disability, and remained in her home until his death which occurred on January 3, 1879. His wife had died in December, 1876, and they are both buried at Cedar Lake, Smithfield township. They were the parents of six children: Maria J., John, David, Lucy, Mary Emma and Sterling, of which number Maria J. in the only survivor. Mrs. McBride was a faithful and earnest member of the Christian church, and performed much effectual work for that organization in early days in this locality. David McBride, son of Richard McBride, was a member of Company I, Fifty-fourth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry. He did in the service and was buried at Mound City. His brother-in-law went to Mound City, had the grave opened and brought him back and buried him at Cedar Lake, Indiana.

Notes for EDNA GRACE LOCKHART:
Grandma Q's Obituary - A TRIBUTE published in the pages of THE EVENING STAR, Auburn, Indiana on October 4, 1991: Entered into Eternal Rest - Thursday, October 3, 1991 - Edna Quaintance

Edna G. L. Quaintance, 89, died shortly before midnight this morning at the Lifecare Center in LaGrange.

She formerly lived in Auburn.

She was born April 6, 1902 in Helmer to Robert L. and Mary Catherine (Hartman) Lockhart.

Mrs. Quaintance was a teacher for 28 years in Ashley and Auburn schools, and for one year on an Indian reservation in Eureka, California. She was a member of the Auburn Presbyterian Church and its Ruth Circle and Mary Martha Circle, the Ashley lodge of Eastern Star, and the Retired Teachers Association. She was a charter member of the Auburn-Cord Duesenberg Museum.

She married Dawson A. Quaintance on June 22, 1928 in Angola. He died in March 1980. One son, Robert D., three brothers, one sister, a granddaughter and two great-grandsons also preceded her in death.

Surviving are one son, Ben W. of Auburn; a daughter, Sue Van of Angola; a sister, Dorothy Conrad of Waterloo; seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Services will be Monday at 11 a.m. in Feller Funeral Home, Waterloo. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery, Auburn.

Friends may call Sunday from 5-8 p.m. at the funeral home. Memorial donations may be made to the Auburn Presbyterian Church or the Hospice of Hope.

I wanted to add Mae Deetz somewhere so I'm putting this here!
Cherri & I took Grandma to her good friends (Mae Deetz) funeral.
Mae was born on May 6, 1901 & died on June 15, 1984.
Mom always called her Auntie Mae & I remember going to visit her!!!

This comes from an article in the Auburn Evening Star, Mon., Feb. 11, 1980, Page 3. It's called Potpouri, By Jane Kempf, Starr Staff Writer. "HAVE BEEN CLEANING out the linen closet --- and going through all Grandma Kempf's things --- a job I just couldn't face until right now. Included in the mementoes was a card of sympathy from Daws and Edna Quaintance that gave us comfort then --- and now. The Quaintances had written this: "When Admiral Richard E. Byrd believed himself to be dying in the ice of the Ross Barrier, he wrote, 'I realized I had failed to see that the simple, homely, unpretentious things of life are the most important. When a man achieves a fair measure of harmony and his family circle, he achieves peace. At the end only two things really matter to a man, regardless of who he is: the affection and understanding of his family." May those words comfort you when you need it."

Notes for DAWSON AUSTIN QUAINTANCE:
I found this type written message in the front of Mom's Quaintance Family Book - I'm not sure who wrote it & when it was written. (Maybe it was for the Quaintance Family Book?)

2nd child of Ben T. and Electa E. Quaintance.

Dawson Austin Quaintance was born 2 and 1/2 miles north of Miller City on this grandfather's (Dawson) old homestead, July 9, 1901. Dawson attended his first public school at the old Quaker School House in Holmes Township, Crawford County, Ohio; he attended the west-end Public School at Lima, Ohio, for the term of 1910.

In the spring of 1911, he attended one term of school at Keiferville, Ohio, finishing the 6th Grade at the Continental School. In 1915, he came to Waterloo, IN, to live with his maternal grandparents, and took the ? grade at Waterloo school (1915/16) and later finished the eighth grade term at Moores, IN, from which school he was graduated June 1916/17, Wilmington Township.

In 1918 he commenced his High School work at Waterloo, IN. His school work here is best outlined in The Rosebud (School Annual) for the year 1922 as follows: "Attendance 1918, 1919, 1921, 1922. Circulation Manager of Rosebud, 1922. Yell Leader, 1922. President of Z.L.S., 1922. Class Executive Committee, 1922. Zedalethean Society.

While accepting the Presidency of the Zedaleathean Society, he made the following Inaugrial address:
"Fellow Zedalethians, Schoolmates, Faculty, and Friends:

On this occasion, I wish to thank the Zedalethians for the honor they have bestowed upon me by making me President of their Society. Long since have I realized that it is not all honor to hold this place, but there is a certain degree of work and responsibility connected, although this is easily borne, providing spirit and co-operation are behind each effort.

This Society in the past has done wonderful things and given excellent programs. By careful examination of the times we find that the spirit and co-operation was behind the work, but we are not looking backwards, let the dead past bury the dead. We are living in the present and preparing ourselves for the future.

When a program is given some may think it is purely for amusement, but this is not the case. Programs are given to amuse to an extent, but the one big idea is to prepare the student to talk to an audience to which he is unknown.

So with an aim in view to bring each member of the Society before an audience, I beg you to display your best. I thank you."

--- Dawson A. Quaintance

For a time Dawson worked on the street pavement in Waterloo, after his graduation; in March 1923, he commenced work at the Carpenter Trade for Holland Muhn, a Building Contractor at Auburn, by whom he was employed until 1939, having been advanced to shop foreman by Mr. Muhn.

June 22, 1928, he was united in marriage to Miss Edna Grace Lockhart of Pleasant Lake, Indiana. Mrs. Quaintance is a daughter of Robert William and Mary Catherine (Hartman) Lockhart; their marriage took place at the Methodist Parsonage, Angola, by Rev. W. H. Hogan, Pastor. Immediately after their marriage, they left for a short trip to the "Shades" in the central part of the State.

In September 1931, he erected a home for himself and family on Fifth Street (715) East Auburn, living here until November 1940 when he sold his home and moved to his present address, 1203 South Main Street, Auburn, Indiana.

Mrs. Quaintance is also a graduate of the Waterloo High School and of Tri-State College at Angola. She was President of the Waterloo 1921 Senior Class, also she is a member of the Eastern Star at Ashley, Indiana. She has had 10 years experience as a teacher in the Primary department of the Ashley School and, having taught one year to the children of the Hoopa Tribe of Indiana in California Where she was sent by the U.S. Government in 1925, after fitting herself for the task while in Normal training for the examination. This Indian School was situated at a distance of 35 miles from a Railroad.

During the summer of 1935, Mr. & Mrs. Quaintance and a number of friends, took their vacation at the Dells in Wisconsin and other nearby places. While at the Dells they had the pleasure of Chief "Silver Tongue," the famous Indian tenor-singer. He was a member of the Hoopa tribe of Indiana and very readily remembered her (Mrs. Q.) as an Instructor of the children of his tribe. In their conversation, she found that they had mutual friends and acquaintances as she recalled many of the people of the tribe.

Hi Georgia,

This is all I have so far, I have made quite a bit of progress in the last year and a half. I'm sending you everything, please remember that it is not all documented & there may be mistakes that I don't know about. I've left all of my cousins birthdates in here, so please be selective about who gets this info!!! I think it is interesting to see if there are any other connections or if you just happen to know someone!!!! That's why I left it all in here. You can print this out & keep it - I just love these genealogy reports!!! This program is wonderful. Please let me know what you think about all of the information. I'm so glad you posted to the DeKalb County List, this is just great!!!! I look forward to learning more about our family. Good luck with all of your searching and finding your cousins!!!! I hope you get this okay & I may have more info that isn't entered into the program, yet, if I do I will let you know. Let me know if you find anything new!!!!

Roxanne :-)

Hi Carolyn,

I already had it done. This doesn't have any of the info in it that you sent to me. I know that you have that, but it will be interesting to compare this later, so I'm leaving it as it is. I wish I had the date of the other - just looked it up, it was July 16, 2000. No wonder I thought I already sent this to you. Georgia descends, I believe from Augustus McBride, she is new to genealogy, also. I also met her through the DeKalb Roll Call. I left her note on here so that you can read it, also. This does get confusing sometimes, but I love it. Everything I said to her I mean for you, too. I love making these connections!!!! It's fun & kinda exciting, don't you think??? Do you know about searching wordpad documents? (It works on the internet, also.) Just hold down the ctrl button & the letter f at the same time (sometimes you have to click, with your mouse, in the document first) you should get a little box & then you just type in the word you want to search & push enter - it takes you right to it. I use this feature A LOT!!!! Be talking to you later.

Roxanne :-)

week.

—This kind of weather is no doubt very pleasing to the men operating saw mills.

—Mr. John Koons moved his family from Angola to this place, the first of the week.

—For sleighing purposes, Mr. Roth has a little the liveliest team at the county seat.

—Rev. Frelnffer is absent, conducting a protracted meeting at his north appointment.

—Tyler Mason secured nearly 150 signatures to the pledge, in his lectures at Angola.

—The Goshen Times celebrated the New Year by putting on a handsome dress of new type.

—Petition has been filed asking for the sale of the realty belonging to the Heckathorn estate.

—Immense quantities of ice are being stored, and the article will be very cheap next summer.

—The DeKalb democracy have utterly failed to develop a candidate for State Prison Director.

—The Noble Circuit Court is in session, and the Bixler case will probably be tried during the term.

—Rev. William Rehnder will preach in the German Reformed church next Sunday, at 2 o'clock p. m.

—The other incorporated villages of the county get ahead of Waterloo in the delinquent list at least.

—A lengthy communication about the death of Mr. J. R. McOsker, came too late for insertion this week.

—For threatening to shoot the landlord of the Morse House at Angola, El. Croxton was jailed last week.

—Since the fire last week, an inspector has condemned most of the flues in the Saginaw company's buildings.

—The appearance of the Daily Advertiser, at Auburn, is an indication that the Weamers have again divided.

—Phillips vs. Baxter, libel, etc., is now set for hearing on the 1st Wednesday of the next term, before Judge Lowry.

—C. A. O. McClellan, Esq., has been installed as Eminent Commander of Apollo Commandery, K. T., at Kendallville.

—The Garrett Herald and Butler Record did not reach us last week, and the Auburn Republican arrived on Saturday.

—Station agent Belding found a gold sleeve-button New Years' morning, which the owner can have by proving property.

—Christmas morning Mr. Belding found a knife, chain and small sum of money, which the owner can have by proving property.

—Geo. Hazzard's letter is irrelevant. If he will send the statement he talks about, and quit blowing, it will receive all the consideration due to it.

—The Saginaw company's contracting agent was here this week, making tirely destroyed by fire; but a small amount even of the household goods being saved from the flames. The fire originated in the kitchen, most probably from a defective flue. We have heard no estimate placed on Mr. Brandaberry's loss; but as the building was a substantial frame, of good size, the loss must be very considerable, to say nothing of the household goods, clothing, provisions, etc., which were destroyed.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.—Marriage licenses were issued during the month of December, by County Clerk Moss, to the following parties: David Doty and Samantha Alwood, Franklin Bowman and Mary Jane Reasoner, Samuel J. Andress and Lydia J. Miller, Sylvester Shumaker and Catharine A. Smith, Daniel B. Olinger and Margaret Kenestrick, Uri J. Murphy and Ida L Hook, George McIntosh and Lucetta S. Bowlby, William C. Phillips and Myra M. Long, Eli Zonker and Emma Hartman, John W. McCrary and Mary Alice Shaffer, George Meteger and Cassa Strow, Lewis Olinger and Nancy J. Frets, Commodore P. Oberlin and Mary N. Corbin, Josiah Henney and Catharine Row, James W. Thomas and Sarah P. Nelson, John Wimar and Lydia A. Coats, George Rinehold and Elizabeth E. Baertsner, Thomas Broderick and Mandilla Parish, Reuben Koch and Harriet Mathews.

Died

In Smithfield township, January 3d, 1879, Richard McBride, aged 86 years and 9 days.

The subject of the above was born in Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, December 25, 1792. Was one of the home guards of that State during the war of 1812, and by the laws of that State the home guards became voters at the age of 20. After that he never missed but three votes during his life. He came to Indiana in 1849, when it required one year to become a voter, then he missed two elections, and last October was not able to go. He was always identified with the Democratic party until the rebel Democratic legislature, of 1863, refused to vote appropriations to pay and feed Indiana union soldiers; since that time he has been a staunch Republican. *

SUDDEN DEATH.—Friday night James R. McOsker, son of John McOsker, Esq., of Smithfield, came home from the school he was teaching in his usual good health. On retiring for the night, he complained of feeling cold; and in a short time his brother was awakened by hearing him groaning. On going to him it was found that he was speechless, and he died before relief could be extended. Deceased was a young man of more than ordinary promise.

ANNUAL ELECTION.—The Waterloo Cemetery lot owners, at their election on Monday evening, chose the following officers: Henry Willis, C. A. O. McClellan, Herman Froehlich the assertions you so confidently make.

Respectfully,
JAMES A. BARNS.

CORUNNA, Jan. 5, 1879.

Our town has been rather dull for a week or so, on account of the extreme cold, except Saturday, which put on a little more life again.

Dr. Cissel, of our town, preached a sermon yesterday, on the 70th anniversary of his birth. His wife, who has been lying in bed for about three months with rheumatism, is able to sit up part of the time.

Colds and some diptheria are prevalent, some of Mr. Knaur's family being afflicted with the latter.

Grandmother Cheney, south of Sedan, was buried yesterday. She had attained a good old age, being near 90.

Rev. Peddicord commenced a protracted meeting yesterday, Rev. Snyder going to some other field of labor.

Mrs. Samuel White, of Fairfield Tp. who fell sometime ago and broke one of her legs close to the hip, is doing well.

Senator Mercer leaves for Indianapolis to-day. Dr. Hamilton, of Walkerton, fills his place while he is gone.

David Dawson, while driving a team along the road north of town this forenoon, dropped the lines and jumped off the sled to run (as was supposed,) ahead of the team, when one of the horses kicked, striking him on the forehead, mashing the skull badly, and causing the left eye to protrude from the socket. He was conscious at dark, and it is thought he will recover.
R.

ON New Year's day, while quietly enjoying the society of my family at home, I was disturbed by a rattling at the door and on opening it, a rush of vandals, from Cedar Lake and vicinity, occured, who proceeded to take possession of my house, and after turning my kitchen into a provision store house a rush was made for the barn, and soon piles of corn and bags of oats and wheat, strewed the floor. After procuring from their baskets and boxes a supply which loaded the table, they compelled us to sit down and partake with them of a bountiful dinner. After dinner, one Wellington was chosen chairman of the meeting, and a man by the name of Joel proceeded to read a lengthy and serious paper containing the charges, upon which this invasion had been planned and executed, and then and there gave demonstration of specie resumption, upon a copper basis, in order, he said, "that we might be left with some common sense (cents) after such a pounding." With the applause of the entire assemblage he completed the reading of the paper, whereupon they vociferously demanded a reply. I briefly assured them that although a prisoner, I confessed to a great regard for their fare and treatment, and although sorely pounded with every variety of weapon from a roll of butter to a cord of stove wood, I solemnly promised to hold no ill feeling, but endure it with much "long suffering." They quietly withdrew and forgot to take away the

WATERLOO, INDIANA, THURSDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 21, 1912

ALL AROUND PICK-UPS.

Hamilton is installing an electric ighting plant. My, what airs the jolly ittle town by the lake is putting on. ˈay her light never grow dim.

The De Kalb County Teachers' Asso- iation will convene at Auburn Nov. 29 nd continue two days. All teachers re expected to attend this meeting.

The St. Joe river at Newville rose bove the foot bridge the past week nd travel was impeded. The new ridge will soon be far enough along to llow foot passengers to cross.

An Elkhart dealer was fined last eek in the sum of $22.40 including osts for selling cigarettes to minors. udging from the number of boys in aterloo who are smoking these "coffin ails" the goblins will get somebody he doesn't watch out.

Angoia is enjoying the process of aving the streets around the public uare and bricks are piled up in front all the business houses with a fair ospect of remaining until spring, as e cement grouting can hardly be mpleted this fall. Business men are noyed by the piles of brick that dge them.

Over about Columbia City, Collins d Milford about 130,000 bushels of ions are in cold storage and over at hley there are a good many thou- nd bushels in storage. The price has opped to about 18 cts. per bushel, hich is a great disappointment to owers. With onions, carrots and rnips at a minimum price, those who e that sort can live cheap.

In the DeKalb Circuit Court last ek a judgment was rendered against city of Butler in favor of the es- te of George L. Greenwald in the m of $2500. Greenwald was electro- ted while working on the electric re in the employ of the city. There much dissatisfaction in Butler over verdict and there is talk of appeal- the case to the higher courts. The t was brought for $10,000.

The Apple Show at Indianapolis the st week was a great success. Thou- ds of bushels of Indiana grown ap- s were on exhibition and over 1,000 le pies, most of which were made pupils in the domestic science de- tments of the various high schools the state. H. M. Widney of St. Joe, county, had a car load of apples in show and some of them were the st of the varieties on exhibition.

Mrs. Elmer Bowman was brought ne from the Toledo hospital last ek to Butler, the neighbors and nds subscribing funds to care for . THREE OLD RESIDENTS DIE

LEWIS BOWERS, NEARLY FIFTY YEARS IN AUBURN

MRS. RACHEL HARMES DIES

From Injuries Received in a Fall—Mrs. Jonathan Smalley Passes Away

Lewis Bowers, one of the oldest men in DeKalb County and one who has been a resident of Auburn since 1849, died at his home in that city Friday morning aged nearly ninety years. He was born in Stark County, Ohio, June 11, 1823 and located near Auburn on a farm in 1849. For many years prior to the Civil War he conducted a grocery and was one of the old school of business men. By economy and thrift he accumulated quite a fortune. He was taken to the polls in a wheel chair to vote at the last election and contracted a cold resulting in pleurisy and pneumonia which caused his death.

Mrs. Jonathan Smalley

Lorreta A. Farrington was born in Huron County, Ohio, Nov. 14, 1840, and departed this life at her home near Cedar Lake, Nov. 13, 1912; aged 71 years, 11 months and 29 days.

She came to this county with her parents in the winter of 1848-9, settling upon a piece of government land just north of the present village of Sedan, then a wilderness. Here she enjoyed the pleasures, though few, and endured the privations of a pioneer's life.

At the age of fifteen she confessed her faith in Jesus, and was baptised during a series of meetings conducted by Elder Job Lister in the old log school house, at the place now known as Hesse Cassel. Here a church was organized, later joining a few of the brethren in the northern part of Smithfield township, the present Cedar Lake church was organized.

She was united in marriage to Jonathan Smalley in 1859. To this union was born three children, Mrs. William Hinman, of Waterloo, Ind., Albert B. Smalley, long since deceased, and Roland Smalley, of this place.

She leaves to mourn their loss, an aged husband, who even now is in the shadow of death, two children, one brother, Dr. Almond S. Farrington, of Waterloo, Ind., two grandchildren, one great grandchild, many near relatives, and a host of friends. Funeral service was conducted by Elder Shepherd, of Ashley, and interment in the Cedar Lake cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

could for her country in the way of furnishing the Sanitary Department at Waterloo a great amount of articles such as bandages, pillows, etc., for the sick and deserving soldiers. To these two there were born two children, Emma L. and Mary L., the latter having died at the age of eight years. She was married, the second time to Frederick Harmes on Dec. 25, 1864, with whom she lived until his death, which occurred Oct. 21, 1886. To this union was born one child, Eva M., with whom she was living at the time of her death.

She leaves to mourn her departure two children namely: Mrs. Emma L. Brugh of Traverse City, Mich., and Mrs. Eva M. Triplett of Auburn, Ind.; a stepson, Joel E. Harmes of Prairie City, Iowa. also a step grandson whom she raised from infancy and who was loved by her as her own son, also 11 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren, besides a host of neighbors and friends who join in sympathy with the family.

The subject of this sketch was baptized when a young girl by Father Hadsell and united with the Church of Christ and has been a faithful Christian all these years. Nothing kept her from church or Sunday School except some reason she could give her Savior.

On Oct. 21, 1908, she broke up housekeeping on account of the infirmities of old age, and went to live with her granddaughter, Mrs. Purd High, near Hudson, Ind., where she lived about eighteen months.

On Dec. 29, 1910, she went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Eva Triplett, where she died at the age of 78 years, 3 months and 5 days.

Her heart was always with the church at Cedar Lake and her old home near Cedar Lake, where she had lived for over thirty years. She has been a faithful worshiper at the Stroh school house, and although at first the faces there were all strange, she soon made many warm friends.

Her death was due to an accident from falling down cellar, in which she was very painfully injured. All was done that human hands could do, but to no avail. She was ready and willing and wanted to go home, and expressed herself many times by saying that if it was God's will she was ready. She was very patient during her intense suffering.

She has been a resident of DeKalb county for over sixty years, and although her life work is done, her influence will still go on, and we know that she is now where there is no more sorrow or pain or homesickness or trouble of any kind. God grant that we may live as near to the Saviour as she did.

A short service was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eva Triplett, then her friends followed her body to her old home church at Cedar Lake, where the funeral services were conducted by Elder Z. W. Shepherd, of Ashley, assisted by Elder Nickerson, of Auburn, and Elder Thomas, pastor of the Cedar Lake church. She was buried at Cedar Lake cemetery, with funeral arrangements in charge of R. C. Dilgard, of Auburn.

REMINISCENCES RECALLED

DEATH OF R. J. FISK RECALLS EARLY HISTORY

FIRST MILLS IN WATERLOO

Were Located in Uniontown Before The Lake Shore Railroad Was Built

In refering to the early business career of the late R. J. Fisk in connection with the first mill built in Waterloo, Mr. John Peterman, of Bucyrus, Ohio, calls our attention to some early history of the town.

The mill referred to was not built by Mr. Fisk, but Jonathan Weaver, who came from Angola, built the grist mill and started running it in 1857, at the time Mr. Peterman came to Uniontown. Joseph Haines and E. B. Cutter were working in the mill and getting the saw mill part into working order. After several months M. and A. Hale, leading merchants, who started their business over in Uniontown, now the first ward of Waterloo, became owners of these mills, which stood just west of the Main street, on the north side of the creek.

At that time the Hales had more goods than they could get into their small store, and oft times boxes containing dry goods were banked in front of the store, covered with empty boxes, but later when Waterloo was laid out in 1858, at the time the building of the Lake Shore Air line was under way, they moved across the creek and located on North Wayne street, but later moved a block farther south. They did a very large business during the war, and several years later, but finally were forced into bankruptcy, as many older citizens will still remember.

While Mr. Weaver owned the mill he built the residence nearby, owned for the past forty years by Mrs. Ida Ahrendt, now of Auburn.

In speaking of the union school exhibition held in the new grist mill before the machinery was placed, which the writer attended, Mr. Peterman says: "I well remember it. There were two or three schools took part, and for those days it was a fine entertainment. There were no sidewalks then, and the rain fell in torrents. Mud, well it was everywhere, and like Riley's clover poem, knee deep in June. In the alley leading from the mill down to the bridge, eastward, the mud was half boot top deep. I picked up my wife and carried her over the muddy alley, and then I had a job carrying the ladies over, and waded mud nearly to the top

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to our many friends for their kind aid and sympathy in the illness and death of our wife and mother.

MR. JNO. SMALLEY AND CHILDREN.

In the long illness of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Smalley terminating in the death of Mrs. Smalley last week, it is worthy of note that their grandson Arthur Smalley was the faithful attendant upon his grand parents at all times, assisted when necessary by his uncle, Rollin Smalley and wife and his aunt, Mrs. W. H. Hinman and husband. The young man was ever ready to give aid and comfort to his aged grandparents in their affliction.

Mrs. Rachel S. Harmes

The life of Mrs. Rachael Harmes, who lived with her daughter Mrs. Eva M. Triplett south of town, came to a sudden ending last Friday morning, a result of an injury from a fall sustained Monday night, Nov. 11. She stepped out on the porch and in returning to the house she missed the door in the darkness and falling, she being rather portly, sustained the injury of three broken ribs, a broken left wrist and internal injuries. Her maiden name was Shatto, and her first husband David A. McBride died in the service of his country near Memphis, Tenn. in 1863. Her second husband, Frederick Harmes, died Oct. 21, 1886. The deceased was a pensioner from service of her first husband, David A. McBride. She leaves surviving her two daughters, Mrs. Eva M. Triplett and Mrs. Emma Gruh who resides in Michigan. She was a pioneer resident near Cedar Lake, Smithfield township, and the funeral occurred at the Cedar Lake church Sunday at 11 a. m.

Rachel Samantha Shatto, daughter of John and Margaret Leonard Shatto, was born August 10, 1834 in Deerfield township, Portage Co., Ohio. She lived there about five years, then moved with her parents to Pennsylvania, Mercer Co., and lived there one year. She then moved to Trumbull Co. Ohio, and lived there two years. Then to Stark Co., Ohio, and lived there six years, and then she with her parents moved to DeKalb Co., Ind. in 1850 and made their home near Cedar Lake.

On Oct. 5, 1851 she was married to David A. McBride with whom she lived until the breaking out of the Civil War when the husband was called to fight for his country, from which he never returned alive. She also did what she [illegible] she is now where there is no more sorrow or pain or homesickness or trouble of any kind. God grant that we may live as near to the Saviour as she did.

A short service was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eva Triplett, then her friends followed her body to her old home church at Cedar Lake, where the funeral services were conducted by Elder Z. W. Shepherd, of Ashley, assisted by Elder Nickerson, of Auburn, and Elder Thomas, pastor of the Cedar Lake church. She was buried at Cedar Lake cemetery, with funeral arrangements in charge of R. C. Dilgard, of Auburn.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to express our thanks to the kind neighbors who assisted us in the sickness, death and burial of our dear mother and grandmother, also for the beautiful flowers and for the sympathy of her many friends.

erected. Daniel Martin built a mill on the south branch of Cedar creek, and a Mr. Fansler constructed a grist mill on the west branch about a mile below the lake. Isaac B. Smith planted the first crop of potatoes, Reuben J. Daniels the first wheat, and Norton Blake first introduced the reaper in harvesting.

FIRST OFFICERS.

The following represent some of the first officers of Smithfield township: Justices, R. G. Daniels, David Martin, Daniel Gingrich, Jeremiah Hemstreet, R. McBride, J. E. Rutan, and Aaron Smith; constables, Daniel Shull, Henry Nevin, Henry Treesh, Thomas Locke, Aaron Smith, Justus B. Howard and Edward Richards; trustees, Pharez Blake, Isaac B. Smith, D. Smith, I. Grate, Isaiah McLeish, Augustus Ball, H. Freeman, Samuel Delong, John Leas, Thomas Lock, Harman Mullen, John McOsker, John Hornberger, George W. Frout, George J. Duncan, William Hoffman, R. Lockhart and William Cox; assessors, John Baxter, H. Freeman, John Schrantz and Cyrus Duncan.

The population of Smithfield township in 1880 was 1,424; in 1890, 1,279; in 1900, 1,607; in 1910, 1,469.

ASHLEY.

The town of Ashley was platted in the year 1892, the origin of the town being due to the building of the Wabash railroad. This railroad company under the name of the Indiana Improvement Company, bought extensive lands on the site of Ashley, and established a division there. The town quickly sprang into life, and was incorporated as a town in the latter part of 1892. Singularly, the town is placed square on the county line between Steuben and DeKalb counties; the main street is the division point. Many peculiar and humorous, as well as inconvenient, situations arise from this fact. The shops and division headquarters were moved in 1907 to Montpelier, Ohio, but notwithstanding the town has continued to grow. The census of 1910 placed the population as six hundred and thirty-nine, but this has increased substantially since. The town officers at present are: G. W. Clark, George Kirlin, and William Zubrugg, trustees; J. W. Mintzer, clerk; and George Park, treasurer. The electric light plant is owned by the town, and was installed in 1895 at a cost of five thousand dollars. There is one grist mill and one saw mill at Ashley.

has been very progressive in his farming methods, using up-to-date ideas and slighting no opportunity to advance the condition of the place.

On October 19, 1887, Mr. Rempis married Elva Lillie Thomson, the daughter of Joel E. and Maria Jane (McBride) Thomson, and to them there were born two children, Clarence V. and Lester L. They also, on July 25, 1901, adopted a girl, Thelma Mays, from the Indianapolis Orphan Asylum. The eldest child, Clarence, married Ruby Parnell and now lives on the home place, following the pursuit of agriculture.

Joel E. Thomson was born at Shalersville, Portage county, Ohio, on November 30, 1824, spending his early days in that place. He came to DeKalb county in the early days, settling on the well-known Thomson farm, Smithfield township, which, by hard work on the part of both himself and his wife, was developed into one of the best farms of the county, it being characterized by modern improvements in every respect. On November 30, 1845, he married Maria J. McBride, the daughter of Richard and Samanthe (Smith) McBride. On December 25, 1899, he fell and broke his leg, from which accident he was crippled for the remainder of his life; but he bore his affliction with patience and without complaint. His crippled condition, together with poor health and declining years, forced him to break up their home life and in 1902 he went to live with his daughter, Elva Lillie, with whom he afterward resided. He became a member of the Church of Christ at Shalersville, Ohio, when nineteen years of age, and through his efforts the Church of Christ at Cedar Lake, Smithfield township, was organized, he and his wife being charter members. Of this society he served efficiently as elder until his death, which occurred near Waterloo, June 12, 1903. Politically, he was a staunch Republican, taking a deep interest in local public affairs. He was the father of seven children, one of whom died in infancy, the others being: Cilicia A., deceased; Almira A., deceased; Francis Edwin; Ida Alice; Charles Sterling and Elva Lillie. Of these, Ida became the wife of Ameron P. Benjamin, a farmer, now deceased, and she lives near Cedar Lake, Smithfield township. She became the mother of nine children, one of whom died in infancy, and the others being Orlie, Clayton, Marion, Jennie, Irma, Russell, Mary and Austin. Francis Edwin, who is a farmer in Smithfield township, married Laura A. Farrington, and they had six children, Carleton, Guy, Frank, Jay, Anna and Benjamin. Charles, who lives at Ashley, Indiana, married Elizabeth Parnell. Mrs. Rempis' mother, Maria Jane Thomson, was born at Revenna, Portage county, Ohio, July 26, 1824, and in company with her husband made the long and tiresome journey to DeKalb county in has been very progressive in his farming methods, using up-to-date ideas and neglecting no opportunity to advance the condition of the place.

On October 19, 1887, Mr. Kemps married Elva Lillie Thomson, the daughter of Joel E. and Maria Jane (McBride) Thomson, and to them there were born two children, Clarence V. and Lester L. They also, on July 25, 1901, adopted a girl, Thelma Mays, from the Indianapolis Orphan Asylum. He was the father of seven children, one of whom died in infancy, the others being: Celicia K., deceased; Almira A., deceased; Francis Edwin; Ida Alice; Charles Sterling and Elva Lillie. Of these, Ida became the wife of Andrew P. Baumann, a farmer, now deceased, and she lives near Cedar Lake, Smithfield township. She became the mother of nine children, one of whom died in infancy, and the others being Orla, Clayton, Marion, Jennie, Irma, Russell, Mary and Annie. Francis Edwin, who is a farmer in Smithfield township, married Laura A. Farrington, and they had six children, Carleton, Guy, Frank, Jay, Anna and Benjamin. Charles, who lives at Ashley, Indiana, married Elizabeth Farrell. Mrs. Kemps' mother, Maria Jane Thomson, was born at Ravenna, Portage county, Ohio, July 26, 1844, and in company with her husband made the long and tiresome journey to DeKalb county in 1847, the trip being made by team to Cleveland, thence by boat to Toledo, canal boat to Fort Wayne, and team to DeKalb county. Her father was a member of the Christian church, was trustee of his township one term, and also justice of the peace and road supervisor. He was a farmer, but also had learned the trades of butcher, carpenter, cabinetmaker, undertaker and shoemaker, following these several trades at times together with his vocation of farming. He assisted in building all of the early school houses, barns and bridges, and had exceptional talents in mechanical lines. He also made cheese for the market for fifteen years, having thirty to forty cows on the farm for this purpose. Fraternally, in early years he was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He was a staunch member of the Christian church and performed a great deal of charitable work which never reached public attention, giving generously, also, to all worthy church and public enterprises. Because of his upright life, generous disposition and genial nature he was beloved by the entire community and enjoyed universal esteem. Mrs. Rempis' maternal grandfather, Richard McBride, was born December 25, 1792, at Carlisle, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, and came to DeKalb county with his wife, Samanthe (Smith) McBride, whom he married on May 15, 1823, the location in this county being in 1850. Here they bought a farm of forty-eight acres, of which he cleared about forty acres and put the same in good condition. In the war of 1812 he was a member of the Home Guards, and by the laws of the state became a voter at the age of twenty years for this service. In 1821 he moved to Revenna, Ohio, and to Indiana in 1849. He was an active member of the Democratic party until 1863, when the Democratic Legislature refused to vote appropriations to feed and clothe the Indiana Union soldiers, and thereafter he allied himself with the Republican party. During the year 1863 he went to live with his daughter, Maria J. Thomson, because of physical disability, and remained in her home until his death which occurred on January 3, 1879. His wife had died in December, 1876, and they are both buried at Cedar Lake, Smithfield township. They were the parents of six children: Maria J., John, David, Lucy, Mary Emma and Sterling, of which number Maria J. is the only survivor. Mrs. McBride was a faithful and earnest member of the Christian church, and performed much effectual work for that organization in early days in this locality. David McBride, son of Richard McBride, was a member of Company I, Fifty-fourth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry. He died in the service and was buried at Mound City. His brother-in-law went to Mound City, had the grave opened and brought him back and buried him at Cedar Lake, Indiana.

There he was for six years employed at farm work, at first for six dollars a month, and later for seven dollars a month. He then learned the trade of a distiller in the employ of James McCullough, a Presbyterian preacher. Mr. Lockhart was in religion a Protestant, having been reared in the Baptist faith and a member of that church, but in America he united with the Presbyterian church. In Ireland he had been an enthusiastic Orangeman, strongly anti-Catholic in his convictions, and after coming to America was intensely loyal to his adopted country, and, though a Democrat in principles, stood firmly for the Union, recalling that on being naturalized he had sworn to support the Constitution of the United States. His wife, Jane McBride, was a daughter of Robert and Rosamond (Greenfield) McBride, who emigrated from the north of Ireland soon after their marriage, locating at Springfield, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania. Their parents both came originally from Ayreshire, Scotland. Robert McBride, a brother of James McBride, was a soldier in the war of 1812, taking part in the battle of Lundy's Lane. In 1854 Robert McBride Lockhart, a brother of William C., came to DeKalb county, Indiana, and began the erection of a sawmill in Smithfield township. On December 17, 1855, William C. came here, and in the spring of 1856 their parents, James and Jane Lockhart, came here, also locating in Smithfield township. From his early childhood until arriving at his majority William C. Lockhart lived in Lexington, Ohio, where he received a little schooling. When he was about ten years of age his father was caused a heavy financial loss by a dishonest partner, which reduced him from a competency to an indebtedness of five hundred dollars above the value of all his property. His creditors were called together and they told him to get rid of his partner, keep his property, continue in business and pay out as best he could, they having absolute belief in his honesty and integrity. This he did and when William C. was twenty-one and his brother, Robert, twenty-three years of age, they had paid all but fifty dollars of the indebtedness and had a property of a cash value of nine hundred dollars. The financial condition of the family interfered with the education of the boys, who received but very little schooling, but they did the best they could and made the most of their opportunities. In the fall of 1854 William C. passed a teacher's examination and taught school with seventy-five pupils under him, in which he was very successful, being earnestly urged to take the school another year, but this he refused. Biography of David A. McBride. Vol. II, pages 643. Presidents, Soldiers, Statesmen; H.H. Hardesty, Publisher, New York, Toledo, and Chicago, 1894.

David A. McBride

Was born July 24, 1832, in Portage county, O. He is the son of Richard and Samantha (Smith) McBride, both deceased; he settled in DeKalb county, Ind., in 1849, and there, Oct. 5, 1851, married Rachel S. Shatto, who was born Aug. 10, 1834, in the same county as was her husband; their children were Emma L., and Mary L., dec. The parents of Mrs. McBride Harnes, were John and Margaret (Leonard) Shatto; the father is still living. Our subject, was engaged in farming, when at the age of 30, he enlisted at Indianapolis, Oct. 6, 1862, as a private in Co. H, 54th Ind. V.I., under Capt. Carter. In Jan., 1863, he was taken sick with chronic diarrhea, was placed on the marine hospital boat, "DeVernan", at Memphis, where on the 18th of Jan. he died; he was buried in an unknown grave eight miles from Cairo, Ill. The dead being taken off the boat at Mound City; his wife, fearing he had died, sent her brother-in-law, Joel Tompson, in search of him; he traveled 1000 miles, tracing him to this unknown grave; he was recognized by the marks on his person and the silver buttons in his vest; his remains were brought home for interment in the Cedar Lake cemetery, Smithfield township, DeKalb county. The wife of our subject furnished the Sanitary Department at Waterloo, a great amount of articles, as bandages, pillows, etc., for the sick and deserving soldiers; a great deal of credit is due the women, who so patriotically contributed to the needs of the soldiers. John L. Shatto, a brother of the wife's, was a member of Co. G, 44th Ind. V.I.; he died in the hospital at Evansville, In., and was brought home for burial; her grandfather Shatto was in the War of 1812, and her grandfather Leonard was in the Revolutionary War; the widow of our comrade married a second time, Frederick Harnes; they have one child, Eva M.; their address is Waterloo, DeKalb county, Ind.

Samuel P. Strahan makes oath and says, that he has been a commissioned Officer in Co. "G." 54 Regt. Ind. Volunteers, from Jan=uary 16th 1862 to 8th of Dec. 1863 and Commanding said Company from January 1863 to 8th Dec. 1863. That he were well acquainted with David A. Mc Bride late a private in said Company who was in good health when he entered the Service of the United=States. on the 12th day of October 1862 at Indianapolis Indiana, for the term of one year; That on or about the 1st day of January 1863 the said David A. Mc Bride was attacked with Camp diarrhoea which continued with such violence that the same became Chronic, so as to disable him from Service, and in consequence thereof was ordered to be placed on Hospital Boat Cresent= City on the Mississippi River at Youngs point Mississippi on the 16 1st day of January 1863 to be sent to Some Hospital up the River, all of which I have personal Knowledge, at which time I were commanding said Company at Youngs point. That at a time thereafter I as commandant of said Company were notified by the Hospital Steward of said Boat, that said Mc Bride died en=route for Cairo on the 19" day of January 1863 of said disease and illness when placed on board of said boat, and interred at Mound City, Ills,

That in a certificate made by me in this behalf on the 27" day of February 1864, I inadvertantly stated that he died between Youngs point & Memphis, which should have been near and below Cairo Ills, as the facts were, and were so reported to me as Commander of said Company. I make this statement and correction as a simple act of justice, not having any interest in the claim or in its prosecution for the benefit of his widow and orphan children —

Dear Sir! In behalf of the claimant I have the honor to file herewith additional evidence, in W. O. 18124. in favor of Rachel. S. Harnes - former widow of David A. McBride - Co G, 54th Regt. Ind Inf. Vols. I desire to call attention to the Original Claim covering the date from the death of the Soldier in Jan. 1863 to the date of Claimants marriage to Frederick Harnes - She thinks she never received the pension due her at that time. In adjudicating the claim it is desired that all evidence then filed be considered in the prosecution of the present claim.

On account of the age and financial straits of Claimant, permit me to urge prompt consideration of her claim

Hon Commissioner of Pensions
Washington D.C

Dear Sir! I have the honor to file herewith an application for Widows Pension Act of March 3. 1901 and such other acts as may govern the case in favor of Rachel (McBride) Hannes. The claimant filed a claim for pension prior to her marriage (2nd marriage) to Fredrick Hannes. but she says that she never received anything but that her minor children were pensioned after her second marriage. We are unable to give the number of said claim or no. of the certificate for the minors of the said David A. McBride. Co H, 54th Regt Ind Inf Mr John Shatto was the guardian of said children — He is now deceased. My client also desires a review of the claim and if she is entitled to arrears that the same be paid to her. I further desire that the present claim be placed on record and that all evidence necessary to complete the same, be called for without delay —

Your attention is also called to the evidence on file in the former claim — Respt

Mariah J. McBride

Surname: McBride, Thomson, Rempis

Mariah J. McBride, daughter of Richard and Samantha McBride, was born in Portage county, Ohio, July 26, 1824. Married Joel E. Thomson Nov. 30, 1845. On May 2, 1847, they started for Indiana by the way of Cleveland to Toledo on Lake Erie, from Toledo to Fort Wayne by the old Wabash canal and arrived at Fort Wayne on May 7, 1847, from there to their home in Smithfield tonwship, DeKalb county, by team and wagon by the way of Huntertown, Auburn and the present site of Waterloo, then called Uniontown. On the evening of May 9, 1847, they landed in the woods on what is known as the Thomson farm on the Auburn-Ashley road, which had not been opened, but marked where it should be. Mr. and Mrs. Thomson were active workers in all thing done by pioneers, keeping up with the progress and development of a new country, and when death called Joel E. Thomson in 1903 many things were left as monuments marking his life and activity. After the death of the husband Mrs. Thompson lived with her children, three of whom are living. When Mother Thompson, as she was called, passed away at the home of her youngest daughter, Mrs. Theodore Rempis, on Oct 21, 1917, she had reached the age of 98 years, 2 month, 25 days, having been a constant resident of Smithfield township, DeKalb county, for over seventy years. The funeral was held at the Cedar Lake church, of which Mr. and Mrs. Thomson were charter members and leaders in work and financial support, Mrs. Thomson being the last charter member of the organization. Mr. Thomson as a carpenter built the church building at Cedar Lake in 1869 and also bought an acre of land which he platted as an addition to the old cemetery, and it can now be said that Mr. and Mrs. Thomson died on the land they developed, their funerals held in the house they built and are buried in their own cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Z. W. Shepherd, who has been preaching at Cedar Lake for the past fifty-six years at different times, and the sermon and euology were of the best. We are alive and well. Yesterday, we had some bad weather. There were lots of thunderstorms, along with hail and tornados. Fortunately, the hail and tornados were not too close (30 miles north) and we got some much needed rain (2 inches). Today, we have a beautiful sunshiny day, although they are predicting more thunderstorms in the late afternoon.

The butterflies have taken over the wildflower garden. I got some pictures of them which I will forward to you. There are several varieties. It is so beautiful. I added some tomato plants to the wildflower garden. A friend of mine said that they will grow well there. I figured it was worth a try. However, if this doesn't work, I give up.

Dan is finally getting some direction at work. It has been driving him crazy. He has been going to work and sitting around waiting. Friday, they finally narrowed down what hardware and operating system they will be using so, he can finally do his thing.

The sitting around has been stressful, so, he has been having trouble with his shoulder. It is better now, and, with work to start, he should be able to heal.

I am sorry to hear that you have been having muscle problems. A good vacation would probably clear that up! It sounds like the yard has been keeping you very busy. That farmhouse sounded quite interesting. I would have loved to have seen it.

The school has been keeping me busy. School is finished on May 24th, so there is a lot to get done. Next week we will be doing inventory. I am hoping that as we inventory we will see what areas need additions. The PTA is eager to get a book list from us.

Stay well and happy. We hope you have a wonderful Mother's Day. Take care.

Love and hugs,
Karen and Dan

strife between the rival tavern-keepers was which should succeed in turning the travel at the Black Horse Tavern, or at the Perkins place. They had handbills and signs eulogizing their respective houses, each showing conclusively why his route was the best for general travel, and why the other was a great deal farther, a great deal rougher, and entirely unfit for any sane man to think of taking, unless compelled to do so. The Cleveland & Pittsburgh stage was then running, and the great point was to get the stage route. Sometimes Lincoln would induce the stage company to run by his route, and then Woodard would get them to adopt his. The matter was finally compromised by running on the Woodard road from the Black Horse Tavern to Woodard's, when the stage would then drive down to Lincoln's, and then on west. About the date 1827 Jairus Cassius Fairchild came into the Upper Village, built a house opposite Woodard's, and opened a tannery on the other side of the river. He then built the brick store which was taken down some years ago, that being the first store in the Upper Village. A Mr. Root was associated with him. There were then two stores in the Lower Village, but shortly afterward a Mr. Button opened a store in the Upper Village, and Carthage for a time ran ahead of its rival. This store was in the south end of Woodard's Tavern, but the proprietor dying, G. D. Bates, now of Akron, carried on the business.

No doubt it was the fact of there being two distinct dams, that two villages grew up so close together, but when the Pennsylvania & Ohio Canal Company destroyed the water-power, and especially when the brick buildings, owned respectively by Zenas Kent and Joy H. and Nelson Pendleton, were erected, all competition ceased, and everything has moved harmoniously since.

Outside of the villages there were, possibly, about twelve or fifteen families, and taking these with those in the villages, gave a population of not very far from 125 souls in the entire township. The following in regard to those outside of the villages is gleaned from a source considered to be as accurate as can be obtained at this late date. There may have been a few others who afterward passed away and became forgotten. In the northern section Jacob Lilly lived on the east banks of the East Twin Lake; John Haymaker was occupying the Olin place, half a mile or so below, where the roads fork. Edward Farnham had a small clearing on the east side, and Paul Davidson on the west side of the lake; a little further down was the settlement of Amasa Hamlin, whose wife, familiarly called Aunt Sallie, was a "holy terror" to the young men who attended "meeting" where she did, for if the pious old lady would detect any one of them whispering or misbehaving, she would march over to where he sat and take a seat beside him. As everybody knew what Aunt Sallie meant by that, the unfortunate offender became "spotted" forever after. In the northwestern part of the township lived the Cacklers; John Dewey lived where he died some years ago. In the eastern part of the town, Barber Clark, a Moore family, the Busts, the Clapps, Deacons Andrews and McBride, Timothy Wallace, Andrew Kelso, Alexander Stewart, Adam Nighman, Hubbard Hurlbut, Elisha Stevens, and a few others also were residents.

KENT.

In May, 1832, Zenas Kent and David Ladd purchased the Price & De Peyster property, the mill on which had been swept away the preceding February, they paying for the entire site $7,000. The property consisted of 300 acres of land, including the fine water-power of the Cuyahoga. In the course of a year Mr. Kent bought his partner's interest, and continued the improvements. In 1836 Mr. Kent and Messrs. Pomeroy & Rhodes sold their entire Lydia Shurtliff, Desin Shurtliff, Luman Shurtliff, Naham Smith and wife, Seth Corbett and wife and William Converse. The following have been pastors of this church: Revs. A. Sturdevant, C. Bosworth, A. B. Green, Moore, T. Munnell, Griffin, Cronemeyer and one or two others. They have a neat and comfortable church edifice and are doing a good work after the concentrated opposition offered them. Disciples Church was organized under State law, December 12, 1853, with George Van Selah, S. C. Clapp and James G. Wallace, Trustees, and Eleazer W. Crane, Secretary.

Protestant Episcopal Church.—Previous to 1835 there had been a number of Episcopalians in the township, but there was no organization as a church. In the year named, on October 11, Rev. A. Sandford formally instituted a church, the services being held in the red schoolhouse in the Lower Village, at which time the following persons became members: Edward Parsons, Levi Stoddard, Francis Furber, Thomas Cartwright, Lucius M. Lattimer, George B. DePeyster, David McBride, Asa Stanley, Chauncy Newberry, David Frazier and Tileman Wagoner, being the male members and representing heads of families. Asa Stanley was Senior Warden and Edward Parsons, Junior Warden. The Vestrymen were Levi Stoddard, Francis Furber, Thomas Cartwright and George B. DePeyster; L. M. Lattimer was Clerk. The present church building was consecrated June 12, 1838 by Bishop McIlvaine. Rev. Orin Miller was the first Rector, serving from 1834 to 1841. The Rectors following the last date have been: Revs. G. S. Davis, A. Bronson, A. Phelps, S. Hollis, L. L. Holden, S. S. Cheevers, J. F. Curtis, T. Taylor, W. H. Capers and A. J. Brockway. They have no Rector at the present time.

Baptist Church.—Not far from the year 1835 a small Baptist society was formed in Franklin, but the members were very few, the Knowlton family being the principal adherents. This denomination, strong in many localities, for some reason or another has never succeeded in gaining the foothold most of the other churches have, although the sparse membership has consisted of some of the most excellent people. For years they were without preaching at all, and have generally been very irregularly supplied. This church was reorganized March 14, 1875. The original members were L. Twitchell, E. B. Smith, W. H. Van Horn, R. Dillon, A. Newton, George Botham and George Botham, Jr., Rev. Lambert Twitchell preaching gratuitously for it for four or five years, during which period they erected a very neat, though small church edifice. The society is on a better footing than it ever has been, and they now have stated services, Rev. M. N. Smith being pastor.

Free-Will Baptist Church, of the Rapids, elected D. B. Crafts, Clerk; A. R. Crafts, Ariel Proctor and Oscar Chamberlain, Trustees, and John Bartholomew, Deacon, at its reorganization.

Universalist Church.—There being a Universalist Church established at an early day in Brimfield, the members of that denomination in Franklin attended divine service there, Alvin Olin and family being about the first who held to that faith in the township. On the fourth Sabbath of May, 1866, an organization was effected. A reorganization of the Franklin Universalist Conference took place March 3, 1867. Alvin Olin, P. Boosinger and J. D. Haymaker, were elected Trustees; A. M. Shuman, Treasurer, and Nelson Olin, Clerk. Among the members were Ransom Olin, J. G. Whitcomb, T. H. Marshall, Mary R. Haymaker, Eliza Wright, Mary J. Parsons, Mary Boosinger, Almira Russell, A. Merrill, Mary A. Furry, Sybil Bradley, Effie Parsons and Rhoda Boosinger. The pastors of the church have been Revs. Andrew Willson, J. S. Gledhill, Edward Morris; the present pastor is Rev. R. B. Marsh. The church building, costing $17,000, is a tasteful and commodious structure, and is free of debt. It was dedicated in 1868. They have a membership of about 200.

St. Patrick's Catholic Church.—This church was organized in Kent in 1867, by Rev. P. H. Brown, at the time pastor of Hudson, Kent then being one of the out-missions under his charge. Forty families comprised the church organization at first, but in after years it has run up to about 100 families. The church edifice was erected in 1868, at a cost of $12,000, and is practically free from debt. They have a very tastefully laid out cemetery. The priests in charge have been Revs. P. H. Brown, W. J. Gibbons, J. P. Carroll, J. D. Bowles, Fathers O'Neill, Louis Braire, and Rev. J. T. Cahill. In February, 1885, a priest was appointed for this parish.

Evangelical Lutheran Church.—For several years past there have been a number of persons holding to the tenets of this church, and have had occasional preaching to them by ministers of this denomination, but during the year 1884 they built a very neat little structure in which Rev. Mr. Paulsgrove preaches for them. It is, though small in numbers, an active and zealous helper in the work of the Lord.

Free and Accepted Masons.—Rockton Lodge, No. 316, F. & A. M., was organized in the fall of 1858, and worked under dispensation till October 21, 1859, when a charter was granted by Horace M. Stokes, M. W. G. M.; J. N. Bust, D. G. M.; James Williams, S. G. W.; George Webster, J. G. W.; John D. Cadwell, G. S. The first officers of the lodge were A. M. Sherman, W. M.; W. L. Holden, S. W.; J. S. Fisk, J. W. The late Gen. L. V. Bierce, P. G. M., was deputized by the Grand Lodge to institute this lodge, which he did with imposing ceremonies. The membership is 160. In 1870 the lodge built a fine hall at a cost of $6,000, which is 85x45 feet inside of all.

Odd Fellowship.—Brady Lodge, No. 183, I. O. O. F., was charted July 10, 1851, by the Grand Lodge of the State of Ohio, S. Craighead, W. G. M.; Spencer Shears, D. G. M.; W. F. Slater, G. W.; Alex. A. Glenn, G. S.; Mark Pritchard, G. T. The charter members were Asa Douglass, J. C. B. Robinson, Charles H. Kent, M. P. Husted, W. I. Knowlton and David L. Rockwell. The order has a very fine hall, finely decorated and finished, and a membership of 103.

Knights of Honor—Cuyahoga Lodge, No. 316, K. of H., was chartered June 30, 1876, by the Supreme Lodge of the World, J. N. Ege, S. D. The charter members were G. S. Howden, Robert McGhee, A. C. Hines, N. W. Gregg, E. B. Smith, W. R. Emery, F. W. Root, A. D. Clark, W. H. Van Horn, A. B. Bertram, E. Herman, E. M. Jones, E. Parkinson, W. M. Stokes, A. D. Orr, J. T. Wishart, George Fulsinger, John Stouffer, D. H. Plump, J. S. Smith, M. A. Norris, W. I. Cook. They have seventy-six members.

Royal Arcanum, No. 106, was chartered June 13, 1878, with twenty-seven members. The chief officers or Regents were W. W. Patton (1878), J. D. Davis, M. A. Norris, I. L. Herriff, O. S. Rockwell, N. J. A. Minnich, Martin Holdridge and N. B. Rynard. The Secretaries were J. O. Judd, James Wark, M. A. Thorpe, Orlando Thorpe, L. C. Reed, W. R. Jones and A. B. Stutzman. The number of members at present is forty-six. The financial standing of the lodge is good.

A. H. Day Post, No. 185, G. A. R., was organized December 11, 1882, and was chartered December 30, 1882, and named in honor of the late A. H. Day, of the Seventh Ohio Infantry. The charter members were James Crane, L. G. Reed, N. B. Rynard, F. L. Allen, C. P. Rodenbaugh, M. L. Robinson, F. B. Allen, G. A. Furry, J. S. Sweeney, W. M. Stokes, B. A. Brewster, B. W. Fessenden, Sam Dobbins, D. P. Holcomb, A. D. Clark, A. C. Hinds, A. P. Powell,

In 1806 Erastus Carter moved into the township from Johnson, Trumbull County, and settled on Lot 16 with his wife and three children: Ruthalia, Lois and Howard. The latter was born in December, 1799, and is yet living, remarkably well preserved in all his faculties, and having quite a vivid recollection of early events. To this old gentleman we are indebted for much of the information herein contained, and who has set right many disputed facts in regard to the days now remembered by scarcely any one else in the county. Where Erastus Carter settled was in the upper part of the township, on the third owned by Ephraim Starr and Stanley Griswold, about two miles north of Ravenna Center. Moses Smith came with Carter to help him put up his cabin, and was so well pleased with the county that he purchased 100 acres of land and moved in the following year, although he had bought 400 acres in Trumbull at the time he and Carter settled there in 1804. In this year, 1807, Howard Fuller, the father-in-law of Erastus Carter, with Anson Beeman, moved in, Fuller buying Jotham Blakesley's place, about a mile southeast of Carter's land.

Not long after their arrival Mr. Carter and his little son, Howard, then about seven years old, came down to the grist-mill on the Breakneck to get a grist ground. They passed over what is now Ravenna City, blazing their way as they went, in order to get back over the same track. The old grist-mill was run by a man named Coosard. The mill had been erected by McWhorter in 1802. This old miller, Coosard, lived till he was nearly one hundred and two years old. The mill-stones rested upon cob-work, and a sort of bark canopy, upheld by crotched poles, formed a roof.

RAVENNA CITY.

Early in 1808 Benjamin Tappan commenced the foundation of the village of Ravenna. He laid off a plat of land containing 192 lots, the boundaries of which at present are Bowery Street on the north, Oak Street on the south, Walnut Street on the east and Sycamore Street on the west. The center of this plat is at the intersection of Main and Chestnut Streets. John Boosinger, then quite a young man, the fall previously "underbrushed" about two and one-half acres, the clearing comprising the present Court House square and a small space surrounding it. The first building of any kind on the original town plat is thought by many to have been erected by Henry Sapp for William Tappan on a spot now covered by the west end of Mechanics Block, but Mr. Howard Carter, who is, possibly, the best living authority as to the original settlement of Ravenna, says the building was erected by Joshua Woodard about the spring of 1808. At any rate the little log building stood on the spot indicated, and a well dug at the time is now under the building, just a little east of the east foundation of Homer C. Frazer's store. The birth of the first child on the town plat, or rather who the first child was, is also matter of dispute. James Woodard, son of Joshua Woodard, is thought by many to have the honor of first appearing in the embryo town, but Mr. Carter says that David Jennings contended and often told him that David Thompson had a son born before Woodard, and as proof cites the fact that Thompson's son won the prize offered to the first child born on the town plat. The prize was a lot offered by Tappan, and young Thompson came into possession of it at twenty-one years of age. His father built a cabin upon it soon after the child was born. It is the lot where the old water-cure used to be. David Thompson came here from Pennsylvania with his brother and married shortly afterward. His son was born about the spring of 1810.

The first grave-yard was donated by Tappan, and was located at the southwest corner of the town plat, where Mr. William Holcomb's garden now is, and most of the graves were in the southeast corner. Here were buried David Moore, the first Ravenna blacksmith; Mrs. Ruggles and her son; Mrs. Smith, the mother of Mrs. Frederick Wadsworth; Mrs. Patterson, the mother of Mrs. Tappan; Jared Mason, the first tanner in the town plat; Epaphras Mathews, who was murdered by Henry Aungst, in August, 1814, and Robert Campbell, who returned from the war sick and died shortly afterward. He was the last one buried in this graveyard, and a singular circumstance is connected therewith: The grave-digger dug the grave so that the head lay to the east, but as it was so constructed they would not alter it when the funeral took place. This circumstance served to identify his grave many years afterward, when his relatives sought the spot for the purpose of disinterring the remains and removing them to Campbellsport. Cobble-stones only being placed at the heads of the graves, and no inscriptions, the remains of Campbell could never have been selected from out the others, had the corpse been laid in the usual manner, with head to the west.

The present cemetery was laid off in part in 1813, a plat of land being donated for that purpose by Howard Fuller, Erastus Carter, Moses Smith and Anson Beeman. Fuller made the suggestion of laying out another cemetery, as the one in the village plat seemed to him to be too close to the daily walks of man. Sluman Smith, a lad of seventeen, son of Moses Smith, was the first person buried in this cemetery. He died June 9, 1813. His grave, being the first in the new ground, was of universal interest, it standing alone for some time. In 1815 Zenas Carter was drowned in Muddy Lake, one-half mile south of Ravenna, and was among the first buried in the new cemetery. Carter and Grear, both heavy men, were trying the floating qualities of a new dug-out canoe, when the vessel capsized, and as Carter could not swim, he sank to the bottom and was drowned.

In 1809 David Jennings, Sr., Erastus Carter and Moses Smith erected a log-schoolhouse about opposite where the residence of the late Mrs. Lois Judd afterward stood, and they engaged Miss Achsah Eggleston, of Aurora, to teach the children of the three families mentioned. Her scholars were eight in number: Daniel and David Jennings, Howard, Ruthalia and Lois Carter, and Samantha and Lucina Smith. Ruthalia Carter married Howard Judd, Lois married Lester Judd, Samantha Smith married Richard McBride, and Lucina married Charles Judd. The teacher married Mr. Kent. Miss Eggleston was very tall and stately, and the door of the little schoolhouse was very low, so that, when she entered it for the first time, stooping, she remarked to the proprietors, "I see you have built this for small people, so I will have to bring myself down to their level, or them up to mine, which?" "Up to yours, Miss Eggleston, and we will be satisfied," was the gallant reply. Of all those interested in that school, fathers, mothers, teacher and scholars, there are but two living: Mrs. Lucina Judd, aged eighty-seven, and Howard Carter, aged eighty-four. This school being a success, others wished to share in its benefits, and accordingly a meeting was held which resulted in enlarging the attendance, at the same time deciding by vote that grammar and geography were unnecessary studies. Another school was taught in the unfinished Court House some time during 1810 or 1811, by Thaddeus Bradley.

In 1814, when Maj. Stephen Mason was Sheriff, he taught a school in a room in the Court House, and when he was off on official business the school was closed. The Major was a man of very versatile talents, and peculiarly well adapted to the times, for in addition to filling one of the highest offices in the county, he could "train" as a Major of Militia, and teach the youth.

The school statistics for 1884 are as follows: Ravenna Township schools—revenue in 1884, $4,451; expenditures, $3,334; nine schoolhouses, valued at $8,000; average pay of teachers, $36 and $27; enrollment, 162 boys and 126 girls. Ravenna Village schools—revenue in 1884, $27,047; expenditures, $20,161; three schoolhouses valued at $50,000; average pay of teachers, $79 and $72; enrollment, 346 boys and 408 girls; number of teachers employed, 15.

In 1810 William and John Tappan completed the building of first Court House and Jail. During this year a number of boys playing ball around the new Court House, discovered a fine buck in the underbrush, when all hands, headed by David Greer, surrounded the deer and captured him alive—the last deer caught or killed on the town plat.

In 1811 Joshua Woodard, who had come in from Geneva, N. Y., constructed a dam about a mile below the old Coosard mill which had then disappeared, at a point on the Breakneck Creek where the stream was wider. Here he erected a saw-mill, grist-mill and fulling establishment. The water set back about two miles, nearly to Ravenna Village, causing much sickness and many deaths. This state of affairs went on for several years, when Woodard was expostulated with by citizens, notified by the lawyers, Messrs. Sloane and Lyman, and threatened by everybody, but all to no avail. Heavy damages were even offered him, yet he persisted in keeping his disease-dealing dam intact, when one night a party went with axes and crow bars and destroyed the dam. He moved to Franklin. There was no more malaria after the dam went.

William Tappan had a frame house put up at about where the middle of the Phoenix Block now is. Now, this building was erected before Mr. Tappan came to Ravenna, and as he was here December 5, 1809, when he signed the agreement to erect the Court House and Jail, it looks very much as if his house was erected before the one claimed to be the first, yet it is generally supposed that the house that stood on the Mechanics' Block lot was the first. It is reasonable to presume that the way these buildings came to be in dispute is that one was a frame, the other a log structure, each being the first of its class.

The first frame building in the north part of the township was a barn erected in 1810 by Moses Smith. Over sixty years afterward the same barn was moved by the grandson of the original owner, and it still stands. They put up buildings in those days to last. A little later Erastus Skinner, father of John N. Skinner, the first resident carpenter, raised a barn on the Hotchkiss place, on which occasion Skinner made a brief speech in honor of the important event. Tom Smith and family came in at an early date, and occupied a small building where now stands the First National Bank. He was a hatter by trade, and the hunters would come into his little shop and unload their bundles of coon and other skins. A hat that he made nearly seventy years ago, and worn at a school exhibition, is still in the possession of one of the oldest citizens of the township.

The oldest building in Ravenna City is the one on the southeast corner of Main and Chestnut Streets, and the next oldest is the yellow barn standing on the alley in the rear of Mr. Kinney's house on the corner of Main and Meridian Streets. The first was built by David Greer, who came to the town from Pennsylvania about the time the Court House was erected, put up this building and opened the first tavern. He also opened a small stock of goods, and the writer hereof obtained this information from an old gentleman who in 1812 watched the members of Capt. John Campbell's company purchase powder from Greer, pour it into their horns and march away toward the seat of war on the lakes. This venerable structure stands to-day as staunch, apparently, as any of its more modern companions. The other building was erected by Gen. John Campbell, who at the time was keeping a tavern that stood on the four corners of Ravenna, Rootstown, Edinburg and Charlestown. This frame building, afterward painted a peculiar yellow, which made it distinctively known as the "old yellow house," originally stood about where the barber shop now is on the eastern front of the Etna House, and was built with the intention of opening a tavern in it, but, soon after it was completed in 1812, James Haslip, from near Pittsburgh, Penn., rented it and put in a stock of goods, this being the first regular store opened in the township. Greer, also, as has been stated, kept a small stock of goods, but he made no pretensions to being a merchant—his business was tavern keeping. The building stood upon a ridge running east and west, upon which the Court House, also stood. This ridge fell off abruptly to the north and more gently to the south, and down its northern slope the boys coasted many a winter day. In 1824 the "old yellow house" was moved away and now is used as a barn. It was a grand building in its day, as it stood proudly in front of the Court House, where the county magnates would ride in and hitch their steeds around it and across the way at Greer's Tavern; for a full-fledged store, where you could exchange two bushels of wheat for a yard of cotton cloth, was of no small consequence.

In 1812 a volunteer company was formed in this vicinity, with John Campbell as Captain; Alva Day, First Lieutenant; John Caris, Second Lieutenant, and Aaron Weston, Ensign. A more extended recital of Portage County in the war of 1812 will be found in the general history of the county, the following incidents being only given as illustrations of the times. The company raised by Gen. Campbell pitched their tents of homespun linen sheets near the house of their commander, and went into training for a week, the strictest military discipline being maintained. They had no uniform, very poor clothing, and very bad shoes, but every man managed to get a rifle, a tomahawk and a butcher knife. Thus, with their powder horns and their bullet pouches slung about them, they tramped off to meet the highly disciplined and well accoutred regulars of the British. This company was included in the cowardly surrender of Hull, but the following year, one day when George Barnes had a raising, Horace Burroughs suddenly made his appearance among the men, and gave them orders for marching to Cleveland in the morning. They began to make preparations, and the next day left for the scene of war, leaving Erastus Carter, who had a lame arm, to look after the women and children, and to prepare for retreat to Pittsburgh. Then came an alarm greater than the first. The cannonading between Commodore Perry and the British vessels on the lake was heard, and soon a night messenger came riding down through Portage, warning the people to fly for their lives, as the Indians were about swooping down upon the defenseless settlers of this section. All the next day preparations were going on for flight, and still another messenger arrived, warning the people to lose no time in retreating, but during the following night a horn was heard in the direction of Shalersville, and soon a horseman came dashing along the road, shouting at the top of his voice, "Hurrah, hurrah! Perry is victorious!" and the dread of a moment before fled amidst the rejoicings of the happy settlers, who made the welkin ring with their shouts of gladness.

Mrs. Betsy (Eatinger) Ward, widow of William Ward, states that Jacob Eatinger, her father, came to Ravenna in the spring of 1804, from Poland, Ohio, when Mrs. Ward was thirteen years old. There were here at that time David Jennings, Benjamin Tappan, Robert Eaton, William Chard, Samuel Simcox, the first settler in Brimfield, and his son Benjamin, Conrad Boosinger and son, John Boosinger, John and Robert Campbell, John McMannus, John Ward, Henry Buzzard, Moses Bradford, Charles Van Horne (son-in-law of Chard), William Lyons, Jack and Thomas Wright, Henry Sapp, Alexander Walker, Robert Bell, David Moore, Jotham Blakesley, David Haines, son-in-law of Simcox, and Polly Boosinger. Sally Wright taught the first school.

Ten or twelve years later Ravenna presents a village appearance. A man steps into the Seth Day store with wheat, and what does he receive for his twenty bushels of golden grain? A package containing ten yards of cotton cloth! Dr. Isaac Swift is behind the counter compounding a prescription, for on one side of this store of Day & Swift is kept a general stock of goods and on the other, drugs. Mr. Day had moved in from Deerfield, and Dr. Swift, then a fine-looking single gentleman, of twenty-six years, had come in from Connecticut in June, 1815. He married in 1818, and one of his sons, Henry A. Swift, became Governor of Minnesota, besides occupying other important positions. Mr. Day filled many public positions also.

Step out into the road again. There is another store, just opened by Zenas Kent, on the spot now occupied by the Second National Bank. Of this gentleman it is needless to make only mention, as he is so well known that nothing here can add to his fame as a splendid business man and good citizen. Now from your position in the road look across to the southeast corner of Main and Chestnut Streets, and you will see a building that still stands there. It is Greer's old tav-

The directory of Ravenna for 1841 gives the following names and occupations: Clerk of Court, William Coleman, Jr.; Sheriff, Laurin Dewey; Auditor, George B. DePeyster; Treasurer, Henry L. Tilden; Recorder, John N. Skinner; Notaries Public, John N. Skinner, Luther Day and E. Spalding; attorneys, Jonathan Sloane, Darius Lyman, E. Spalding, William Turner, Daniel R. Tilden, Luther Day, Joseph Lyman, Alonzo A. Skinner and Francis W. Tappan; merchants, Prentiss & Whittlesey, H. L. Day & Co., C. P. & F. W. Seymour, S. Mason & Co.; commission merchants and forwarders, Babcock & McBride; druggists, Isaac Swift, Goddard & Hatch; leather manufacturers, Cyrus Prentiss and John Gillis; tin and copper workers, Cyrus Prentiss and John Wygle; cabinet-ware, G. Lane, O. H. Griffin, A. S. Collins; carriage builders, J. A. Clarke & Co., William Bond, Jonathan Minard; physicians, Job Clark, Lyman Collins, Joseph DeWolf and John D. Wellman; stage office, Hiram Collins, agent; tavern and livery stable, William Ward; tailor, William B. Matthews; Ohio Star, A. H. Lewis, editor, R. S. Elkins publisher; Western Reserve Cabinet, Lyman W. Hall, editor.

The citizens resolved to petition the Commissioners to permit them to set up for themselves as an incorporated village, which was accomplished in 1853. O. P. Brown was the first Mayor and S. R. Freeman the first Recorder. Six Councilmen were elected March 5, 1853. The first ordinance passed was for the election of Marshal, Treasurer and Street Commissioners, and prescribing their duties and compensation. The Mayors of the city since that time are named as follows: Darius Lyman, 1854; Pluto B. Conant, 1855; A. B. Griffin, 1856; J. D. Horton, 1857; Sam D. Harris, Jr., 1858; Joshua T. Catlin, 1859 to 1862; S. D. Norton, 1863; J. D. Horton, 1865; H. L. Day, 1867; Royal Taylor, 1869; John Meharg, 1869 to 1873; George F. Robinson, 1873 to 1882; E. P. Hatfield, 1882; George F. Robinson, 1883; N. H. Smith, 1884–85. The present officers are N. H. Smith, Mayor; A. E. Seaton, Clerk; A. P. Oviatt, Q. Cook, C. M. Stillson, Charles Merts, G. L. Horr and John P. Jones, Councilmen; W. T. Greundel, Treasurer; T. R. Mason, Marshal; S. B. Norton, J. W. Holcomb and N. H. Smith, Justices.

The Clerks of the city from 1853 to 1885 are named in the following list: S. R. Freeman, 1853; H. L Miller, 1856; H. R. W. Hall, 1857; A. W. Beeman, 1863; J. P. Catlin, 1864; E. G. Russell, 1865 to 1877; D. B. Lawrence, 1878; and A. E. Seaton.

On January 12, 1885, the question of constructing water-works was submitted to the people. There were 473 votes for and 217 votes against. Bonds for $75,000 were ordered to be issued. The vote against construction by private enterprise stood 232 for and 244 against. The large body of voters did not notice the latter question.

The reservoir from which the water supply is to be obtained is known as "Mother Ward's Wash Tub." Theodore Clark, writing of this pond, says: "This phenomenal reservoir, situated upon a natural elevated plateau, saucer-shaped, is invisibly supplied with water; however, supposed to be by some unknown subterranean hydrodynamic power. It has the same invisible, subterranean outlet—eastward—supplying thousands of acres and hundreds of families with its never-failing underflow of soft water, in an area, eastward, of twelve miles, on this sand ridge. This is a reality, based upon a careful examination made by Charles U. Shepard, Professor of Mineralogy and Geology, of Yale College, and myself over thirty years ago."

The city has a well disciplined fire department, with a steamer, a hand engine and a hook and ladder company. An extensive telephone system networks the town and stretches away to all important points within forty or fifty miles. A fine Opera House, lately remodeled, affords a place of occasional amusement for play-goers, and a "stand" for peripatetic shows. Ravenna sent 275 soldiers to the defense of the Union and seventeen fell in the service.

Evergreen Cemetery Association of Ravenna was organized March 9, 1849,

State of Ohio
YEAR COUNTY ORGANIZED

Although a county may have been established earlier, it did not function as a county until it was organized. The year shown on this map represents the year of organization and the records of the County Recorder should begin in that year. Since many counties were formed from existing counties, earlier records may exist in the parent county or surrounding counties. It is possible for a land-owner never to have moved, yet various records may show four different counties of residence.

Albert Gage Obituary-1892

Posted by Annette and Daniel Fay <fays@wyan.org> on Mon, 01 Jan 2001

Surname: Baker, Bruce, Butler, Cole, Dunn, Fay, Hart, McBride, Nichols, Sackett, Udall, Ziegler

Death of Albert Gage.

One week ago last Saturday Albert Gage came to town in his buggy. On reaching home, he went to the wagon to take out some corn the hired man had been husking. Minnie McBride, his granddaughter, was with him. He became suddenly ill. Before night, he became so ill that Dr. Miller was sent for. He lasted until about 5 o'clock p.m., the following Tuesday, when he passed away. The immediate cause of death was, as the Dr. termed it, "Valvular insufficiency of the heart."

Mr. Gage was born at Enfield, Grafton county, N.H., May 5th, 1807, and would have been 86 years old had he lived until next May 5th, 1893. He was married to Miss Mary Dunn, sister of our townsman, Mr. James Dunn, at Hartford, Windsor county, Vt., February 21st, 1830. Their golden wedding anniversary was celebrated in royal style February 21st, 1880, nearly twelve years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Gage came to Ohio in the spring of 1832. They lived in Garrettsville a short time, but move onto the farm where he died, township lot No. 21, in Freedom township, on the north line of the township, in 1835. Mr. and Mrs. Gage were the parents of two children, Martin B. and Mary A. Martin died a number of years ago. Mary A. was married to Rev. Sterling McBride, a man of great piety and worth. He died many years ago. To Mr. and Mrs. McBride two sons and one daughter were born. The son, M.G. McBride, is a practicing physician at Ravenna, in this county. C.S. McBride is a business man in Brooklyn, N.Y. Minnie McBride is a young lady. She has been staying with her mother and grandparents lately and was with her grandfather at the moment of the last and fatal attack. His son Martin B. Gage married Miss Mandana Hart; to them were born two daughters. They are both married. The elder daughter is now Mrs. A.M. Nichols, of North Eaton, Ohio, and the younger daughter is Mrs. W.H. Ziegler, of Cleveland, O. All of these were at the funeral which was held from the late residence of the deceased, Friday, at 11 o'clock a.m., Rev. E.S. Rothrock, of the Congregational Church of Garrettsville, preaching the discourse, after which the remains were laid away in Park cemetery, Garrettsville.

Death of Albert Gage

One week ago last Saturday Albert Gage came to town in his buggy. On reaching home, he went to the wagon to take out some corn the hired man had been husking. Minnie McBride, his granddaughter, was with him. He became suddenly ill. Before night, he became so ill that Dr. Miller was sent for. He lasted until about 5 o'clock p.m., the following Tuesday, when he passed away. The immediate cause of death was, as the Dr. termed it, "Valvular insufficiency of the heart."

Mr. Gage was born at Enfield, Grafton county, N.H., May 5th, 1807, and would have been 86 years old had he lived until next May 5th, 1893. He was married to Miss Mary Dunn, sister of our townsman, Mr. James Dunn, at Hartford, Windsor county, Vt., February 21st, 1830. Their golden wedding anniversary was celebrated in royal style February 21st, 1880, nearly twelve years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Gage came to Ohio in the spring of 1832. They lived in Garrettsville a short time, but move onto the farm where he died, township lot No. 21, in Freedom township, on the north line of the township, in 1835. Mr. and Mrs. Gage were the parents of two children, Martin B. and Mary A. Martin died a number of years ago. Mary A. was married to Rev. Sterling McBride, a man of great piety and worth. He died many years ago. To Mr. and Mrs. McBride two sons and one daughter were born. The son, M.G. McBride, is a practicing physician at Ravenna, in this county. C.S. McBride is a business man in Brooklyn, N.Y. Minnie McBride is a young lady. She has been staying with her mother and grandparents lately and was with her grandfather at the moment of the last and fatal attack. His son Martin B. Gage married Miss Mandana Hart; to them were born two daughters. They are both married. The elder daughter is now Mrs. A.M. Nichols, of North Eaton, Ohio, and the younger daughter is Mrs. W.H. Ziegler, of Cleveland, O. All of these were at the funeral which was held from the late residence of the deceased, Friday, at 11 o'clock a.m., Rev. E.S. Rothrock, of the Congregational Church of Garrettsville, preaching the discourse, after which the remains were laid away in Park cemetery, Garrettsville.

Mr. Gage was a pioneer in this part of the country. Sixty years has witnessed wonderful changes and developments here: The forests vanished before the woodsman's ax. They were log cabin days then, but now a log cabin is a curiosity. In the heroic work required to develop the country Albert Gage played a full part. He was not a man of large stature, but he was quick and nervy and always ready to perform his part of the work. He has come down to the grave like grain fully ripe for the sickle. Though obliged to part with his son-in-law and his son before, apparently, a full measure of years had been passed, he yet bore up under his bereavements with fortitude, rejoicing that there were yet spared to him his daughter and five grandchildren, in each of whom he could and did take special pride.

Franklin) County, Pennsylvania, where he owned a farm of 200 acres in 1782. His will, dated March 13, 1783, probated November 6, 1789, mentions his wife Martha; son Solomon; grandson Nicholas, son of Solomon; son Hezekiah and his son Nicholas; sons John, Andrew and James; and sons-in-law George McClelland and John Bell.

The will of his widow Martha, of Letterkenny Township, dated 1821, was proved in 1824. It mentions children and grandchildren.

ROBERT PATTERSON, son of John and Jean, came from Ireland with his parents in 1737. He was an elder of the Presbyterian Church at Tinicum in 1773, and a member of the Associated Company of Tinicum in 1775, and was Captain of a Company in the Third Battalion of Bucks County Militia under Lieutenant Colonel John Keller. He removed to Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, at the close of the Revolutionary War, settling in West Pennsboro Township. He was a member of Big Spring Presbyterian Church in 1789, representing the Yellow Breeches District of that church. In 1788 he and his wife Sarah conveyed a tract of land in Toboyne Township, Cumberland County (now Perry County), patented to him, October 3, 1787, by the Supreme Executive Council.

He died in Dickinson Township, Cumberland County, leaving a will dated October 13, 1805, probated January 16, 1806. His wife, Sarah Carrell, is not mentioned in the will, and therefore must have died between the dates 1789 and 1805.

The will mentions son John and his daughter Sally; son Josiah and his son Robert; son Ezra and his son Robert; son Obadiah and his sons Robert and John; daughter Tabitha, wife of Alexander McBride; daughter Deborah, wife of John Huston.

CHILDREN OF ROBERT AND SARAH (CARRELL) PATTERSON

43. Solomon, b. Feb. 17, 1748, d. in Tinicum Twp., Pa., Feb. 17, 1750.
44. John, b. Feb. 17, 1750, d. Dec. 27, 1828; m. Ann Henderson.
45. Josiah, b. Apr. 12, 1752, d. Jan. 28, 1823;
46. Lydia, b. Mar. 20, 1755, d. unm.
47. Ezra, b. Aug. 18, 1757; no further record--a son Robert is mentioned in his father's will.

The Descendants of James Carroll and Sarah Gamgee, His Wife

Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, where he owned a farm of 200 acres in 1767. His will, dated March 14, 1784, probated November 6, 1786, mentions his wife Matilda, son Robinson, grandson Matthew, son of Robinson, son Hezekiah and his son Nicholas; sons John, Andrew and James; and sons-in-law George McCalland and John Hall.

The will of his widow, Matilda, of Letterkenny Township, dated 1821, was proved in 1824. It mentions children and grandchildren.

ROBERT PATTERSON, son of John and Jean, came from Ireland with his parents in 1737. He was an elder of the Presbyterian Church of Tinicum in 1757, and a member of the Associated Company of Tinicum in 1775, and was Captain of a Company in the Third Battalion of Bucks County Militia under Lieutenant Colonel Hugh Kelley. He removed to Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, at the close of the Revolutionary War, settling in West Pennsboro Township. He was a member of Big Spring Presbyterian Church in 1786, representing the Yellow Breeches District of that church. In 1788 he and his wife Sarah conveyed a tract of land in Toboyne Township, Cumberland County (now Perry County), patented to him, October 5, 1787, by the Supreme Executive Council.

He died in Dickinson Township, Cumberland County, leaving a will dated October 12, 1800, probated January 16, 1805. His wife, Sarah Carroll, is not mentioned in the will, and therefore must have died between the dates 1789 and 1805.

The will mentions son John and his daughter Sally; son Joseph and his son Robert; son Ezra and his son Robert; son Obadiah and his sons Robert and John; daughter Tabitha, wife of Alexander Mitchell; daughter Deborah, wife of John Hanson.

CHILDREN OF ROBERT AND SARAH (CARROLL) PATTERSON

43. Susanna, b. Feb. 17, 1748; d. in Tinicum Twp., Pa., Feb. 17, 1758.
44. John, b. Feb. 17, 1750; d. Dec. 27, 1828; m. Ann Henderson.
45. Joseph, b. Apr. 12, 1752; d. Jan. 25, 1825.
46. Lydia, b. Mar. 26, 1755; d. unm.
47. Ezra, b. Aug. 16, 1757; no further record. A son Robert is mentioned in his father's will.

48. Tabitha, b. Jan. 14, 1760, m. Alexander McBride.
49. Obediah, b. May 2, 1762, d. Mar. 10, 1804; m. Ann Patterson.
50. Deborah, b. Jan. 1, 1764, m. John Huston.
51. Zaccheus, b. Oct. 4, 1767, m. Margaret Waugh.
52. Anna, 1770; is referred to in some of the family records as Susanna. She is not mentioned in her father's will, and probably died young and unmarried.

the church and community. He married Mary, maiden name unknown, and had a large family, but we have no data in reference to any of them, other than the three named below.

CHILDREN OF JOSIAH AND MARY ((???)) PATTERSON

177. Robert, b. Nov. 8, 1788, d. Jan. 9, 1861; m. Mary Linn.
178. Mary, b. , d. ; no further record.
179. Elizabeth, b. , d. ; no further record.

48. TABITHA PATTERSON (4), (James 1, James 2, Sarah 3), daughter of Robert and Sarah (Carrell) Patterson, born in Tinicum Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, January 14, 1760, removed with her parents to Cumberland County, Pennsylvania. She married Alexander McBride, Jr., born 1754, died 1805. His father, Alexander McBride, who emigrated from the north of Ireland and took up land on Yellow Breeches Creek, in West Pennsboro Township, Cumberland County, was a son of John McBride of Belfast, Ireland.

Alexander McBride, Jr., served in the Revolutionary War; first, in 1776, when his regiment "marched for the Jerseys"; again, as a substitute, in 1777, and he is listed as a member of the eighth class, in Captain Swansey's Company, Second Battalion of Cumberland County Militia, in 1781: endorsed opposite to his name, "lame." (See Penna. Archives 5th Ser. Vol. VI, p. 189; Vol. VII, pp. 573, 670 and 801.) He died circa 1805.

One authority says that Tabitha died prior to September 4, 1800, when Alexander is joined in a deed by a wife named Julian, but this is evidently an error, as Robert Patterson, in his will in 1804, mentions his daughter Tabitha, wife of Alexander McBride.

CHILDREN OF ALEXANDER AND TABITHA (PATTERSON) MCBRIDE

180. Sarah, b. 1782, d. Apr. 4, 1834; m. Wm. McCullough.
181. Deborah, b. 1789, d. Apr. 30, 1867; m. Samuel McKeehan.
182. Alexander Dobson, b. 1796, d. 1880; m. 1st, Mary Patterson
Walker; 2d,

Mrs. Gordon.

183. James, b. , Lived in Mobile, Ala.; no record, except of daughter Tabitha.

184. Tabitha, b. 1801, d. 1824; m. John McKeehan.

185. George, b. , No record except purchase of land in 1831, in Springfield, Newton Township, near Newville, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania.

BIG SPRING CHURCH

HISTORY

William Walker was killed by the Indians soon after the petition was sent.

The Creeks, Yellow Breeches called by the Indians Callapassinker, Conodoguinet, and Conococheague are noted for length, breadth and wooded banks. The Springs — Silver Spring, Letort Spring, Big Spring, Middle Spring, Rocky Spring and Falling Spring are ten miles apart and at each of these springs the early Scotch Irish settlers built churches, school houses, homes and later towns. The Big Spring rises near Big Pond, flows underground to a rock near the present town of Springfield, four miles from Big Pond, then onward three and one-half miles to Newville and just below the town empties into the Conodoguinet Creek and with it joins the Susquehanna River near Harrisburg. The Indians believed the Great Spirit looked upon it with favor. They considered it sacred and held it in reverence.

The Big Spring has a measured flow of ten thousand gallons per minute and the water retains an all year temperature of about fifty-three degrees. It is one of the longest fresh water streams in the world and second largest trout fishing stream in America.

"The speedy increase of population within the limits of Pennsylvania is mainly to be attributed to the religious toleration which was secured to the colony, by its charter and fundamental laws.

The persecution of the Quakers and other religious denominations, during the reign of Charles II, and especially during that of his successor, the intolerance exercised by the Papists over the Protestants of Europe, and the overbearing spirit, on religious accounts, in many of the other colonies, as contrasted with the liberality of the Quakers of Pennsylvania, who were disposed to open their arms to all denominations of professing Christians who might be inclined to settle among them, induced the flocking of men by tens, by hundreds, and by thousands, to a place where man pretended not to assume the prerogatives of Deity; nor judge, condemn, and punish in his stead.

The establishment of prelacy in Scotland, in the year 1637, and afterwards in the year 1661, among people who had adopted the more simple form of Presbyterian worship, became the additional cause of numerous emigrations from that kingdom to the North of Ireland.

The superior knowledge, industry, and temperance of the Scotch farmers, in a short time enabled them to supplant the natives among whom they lived, and six of the northern counties, by the end of the seventeenth century, were chiefly inhabited by the descendants of Scottish emigrants. In consequence of the persecutions of 1679, 1682, and 1685, crowds of voluntary exiles sought an asylum in the New World. The North of Ireland shared in the general drain. The arbitrary measures pursued by James II, together with apprehensions of a general massacre by the Papists, emboldened as they were by the undisguised partiality of the king, caused such multitudes despairing of safety, to fly to foreign climes, that trade declined, and the revenue languished.

Nor must the German settlers in Pennsylvania, by any means be overlooked in this enumeration. Their emigration commenced as early as 1682 and 1683, and very rapidly increased. From 1730 to 1740, about sixty-five vessels, well filled with Germans, arrived at Philadelphia, bringing with them ministers of the Gospel and schoolmasters, to instruct their children. From 1740 to 1755, upwards of one hundred vessels arrived, which were filled with emigrants of the same nation, and in some of which, though small, there were between five and six hundred passengers". Such, then, were the materials out of which the churches in Pennsylvania were formed, English Puritans, Dutch, Germans, French Protestants, Scotch and Irish. They came to the New World so their dream of a free state and a free church could be realized.

"Thus by energy and intrepidity, which cannot be looked for except among men who have been schooled by difficulties and accustomed to perils, was possession taken, by our pioneer ancestry, of the rich and beautiful valley which their descendants now inherit, and which is at present embraced within the 1661, amongst people who had adopted the more simple form of Presbyterian worship, became the occasional cause of numerous emigrations from that kingdom to the North of Ireland.

The superior knowledge, industry, and competence of the Scotch farmers, in a short time enabled them to supplant the natives at home where they lived, and six of the northern counties, by the end of the seventeenth century, were chiefly inhabited by the descendants of Scottish reformers. In consequence of the persecutions of 1679, 1682, and 1685, crowds of volunteer exiles sought an asylum in the New World. The North of Ireland shared in the general drain. The speedy increase of Presbyterianism among the [illegible] of Pennsylvania is mainly to be attributed to the religious toleration which was secured to the colonists by the charter and fundamental laws.

The persecution of the Quakers and other religious denominations, during the reign of Charles II, and especially during that of his successor, the intolerance manifested by the Papists over the Protestants of Europe, and the intolerant spirit, as religious intolerance in some of the other colonies, as contrasted with the liberality of the charters of Pennsylvania, which were calculated to open their doors to all denominations of professing Christians, were [illegible] to induce an early settling there. Big Spring Presbyterian Church

The history of Newville could not be written without the history of the Big Spring Presbyterian Church. It is not only the earliest Church but because of the sale of lots offered by the early Church, called Glebe lots, the development of a town was made possible.

The historian Bancroft states that "the first public voice in America for dissolving all connections with Great Britain came not from the Puritans of New England, the Dutch of New York nor the planters of Virginia but from the Scotch Irish of Pennsylvania".

These pioneers were men of faith and courage, brawn and muscle, patient endurance and physical strength to fight and to win. Of such fearless, staunch defenders of faith and home, the Presbyterian frontiersmen at Big Spring were sufficiently strong in numbers to apply to Donegal Presbytery in 1737 for a pastor. A meeting was held at the home of James McFarlane beside the Conodoguinet Creek to confer wtih Presbyterial representatives and the result was the decision to locate a church at Big Spring, or Hopewell, as it was called, and the Rev. Thomas Craighead was appointed to begin his pastorate, in connection with other charges, in October 1738.

The congregation worshiped in the open air with muskets in hand fearing Indian raids until William Laughlin presented them with eighty-nine acres and one hundred and five perches of his six hundred acres of land bordering the Big Spring. The church of logs was erected in 1737 or 1738 and was used for many years. The church was incorporated February 27, 1785.

An increased congregation of about one thousand persons made the seating capacity inadequate and in 1789 a stone building was erected. In 1790 the lots were sold and the founding of the town became a long anticipated reality. The walls of that historic church are intact today. Originally it had a winding staircase on each side of the high pulpit, with a sounding board overhead. Three aisles opened south to a view of the old log church and graveyard where many unmarked graves of the early Scotch Irish settlers cluster around an oak tree, which identifies the spot where the first sanctuary stood. The oldest marked grave bears the date 1779. Devout men and women who believed in eternal life and everlasting punishment sat in the box pews painted white, with wooden buttons making the doors secure, and listened to sermons of Scriptural wealth, merit and doctrinal theology from preachers of profound intellectual and spiritual power. Through the years changes have been made in the building but the same fundamental truths and teaching are proclaimed from the pulpit and in the Sunday School.

The oldest organization within the church is the Newville Bible Society organized July 5, 1814 as an auxiliary of the Philadelphia Bible Society. It still functions. Home and Foreign Missionary Societies organized in 1867 and 1879 have far-reaching values beyond earthly record. The Christian Endeavor Society has been active since December 12, 1889.

Memorials include eleven windows, three bronze tablets to the memory of former pastors, mural painting by the famous artist Taber Sears, baptismal font, iron gates, iron fences, concrete walk, Revolutionary D. A. R. bronze tablet and William Denning marker.

Two Homes for aged women are maintained in Newville by three hundred Presbyterian churches in six Presbyteries located in central Pennsylvania. A third Home is maintained by the same organization in Carlisle and a fourth Home, accommodating twenty guests, is being erected this year on the Newville property, providing for a total number of fifty-three guests.

The Big Spring Church has had twelve ministers in two hundred years. The Rev. Thomas Craighead died in the pulpit. The Rev. John Blair was a Princeton professor and author of works on theology. The Rev. George Duffield was one of the two Chaplains of the First Continental Congress. His portrait hangs in Continental Hall. The Rev. William Linn a Chaplain in the Revolutionary War was chosen the first Chaplain of the first Congress of the United States. The Rev. Samuel Wilson kept detailed records of the church of great value to genealogists. The Rev. Joshua Williams officiated at three hundred and sixty-four weddings and baptized six hundred and seventy-four infants. The Rev. Robert McCachran after his resignation as pastor established a classical school. The Rev. James S. H. Henderson did Missionary work in Tennessee. The Rev. Philip H. Mowery was greatly beloved during a short pastorate. The Rev. Ebenezer Erskine D. D., was a Trustee of Princeton Theological Seminary, a scholar and a profound theologian. The Rev. Franklin Taylor Wheeler, one of the founders of the Presbyterian Home of Central Pennsylvania, was a consecrated defender of the faith. The Rev. William T. Swaim, Jr., is the present pastor.

Big Spring United Presbyterian Church

"About 1750, a distinct class of immigrants began to arrive and make settlements in the 'North Valley'. They were for the most part from the North of Ireland and known until this day as Scotch-Irish, being descendants of those Scottish refugees who had fled to Ulster to escape the deadly persecution which English Prelacy waged against the sons of the Covenant in Scotland. They were Dissenters in their native land and they brought with them their prejudices, their faith, and their practices. A number of these Dissenters known as Associate Presbyterians, or Seceders, settled in the neighborhood of the Big Spring. Other settlements were made in Shippensburg and Chambersburg, but the most numerous of these "clusters" were those that centered at Big Spring. The exact date of the beginning of this settlement has not been ascertained; but old family records indicate that the families which formed the church at Newville settled at that place about 1750. A church organization existed as early as 1762 for the minutes of a meeting of Presbytery held at Oxford, Pennsylvania, June 22, 1762, note that a 'Comissioner' was present from Carlisle and Big Spring craving supply of sermon.

Mr. Amman was appointed to preach at Big Spring on the third Sabbath of the following July (1762). At a meeting of Presbytery held at Pequea, June 12, 1764, Mr. Amman was appointed to preach at Big Spring on a week day and ordain elders. At the next meeting, at Marsh Creek, September 15, 1764, it is recorded that 'Mr. Amman did not keep his appointment, but gave to Presbytery a satisfying reason' and the Rev. Matthew Henderson was directed to preach and ordain elders at Big Spring in September. The records of the next meeting show that this appointment was fulfilled. This is the most reliable data to be found as to the date and circumstances of the organization of the present United Presbyterian Church at Newville. At a meeting of Presbytery held in Philadelphia, April 8, 1772, a petition was presented from this congregation and that of Conococheagne asking for the appointment of the Rev. John Rogers to minister unto them'. The two congregations were nearly thirty miles apart. The members forming the congregation were widely scattered. They were to be found along the Conodoguinett, the Big Spring, and the Yellow Breeches Creek, attracted by the running water, as were all the early settlers of the Valley.

The first 'meeting house' was built east of the Big Spring upon a hill, on the farm long known as the Wike Farm, a short distance above the present bridge. It was called 'the tent', being merely a board roof without siding. Here worship was conducted for eight or ten years until a Pastor was called and steps taken to erect a Church building.

The location for a Church promised strife, but fortunately it was determined by the Presbytery in a decision in which all acquiesced.

A lot was purchased containing one acre and ninety-one perches and a Church building erected. It stood on what is the Northwest corner of the old graveyard. To this was added, in 1837, a lot running through the spring, together with a strip on the North side and on the South side, making five acres and ninety-seven perches. Upon the original lot, the first meeting house was built in 1772 or 1773 of logs.

Mr. Rogers' relation with the Church was not the most harmonious. Charges of teaching error were preferred against him and in 1781, he was deposed from the ministry and excommunicated from fellowship of the Church.

In 1783, the Reverend John Jamieson was installed as Pastor. This Pastor was constantly in trouble with his flock and after a few years of service resigned.

About 1795, the log Church gave way to a new stone building, that in architecture and comfort was fully up to the requirements of the times. There were a number of short pastorates until 1824, when Rev. Alexander Sharp was installed as Pastor and continued as such until his death in 1855. Dr. Sharp was a classical scholar and for a number of years taught young men in studies preparatory to entering college. Among these were the Reverend Robert Gracey, the Reverend Thomas V. Moore, Dr. Joseph Hannon, Dr. George Grove, and the Reverend James B. Scouller, authority in the history of the United Presbyterian Church.

In 1860, Rev. William L. Wallace was called and continued as Pastor until 1879, when failing health caused him to resign. He too had a thorny path to travel, for the congregation had many Southern sympathizers, and the outspoken condemnation of those believers in State Rights almost caused disaster to the Church. Many ceased to attend services until after the war was over, and the intensity of feeling subsided."

Dr. George Reed who followed the Rev. William L. Wallace served the congregation for forty-four years, beloved by all in the Church and the community. The spread of the Gospel, through Missions, was the ruling passion of his life, and visitors to the Church have said they have never heard Missions emphasized as did Dr. Reed from week to week and year to year.

The growth of the United Presbyterian Church has been almost entirely from within, the children taking the places of their parents. Owing to the constant emigration to the West, many of the Churches of the Valley have been closed until now the United Presbyterian Church of Newville stands alone in the Valley, unique in her isolation, yet justly proud of her history. She has always been a stranger to Doctrines fashioned to the varying hour.

A sound orthodoxy and a rigid Calvinism have been the heritage of these people, and are as firmly entrenched in their minds as when the Rev. Matthew Henderson in September 1764, ordained the first elders of the United Presbyterian Church of Newville.

Since March 1925, the United Presbyterian Church of Newville has given to the cause of Missions through legacies and annual contributions $144,000.

In the 175 years of this Church's existence seventeen have entered the ministry:-

This Church and the Sabbath School are growing in membership and the Young People's Society is a power in the Spiritual life of the Church. The Reed Circle, or Young Woman's Missionary Society, is large and active, while the Women's Missionary Society has held its own for more than sevnty-five years of devotion to the cause of Missions.

Rev. Phillips Osgood of Immanuel Church of Boston wrote in the Atlantic Monthly, January, 1940, that the United Presbyterian Church leads all other denominations in gifts (per capita) for missions, although their congregational expenses fall below five others.

The Rev. C. Y. Love is the present Pastor of the United Presbyterian Church of Newville, called to the Church in 1924 when Dr. Reed resigned on account of ill health.

McBride Records in Cumberland County, Pennsylvania

The older McBride was one Alexander McBride who had a pew in Big Spring Presbyterian Church (Newville) numbered in the year 1790 as 47
See Swope's History of Big Spring Presbyterian Church published 1898 (rae)

I find that Alexander McBride took out his land in Cumberland County by Proprietary Warrant thus Alexander McBride- 150 acres Dated July 10th 1752
Penna Archives Third Series Volume 24 page 713(713)

Alexander McBride, Jr took out a similar warrant thus Alexander McBride, Jr Cumberland County, Warrant 400 acres May 11th 1786
Penna Archives Volume 24 Third Series page 727

Between Alexander McBride Senior of Dickinson township and Mary his wife ~~of same place~~, of the one part and Alexander McBride, Yeoman of the same place, of the other part the said Alexander being one of the sons and heirs of Alexander McBride, Sr - Alexander McBride and wife "for natural love and affection and for many good causes and considerations thereunto them herewith moving " and for the sum of 207 pounds deed ~~to~~ by Alexander McBride, Jr the one half of the undivided tract lying along the Yellow Breeches Creek in Dickinson township, containing 200 acres

After the death of Alexander McBride, Sr-which occurred less than two years after the death of his son Alexander McBride, Jr(also called Esquire) the Executor of Alexander McBride, Sr sold the remaining undivided half of the tract of 205 acres to Andrew Boden thus -Vol 1 Book V page 105 dated Aug 10th 1812 Recorded Aug 10 1812 The Executor William Ewing(of Alex McBride, Sr) sells the remainder of the undivided tract of 210 acres and mentions in deed that Alex McBride had sold to to Alexander McBride, Esq(also Jr) in his life time the one half of the tract so that land now sold to Andrew Boden is 105(half original tract) and he the Executor sold that tract for $1.260(the Sr McBride sold to his son one half the tract in 1800 for "love and affection " and only 207 lbs.

An earlier Deed shows AlexanderM cBride et al selling to William Lusk in a deed dated June 3rd 1794 recorded April 21st 1796 land in Dickinson township, Alexander McBride the elder of Dickinson township, Yeoman and Ann his wife and Alexander McBride, the younger the younger of the same place and Tabitha his wife of the one part sell to William Lusk Esquire for 200 lbs survey made to ~~the~~ Ralph ~~Marlin~~ Martin(or Marlin) 28th May A.D 1794 and then to McBrides, amount of land sold is only 29 perches but the money paid is for the valuable water right to the Yellow Breeches Creek .

John Gray, Jr

Letters of Administration on the estate of Alexander McBride (no will) were issued to William McDonald and William McCullough, No location-date of Letters was January 1st 1805

Note-The above Alexander is I believe without question, the Alexander McBride, Jr

The Alexander of the above will in 1807 had no son Alexander and we know that the other Alexander was his son. The Alexander who died in 1805 had young children, while the one who died in 1810 had children who were married and themselves heads of families. All except the son Robert whose marriage occurred seven years after death of his father as I shall show later.

But if any one had doubt of the above facts the following Court records shows its truth viz-Release of Dower of JulyAnn McBride to William McCullough Book R Vol 1 page 503 dated Oct 17th 1807 recorded Oct 22nd 1809
Julyann McBride appears as "Widow and relict of Alexander McBride, Jr and releases her dower rights for $220 paid by William McCullough of West Pennsborough township
This establishes the ~~[illegible]~~ Alexander McBride, Jr as the one who died in 1805 as Dower right was released by his widow in 1807 and sr Alexander McBride did not have will proved (right after his death) in 1810 L.E.F

Docket 4 page 20 Orphans Coirt of Cumberland County says-"At an Orphans Court held at Carlisle, for the county of Cumberland the 26th day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and five (1805) "Came Deborah McBride and Alexander Dobson McBride, minors above the age of 14 years, of Alexander McBride, Esquire deceased, and prayed the Court to appoint Josiah Patterson Guardian over their persons and estates. The Court upon consideration appointed the said Josiah Pattetson Guardian over the persons and estates of the minors during their minority

Same Court (Orphans Court) held 6th day of December A.D 1805 came Juliana McBride mother and next friend of James McBride, Tabitha McBride and George McBride minors under the age of 14 yrs, minor Orphans children of Alexander McBride late of Dickinson township deceased and prayeth the Court to appoint a proper Guardian over the persons of said James McBride, Tabatha McBride, and George McBride, minor Orphan children of said Alexander McBride deceased. Court appounted Juliana McBride Guard

In Docket 5 page 479 Orphans Court records

At a stated Orphans Court begun Tuesday the 14th day of May A.D 1811 and held at Carlisle for said County-

"Came into Court Alexander McBride a minor son of Alexander McBride deceased and preferred a petition to the Courtmsetting forth that the petitioner's father died leaving the petitioner a minor above the age of 14 years and without any Guardian to take care of his person and estates," He therefore asks the Court that he may make choice of such Guardian and Court so allowed . Samuel McKeehan was nnominated by the petitioner and Court appointed same as Guardian. 5 page 479

Note on above-In March 1805 Both Deborah and Alexander Dobson McBride were "above the age of 14 years". Again in May 1811 (Deborah having been 18 before that and as a girl no longer a minor) came again this same Alexander McBride and he says that he is "above the age of 14 years". That seems to signify that he had just become 14 when he made his first request in 1805 and now six years later he was aged 20(apparently) and needed a guardian as he was not yet 21 yrs old, and still a minor. So this gives us a pretty fair idea of how old this Alexander Dobson McBride was his year of birth appraximately etc. ~~Docket 5 page 479~~

Docket 5 page 156--------dated

"Upon motion of A Carothers(Lawyer) an affidavit was filed with the Court to vacate the appointment of Juliana McBride now Juliana Kyle(she had remarried) over the persons and estates of James McBride, Tabotha McBride, and George McBride minor children of Alexander McBride Esquire, deceased, and upon consideration the Court appointed Samuel and Benjamin McKeehan Guardians over the persons and estates of James, Tabitha, and George McBride d uring their minority or until another Guardian should be appointed in their rooms.

This George McBride was in Jefferson County Indiana on July 28th 1849 at which date he empowered Robert Blean of Mifflin township as his "true and lawful attorney".

Alexander McBride, (Sr) had land in Cumberland County as early we know as the year 1752. He was probably a young man at that time-perhaps aged about 21 yrs. If that be true he would be born about the year 1731(1731) and when he died in the year 1810 would have been aged 79-, His wife died before him, as she is not named in his will. Again it is likely that he had had two wives one Mary who signed deeds with him in 1800 and yet earlier in the year 1794 he made a deed and the wife signing with him was Ann. It is likely that his children were by the first wife Ann, all but the son Robert McBride who married seven years after his father's death wand was perhaps and quite likely the child of the second wife.

Again please note that some time between the years 1794 and 1800 Alexander M,cBride, Jr also married a second time. In the year 1794 his wife was Tabitha and then in the year 1800 it was Juliana(Julyann) Deborah and Alexander above 14 years of age in 1805 were of course children of Tabitha. Eventhough the second child under the age of in 1805 was named Tabitha I think all those chilren(under 14) were of the second wifeJuliana(Julyann) It was not unusal to name a child for a first wife-that is a child of a second .wife(a kind of propitiation for remarrying perhaps) Anyway as late as 1811 the children were still under ages of 14 and there must have been at least six years between the two sets-strongly supportingthe two marriage sets of children. From some old source I find that an inquiry was once made to me mentioing a James Fleming McBri as brother to the George .and period was correct for this same James, so believe that the James of the "under 14" group would be named James Fleming.

Marriages by the Rev John Moody,Minister of the Middle Spring Presbyterian Church (several miles north of Shippensburg)

May 6th 1817 Dobson McBride and Polly Walker

Note-If Alexander Dobson McBride were aged 20 in 1811 in the year 1817 hewould be about 26 years of age. Belle McKinney Swope's Hist Middle Spring Presbyterian church page 117

On page 20 -Alexander McBride,Jr was one of the subscriber's to the call of the Rev Samuel Wilson,as minister of Big Spring Presbyterian Church dated 21st March A.D 1786

On December 10th 1789 Alexander McBride signs the letter to the Rev Mr Wilson on behalf of the Session of the Big Spring Presbyterian Church asking that an election should be held to fill the place of the late Johnlaks as Ruling Elder -thus showing MR McBride to have been a member of the Church Session in 1789.

See History of Big Spring Presbyterian Church(Newville) By Gilbert E Swope,Pub 1898 Later after death of Mr Swope the work was carried on and History of Middle Spring was published by Belle McKinney Swope,his wife in 1900

In the year 1789 or shortly after in early 1790(the latter year -more likely) a Census of Church members was undertaken by Rev Samuel Wilson with each Elder taking down ages and names of the communicant members , As published in Mr Swope's History page 40 we find the names of Alexander McBride- aged 26
Tabitha McBride aged 24 yrs

Revolutionary Service for Alexander McBride-thus "Alixandrew McBrid-Leme"(just this way it was spelled)
8th Class-Capt William Swansey's company of the 7th rank of the Second Battalion Cumberland County Militia. Sworn to before Thomas Buchanan,8th Sept A.D 1781

I believe this to be the service of Alexander McBride,Jr-for if he were aged 26 i in 1789 he would in 1781 aged 18 yrs,old enough for Revolutionary war

Will/of Alexander McBride, Will Book H page 69, Cumberland County, Penna,

IN THE NAME OF GOD AMEN ! I Alexander McBride of Dickinson township, County of Cumberland and State of Pennsylvania, being weak in body but of sound mind, and memory, Blessed be Almighty God for the same, calling to mind the mortality of the body, and that it ~~xt~~ is appointed unto all men once to die, do make and publish this my last will and testament, in manner and form following,

First I Commit my soul to the hands of God who gave it, and my bod to be buried in a decent and Christian manner, at the discretion of my Executors, nothing doubting that at the General Resurrection, I shall receive the same again by the Almighty power of God. And as to what worldly estat it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life, I give, devise, anddispose of the same as follows, Vix- I order and it is my will that all my just debt and funeral charges be fully paid be fully paid and adjusted. I also order and it is my will that all my real and personal estate(not specially here after disposed of) be sold to the best advantage, by my Executors as soon as the same can be done after my decease, whom I do hereby empower them or the survivor of them to sell, assign, and convey, all my lands to any purchaser or purchasers as fully and amply as I could or would do. And out of the monies arising by virtue of such sale I give and bequeath unto my beloved daughter Mary Boyd the sum of twenty pounds, also to my beloved daughter Jean ~~x x~~ Ewing, the sum of twenty pounds, and one case of drawers. Also to my belove daughter Sarah Reed, I give and bequeath the sum of twenty pounds. And further I give and bequeath to my beloved son Robert ~~xxxxx~~ McBride one feather bed and beddingbelonging to the same, also my silver watch and all m my wearing apparel, together with all the rest, residue and remainder of my personal estate, goods and chattels, of what kind or nature soever. I give and bequeath the same ~~fmx~~ to my said beloved son Robert McBride. And I do hereby appoint my trusty friends Samuel Weakley Esq, William Ewing and John Arthur Esq/ Executors of this my last will and testament hereby revoking all former wil legacies, bequeathments, by me heretofore made. Here's a little more data on Springfield:

The village still exists and is located at the head of the famous Big Spring Run where thousands of gallons of water per minute gush out of a crack in the rocky cliff. It is one of the most famous trout streams in the state of Pennsylvania. A Pa. Fish Hatchery is close by.
At times, Springfield was known as Big Spring.
The "Great Road" from Carlisle to Shippensburg used to run through this town, but now the road (Route 11) has been moved about one mile southward and runs through the town of Stoughstown.
Back in the early 1700s, the Manor of Jericho was near Springfield.

THE SESSION OF
THE FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF NEWVILLE

THE FIRST COMMUNION IN AMERICA 225 YEARS AGO

Reverend John Cuthbertson, who landed in America on August 5, 1751 began immediately an exploration of his mission field.

After Reverend Cuthbertson preached in Chester County, at Octorarce, Pequea and Paxtang, he preached his first sermon in the bounds of this presbytery on August 21, 1751 at Walter Buchanan's near the present New Kingston, midway between Carlisle and the Susquehanna river.

The afternoon of the same day, he rode 20 miles to the house of Andrew Ralston near the Big Spring. And on the following morning preached from Matthew 17:4. "Lord, it is good for us to be here." Immediately after the services he started for the house of James Mitchell 22 miles distance.

After spending a month on a missionary tour he started a second exploration through the counties of Cumberland, Franklin, Fulton, Adams and York. This circuit he made more or less frequently for 20 years.

At some of Mr. Cuthbertson's preaching stations, there was no meeting place for years. This was true at Big Spring. When the weather allowed they met in their "Tent," and, when that was not possible, they did the best they could in their cabins. Thus accommodated, they worshipped for hours at a time.

On August 23, 1752, Mr. Cuthbertson held his first Communion in America. It was at Stony Ridge on Junkins Tent or Walter Buchanans' in Cumberland County. A preparatory fast day was observed; tokens of admission were dispensed, the services on the Sabbath commenced early and continued for nine hours. The communicants came to the tables singing the 24th Psalm. After the four table services were concluded, the minister exhorted the communicants, prayed and sang. After an interval of half an hour, he preached again.

About 250 persons communed. This comprised very nearly the entire number of Covenanters in this country.

For several years only one Communion was held each year, during the pleasant weather of late summer or early autumn.

The Conecocheague, a pretty strong stream, runs south, through the heart of the county to the Potomac river, and receives many feeding streams from both the east and the west.

The first known settlements in Cumberland county were made in 1730, and at no great distance from the river. But new settlers came in very rapidly, and passed up the "North Valley," or the "Kittochinny Valley," as then called, following the Conodogwinet and Yellow Breeches Creeks, and locating also upon Silver Spring, Letort Spring, Big Spring, Mean's Spring, Middle Spring, Falling Spring, Rocky Spring, and the different branches of the Conecocheague until in 1736 a line of settlements extended from the Sussuehanna clear through to the western part of the Providence of Maryland. In 1748, there were eight hundred taxables in the Valley, and in 1751, the number had increased to eleven hundred, indicating a population of at least five thousand inhabitants. These, with the exception of about fifty German families in Franklin County, were immigrants from Ireland and Scotland, and the descendants of those who had taken root in Lancaster county.

In 1751 a sudden and large increase in the flow of immigration commenced, which ministered greatly to the rapid settlement of the county. This tidal wave owed its origin to a very unusual and novel cause. In 1730 Secretary Logan wrote thus: "I must own from my own experience in the Land Office, that the settlement of five families from Ireland gives me more trouble than fifty of any other people. Before we were broke in upon, ancient friends and first settlers lived happily, but now the case is quite altered." The quick temper and belligerent character of this people, which kept them generally in a kind of chronic broil with their German neighbors, did not seem to improve with time; for in 1743, Secretary Peters wrote in very much the same strain, as had done his predecessors. "Even the Quaker forebearance of the Proprietaries finally became exhausted, so that in or about 1750, the year in which Cumberland county was organized, positive orders were issued to all the agents, to sell no more land in either York or Lancaster county, to the Irish; and to make very advantageous offers to those of them who would remove from these counties, to the North Valley." These offers were so liberal that large numbers accepted, and built their huts among the wigwams of the native inhabitants, whom they found to be peaceful but by no means non-resistant.

The land in this valley, and all along the Susquehanna, was claimed at the date of Penn's Patent, by the Five Nations, although they had almost entirely migrated to Central New York, where they were known as the Six Nations. The actual possessors were the Susquehanna and the Delaware tribes, with a portion of the Shawnese who had escaped hither from the south, and some fragments of broken tribes which had become almost extinct, as the Potomac and the Conestoga. In order to extinguish every kind of claim, between 1696 and 1754, Penn and his heirs made sundry treaties, paying from one hundred to five hundred pounds each time, not only with the Five Nations, but also with the Susquehannas and Conestogas, who had been the owners of the country long before the powerful Five Nations had wrestled it from them. The white settlers began to crowd the Indians so that before the beginning of the old French War, the most of them had emigrated to the valley of the Ohio, leaving only scattered families behind. About 1754, these families, with their kindred tribes, came under French influence and became very hostile toward the colonists. Up to and during the Revolutionary war, they committed depredations and massacres wherever they had the opportunity.

The great body of the first settlers of the "North Valley," from 1730 to 1750, had been connected with the Synod of Ulster in Ireland, and naturally fraternized with the Presbyterian church of this country, which organized in 1758 as the Synod of New York and Philadelphia. Probably more than one-half of the present congregations of the Presbyterian church in this valley were organized within these twenty years. Judging from the names of these settlers, and from their religious sympathies, there is a strong probability that they were descendants from those English and Scotch colonists, whom JamesI planted in the north of Ireland, and who, during the Civil War, were sorely persecuted, until Cromwell, in 1649, came to their relief ,and administered that terrible retribution which thoroughly and permanently broke Catholic supremacy in the island. Ethnologically they might be designated as English-Irish, for the English element predominated over the Scotch. About 1750, a kindred, yet different class began to arrive in the valley. Some of these were from Scotland, but the most of them were from Ireland. The latter were the genuine Scotch-Irish, for they were the children and grand-children and the great-grand-children of those Scottish refugees who had fled to the Emerald Isle, to escape the deadly persecution which English Prelacy waged against the sons of the Covenant in Scotland. They had been trained in the dissenting churches of their native country, and they brought with them their prejudices and their sympathies, as well as their faith and their practices and, as might be expected, they did not fraternize with the prevailing Presbyterian church in this country. Thus the Reformed Presbyterians, or Covenanters, and the Associate Presbyterians, or Seceders, were planted in the Cumberland Valley. While these English-Irish and Scotchmitted possessors were the Susquehannas and the Delaware tribes, with a portion of the Shawnese who had crossed hither from the south, and some fragments of broken tribes which had almost settled, on the Potomac and the Conestogas. Probably more than one-half of the present congregations of the Presbyterian church in this valley were organized within those twenty years dating from the advent of these settlers, and from their religious sympathies, there is a strong probability that they were descendants from those English and Scotch colonists, who were planted in the north of Ireland, and who, during the Civil War, were sorely persecuted, until Cromwell, in 1649, came to their relief and administered that terrible retribution, which thoroughly and permanently broke Catholic supremacy in the island. Irish were substantially one, in race, and in faith and in social habits, there was a well defined shade of difference. The quiet obstinancy and self-reliant tenancity of opinion largely shown by the latter, plainly indicated a larger infusion of Scottish blood. In their new homes, surrounded by new circumstances, and pressed together by their common interests and common dangers, they learned ere long, to fraternize and assimilate, as they had not done beyond the sea; and now all the distinctions of the feeding streams are lost in the flowing river.

Reformed Presbyterian immigrants were never numerous in the valley. A colony of Irish Covenanters settled at an early day in the lower part of Dauphin county, to whom the Rev. Matthew Lind came to minister in 1773. Part of this colony had crossed the river and located at Stony Ridge, near Kingston, and formed a branch of Mr. Lind's charge. But his removal nine years afterwards, to the Conecocheague churches, and the influx of Germans, entirely obliterated this organization. A number of families located in the vicinity of Newville, and kept up a kind of society organization, without either meeting house or ruling elder, till about fifty years ago, and they too are gone or lost in their surroundings. A larger cluster settled upon the upper Conecocheague and near Greencastle, the most of whom went into the union of 1782, while the remainder recuperated, and, although always feeble, they have maintained an organized existence to the present time. Excepting these just mentioned, the Associate Reformed church of the valley has derived but little strength from this class of immigrants; only a family here and there.

Associate Presbyterians of both branches, Burgher and Anti-Burgher, and from both Scotland and Ireland, settled here and there, throughout the whole valley, but clustered mainly around Carlisle, Big Spring, Shippensburg, Chambersburg, both branches of the Conecocheague, and the Great Cove. The most numerous of these clusters was that which centered on the Big Spring. The precise date of the beginning of this settlement cannot now be ascertained; but remaining family records would indicate, that the families which formed the church located here, between 1750 and the time of its organization. No record of the names of these families has been preserved, and anything like accuracy and certainty upon this point cannot now be obtained. The late Mr, Samuel Piper (whose father was present at the organization) during the last years of his life, made out the following list of heads of families, which he thought, from his own knowledge, and from what he heard his father and others say, had been connected with the church from its organization down to 1782:

Heads of Families	Location of Residence
Alexander Scroggs	Green Spring
Allen Scroggs	Big Spring

This must be regarded only as an approximation, and, perhaps, not even a very close one. For it is within the knowledge of the writer, that two or three of these families connected themselves with this church, since 1782; and he also knows that Robert Patterson, and James Brown of Frankford who died in 1780, Robert Duncan, James Pettigrew, James Harper, James Woodburn, and others not here mentioned, were in the community and the church, before 1782, and some of them from the organization of the church.

The first settlers being religious men, and within two days ride of all the Associate ministers in the country, it may be surely taken for granted, that they early sought religious privileges for themselves and their families. Whether they recived any before 1762 cannot now be ascertained, for the minutes of the Presbytery up to that date are lost. The probabilities are that they did, for at the meeting of Presbytery held at Oxford, June 22nd, 1762, a commissioner was present from Carlisle and Big Spring, "craving supply of sermon." The action of presbytery would seem to indicate that this application was made, not by strangers who sought recognition, but by a well known people, asking for their accustomed supply. Mr. Annan was appointed to preach at Big Spring on the third Sabbath of the following July. It was the custom of Presbytery in those days to make out at every meeting, a scale of supplies for vacant congregations and out-lying stations; and all such appointments were honestly fulfilled, in spite of the difficulties and dangers, which the circumstances of the times and country constantly interposed. Pastors were then very familiar with the saddle, with rough loads and swollen streams; and settled congregations were generous enough to share some of their privileges with those less favored at nearly every succeeding meeting of presbytery, and they were more frequent than now, supply of sermon was asked for and granted to Big Spring.

At the meeting of Presbytery held at Jequea, June 12th, 1764,Mr. Annan was appointed to preach at Big Spring on a week day, and ordain elders. At the next meeting, at Marsh Creek, August 15th, 1764, it is recorded that "Mr. Annan did not obtemperate his appointment, but gave to presbytery a satisfying reason;" and the Rev. Matthew Henderson was directed to preach and ordain elders at Big Spring in September. The records of the next meeting show that this appointment was fulfilled. This is the nearest and all that can be found in reference to the date and circumstances of the organization of the church. The minutes of the Presbytery only show, that for the next seven years, Big Spring regularly petitioned for supply of sermon, and occasionally for the administration of the Lord's Supper.

It is not positively certain who were ordained and installed at this time, as the first board of elders. After sifting traditions and comparing old family records, it is most probable that the choice fell upon David Blean, George Espy, Robert Patterson, William Piper, and John Sproat. It is pretty certain that these men were called to the eldership, at a very early period of the church's history, and most likly at its inception. It would be a pleasant and profitable work to give a sketch of the life and character of these worthy men, who boldly invaded the wilderness, and firmly planted the standard of the cross where only wild bests and cruel savages had hitherto dwelt. But there are no annals left of these days and men, and the few lingering traditions which yet remain in the old families, are becoming tinged with myth. We know, however, that they were generally men of marked individuality; for without strong purpose and will, they would never have swung loose from their native moorings, and have launched out into such a distant and unknown sea, from which there was literally no return. They lived in stirring times, and many of them contributed their full share to make the times both stirring and eventful. They fought not only with their local enemies, but many of them, together with children nursed amid the dangers and privations of the forest, heard freedom's call and hastened to the front to do battle for their young country's emancipation. The writer's childhood was often gladdened by hearing some of these men tell over the story of their battles, with all their dangers and escapes; and although octogenerians then, they would warm and glow under the inspirations of their youthful memories.

One thing is certain, that God gave to these men a righteous seed, and literally fulfilled to them the covenant He made with Abraham, "I will give unto thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land wherein thou art a stranger; and I will be their God." David Blean came from Ireland, and died in 1804, aged 79 years. Quite a number of his descendants are now members of the congregation, a grand-son was and great-grand-son is an elder. George Espy came either directly from Ireland, or after tarrying for a time in Dauphin county. None of his descendants are known to be in this community at this time, although some supposed to be, have prospered and are respected in Philadelphia and elsewhere. Robert Patterson's family is still represented by Mrs. William Means and her children, and the descendants of William McCulloch and Samuel McKeehan. Mr. James Piper, Sr., located here in 1763, with four adult sons, John, William, Samuel, and James. They came from Ireland, although the name is Scandinavian, and still exists in Sweden. The family most probably came with the Northmen to Scotland. A number of their posterity are still with us, and many more have gone to worship elsewhere, for they can be traced clear to the Pacific coast. John Sproat was also an Irishman, was in the eldership nearly forty years, and was instantly killed while walling a well, by the precipitation of a bucketful of stones upon his head. A granddaughter married Elder William Dunlap, and quite a number of their children and grand-children are still in the church. The same can be said of those elders who immediately succeeded these. John McCulloch is still largly represented, and gave two sons, one grandson, and one great-grandson to the eldership of the church which he helped to plant. John Brown, after a service of nearly fifty years, was followed in the eldership by a grand-son and great-grand-son. James Harper by a brother and nephew. Thus it has been, and thus it will be, for the promises of our covenant God are sure.

Up till 1764, all the Associate ministers sent out from the mother country, were from the Anti-Burgher Synod of Scotland; but during that year, Thomas Clark arrived, with the major part of his congregation from Ballibay in Ireland. Upon their arrival, the congregation divided, and part went to Long Cane, South Carolina, while the other and larger part settled in Salem, New York Mr. Clark continued to minister to the Salem branch for nearly twenty years, and then went to Long Cane, and finished his ministry in the midst of the other. Mr. Clark was from the Burgher Presbytery of Down in Ireland, but not desiring to continue a division which could have no grounds in this country, applied to the Associate Presbytery of Pennsylvania for admission. This was readily granted on easy conditions, and everything went on smoothly. In 1796 Messrs. Telfair and Kinlock, from the Burgher Synod of Scotland arrived and also asked admission. This too was granted, upon their signing the same conditions slightly altered. These conditions were that neither party should justify the swearing of the Burgess oath, nor the censures passed upon those who held the lawfulness of it; and neither party was required to break off their missionary connection with the Synod to which they belonged in Scotland. There was certainly something inconsistent in permitting the different members of the same presbytery, to be in subordination to two distinct supreme courts; so the Anti-Burgher Synod of Scotland disapproved of the compact, and in 1770 appointed John Rogers and John Smith as missionaries, and empowered them to require the Presbytery of Pennsylvania to annul their agreement with the Burgher brethren, and to obliterate their minute of it; and if presbytery refused to do this, then they, in connection with those who might join with them, should constitute a new presbytery. Messrs. Smith and Rogers presented their instructions to presbytery, at its meeting at Pequea, June 5th, 1771, and the presbytery complied, so far as the subordination to different synods was concerned, but refused to expunge their minute. The new missionaries joined the presbytery, and nothing further was ever heard of any distinction between Burgher and Anti-Burgher in this country.

During the subsequent summer Mr. Rogers missionated among the young churches, and as a result, a call was presented to presbytery, at its meeting at Oxford, November 12, 1771, from the churches at Conecocheague and Big Spring, for him to become their minister. A separate petition was also presented, "craving his speedy admission among them. Mr. Rogers accepted this call, "but he craved that it might be marked that, when he accepted the call of the people, it was with this view; that as soon as any one of the two places that had now put the call in his hand, was able to support a minister, he should be disjoined from the other, as he reckoned it impracticable to have them both under his pastoral care for a long time, considering the distance of the one from the other." They were nearly thirty miles apart. Mr. Rogers' installment did not take place for sometime, and the precise reason for its delay is not given, but it was probably because of the lack of a church building, and some dispute as to the place where the new building should be located; for at a meeting of presbytery, held in Philadelphia, April 8th, 1772, a petition was read from Big Spring and Conecocheague urging Mr. Rogers' admission among them, and two other petitions, "the one from the lower, the other from the upper end of Big Spring congregation, craving the presbytery to fix the place of public worship." The presbytery directed that "the place of worship be fixed at Big Spring, and that Mr. Rogers' installment among them be delayed until they are agreed about the place of public worship, and also that a recommendation be given to them, and to the people of Conecocheague, to erect decent places of worship with all convenient speed."

Tradition still preserves some traces of this contest about the location of the church building. 1753, when Cumberland was still a part of Lancaster county, the court appointed commissioners to lay out a public road in the Kittatinny valley, "from Harris' Ferry towards the Potomac river." These commissioners reported February 3, 1736, but were met in court with a remonstrance from many of the inhabitants, who prayed for a review. New commissioners were appointed who reported, May 4th, 1736, that they found "the eastermost part of the road very crooked and hurtful to the inhabitants." Their corrected location was confirmed by the court, and this first great highway through the valley was opened up. It crossed the Letort a mile or more north of Carlisle, came up what is now the Creek road, crossed the Big Spring and came up the main street of Newville, passed up the Spring to its head, and thence southwest to Shippensburg and onward. This road ran through the heart of the greater part of the congregation, and the first meeting place was east of it, upon a hill, on the farm long known as the Wike farm, on the east side of the Spring, a short distance above the present bridge.

although nearly forty years, and was instantly killed while walling a well, by the precipitation of a quantity of stones upon his head. A granddaughter married Elder William Gracey, and quite a number of their children and grandchildren are still in the church. The same can be said of those elders who immediately succeeded them. John McCulloch is still largely represented, and gave two sons, one grandson, and one great-grandson to the eldership of the church which he helped to plant. John Brown, after a service of nearly fifty years, was followed in the eldership by a grandson and great-grandson, James Harper by a brother and nephew. Thus it has been, and thus it will be, for the promises of our covenant God are sure.

Up till 1764, all the Associate ministers sent out from the mother country, were from the Anti-Burgher Synod of Scotland; but during that year, Thomas Clark arrived, with the major part of his congregation from Ballibay in Ireland. Upon their arrival, the congregation divided, and part went to Long Cane, South Carolina, while the other and larger part settled in Salem, New York. Mr. Clark continued as minister to the Salem branch for nearly twenty years, and then went to Long Cane, and finished his ministry in the midst of the other. Mr. Clark was from the Burgher Presbytery of Down in Ireland, but not desiring to continue a division which could have no grounds in this country, applied to the Associate Presbytery of Pennsylvania for admission. This was readily granted on easy conditions, and everything went on smoothly. In 1766 Messrs. Telfair and Kinloch, from the Burgher Synod of Scotland arrived and also asked admission. This too was granted upon their signing the same conditions already signed. These conditions were that neither party should justify the swearing of the Burgess oath, nor the censures passed upon those who held the lawfulness of it, and neither party was required to break off their ministerial connection with the Synod to which they belonged in Scotland. There was certainly something inconsistent in permitting the different members of the same presbytery, to be in subordination to two distinct supreme courts; so the Anti-Burgher Synod of Scotland disapproved of the compact, and in 1770 appointed John Rogers and John Smith as missionaries, and empowered them to require the Presbytery of Pennsylvania to annul their agreement with the Burgher brethren, and to obliterate their minutes of it; and if presbytery refused so to do, that they, in connection with those who might join with them, should constitute a new presbytery. II

During the subsequent summer Mr. Rogers ministered among the young churches, and as a result, a call was presented to presbytery, at its meeting at Oxford, November 12, 1771, from the Associates at Conococheague and Big Spring, for him to become their minister. A separate petition was also presented, "craving his yearly admission among them. Mr. Rogers accepted this call, "but he craved that it might be minuted that, when he accepted the call of the people, it was with this view: that as soon as any one of the two places that had now put the call in his hand, was able to support a minister, he should be dismissed from the other, as he reckoned it impracticable to serve these both under his pastoral care for a long time, considering the distance of the one from the other." Tradition still preserves some traces of this contest about the location of the church building. 1735, when Cumberland was still a part of Lancaster county, the court appointed commissioners to lay out a public road in the Kittatinny valley, "from Harris' Ferry towards the Potomac river." These commissioners reported February 3, 1736, but were met in court, with a remonstrance from many of the inhabitants, who prayed for a review. New commissioners were appointed who reported, May 4th, 1736, that they found "the said former part of the road very crooked and hurtful to the inhabitants." Their correction, however, was confirmed by the court, and this first great highway through the valley was opened up. It crossed the about a mile or more south of Carlisle, came up what is now the Greek road, crossed the Big Spring and came up the main street of Newville, passed up the Surface to its head, and thence southwest to Shippensburg and onward. This road ran through the heart of the greater part of the congregation, and the first meeting place was near or upon a hill, on the farm long known as the White farm, on the west side of the Spring, a short distance above the present bridge.

The meeting place was called "the tent," but as boards were plentier than canvas, it was what would now be called a "board shanty," for it was merely a board roof without any siding. Here our ancestors worshiped for eight or ten years when they felt able to call a pastor and to provide a better sanctuary. The question of locality at once started up, and every one, very naturally, desired to have the church as near his residence as possible, inasmuch as the roads were few and always bad. The early settlers selected locations near to running water, and consequently a large part of the congregation lay along the Conedogwinet Creek, and up the Big Spring, while another part bordered upon the Yellow Breeches Creek; and the middle section, or "barrens," as then called, was unsettled, because of its lack of water. One part wished the new house to be built north of the "tent," and the other part desired it to go south. But as good churchmen they referred the question of location to presbytery, and acquiesced in the decision, and thus terminated all strife. A lot was procured, about one mile north of the "tent," on the east side of the road already mentioned, containing one acre and ninety-one perches.

On the northwest corner of this lot, they built their new house; the spot is now included in the north end of the graveyard. It is not now certainly known, from whom the lot was purchased, as it belonged to a tract of land which was subsequently, in April, 1791, patented by Jeremiah McKibben; but it had been occupied and bought and sold long before this; as the state, by patents, confirmed titles to lands, which had been purchased from the Proprietaries or heirs of Penn, before the Revolutionary war. The late James Kennedy, who was born in Newville in 1797, and who was quite an antiquarian in his tastes, once informed the writer, upon the authority of family tradition, that the church was built upon the corner of the farm which belonged to the first minister. If this be true, then the land was gotten from Mr. Rogers; and there are other incidental proofs that this was the fact. An old ledger, long lost and lately found, which was used for miscellaneous purposes, but principally by the treasurer of the congregation, contains the following record, without any explanatory surroundings, viz.: "At a meeting of the Associate Reformed Congregation at Big Spring, on the 14th of June, 1817, By Public notice, J. McCulloch, Chairman, J. Piper, Secretary. Resolved, That Wm. McCandlish, Alexander Sharp, Sr., Robert Blean, Wm. McCulloch, and James Piper be a committee to survey the ground conveyed by Mrs. Rogers." What ground? When we remember that Jeremiah McKibben died in either 1816 or 1817, and that all the surrounding land descended then by will, to Joseph McKibben, making a new survey of unfenced lands haghly necessary, we easily infer from this record, that the ground to be surveyed was the original church lot, and that it had been deeded originally by Mrs. Rogers in her own name and right, or that she, after Mr. Rogers' death, legally executed and confirmed what Mr. Rogers had promised long before. And this was the only ground they possessed. It may be added here, that in May, 1837, the congregation purchased from Thomas Paxton and Thompson M. Galbraith, for $484.52, the lot through to the Spring, together with a strip upon the north side, and another upon the south, so as to make the entire lot contain five acres and ninety-seven perches. Upon the original lot, the congregation built their first meeting house, in either 1772 or 1773, of logs after the manner of the times; and here they worshiped for some twenty years.

The precise time of Mr. Rogers' installment is not known, but it was probably during the latter part of 1772. Judging from the relative strength of the two places, and their subsequent history, it is to be presumed that at least two-thirds or three-fourths of his time was given to Big Spring, and the remainder to Conecocheague. Of this latter place we know nothing more until it became a part of Matthew Lind's new charge in 1783.

Very little can now be ascertained of the character of Mr. Rogers' ministry, and that little is to be gathered from presbyterial records. At a meeting of Presbytery, held at Middle Octoraro, October, 1777, it was resolved "That the presbytery consider the case of Mr. Rogers, of whom it is known, that he has taught a number of tenets which the presbytery judge not agreeable to our received principles. The presbytery hereby order him to give his sentiments in a plain and inevasive manner to the next meeting, on the following heads, viz.: Concerning the obligation of the Covenant of Works in Adam's posterity as to the positive and penal part; concerning mankind having a legal right to common benefits; concerning Christ's yielding obedience to the preceptive part of the moral law, whether for Himself or His people; concerning Christ's purchasing blessings for His people."

Sickness in his family prevented Mr. Rogers from attending Presbytery at Marsh's Creek, April 16, 1778, but the Presbytery judicially condemned the tenets which he was supposed to hold, without any personal reference to him. A committee, however, was appointed "to take Mr. Rogers' mind on these subjects," and he himself was summoned to appear before both the committee and Presbytery.

Mr. Rogers appeared at the next meeting of Presbytery, and his case was taken up. An extra judicial conference was held with him, upon all the points of supposed difference. His explanations must have satisfied his brethren for the time, for all previous minutes in reference to his Sickness in his family prevented Mr. Rogers from attending Presbytery at Marsh's Creek, April 16, 1778, but the Presbytery judicially condemned the tenets which he was supposed to hold, without any personal reference to him. A committee, however, was appointed "to learn Mr. Rogers' mind on these subjects," and he himself was summoned to appear before both the committee and Presbytery.

Mr. Rogers appeared at the next meeting of Presbytery, and his case was taken up. An extra-judicial conference was held with him, upon all the points of supposed difference. His explanations must have satisfied his brethren for the time, for all previous minutes in reference to his case were ordered to be expunged, and nothing further was proposed. But when Presbytery met May 29, 1779, at Big Spring, in the meeting house during the day and at Mr. Rogers' house in the evening, a complaint was read against some points of doctrine advanced by Mr. Rogers, which was signed by several members of his charge. This complaint was, however, dismissed on account of some informality, and the case was dismissed finally as Presbytery then supposed. It may be worth noting in this connection, that at this meeting Presbytery unanimously adopted the first five articles of the Basis upon which the Associate Reformed church was formed three years afterwards.

At a meeting held next month at Pequea, this old chronic case must needs come up again, when "Presbytery proceeded to assert gospel truth in opposition to error said to be taught by Mr. Rogers," and resolved "That he be cited to attend next meeting to give satisfaction, and that James Woodburn, Simon Ross, John Harper and Robert Ducan, who are dissatisfied with his doctrine, be informed that the presbytery are desirous of their attendance." A mistake was made in notifying the dissatisfied parties, so that they were not present at Oxford, and it was determined to held an extra judicial conference with Mr. Rogers at Middle Octorara in May, 1780. This conference took place, and Mr. Rogers failed to satisfy the brethren. He then proposed to resign his seat in presbytery, deliver upon his pastoral charge, and desist from the exercise of his office till he finally made up his mind upon the subject in dispute. What an amazing proposition of forebearance, submission, and non-resistance, for a Scotchman and an Anti-Burglar! But the majority of Presbytery agreed to it. Here for the third time, the matter was supposed to be ended. This shilly-shallying of Presbytery for four or five years can be easily explained. The Presbytery was very nearly divided upon the course to be pursued, and when Mr. Rogers' friends happened to be in the majority at a meeting, his case was dismissed; when his opponents chanced to be in the majority, then the case was brought up again. So when Presbytery met at Marsh Creek, October, 1780, his opponents being in the majority, they resolved to terminate the case judicially, and regularly libeled him, and ordered the trial to be issued at Philadelphia, April 4th, 1781. It always happened that the further east, the Presbytery met, the worse it was for him, for he had no friends in that end. In the absence of himself and of the witnesses cited, the case was issued, and on the 4th of April, 1781, he was "deposed from the ministry, and excommunicated from the fellowship of the church with the lesser sentence of excommunication." It was further directed that this "sentence be intimated in the congregation of Big Spring by the minister who first supplies there," and "by the members of Presbytery in their respective churches, for the honor of truth and the information of the people." This, of course, ended Mr. Rogers' pastorate in Big Spring, but it was far from being the last of his ministerial career. The ministerial vote in Presbytery was, Affirmative, Clarkson, Henderson, Proudfit, and Marshall. A year after this, on the 12th of June, 1782, at Pequea, the Presbytery finally adopted the Basis of Union, which resulted in the Associate Reformed Church. Against this Clarkson and Marshall protested, and withdrew, and continued a little Presbytery of their own. This left Mr. Rogers' friends in a majority in the old Presbytery, and while there is no record upon the subject, yet the presumption is that at that time Mr. Rogers was restored to the ministry, for in the following October he appeared and took part in the first meeting of the Synod of the Associate Reformed Church. He was recognized as a minister of good standing in the Presbytery, and soon took charge of another of its congregations.

The doctrinal errors with which he was charged, and for which he was deposed were, "That mankind in their fallen state are not under the law as a covenant:—that the law written on Adam's heart and the law given at Sinai are two distinct laws:—that the latter is no part of the Covenant of Works:—that Christ did not purchase by his obedience and death any blessings of the Covenant of Grace." It is rather difficult to believe that Mr. Rogers was very much of an errorist in substance and reality, when men of such undoubted orthodoxy as Murray, Smith, and Logan refused to condemn him. His greatest fault was most probably the invention of new modes of expression and explanation, some of which may not have been for edification. It is thus that men often gain the reputation of being heretics, when in reality they only assume a singular, and perhaps obscure, style of exposition.

Mr. Rogers soon after this became pastor of the Associate Reformed Church of Timberridge, Augusta County, Virginia. The year is not certainly known, but most probably in 1783. After a few years rest, trouble came again. In 1789 a Synodical commission, consisting of Dobbin, Boyse, and Smith, was sent down to investigate matters, and the result was that in 1790 he was suspended from the ministry by the Synod, for errors in doctrine and immorality in conduct. What these were, is no where stated and of his history nothing further is known.

The church of Big Spring was always a union church; so impatient were they in reference to the union of 1782, that they adopted the name of the new organization, before it became an accomplished fact. The minutes of Presbytery tell us that at the meeting in Pequea, June 12th, 1782, "A petition was read from a people styling themselves The Associate Reformed Congregation of tion were ordered to be expunged, and nothing further was proceeded. The Presbytery was very nearly divided upon the course to be pursued, and when Mr. Rogers' friends happened to be in the majority at a meeting, the case was dismissed; when his opponents chanced to be in the majority, then the case was brought up again. After a few years that trouble came again. In 1788 a Synodical commission, consisting of Dobbin, Boyse, and Smith, was sent down to investigate matters, and the result was that in 1789 he was suspended from the ministry by the Synod for errors in doctrine and immorality in conduct. What these were, is no where stated and of his history nothing further is known.

The church of the Spring was always a union church; so impatient were they in reference to the union of 1782, that they adopted the name of the new organization, before it became an accomplished fact. The minutes of Presbytery tell us that at the meeting in Pequea, June 13th, 1782, "A petition was read from a people styling themselves The Associate Reformed Congregation of Big Spring, craving supply on condition of the Associate Presbytery uniting with the Presbytery called Reformed." The minute proceeds "a considerable deal of reasoning took place, but the majority carried. Received and granted said petition." This illustrates another characteristic of this church, that they were never satisfied to be without the public ordinances of God's house. When vacant they "craved supply" at about every meeting of Presbytery, and they always sought a pastor as soon as they had the opportunity.

In November, 1783, Rev. John Jamieson of the Burgher Synod of Scotland arrived in this country, and at once connected himself with the Associate Reformed Church. After missionating nearly a year, and principally in the South, he was installed on the 22nd of September, 1784, as pastor of the congregatioon of Big Spring. His pastoral charge included the Meanes, Bards, Kyles, and other families which lived in or near to Shippensburg; and for their accommodation, he preached regularly, during his whole pastorate, a certain part of his time, in Shippensburg; although the probabilities are that the church there was not regularly organized till about 1788. There are no records and very few traditions in reference to Mr. Jamieson's ministry in Big Spring; it is simply known that a strong dissatisfaction with him grew up, partly because of some erroneous teaching, and partly because of his jealous fault-finding spirit, which made his manner imperious and repulsive. He was constantly in trouble with his brethren, and if he could not have his way, he would storm, then pout, and then withdraw. He kept himself in a state of chronic opposition to Dr. Annan and the older Mason. In 1790, the Presbytery of Pennsylvania was directed to deal with him for not attending Synod. In 1791 he was present, but was disgusted, as he tells us in his published account of his subsequent trial, so that he resolved to terminate his connection with the body. This threat he did not carry out, although he soon afterwards resigned his charge of Big Spring. The precise date is not known, but it was either the autumn of 1791, or the spring of 1792. For the Synod appointed him and Mr. Henderson "to missionate" in Kentucky in 1792.

Having finished his mission to Kentucky, he arrived during the winter of 1792-3, in Western Pennsylvania, and was very soon settled in Hanna's Town, near the present New Alexandria, Westmoreland county. The next spring, May, 1794, he attended the meeting of Synod at Marsh Creek, Adams county, Pa. It was the custom of Synod then, to make the next minister in seniority the moderator; and it happened to be Mr. Jamieson's turn. He took the chair, protesting, however, that he would not stay there long. At an early stage of the meeting he presented "An Overture" for the consideration and adoption of Synod. This Overture maintained that a strict and rigid uniformity in all things, was essential to the government and discipline of the church; and that the Synod should adopt a confession and covenant to secure such uniformity in praise, public and private, in the administration of the Supper, in the solemnization of marriage, etc. The language of the Overture was by no means soft and persuasive, and its personal thrusts were well understood. After a debate, more plain than courteous, the Overture found no friend but its author, and was very emphatically rejected. Mr. Jamieson immediately left the chair, protesting that he could not preside over any body, that would thus ignore "the attainments" of the Church in Reformation days. Another moderator was elected although Mr. Jameison retained his seat in Synod; and thus avoided the obligation of signing as moderator, the minutes of a back-sliding Synod. He returned, filled with great indignation, and in his published defence, takes great credit to himself, that it was not until the second Sabbath after his arrival home, that he commenced his public condemnation and pretest. By his own confession, he spared neither Synod as a whole, nor the leading members individually; and he spoke equally severely of the Red Stone Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, in the midst of which he lived. Complaint was made to Synod in 1795, of his course, by William Findley, one of his elders; and Messrs. Dobbins and Young were appointed a committee, to go west and help the Second Presbytery of Pennsylvania to investigate these charges, together with other charges of heretical teaching. This was done in the autumn of the same year, and resulted in the tabling of a libel containing eleven specifications. This libel and all the testimony relating thereto were referred to the next Synod. The gravamen of the whole may be reduced to two points, viz.: a false and injurious abuse of the Synod, and particularly of Dr. Annan and of John M. Mason, who inherited his father's odiousness: and error in doctrine in reference to faith and the offer of the gospel to the reprobate. There was no difficulty in the matter of proof, for he admitted, that he had denounced the unfaithfulness of the Synod, because it "made an act, allowing or approving the singing of Watts' Psalms, Sternold and Hopkins,' or anything that families pleased, in family worship," and that it did so at Dr. Annan's dictation, because Mr. Nourse, his wealthiest member and elder claimed this privilege: also another act, setting aside the fast-days and thanksgiving days usually observed in connection with the Lord's Supper; and that this was to favor the rich merchants in Dr. Masons charge: and finally that they were about setting aside the publication of the Banns of marriage, so that the clergy might not lose their marriage fees: "that thus the worship, government, and discipline of the Church, are nearly given up for a price of a loaf of bread." It may be proper here to say, for the sake of true the Spring, craving supply on condition of the Associate Presbytery uniting with the Presbytery called Reformed." The minute proceeds: "a considerable deal of reasoning took place, but the majority carried. Resolved and granted said petition." This illustrates another characteristic of this church, that they were never satisfied to be without the public ordinances of God's house. When vacant they "craved supply" at about every meeting of Presbytery, and they always sought a pastor as soon as they had the opportunity.

In November, 1785, Rev. John Jamieson of the Burgher Synod of Scotland arrived in this country and at once connected himself with the Associate Reformed Church. After itinerating nearly a year, and principally in the South, he was installed on the 22nd of September, 1786, as pastor of the congregation of Big Spring. His pastoral charge included the Maxwells, Hards, Kyles, and other families which lived quite near to Shippensburg; and for their accommodation, he preached regularly, during his whole pastorate, a certain part of his time, in Shippensburg; although, the probabilities are that the church there was not regularly organized till about 1788. There are no records and very few traditions in reference to Mr. Jamieson's ministry in Big Spring; it is simply known, that a strong dissatisfaction with him grew up, partly because of some erroneous teaching, and partly because of his jealous fault-finding spirit, which made his manner imperious and repulsive. He was constantly in trouble with his brethren, and if he could not have his way, he would storm, then pout, and then withdraw. He kept himself in a state of chronic opposition to Dr. Annan and the elder Mason. In 1789, the Presbytery of Pennsylvania was directed to deal with him for not attending Synod. In 1790 he was present, but was disgusted, as he tells us in his published account of his subsequent trial, so that he resolved to terminate his connection with the body. This threat he did not carry out, although he soon afterwards resigned his charge of Big Spring. The precise date is not known, but it was either the autumn of 1791, or the spring of 1792, for the Synod appointed him and Mr. Henderson "to missionate" in Kentucky in 1792.

Having finished his mission in Kentucky, he arrived during the winter of 1792-3, in Western Pennsylvania, and was very soon settled in Hannah's Town, near the present New Alexandria, Westmoreland county. The next spring, May, 1793, he attended the meeting of Synod at Marsh Creek, Adams county, Pa. It was the custom of Synod then, to make the next member in seniority the moderator; and it happened to be Mr. Jamieson's turn. He took the chair, protesting, however, that he would not stay there long. At an early stage of the meeting he presented "An Overture" for the consideration and adoption of Synod. This Overture maintained that a strict and rigid uniformity in all things, was essential to the government and discipline of the church; and that the Synod should adopt a confession and covenant to secure such uniformity in praise, public and private, in the administration of the Supper, in the solemnization of marriage, etc. The language of the Overture was by no means soft and persuasive, and its principal features were well understood. After a debate, more plain than courteous, the Overture found no friend but its author, and was very emphatically rejected. Mr. Jamieson immediately left the chair, protesting that he could not preside over any body that would thus ignore "the attainments" of the Church in Reformation days. Another moderator was elected although Mr. Jamieson retained his seat in Synod; and thus avoided the obligation of signing as moderator, the minutes of a back-sliding Synod. He returned, filled with great indignation, and in his published defense, takes great credit to himself, that it was not until the second Sabbath after his arrival home, that he commenced his public condemnation and protest. By his own confession, he spared neither Synod as a whole, nor the leading members individually; and he spoke equally severely of the Red Stone Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, in the midst of which he lived. This was done in the autumn of the same year, and resulted in the tabling of a libel containing eleven specifications. This libel and all the testimony relating thereto were referred to the next Synod. The grievance of the whole may be reduced to two points, viz.: a false and injurious abuse of the Synod, and particularly of Dr. Annan and of John M. Mason, who inherited his father's offenses; and error in doctrine in reference to faith and the offer of the gospel to the reprobate. There was no difficulty in the matter of proof, for he admitted, that he had denounced the unfaithfulness of the Synod, because it "made an act, allowing or approving the singing of Watts' Psalms, 'Sternold and Hopkins,' or anything that favours praised, in family worship;" and that it did so at Dr. Annan's dictation, because Mr. Nonsa, his wealthiest member and elder claimed this privilege: also another act, setting aside the fast-days and thanksgiving days usually observed in connection with the Lord's Supper; and that this was to favor the rich merchants in Dr. Mason's charge; and finally that they were about setting aside the publication of the banns of marriage, so that the clergy might not lose their marriage fees: "that thus the worship, government, and discipline of the Church, are nearly given up for a price of a loaf of bread." It may be proper here to say, for the sake of true history, that these charges were gratuitous and slanderous. The original act of the Synod upon the subject of Praise does not mention families, and upon this omission did he build his charge. In reference to days of special service in connection with the Lord's Supper, and publication of the Banns of marriage, the Associate Reformed Church never required either, and, consequently could not give up what it never had. In the matter of doctrine, he was accused of advancing "that we are to exercise faith for our sanctification, much in the same manner as for our justification; that we are to go on in the use of means by believing and trusting in God, without looking for or expecting the fruits in our own experience; that going on in this way, we have no right to doubt or question our state; that in the ordinary way, a person may be forty or fifty years, or even all his life, converted, and not know it, or know anything about it; that it would be inconsistent in such a person even to call his state in question, or for the minister to question it; that in the direct act of saving faith, we are to believe our election in the first instance, our being included in the covenant in the second, and our being in Christ in the third; that we have no right to offer the gospel to the reprobate, having nothing to do with them that all who hear the gospel are called to believe that they are elected, that the gospel offer and our conviction of its embracing our case is a sufficient warrant for all who hear it to believe their own election, and that the gospel minister has no right to preach damnation to any; and that the elect are justified from eternity." He was found guilty by Synod at its meeting in 1796, and "suspended from the office of the ministry, and prohibited from teaching students of divinity until next meeting of Synod." At the next meeting in 1797, he refused to give any satisfaction, but read a protest, declined the authority of the Synod and withdrew. Synod forthwith deposed and excommunicated him, and this action was never reversed or modified. A large portion of his church at Hanna's Town joined with him in his declinature, and he continued to minister to them for a season. After 1800, when he published his defense, nothing further is known of him by the writer.

Mr. Jamieson was a man of decided abilities, and of some theological attainments; so that his Presbytery placed their theological students under his care, and Alexander Porter, Alexander McCoy, and David Proudfit were at this time pursuing their studies with him. He was undoubtedly a hyper-Calvinist, and leaned somewhat toward fatalism and anti-nomianism; but his greatest fault was his temper. He was jealous, and suspicious, and imperious which made him coarse and disagreeable. He was also an ultra conservative, and looked upon everything in this country, civil and ecclesiastical, as going to ruin, and could see nothing good or lovely outside of Scotch attainments in Church and State so that in politics as well as religion, he was very successful in making himself unhappy.

The church of Big Spring did not allow itself to remain long without a bishop, so in 1793, a call was given to the Rev. John Craig, who had just arrived from Ireland. This call was at once accepted, and he entered upon his work. In the spring of 1794, Mr. Smith came to install him, and found him dead so he buried him on the very day, on which he was to have been installed. His ashes now sleep near the middle of the graveyard, awaiting the resurrection summons. He was about 50 years of age, and left a widow and three children. His son, Abraham, became a minister and long preached in the Associate Reformed Church in Kentucky and Ohio. One daughter married Robert Blean, son of one of the original elders, and a number of her descendants are still in this church; one was an elder and another now is. The other daughter died unmarried, only a few years ago, at a great age, in Preble county, Ohio.

Vacant for a third time, the church was not discouraged, but in 1795 gave a call to a Mr. Kennedy, which was not accepted. Of this Mr. Kennedy, the writer knows nothing that is certain and definite.

It was about this time that the congregation removed their log meeting house, and erected upon the same site a new one.

The second building was of stone, and in architecture and comfort was fully up to the taste and requirements of the times. There are many yet living who have a very distinct recollection of this square, stone building, with its little high windows, high, straight-backed, square pews, and its little attached study or "session house," for the convenience and retirement of the minister. This remained the spiritual home of the congregation for about thirty years, and was then removed, not so much because it was worn out or dilapidated, as because the progressed taste of the age called for something better.

The church in Shippensburg, from the time of its organization, was united with the Big Spring in one pastoral charge, but the time had now come to separate; and their separation was not peaceful, but the result of a quarrel. In the summer of 1798, measures were taken to call another pastor; and they were far from being of one mind, for just what Big Spring would do, that Shippensburg would not do. A public meeting was held, September 1st, 1798, "To take under their most serious consideration the distressed situation of the congregation, occasioned by the disorderly behavior of the community of Shippensburg, towards this congregation, on Monday, the 20th of August last." James Pettegrew was made chairman, and James Harper, Clerk of Seshistory, that these charges were gratuitous and slanderous. James Pettigrew was made chairman and James Harper, Clerk of Session, acted as secretary. The question was propounded, "Can we remain in connection with the community of Shippensburg, as they had not only acted in a manner altogether foreign from Presbyterian Church Government, in preventing the call being moderated on the said 20th of August, but that they since asserted in the most arbitrary manner, that they would adhere to what they had already done in every respect." After considerable discussion, or rather venting of feeling, it was unanimously resolved, "That it was inconsistent with Presbyterian principles for this congregation to remain in connection with them, so as to be ruled by them, and be in a state of subjection to them.' So they resolved "to supplicate the Presbytery for a formal separation from Shippensburg." And their prayer was granted. The Shippensburgers may have been at fault, in courteousness of manner and tenderness of method but history abundantly vindicated their wisdom and good judgment. Separated thus each church looked out for a pastor, and as two young Irish ministers had just come into the community, each took one, and during the autumn of 1798, Rev. James Walker was installed in Shippensburg, where he remained, a respected and useful pastor for twenty-two years; and Rev. James McConnell, whom Shippensburg had refused to call, became pastor of Big Spring for eleven years.

The Irish rebellion of 1798 gave several valuable families to the church, most of whom left the Old Country without the knowledge or consent of the British government. Among these were John Vance, who died in 1849, aged 76 years, and whose family has all gone west; and William Gracey, who died in 1845, aged 63 years, leaving a son in the eldership, and another in the ministry; and Joseph McKee who died, November 19th, 1840, aged 75 years. Mr. McKee deserves more than a mere passing notice, for he was a man whose influence would have been felt in any community; and was perhaps the most intelligent man in the church. He was so deeply implicated in the rebellion that a price was set upon his head; so he concealed himself for some considerable time, in the heart of a large pile of lumber, until he found an opportunity to flee the country. During his concealment he had a copy of the Psalms in metre, and he occupied his time in committing them to memory; and he did this so thoroughly that he dispensed with the use of a psalm book, during the remainder of his life. He was quite a singer, and was for many years "clerk," or leader of the singing in the church, and left to the church a posterity of singers, so that the leadership of song has been handed down to his children and childrens' children, until it has become almost hereditary in his family. In the church, he would rise in his seat, line out the psalm, and lead the singing without the aid of a book. He could do this, not merely with the psalms most frequently sung, but with all of them, for in family worship he sung the psalms in course, and gave them out without any other help than the prose translation lying open before him. He was well read in biblical and theological literature, in natural sciences, and in the events of the day; and having a memory which never forgot, and a temperament of considerable ardor, and a fondness for discussion, he became noted as a theologian, a philosopher, and a politician. His feelings of bitterness towards the British Government never softened, and to the end of his life, the harshest epithet of reproach which he applied to any one, was to call him a "Tory." He was not only honest, benevolent, and industrious, but peculiarly methodic and conservative in his habits. He literally changed not. He went to church every Sabbath, without any regard to the season or weather. Cold and heat, rain and sunshine, storm and calm were all the same to him on the Lord's day. Although he lived three miles from the church, yet he continued to the end as he had commenced in his youth, to go on foot. Even in the winter of his old age ,he insisted upon dispensing with all help of carriage or sleigh. It was often predicted that he would die in church, and this came almost true; for it was on a Friday, preparatory to communion, that he started on foot for church, and when he had gone about half way, and while he was discoursing to a companion, upon the Divine Sovereignty, he stopped, and staggered, and fell; and died instantly of heart disease. He died doubtless just as he would wish to die, free from all physical suffering, and with his heart swelling with warm and loving thoughts of the greatness and goodness of his covenant God. His wife was a true helpmate in all things and survived him twenty-six years. She was baptized in this church as Associate, in 1778 or 1779, by Mr. Rogers, worshiped and communed in it, through its whole career as an Associate Reformed church, and finished her service on earth in it, as United Presbyterian. She and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jane Scouller, were the only persons connected with the church, whose life spanned from Associate to United Presbyterian.

Mr. McConnell's pastorate supplies very little material for the historian, as it was marked by few events out of the ordinary flow. As a preacher he was neither profound nor suggestive. His style was erratic, and he was disposed to confuse his hearers by the introduction of irrelevant matter. As a pastor he was active and diligent, and reasonably successful. He too, like his two predecessors, got into trouble; but it was neither his theology nor his temper that caused the trouble, but his temperament. He was a warm-hearted, convivial, impulsive, quick-tempered Irishman; and from time to time came in collision with some of his parishoners. Twice did these difficulties come up to Presbytery; first with Squire John Gray, and again with Hugh Ratchford; in both of which cases there was most probably fault on both sides. He was free to confess and make in family worship he sung the psalms in course, and gave them out without any other help than the noble translation lying open before him. He was well read in biblical and theological literature, in natural sciences, and in the events of the day; and having a memory which never forgot, and a temperament of considerable ardor, and a fondness for discussion, he became noted as a theologian, a philosopher, and a politician. He was free to confess and make

The Rev'd Mr. Duffield having expressed his conviction of the propriety and necessity of a Congregational fast induced by a view of the state of religion in this church & the Session having assented thereto, he was appointed a Committee to draft a minute on the subject, to be presented tomorrow after worship and the celebration of the Lord's Supper. Mr. Clark appeared. Session advised him to abstain from participation [illegible] tomorrow.

Fleming Geddes, Anne Geddes, wife of Fleming Geddes, & Sarah Geddes presented a Certificate from the Presb Cong of Silver Sp'g signed by the Pastor and Sess'n, & were admitted to Communion.

Adjourned. Concluded by prayer.

Sabbath Nov. 1st. The session met after public worship [illegible] according to adjournment. The Rev'd Mr. Duffield, as [illegible] the following preamble and resolution which were adopted. Thursday next [illegible] be appointed as a day of humiliation, fasting and prayer; which it is recommended to this Church to observe as such.

HISTORY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

CHAPTER I.

INTRODUCTORY—CORNELIS JACOBSON MEY, 1624-25—WILLIAM VAN HULST, 1625-26—PETER MINUIT, 1626-33—DAVID PETERSEN DE VRIES, 1632-33—WOUTER VAN TWILLER, 1633-38.

IN the early colonization upon the American continent, two motives were principally operative. One was the desire of amassing sudden wealth without great labor, which tempted adventurous spirits to go in search of gold, to trade valueless trinkets to the simple natives for rich furs and skins, and even to seek, amidst the wilds of a tropical forest, for the fountain whose healing waters could restore to man perpetual youth. The other was the cherished purpose of escaping the unjust restrictions of Government, and the hated ban of society against the worship of the Supreme Being according to the honest dictates of conscience, which incited the humble devotees of Christianity to forego the comforts of home, in the midst of the best civilization of the age, and make for themselves a habitation on the shores of a new world, where they might erect altars and do homage to their God in such habiliments as they preferred, and utter praises in such note as seemed to them good. This purpose was also incited by a certain romantic temper, common to the race, especially noticeable in youth, that invites to some uninhabited spot, and Rasselas and Robinson Crusoe-like to begin life anew.

William Penn, the founder of Pennsylvania, had felt the heavy hand of persecution for religious opinion's sake. As a gentleman commoner at Oxford, he had been fined, and finally expelled from that venerable seat of learning for non-comformity to the established worship. At home, he was whipped and turned out of doors by a father who thought to reclaim the son to the more certain path of advancement at a licentious court. He was sent to prison by the Mayor of Cork. For seven months he languished in the tower of London, and, finally, to complete his disgrace, he was cast into Newgate with common felons. Upon the accession of James II, to the throne of England, over fourteen hundred persons of the Quaker faith were immured in prisons for a conscientious adherence to their religious convictions. To escape this harassing persecution, and find peace and quietude from this sore proscription, was the moving cause which led Penn and his followers to emigrate to America.

Of all those who have been founders of States in near or distant ages, none have manifested so sincere and disinterested a spirit, nor have been so fair exemplars of the golden rule, and of the Redeemer's sermon on the mount, as William Penn. In his preface to the frame of government of his colony, he says: "The end of government is first to terrify evil-doers; secondly, to cherish those who do well, which gives government a life beyond corruption, and

First Settlers.—The first settlers in the North Valley and the region to the northward, embraced in what was Cumberland County, were mostly Scotch-Irish, a fearless and aggressive people who were impatient at the delays of the land-office, and began as early as 1740–42 to settle on lands to which the Indian title had not been fully extinguished. A few Germans were also among them, and the settlements were made principally on the Juniata River, Shearman's Creek, Tuscarora Path (or Path Valley), in the little and big caves formed by the Kittatinny and Tuscarora Mountains and by the Big and Little Conolloways. The Indians very naturally regarded them as intruders, and in 1750 threatened to settle matters in their own way if the Government failed to put a stop to the Lucetta, born December 2, 1849, wife of G. Allen Brehm; Henry, born April 5, 1852, married to Jane E. Westafer, living on another of his father's farms; and Lydia Belle, born October 30, 1854, wife of David A. Cromleigh, now of Mechanicsburg. Mr. Killian has been school director, appraiser, and has held many other township offices. Beginning life without any advantages, he and his wife have, by industry and thrift, accumulated a competence, now owning four farms. They have reaped the fruits of a well spent life, and in the evening of their days are enjoying its comforts. Both are devout members of the Lutheran Church.

WILLIAM CARNAHAN KOONS, farmer, P. O. Newville, is a grandson of Isaac Koons, who came from Lancaster County, where he was born in 1760; his wife was Margaret E. Swartz, also of Lancaster. About the close of the Revolutionary war they settled at a place called "Thunder Hill," three miles northwest of Newville. He died August 15, 1830, in his seventy-first year, and his widow April 11, 1833, in her sixty-second year. Their children were David, Isaac, John, Jacob, Adam, George, Philip, Joseph, Elizabeth, Catherine and Mary. They are all deceased. Isaac was the father of William Carnahan Koons, and was born in 1792. His wife was Jane Carnahan. They had nine sons and one daughter, Margaret, who died young. The sons were Robert Carnahan, Isaac, John McDowell, William Carnahan, Alexander Sharp, Thomas Sharp, Adam, James and Joseph. Robert C. and Isaac went to Indiana, where they both died; Thomas S. died on the old homestead; John McD. is living in Indiana; Alexander S. is living in Nebraska; William C., Adam, James and Joseph live in Newton Township. The father of this family, Isaac, was a farmer and tanner on the Green Spring, in Newton Township, near Conodoguinet Creek, where he purchased a farm in 1826, on which he built the house in which his son Joseph now lives. Here he died November 19, 1874, aged eighty-two. He was a plain man, kind, contented, outspoken, determined and preserving. His integrity was unswerving, and his character above all suspicion of reproach. He began life a poor boy, but by thrift and careful habits accumulated a considerable property, which, with the heritage of a good name, he bequeathed to his children. His wife was born in 1795, and died August 11, 1866, in her seventy-first year. She was a daughter of Robert Carnahan, a son of William Carnahan, who came to Mifflin Township soon after the first settlement, which was made in 1729 or 1730. Robert Carnahan was married to Judith McDowell in 1784. Their children were William, Robert, Margaret and Jane. William went to Indiana in 1835, and died there in 1879, aged eighty-three. Mrs. Koons was a quiet, patient, industrious, kind-hearted woman, and much of her husband's success in life was due to the constant care which she exercised in the affairs of the house. William Carnahan Koons was born February 27, 1827, and with the exception of attendance at the common schools and two sessions at the Big Spring Academy, he had no other facilities for acquiring an education. He worked on the farm until 1857, when, January 22, he was married to Mary Jane, daughter of James Stewart, of Mifflin Township, where she was born August 20, 1821. They had five children, three dying in infancy, and a son, William Carnahan, born December 23, 1857, died June 24, 1875. The surviving son is James Stewart, born December 7, 1859, who is unmarried and living with his parents. For four years after his marriage Mr. Koons farmed on shares, and in April, 1861, removed to the farm he now owns, but which then belonged to his father. Here he has since remained, attending strictly to his own affairs. When not at work he was busy with his books and papers. A desire to maintain right and oppose wrong sums up and explains the rest.

JAMES McCULLOCH, farmer, P. O. Big Spring, is a great-grandson of John McCulloch, who emigrated from the North of Ireland, and settled in what is now Mifflin Township, but afterward removed to a farm near Newville, which is still owned by and in possession of some of his descendants. He had three sons: John, William and James; and five daughters: Susanna, married to Ezekiel Mitchell, who in an early day emigrated to Kentucky; Elizabeth, married to Robert McCormick, of Path Valley; Margaret, married to James Hill, who also went West; Sarah, married to Richard Patton, and Jane, married to James McKinstry. James was the grandfather of the subject of this sketch. He was born in 1761 or 1762. Though quite young at the time, he drove a team in the army of the Revolution. In or about the year 1790 he purchased 600 acres of land bordering upon and extending back about one mile from Big Spring, near its source, nearly all of which is still owned by some of his descendants. He was married June 7, 1792, to Mary Henderson, daughter of Thomas Henderson, whose wife's name was Wharton. From this union eight children were born, viz.: John, Thomas and William, each of whom owned and occupied a portion of the home farm during life; James, once register of wills of this county and afterward a physician, who died at Muncie, Ind.; Sarah, married to James Huston; Eliza, married to Andrew Coyle; Mary Jane, married to Samuel Piper, and Margaret Anne, married to David Jackson McKee—of whom Mrs. Coyle, Mrs. Piper and Mrs. McKee are the only survivors. Thomas McCulloch, the father of James, was born April 2, 1797, on the farm where he spent most of his life, and where he died February 16, 1868. April 3, 1823, he was married to Isabella Blean, daughter of Robert Blean, an only son of David Blean, who settled, in an early day, upon the farm on Big Spring, now owned by David Duncan. Robert Blean married Mary Craig, and had ten children, nine of whom reached mature age, viz.: John, David, Robert, William, Isabella (wife of Thomas McCulloch), Grizelle (wife of James Fulton), Mary (wife of Alexander Thompson), Jane (wife of George McBride) and Margaret (wife of John Work). Of Thomas and Isabella were born seven children, viz.: James, born January 5, 1824; Robert Blean, born May 12, 1825, now living in Peoria, Ill.; Thomas Henderson, born September 1, 1827, for many years a resident of Monmouth, Ill., but now of Omaha, Neb.; John Craig, born October 28, 1829, who died August 24, 1850; David, born January 25, 1832, now an attorney in Peoria, Ill., where for eight years he was judge of the circuit court, and six years of that time assigned to duty as one of the justices of the appellate court of the State; Mary Ellen, wife of William S. Morrow, living in Chambersburg, and Isabella, who died in infancy. James owns and lives upon the farm owned by his father in his lifetime, having never left the place of his nativity. February 4, 1847, he was united in marriage with Miss Martha Brown, daughter of Joseph Brown, Esq., of West Pennsborough Township. To this union three children were born, viz.: Isabella Craig, born November 5, 1848, wife of J. Sharp Hemphill, now living on part of her father's farm; Nancy Jane, born May 30, 1850, living with her father, and Mary Grizelle, born June 20, 1852, died September 26, 1881, who was the wife of Prof. John C. Sharp, a noted worker in educational matters. Mrs. McCulloch died April 10, 1854, and is buried in the United Presbyterian Cemetery at Big Spring, of which church both she and her husband were members. He is one of the most prominent citizens of this township, a self-made man who, without the educational facilities of the present day, has, by force of character, observation, reading and good judgment, became one of the best informed men of this part of the county, and whose opinion has weight among his neighbors. In politics he is a Democrat.

HUGH McCUNE, farmer, P. O. Oakville, is a grandson of Robert McCune, who came from Ireland about the middle of the last century. The latter's son, Hugh, father of our subject, was born in this county in 1772, and died in 1828. His wife was Rebecca (Brady) McCune. Their children were as follows: Isabella, born April 18, 1797, wife of William Duncan, now deceased; Jane, born April 26, 1799, wife of James Boyd, and also deceased; Hannah, born August 9, 1802, deceased; Robert, born September 28, 1804, married Nancy Gibb, and died in Illinois; John, born May 24, 1807, married Jane Henderson, and died in Hopewell Township; James, born February 5, 1809, married Matilda Williams, and lives in Westmoreland County, Penn.; Samuel, born April 2, 1811, deceased; Elizabeth, born May 13, 1811, deceased; Joseph, born March 17, 1818, married Sallie Crider, and died on the home farm, and Hugh, our subject, born December 15, 1815, on the place where he now lives, in a brick house built by Hugh and Joseph. The property has never since been out of the family. His father's farm is now owned entirely by our subject, who has never left it, and who is now recognized as one of the industrious and thrifty farmers of the neighborhood, who have done much to develop the agricultural resources of the county. By his strictly temperate, industrious and upright habits he has accumulated a competence, and enjoys in a high degree the confidence and esteem of all. Though of strong political convictions, he has never sought office, preferring to aid his party without self-seeking. An old line Whig, he is now a Republican. He is a member of Big Spring Presbyterian Church, and takes a warm interest in temperance matters and all other good works.

SAMUEL ALBERT McCUNE, retired farmer, Oakville, is a great-grandson of James McCune, who came here about the middle of the last century, with his brother Robert, from Ireland, and jointly took up a tract of 437 acres of land, where his descendants now live, and which is now in their possession. The subject of this sketch has a receipt dated April 7, 1824, from the State Treasurer, for $10 patent fees for 135 acres of the original tract, and it states that it is surveyed on two warrants to Robert and James McCune, one dated May 13, 1763, and the other October 20, 1766. James' son Samuel was Samuel Albert's grandfather. He was born where his grandson now lives, in 1770, and died November 16, 1813. His wife was Hannah Brady, born January 1, 1776, and died May 16, 1847. They had eleven children, of whom two died in infancy. The others were Jane, born October, 1795, who became the wife of John Sharp; James, born January 22, 1799; Addie, born December 9, 1798; Margaret, born April 9, 1801, was the wife of Moses Kirkpatrick; Rachel, born July 27, 1803; Hugh Brady, born October 11, 1805; William, born January 23, 1807; Rebecca, born October 8, 1811, and Samuel, born April 9, 1814. Of this numerous family but one remains—Rebecca, single, and living in her nephew's house. Hugh Brady, father of Samuel Albert, lived all his life on the farm. Starting poor he acquired a farm and other property in the West. He died in September, 1881. His wife was Isabella Jane Kirkpatrick, who is now living with her daughter, Hannah M. Their ten children were Jane Elizabeth, Eleanor Culbertson, Rebecca Shields, Hannah Malvina, Margaret, Samuel Albert, William Alexander, John Kirkpatrick, Cyrus Brady and James Henderson. Hannah M. is the only daughter living. She is the wife of Robert Fulton, of Big Spring, West Pennsborough Township. The sons are all living, except William A., who died May 27, 1883. Samuel A. was born May 18, 1842. After leaving school he attended Duff's Commercial College, in Pittsburgh. During school intervals he worked on the farm, and the habits of industry acquired were strengthened by the strict religious horse and one behind her. She went by way of Fort Ligonier, and reached the Cumberland Valley in safety. Just one year after being taken prisoner, Moorhead returned to his father's home in Cumberland County from Quebec, he having been exchanged as a prisoner.

At Fort Shippen, in the Cumberland Valley, he and his brother Samuel (who also had gone away, built a grist-mill above Homer City, which was burned, and he driven back by the Indians) signed a petition to Gov. Penn, that means might be adopted to protect the frontier inhabitants. After the close of the war he returned again to his new home, near Indiana, which he found in ruins; but he soon built a stone house, which is still standing, and which has ever since been occupied by his descendants. It was said to have been built of memorial stones heaped by the Indians upon the graves of their dead. One son of Fergus Moorhead, Joseph, was wounded at St. Clair's defeat; another, James, was killed at Perry's victory, on Lake Erie; another, Fergus Moorhead, Jr., was the paternal grandfather of Silas M. Clark, of the Supreme Court.*

VILLAGES.

The township contains few villages. Jacksonville (Walnut Bottom P. O.), before 1825, consisted of but six log houses. One, a two-story house on the hill, was kept as a tavern by an Irishman named John McCaslin. Some distance east was another, known as the "Bull Ring" tavern, kept by Michael Hawk. The land on the north side of the road was the property of Peter Fry, and the village was at first called Frystown. It was afterward called Canada, and later Jacksonville. About 1820 the pine forest extended to the town.

Stoughstown, on the turnpike in the eastern portion of the township, was called after Col. John Stough, who kept a tavern there for many years, which tavern was also, prior to 1846, kept by his son. The town dates back to nearly the beginning of the century, and the tavern, for many years, was one of the most noted as a relay house for the teamsters and the stages on the road. Near Stoughstown is a large spring, from which a fine stream issues.

Oakville is a small post-village west of the center of the township and a station on the Cumberland Valley Railroad. Prior to the building of this road it had no existence.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There are small beds of iron ore at places, particularly in the southern portion of the township. The Big Pond Furnace was built some three miles southeast of Leesburg, or Lee's Cross Roads, about forty years ago, near the Big Pond, a deep and somewhat stagnant pool, from which seemingly there is no outlet, made by a mountain stream, on which are Seever's mill, Buchanan's mill, and, after the Three Springs flows into it, Oyster's mill. This furnace, however, at the Big Pond, was long ago abandoned.

The Cumberland Valley and the Harrisburg & Potomac are the two railroads which pass through Newton Township. The postoffices are Newville, Green Spring, Oakville, Big Spring, Stoughstown and Walnut Bottom.

BOROUGH OF NEWVILLE.

The borough of Newville is handsomely situated on the Big Spring, on the line of the Cumberland Valley Railroad, some twelve miles westward of home and was lodged safe. He went by way of Fort Ligonier, and reached the Cumberland Valley in safety. Just one year after being taken prisoner, Moorhead returned to his father's home in Cumberland County from Ohio, he having been exchanged as a prisoner.

*As to the Moorheads settlement in Indiana County, see also the sketch of that county in Dr. Egle's History of Pennsylvania, p. 793. The date is there given as 1772, but as we have obtained our information from a descendant, who gives the date as 1769, we prefer to let it stand.

It was said to have been built of unseasoned stones hauled on the surface upon the graves of their dead. One son of Fergus Moorhead, Joseph, was wounded at St. Clair's defeat; another, James, was killed at Perry's victory on Lake Erie; another, Fergus Moorhead, Jr., was the paternal grandfather of Silas M. Carlisle. It was first incorporated as a borough by an act of the Legislature on the 26th of February, 1817, but its inception as a settlement ante-dates the century, and carries us back to the days of our Colonial Government.

In the earlier part of the last century there was something of a settlement in the country surrounding the Big Spring, as a Presbyterian congregation was in existence at that place prior to 1737. A warrant for a tract of about ninety acres of land was issued by the provincial authorities on March 2, 1744, to four persons, namely: William Lamond, James Walker, Alexander McClintock and David Killaugh, in trust for the Presbyterian congregation at Big Spring, which had previously, about 1738, erected a house of worship.[*] Upon this glebe the congregation built a parsonage, which was occupied until after 1786, but prior to 1790 it was abandoned as a parsonage, and in 1794 laid out into village lots. A plan of the new town was drawn, which consisted of one (Main) street, extending from the spring westward, with Cove and Glebe Alleys running parallel on the north and south, crossed by Corporation, High and West Streets, the former two extending northward to the boundary of the glebe. The first lots were laid out upon these streets, and the remaining portion of the tract was divided into larger parcels of from two to five acres, for pasture or tillage.

The first sale of lots was September 9, 1790. Other sales occurred during the eight or ten years succeeding, until all were sold. They were not put up at auction, but were disposed of at fixed prices, most of them selling for $6 each.[†] The pasture lots were all sold April 9, 1795, at prices ranging from $24 to $27 per acre. About eight acres on the northeast corner of the glebe were reserved for a parsonage, and subsequently purchased by the pastor, Rev. S. Wilson. On all of these lots laid out for the new town, there was a reserved incumbrance, with an annual quit-rent of 6 per cent to the church, most of which annual quit-rents were extinguished in 1836.[‡]

FIRST HOTELS, STORES, ETC.

The first buildings were erected upon the eastern part of Main Street and on North Corporation. Robert Lusk was one of the earliest citizens, and is said to have been the first innkeeper in Newville. He built the third house from the spring on Main Street, in which he opened the first tavern. This was before 1792, for in the petition to the court for a license in August of that year he speaks of having kept "a house of entertainment in the house where he now lives the preceding year, and is desirous of continuing the same." Samuel McCullough, having provided himself with a house for keeping a tavern in the town of Newville, also prays the court to recommend him to the Governor for a license this same year. John Dunbar shortly opened a hotel in the third house above Corporation Street, but at what exact date is to us unknown.

The first store is said to have been opened on North Corporation Street, on the east side and north of Cove Alley. About 1797 Thomas Kennedy, father of the late Judge John Kennedy, of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, and of James Kennedy, for many years a justice of the peace in Newville, opened the second store upon the opposite side of Corporation Street, in what is known as the Woodburn row. "Stephen Ryan then opened where Morrow's brick house stands, and was succeeded by Christian Geese. Joseph Colbertson next

[*] This same tract was confirmed to the church, by another patent, under the State authority, in 1794.

[†] A few lots, on account of exceptional advantages, brought much higher prices; as Lot No 1, on account of water privileges, $213, bought by William Laughlin, and one opposite, $50, bought by George McKeehan.

[‡] The incumbrance on the front lots was $22.22 each, making the annual quit-rent $1.33; on the back lots $17.90 each, with quit-rent of $1.07; on outlots $13.33 per acre, with quit-rent of 80 cents. Owing to the annoyance of collecting these rents, the trustees of the church accepted, in 1836, the payment of the incumbrance on most of the lots, and granted to the owners titles in fee simple.

Carlisle. It was first incorporated as a borough by an act of the Legislature on the 26th of February, 1817, but its existence as a settlement ante-dates the century, and extends far back to the days of our Colonial Government.

In the earlier part of the last century there was something of a settlement in the vicinity surrounding the Big Spring, as a Presbyterian congregation was in existence at that place, prior to 1737.* A warrant for a tract of about ninety acres of land was issued by the provincial authorities on March 3, 1744, to four persons, namely: William Lamond, James Walker, Alexander McClintock and Samuel Kennedy, in trust for the Presbyterian congregation at Big Spring, which had previously, about 1738, erected a house of worship.* From this grant the congregation built a parsonage, which was occupied until after 1791, but prior to 1790 it was abandoned as a parsonage, and in 1790 laid out into village lots. A plan of the new town was drawn, which consisted of one [illegible] street, extending from the spring westward, with Cove and Ogle's Alleys running parallel on the north and south, crossed by Corporation, High and Water Streets, the former two extending northward to the boundary of the glebe. The first lots were laid out upon these streets, and the remaining portion of the tract was divided into larger parcels of from two to five acres, for pasture or tillage.

The first sale of lots was September 8, 1790. Other sales occurred during the eight or ten years succeeding, until all were sold. They were not put up at auction, but were disposed of at fixed prices, most of them selling for $10 each.† The parsonage lots were all sold April 9, 1793, at prices ranging from $18 to $37 per acre. About eight acres in the southeast corner of the glebe were reserved for a parsonage, and subsequently purchased by the pastor, Rev. S. Wilson. On all of these lots laid out for the new town, there was a reserved groundrent, with an annual quit-rent of 3 per cent to the church, most of which ground quit-rents were extinguished in 1800.‡

FIRST HOTELS, STORES, ETC.

The first buildings were erected upon the western part of Main Street, and on South Corporation. Robert Lusk was one of the earliest citizens, and is said to have been the first innkeeper in Newville. He built the third house from the spring on Main Street, in which he opened the first tavern. This was before 1793, for in the petition to the court for a license in August of that year he speaks of having built "a house of entertainment in the house where he now lives the preceding year, and is desirous of continuing the same." Farquard McCullough, having provided himself with a house for keeping a tavern in the town of Newville, also prays the court to recommend him to the Governor for a license this same year. John Dunbar shortly opened a hotel in the brick house south Corporation Street, but at what exact date is to us unknown.

About 1795 Thomas Kennedy, father of the late Judge Kennedy, of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, and of James Kennedy, for many years a justice of the peace in Newville, opened the second store upon the opposite side of Corporation Street, in what is known as the Woodburn tree. opened in the stone house on the southeast corner of Main and Corporation Streets, which Gen. Samuel Finley had built in 1799. Joseph Showalter, Alexander Barr, William McCandlish, John Johnson, James Huston and others followed." These were the early merchants of the town. The first resident physician was John Gedds. He came from Silver Spring, and settled in Newville about 1792, after having studied medicine with Dr. McCoskry, of Carlisle. Here he practiced until his death in 1840.

The village must have improved with tolerable rapidity, for in 1799, nine years after the sale of the first lots, there were five tavern-keepers in Newville. These were James Woodburn, Joseph Shannon, Thomas Clark, Thomas Martin and Philip Beck. Two years later, 1801, James Woodburn built the Logan House, which is still standing.

In the year 1800 the first postoffice was established. Before this time there were no offices nearer than Carlisle and Shippensburg. For about twenty years there was but one mail each way per week. Then there were two until the building of the railroad in 1838, when the daily mail and the daily papers first made their appearance. There is now Pullman cars and a variable number of daily mails each way.

Coming down to about 1806 and after, we find that the appearance of the town is within the recollection of the living. James Woodburn kept the hotel on the corner of Main and Corporation Streets. Up two or three lots, John Dunbar kept a hotel. The names of two of these hotels were "The Indian Queen" and "The Eagle." Opposite was Samuel Crowell, on the corner of Main Street, not yet built up. Near the corner of Main and High, Philip Beck kept a tavern. On the extreme upper end of Main Street Patrick Dunfee and William MacMonagal had their inns. Besides these there were two on Corporation Street, Thomas Clark and Andrew Thompson. The area of these public houses embraced the extreme limits of the town. Few buildings had been erected west of High Street. Clusters of buildings afterward grew up on the western end of Main Street, and the two portions of the town gradually grew together. The original portion of the town, however, was that lying just north or slightly northwest of the old Presbyterian Church and cemetery.

INCORPORATION, ETC.

The town, which was first laid out in 1794, remained for more than twenty years a part of Newton Township. Dissatisfaction existed as to the proportionate assessments of property, and on application to the Legislature a borough charter was granted February 26, 1817. The town, however, continued to pay its proportion of road taxes to Newton Township until January sessions, 1828, when the borough was formed into a township by the court. To get rid of the inconvenience of two sets of officers—borough and township—a more comprehensive charter was granted by the court in 1869.

Since the building of the railroad, the track of improvement has turned south toward the depot, and westward along the line of the road, giving to the plan of the town quite an irregular form.

What was known as Newtown was laid out prior to the war by the McFarlan brothers, John and William Gettys, and some buildings erected. Shortly after the Ahl brothers laid out an addition to the borough, extending southwesterly toward the railroad, on the Jerry McKibbon land, which two portions of the town were taken into the borough of Newville in 1874, and now constitute the South Ward. Until this time the boundaries of the old glebe farm, which had been originally granted to the church, constituted the limits of the borough.

Newville, in 1845, is described by Rupp as having about 100 dwellings, several mills, taverns and churches (two Presbyterian and one Lutheran), and three public schools. Previous to this, in 1840, it is described as having six stores and three taverns. Its population at various periods has been: In 1830, 530; 1840, 564; 1850, 715; 1860, 885; 1870, 907; 1880, 1,650.

The town was divided into the north and south wards by a decree of the court, confirmed July, 1874.

AN HISTORICAL CHARACTER.

One of the most interesting facts in connection with the history of the town of Newville, is that the artizan, William Denning, who succeeded in making the first wrought-iron cannon in America, lived, after the Revolution, in the neighborhood of Newville, and was buried in the grave-yard of the old Presbyterian Church at that place. No tombstone, however, marks the spot, although some of the older citizens claim to have located it. He died December 19, 1830. The following account is given of him in Hazard's Register, Vol. VII: "The deceased was an artificer in the Revolution. He it was who, in the days of his country's need, made the only successful attempt ever made in the world to manufacture wrought-iron cannons, two of which he completed at Middlesex, in this county, and commenced another and larger one at Mount Holly, but could get no one to assist him who could stand the heat, which is said to have been so great as to melt the buttons off his clothes. This unfinished piece, it is said, lies as he left it, at either Mount Holly or the Carlisle Barracks. One of those completed was taken by the British at the battle of Brandywine, and is now in the Tower of London. The British Government offered a large sum and a stated annuity to any person who would instruct them in the manufacture of that article, but the patriotic blacksmith preferred obscurity and poverty in his own beloved country to wealth and affluence in that of her oppressors, although that country for which he did so much kept her purse closed from the veteran soldier till near the close of his long life, and it often required the whole weight of his well known character for honesty to keep him from the severest pangs of poverty. When such characters are neglected by a rich government, it is no wonder that some folks think Republics ungrateful."

CHURCHES.

The First Presbyterian Church at Newville was erected about 1738. It was a log building, in the southern part of the grave-yard now used by the congregation. The present stone structure was built about 1790. It was a plain stone building, with three doors, and with the pulpit, on the north side. It had pews with high, straight backs. In 1842 it was handsomely remodeled in modern style, and is now one of the handsomest churches in the valley. It is built in a delightful grove near which, in the language of Dr. Nevin, "rolls gently along the clear and lovely stream from which it has received its name, and which for ages has been flowing on, apparently the same, whilst the crowds that have been weekly gathering on its brink have, one after another, lain down within the sound of its murmurs" to their long, last sleep. Thomas Craighead was the first pastor, installed in 1738. He died in the pulpit after the close of an eloquent sermon, while its last words were still upon his lips. His remains were buried where the church now stands, the only monument of his memory.

United Presbyterian Church.—This church, originally "Seceder," was built of logs, according to the inscription on it, in 1764. This was followed by a stone church about 1790, a brick 1826, a new brick in 1868. The present

The First Presbyterian Church at Newville was erected about 1738. It was a log building, in the southern part of the grave-yard now used by the congregation. The present stone structure was built about 1790. It was a plain stone building, with three doors and with the pulpit on the north side. It had pews with high, straight backs. Thomas Craighead was the first pastor, installed in 1737. He died in the pulpit after the close of an eloquent sermon, while its last words were still upon his lips. His remains were buried where the church now stands, the only monument of his memory.

Second Presbyterian Church.—This church, originally "Seceder," was built of logs, according to the inscription on it, in 1772. This was followed by a stone church, about 1789, a frame 1828, a new brick in 1852. The present handsome brick church edifice was built in 1882. It is upon an elevation in a beautiful grove, and with its grave-yard just back of it. Upon a tablet in the church building is engraved the dates which we have given: "United Presbyterian Church. Founded A. D. 1764—Erected A. D. 1882."

First Methodist Church.—This was built in 1826. It was of brick and stood on the back part of the present lot on Main Street. The present one, of brick, was built in 1846.

First Lutheran Church.—This was built in 1832 on North High Street, and the present one in 1862 on West Main Street.

"Bethel" Church.—A Bethel Church was built in 1830, which is now occupied by a colored congregation. The present Bethel Church on Railroad Street was built in 1859.

United Brethren Church.—This is located on Fairfield Street, and was built of brick in 1867.

CEMETERY.

Owing to the necessity for new burial ground, the Newville Cemetery was organized a few years ago. It is beautifully situated west of the town.

EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS.

For some years before and after the middle of the century, classical schools were established in Newville. In 1832, Joseph Casey, the father of Judge Casey, of the United States Court of Claims, opened a classical school, which lasted for a period of eight or ten years. He had received his education at Glasgow, and was a thorough Latinist. About 1843 another clasical school was opened, which included all the ordinary academic studies. This was established by R. D. French, who was succeeded, in 1846, by Mr. Kilburn; in 1849, by James Huston; in 1852, by W. R. Linn.

Rev. R. McCachren erected an academy building at about this time, where he and others taught until 1857, when it was succeeded by a normal school. The Rebellion broke this up; but even after the war a classical school was conducted by F. L. Gillelon, who was succeeded by Dr. Stayman and W. H. Thompson. At this time the academy building was used as a female school. Both succumbed, however, either to the growing favor for larger colleges or the public schools.

There are eight public schools in Newville, with fit buildings, one of which, a commodious brick structure with inclosed grounds, has been recently erected.

NEWSPAPERS.

The first newspaper published in Newville was in 1843, but it was a small sheet and of brief duration. The Star of the Valley was started in 1858 by J. M. Miller. The Enterprise, which had been established at Oakville, in May, 1871, by the Fosnot Bros., was moved to Newville in December, 1874, and the two papers were consolidated as The Star and Enterprise, under the management of J. C. Fosnot & Son, in January, 1886. It is an eight page weekly paper. The Times, which was begun at Plainfield, and known as the Plainfield Times, in the winter of 1881, was moved to Newville in the winter of 1885; it is a neat eight-page weekly paper, conducted by J. W. Strohm.

BANKS.

The first bank in Newville was the "Newville Saving Fund Society." It was organized March 9, 1850 and dissolved March 31, 1858. A private banking firm was started by Rea, Gracey & Co., in 1857, and was reorganized under the United States charter in August of 1863, as the First National Bank of

Tax Lists for Cumberland County, Pennsylvania

INTRODUCTION

GEOGRAPHICAL AREA COVERED BY THIS VOLUME

The tax rolls summarized in this compilation cover the area of present-day Cumberland County. In 1798 Cumberland County included what is now Perry County; the townships which later became Perry County are omitted.

Apart from the omitted area, Cumberland County, for the purpose of the assessment, was divided into eleven subdivisions--ten townships and one independent borough. Several of the townships have since been divided. The former and present townships are shown in the accompanying table, as are the abbreviations used in this compilation. (The original volume for Southampton was entitled "Southhampton and Shippensburg"; here the name has been shortened to "Southampton".)

In 1798 rolls	Present-day townships	Abbreviation
Allen	Upper Allen, Lower Allen, Monroe	ALLN
Carlisle	Carlisle	CARL
Dickinson	Dickinson, Penn, Cooke	DICK
East Pennsboro	East Pennsboro, Hampden, Silver Spring	EPEN
Frankfort	Upper Frankfort, Lower Frankfort	FRAN
Hopewell	Hopewell	HOPE
Middleton	North Middleton, South Middleton, Middlesex	MIDD
Mifflin	Upper Mifflin, Lower Mifflin	MIFF
Newton	North Newton, South Newton	NEWT
Southhampton	Southhampton	SHTN
West Pennsboro	West Pennsboro	WPEN

The rolls for Cumberland County are fairly complete. Six are entirely and one partially missing, but, fortunately, no more than one is missing from any single subdivision. This means that all the information is present, though some of it is in abbreviated format because it is extant only on List D or List E (Lists 1 or 2 in the original document). The most serious loss of information occurs in East Pennsboro township. For that township List B is missing and List E is extant only for surnames beginning with the letters A through K. Thus, for persons whose surnames occur in the latter part of the alphabet, information is completly lacking on land, houses of value of $100.00 or less, and various other structures.

The following table summarizes the present status of the rolls and the number of entries in each roll. The designation outside parenthesis is the original designation; that inside the parenthesis is the designation used in this volume.

Township	A (A)	B (B)	1 (D)	2 (E)
Allen	165	166	194	175
Carlisle	263	111	263	missing
Dickinson	95	missing	95	136
East Pennsboro	250	missing	250	extant only through K
Frankford	82	122	82	122
Hopewell	57	85	57	85
Middleton	281	missing	278	225
Mifflin	101	131	101	131
Newton	115	146	115	146
Southampton	missing	145	199	145
West Pennsboro	112	missing	112	121

HISTORY AND OPERATION OF THE 1798 DIRECT TAX

The Direct Tax of 1798 was a tax on the ownership of dwelling houses, lands, and slaves. It was enacted on July 14, 1798, during the presidential term of John Adams, primarily for the purpose of increasing the armed forces during a time of tension with France over attacks on American shipping.

The Act was intended to raise the sum of $2,000,000. This sum was to be collected primarily from a tax on the assessed value of dwelling houses. To the amount to be collected from that portion of the tax there was to be added the amount collected from a tax of fifty cents upon every slave between the ages of twelve and fifty. The total to be collected from these sources was then to be deducted from the total of $2,000,000, and the balance was to be collected from a tax, at an appropriate rate, on land. Because the Constitution at that time required that taxes be apportioned according to population, an appropriate amount was assigned to be collected from each state. Pennsylvania's share was $237,177.72.

The plan of the tax on dwellings was remarkable for its time in that the rates applied to the assessed value were progressive, in the manner of modern income taxes. The tax was payable only on dwellings of a value greater than $100.00; above that level the rates varied from .002 to .010. Another remarkable characteristic of the tax is that the rate, in contrast to our modern income tax, applieD to the entire assessment, not merely to the marginal amount.

The schedule was made up of nine categories, and these rates applied equally to all houses, whether urban or rural. The table is reproduced below.

Lower class limit	Rate on entire value
$ 100.00	.002
1,000.00	.004
3,000.00	.005
6,000.00	.006
10,000.00	.007
15,000.00	.008
20,000.00	.009
30,000.00	.010

Under this schedule a house assessed at $100 was taxed $.20 (.2%); a house assessed at $1000 was taxed $4.00 (.4%). Thus the house worth ten time the other was taxed twenty times more. The following table illustrates these variations. The Index columns compare relative valuations and taxes for several sample assessments to those for a dwelling assessed at the minimum taxable amount.

Actual			Index
Valuation	Rate	Tax	Valuation	Tax
100	.002	$ .20	1	1.0
500	.003	1.50	5	7.5
1,000	.004	4.00	10	20.0
10,000	.007	70.00	100	350.0
25,000	.009	225.00	250	1,125.0

ORGANIZATION OF THE TAX LISTS

To put the Direct Tax into operation it was necessary to compile a list of every piece of property within the country. This was done by state and township and the results were recorded in two "Particular Lists" (A and B). These lists, in turn, were used to produce two "General Lists" D and E (so called in the Circular from the Secretary of the Treasury, but designated 1 and 2 in the original Cumberland County lists), which summarize the predecessor tables.

In this volume the lists are called A, B, D, and E, instead of A, B, 1, and 2. The purpose of this change is to make the terminology here agree with that used in the Circular of the Secretary of the Treasury.

FORMAT OF THIS VOLUME

It is the intention of this volume to present the information found in the four tables in one comprehensive set. To do so presents some difficulties.

Table A and Table 1 contain the same information, a list of houses of a value greater than $100.00, together with the land appertaining to the house, and certain structures directly related to the dwelling (additions, kitchens, spring houses, etc.). Table B and Table 2 are devoted to land other than the house lot, houses of a value of $100.00 or less, and other structures, usually those not pertaining directly to the dwelling house (particularly barns, but also commercial structures). Tables 1 and 2 are derived, respectively, from Tables A and B and therefore provide no independent authority; they do however provide a great deal of assistance in those instances where Tables A or B are missing, and where individual entries are missing or undecipherable. The use of all four tables also provides some check against copying errors.

To construct a single entry giving a description of an entire property which contains a dwelling valued at more than $100.00 it is necessary to combine the information in Table A with that in Table B. Unfortunately, there is no certain reference to connect the two sets of information. Although the entries are usually numbered, the numbers in Table A are not necessarily related to those in Table B. The obvious connection is the name of the owner, and this makes a definite connection when there is but one person with a particular name within the township, and when that person owns but one piece of property. When these conditions do not obtain, other clues must be used.

It must be remembered that when the same name appears for two entries in the same table, it is not possible to determine, without additional information, whether this is one person with two pieces of property or two different persons. The task is sometimes simplified if one or more of the properties has an occupant other than the owner, since the occupants name will ordinarily appear in both sets of tables. Another possible clue is the sequence of the entries: if, for example, Table A has the same owner for two consecutive entries and the same name appears in two consecutive entries in Table B, it is probable (though by no means certain) that the first entries in each table relate to the same property, and the second to another property.

The reason for presenting such, admittedly tedious, detail, is to alert the user to the fact that it is possible, and even probable, that some entries have been combined incorrectly. Every effort has been made to avoid such misconjunctions by a most careful consideration of each combination. This care has been extended in some cases to keeping entries separate; in these few cases the reader will be obliged to make judgements for himself.

CONTENTS OF THE TABLES

This work is intended to consolidate within a single entry all of the information in the original four lists for each separate piece of property. The headings provided show the nature of the information, some of which is indicated by position, as is shown in the sample below.

Owner, location, occupant, and adjoining landowner appear in the first two columns. The name of the owner is placed on the first line at the margin; if the name of the owner or owners cannot be completed on one line it is continued on the second line adjacent to the margin. Should there be two or more owners these names will also appear on subsequent line adjacent to the margin.

The name of the occupant of the property, if other than the owner, will be found on the second line, or on subsequent lines if the owner's name occupies more than one line, indented two spaces. If the owner is the sole, or the chief occupant, his name is not recorded as an occupant. In a few entries occupants of specific structures on the property or of specific portions of the property appear on the appropriate line, indented two spaces. In most entries occupants of only a part of the property are recorded in the notes.

Abbreviated given names have been expanded to the full form when possible; alternate spellings for surnames are recorded as a "note". All names are given with the surname first.

The the second column of the first line gives the location of the property. This may be a town, a street, a location on a watercourse or a road, a mountain, or some other descriptive word or phrase. A second indicator of the location of the property is the name of owners of adjacent land. Such adjoining owners are listed on the second, or a subsequent line when necessary, indented two spaces from the location entry. Unfortunately, many entries contain neither a location nor the name of an adjoining owner.

The format of the first two columns is diagrammed here.

Owner	Location of property
Occupant, if other than owner	Adjoining landowners Ref.

The third column lists specific structures and, occasionally, the nature of the land (tract or lot). In this column will be found entries for houses, additions, rooms, kitchens, and a great variety of other structures pertaining to the house or to the use to which the land is put (barn, smith shop, saw mill, and so forth). When there is more than one of a particular type of structure those structures are numbered (house 1, house 2, etc.). This numbering has been adopted to facilitate reference; it does not appear in the original documents. Dwellings of a value greater than $100.00 (from List A) are listed as "house and lot"; those valued at $100.00 or less, as "house".

The next five columns describe the structures, giving the dimensions in feet, a description (usually the material used in construction, but sometimes other information), and the number of stories, windows, and lights (panes of glass).

The last two columns, Area and Value, require some explanation. Houses of a value greater than $100.00 (those from Table A) are listed in column 3 as "house and lot." When such a house is on a town lot, the size of the lot will appear in the Area column; when a house is on a farm the law provided that an area not to exceed 2 acres should be appraised as the house lot and included in the valuation of the house. The area so designated was then deducted from the total area to determine the area to be assessed as land. In most townships the assessor assigned two acres for all house lots; in Hopewell and Southampton townships, however, one acre was assigned. The amount in the Value column is the total value of the house and lot.

The area and valuation of the non-residential portion of rural properties is recorded in the appropriate column in a convenient place, usually opposite one of the secondary structures such as the barn or stable. The placement implies no particular relation to the structure mentioned on the same line. Only when purposes of greater clarity are served, such as when there is no structure on a property, is the land is placed on a separate line and specified as a "lot" or "tract".

The area of lots and tracts is given in acres (A), perches (P), and square feet (F). Since some modern urban dwellers may not be familiar with all of these terms they are here clarified.

Acre	43,560 square feet, 160 perches, or 1/640 of a square mile
Perch	272 1/4 square feet or 1/160 of an acre (a perch is also a linear measurement of 16 1/2 feet)

When working with records as old as these, spelling varies a great deal and creates a few problems. When a name was spelled several different ways, for example: McDowell, McDowel, McDowal, yet was obviously the same person, the name was typed in the index as it was most often spelled in the tax lists. There were also problems with Stuart, Stewart etc. Some surnames beginning with M are sometimes found as Mc as in Mawhinie and McWhinie.

Every effort was made to sort out these spelling problems, but inevitably some will have slipped by. When searching for a surname it would be wise to check all conceivable ways of spelling the name.

The contents of this book were copied word for word in longhand from the original tax book in the Cumberland County Court House, Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

In the instances when there was some question as to the spelling, the name was enclosed in ( ).

Samuel M'Cormick's District

Samuel M'Cormick was born 1726 and died September 4th, 1803. He married Eliza Bowman, who was born 1727, and died October 7, 1811. He settled in Mifflin Township, prior to 1781. He first purchased the farm, now known as the Asper farm. This he sold and bought from William McFarlane, the farm below Doubling Gap, on which he died, now owned by W. H. McCrea. That he was greatly concerned for his own, and the spiritual welfare of the people over which he had charged, is evinced by his many letters to his pastor, on these subjects.

and common toil and labor, that whether masters, parents, children, or servants, they may the better dispose themselves to read the Scriptures of truth, at home, or frequent such meeting of religious worship abroad as may best suit their respective persuasions."

And thus Pennsylvania soon became the known refuge and true home of people of all creeds or religious faith. The foregoing was one of the first laws of the Province, and durng the lifetime of the great and wise Founder, the liberty of conscience was not questioned. At a later day, however, his religious adherents would have throttled toleration, had they not feared revolution.

Following the English settlers came the Germans, and, following them several decades later, came the Scotch-Irish, which means not Irish blood, but Scotch religionists who were of the rigid Presbyterian faith, who were compelled to leave Scotland and settled in the north of Ireland. So greatly were these people persecuted that more than eighteen thousand were put to death in various ways in defense of their religious convictions. Taxation and other oppression, no doubt, were the motives which about two centuries ago induced the Scotch-Irish to leave Ireland, and many found a home in the New World and obtained lands in Pennsylvania, New England and the older settled southern states.

The emigration began prior to 1718, although few in number, and, in illustration of the commencement of Scotch-Irish settlement in America, we herewith give the "memorial to Governor Shute, of Massachusetts, from residents in the North of Ireland." This article is important in this connection, from the fact that the greater number of the signers subsequently found homes in Paxton, Hanover, and Derry, of this county.

"To His Excellency, the Right Honorable Collonel Samuel Shute, Governour of New England.

"We, whose names are underwritten, Inhabitants of ye North of Ireland, Doe in our own names, and in the names of many others our Neighbours, Gentlemen, Ministers, Farmers, and Tradesmen, Commissionate and appoint our trusty and well-beloved Friend, the Reverend Mr. William Boyd, of Macasky, to His Excellency the Right Honorable Collonel Samuel Shute, Governor of New England, and to assure His Excellency of our sincere and hearty Inclination to Transport ourselves to that very excellent and renowned Plantation, upon our obtaining from His Excellency suitable encouragement; and, further, to act and Doe in our names as his Prudence shall direct. Given under our hands this 26th day of March, Anno Dom. 1718.

Richard McBride was born Dec. 25, 1792 at Carlisle, Cumberland Co., Penn and came to DeKalb Co. with his wife Samantha (Smith) McBride whom he married on May 15, 1823 the location in this county (DeKalb Co. Ind.) being in 1850 Here they bought a farm of forty eight acres of which he cleared about forty acres and put the same in good condition.

In the war of 1812 he was a member of the Home Guarde, and by the laws of the state became a voter at the age of twenty years for this service. In 1821 he moved to Ravena, Ohio and to Indiana in 1849 He was an active member of the Democratic party until 1863 when the Democratic Legislature refused to vote appropiations to feed and clothe the Indiana Union soldiers, and thereafter he allied himself with the Republican party.

Dear Sirs:

Do you have will or administration papers for William McBride & Samuel McBride? These two McBrides are in the 1820 Trumbell Co. Census.

If you have papers on these men will you advise me on the cost of photocopies.
I am looking for parents of Richard McBride born 1792 death 1879
Thank you for your kind consideration.

Yours truly,
Mrs Dayle T. DeVoe

Dear Mrs. DeVoe:
Our birth and death records begin with the year 1867. The marriage records are the oldest. The Probate Records are older but there is no file for these. I will be glad to look for any of these records but I will need a date.

EXPLANATION OF ORDER FOR PHOTOCOPIES

NAME
Mrs Doyle T. DeVoe
CITY, STATE, AND ZIP CODE
Kendallville, Ind. 46755

Please use the other side of this form to order photocopies of records relating to a person who served in the United States or Confederate Armed Forces. We can furnish photocopies relating to the following subjects:

a. United States (not State) pensions claimed on the basis of service before World War I;

b. United States (not State) bounty lands claimed on the basis of service before 1856;

c. United States military service performed after 1774 and more than 75 years ago and Confederate military service. (NOTE - We do not have information relating to military service rendered before the Revolutionary War or after 1916.)

Send us the completed form with one dollar. If you send more than one form at one time, your remittance should be for as many dollars as you send forms. Each order will be handled separately; so you may not receive all your photocopies at the same time. Be sure to enter your name and address on each form.

If we find a pension or bounty-land warrant application file which we believe relates to the person in whom you are interested, we will send photocopies of the documents we think most likely to be of interest to you. If no pension or bounty-land warrant application file is found, we will furnish copies of the military service record if one is available. If we do not find a file that appears to pertain to the person in whom you are interested, we will refund your money.

The military service records rarely contain family information. Furthermore, the record of a man's military service in any one organization is wholly separate from the record of his service in any other organization. We are ordinarily unable to establish the identity or nonidentity of men of the same name who served in different organizations. If you know that a man served in more than one organization and you desire copies of his military service record, a separate form and one dollar fee should be submitted for the service record in each organization.

If no reply is received to this order in six weeks, please write to us indicating the date of your order, amount sent, and the check cancellation date.

Smith, Noah, b. 1762 in Conn. d. May 11, 1845, 83 years buried in West Cemetery in Palmyra. His wife Hannah, d. April 16, 1858, 93 yrs and 3 mo. He came to Palmyra Twp. in 1806 - and is listed in the 1820 Ohio Census Index as living in Palmyra Twp. Regarding his birthdate - according to the Index of Rev. War Pension Applications: "Noah Smith b. Nov. 1751 New Fairfield, Conn; residente at enlistment Kent, Litchfield Co. Conn; resident in 1832 in Palmyra Co., Ohio; Hannah R.9819." The reference to Palmyra Co. is an error as Palmyra Twp. was obviously intended! He was pensioned in 1840 - then "Exec. Document 37: Refused a pension - served less than 6 months." See D.A.R. Hist of DeKalb Co by B. F. Bowen + Co. p. 893

Richard + David McBride

1847, the trip being made by team to Cleveland, thence by boat to Toledo, canal boat to Fort Wayne, and team to DeKalb county. Her father was a member of the Christian church, was trustee of his township one term, and also justice of the peace and road supervisor. He was a farmer, but also had learned the trades of butcher, carpenter, cabinetmaker, undertaker and shoemaker, following these several trades at times together with his vocation of farming. He assisted in building all of the early school houses, barns and bridges, and had exceptional talents in mechanical lines. He also made cheese for the market for fifteen years, having thirty to forty cows on the farm for this purpose. Fraternally, in early years he was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He was a staunch member of the Christian church and performed a great deal of charitable work which never reached public attention, giving generously, also, to all worthy church and public enterprises. Because of his upright life, generous disposition and genial nature he was beloved by the entire community and enjoyed universal esteem. Mrs. Rempis' maternal grandfather, Richard McBride, was born December 25, 1792, at Carlisle, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, and came to DeKalb county with his wife, Samanthe (Smith) McBride, whom he married on May 15, 1823, the location in this county being in 1849. Here they bought a farm of forty-eight acres, of which he cleared about forty acres and put the same in good condition. In the war of 1812 he was a member of the Home Guards, and by the laws of the state became a voter at the age of twenty years for this service. In 1821 he moved to Revenna, Ohio, and to Indiana in 1849. He was an active member of the Democratic party until 1863, when the Democratic Legislature refused to vote appropriations to feed and clothe the Indiana Union soldiers, and thereafter he allied himself with the Republican party. During the year 1863 he went to live with his daughter, Maria J. Thomson, because of physical disability, and remained in her home until his death which occurred on January 3, 1879. His wife had died in December, 1876, and they are both buried at Cedar Lake, Smithfield township. They were the parents of six children: Maria J., John, David, Lucy, Mary Emma and Sterling, of which number Maria J. is the only survivor. Mrs. McBride was a faithful and earnest member of the Christian church, and performed much effectual work for that organization in early days in this locality. David McBride, son of Richard McBride, was a member of Company I, Fifty-fourth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry. He died in the service and was buried at Mound City. His brother-in-law went to Mound City, had the grave opened and brought him back and buried him at Cedar Lake, Indiana.

James McBride took up a tract of land owned by Alexander and James K. McBride He built a cabin and lived there many years; later he erected the house his Grandson James K. now occupies. He had 10 sons. All are dead except Alexander the youngest, now over 80 years of age, and who still occupies a part of the homestead. The farm was divided between Alexander and William, whose son James K., owns the land of his father. Nathaniel, the eldest son of James, lived on the farm adjoining his father, but in Allegheny Co. Samuel, Isaac, David and John all settled near their father, Matthew moved to Canonsburg, James lived to be eighty-four years of age, and was buried at Robinson Church modern comforts and its surroundings display much good taste. Mr. Dinsmore cultivates all his land except ten acres, this being in timber, two acres being a valuable locust grove. He has a stable which accommodates forty head of cattle and on his Allegheny County farm he keeps 200 sheep and on his Cross Creek farm, 190 sheep, his flocks being valuable for every purpose. Mr. Dinsmore is recognized as a very able business man.

On February 27, 1868, Mr. Dinsmore was married to Miss Sarah McPeak, a daughter of James and Jane McPeak, and they have had eight children and five grandchildren, namely: Robert Walker, who married Rosanna McCarrell, a daughter of Leman McCarrell, has two children—Elmer McC. and Ruth Elvira; Margaret J., who died of typhoid fever; William McC., who died also of fever, when aged nineteen years; Sarah Ida Evelyn, who married Harry W. Denny, has one son, Jay McClay Denny; Anna Clarissa, who lives at home; Agnes Irene, who married Norman Russell, of Washington, has two sons; John Y., who assists his father; and Martha Elizabeth, who is a popular teacher in Mt. Pleasant Township. Mr. Dinsmore and family are members of the Reformed Presbyterian Church of the Covenanters. In politics Mr. Dinsmore is entirely independent and has never consented to consider any suggestion of his holding office. He has always been a busy man and has many reasons for being a contented one, having been able to accomplish a great deal in his seventy-one years.

JOHN BAVINGTON McBRIDE, the subject of this sketch, is a native of North Strabane Township, Washington County, Pa. He was born on the farm on which he has always resided, March 15, 1837. He received his primary education at the common schools of his district, supplemented by an extended course of study at Jefferson College, then located at Canonsburg, this county. A diligent and thoughtful reader of selected books and periodicals furnishing the best food for the mind, thus keeping himself posted in the current literature of the times. A close observer of men and methods, he was well qualified to take a leading part in all questions and enterprises of interest to the community for their moral and material development.

In his political predelections he has always been a leading Democrat . A stanch advocate of "clean politics," honest elections and honest men for election, he has held with characteristic ability various township offices. Without solicitation on his part he was nominated for the State Legislature in 1869, and again in 1890. Although in a strongly Republican district, he was defeated in each contest by less than 100 votes. Again in 1908 at the earnest solicitation of friends, he stood as opposed to ring rule, booze and boodle at elections and for a higher standard of citizenship, as a candidate for the Legislature and received the hearty support of the best citizens of the county, but failed of election, owing largely to the affiliation of the liquor and kindred interests.

He was one of the charter members of the "Oak Spring Cemetery Company," located near Canonsburg, Pa. Mr. McBride was twice appointed by Gov. Pattison to the board of managers of the Morganza Reform School. For many years he served on the school board of his district and worked for the efficiency of the schools, believing them to be the children's golden opportunity.

Mr. McBride's ancestral history is an interesting one. The great grandparents of the most numerous family of Washington County McBrides were natives of near Belfast, County Antrim, Ireland, where they lived and died. The great-grandfather's name was Nathaniel McBride and the great-grandmother's maiden name was Hamilton. The grandfather's name was James McBride and the grandmother's maiden name was Sarah Sprowls. Both were natives of Ireland, but were married in this country. Nathaniel and some other brothers never came to this country.

James McBride, when twenty-three years of age, came to America with his brothers, Samuel and Isaac, about 1772, and settled first on what was known as the "Washington lands" on Miller's Run, Washington County, Pa. Soon after their settlement here, Gen. Washington, at the suggestion of his agent, Capt. William Crawford, had a survey made of these lands, and on July 5, 1775, a military patent was issued to Washington for 2,813 acres from Lord Dunmore, Gov.-General of Virginia. In the meantime they, with other settlers, made improvements on said lands, believing, as Col. George Croghan, an Indian agent, informed them, that Washington had no rights there, and being advised by him to remain.

Washington's Journal shows that on September 19, 1784, he came to the settlement, but having learned that they were a religious people, deferred his visit until "Monday, September 20, went early this morning to view the land and to receive the final determination of those claimants" . . . . . "Obtaining a pilot near the lands, I went first to the plantation of Samuel McBride, who has about five acres of meadow and thirty acres of arable land under good fencing, a logged dwelling-house with a puncheon roof and a stable or small barn of the same kind. The land rather hilly, but good, chiefly white oak. . . . . Next James McBrides, three or four acres of meadow, twenty-eight acres of arable land, pretty good fencing, land rather broken, but good, white and black oak timber mixed, a dwelling-house and barn—of middling size—with puncheon roofs." His journal further shows that they, with Thomas Biggert and nine others, were ejected from their improved lands in 1785. Samuel McBride and family, with his brother Isaac, a bachelor, went to Mahoning in Eastern Ohio. James McBride, Thomas Biggert and several others of those ejected, settled in what is now Robinson Township, Washington County, Pa. These sturdy pioneer settlers felt that they were not justly treated by Gen. Washington, believing they were entitled to these lands from the Indian agent's claim, and their improvement according to the custom of the country. Ejected from these homes which they had literally hewed out of the forests—defeated but not disheartened—they again entered the forest to carve out for their families new homes.

James McBride selected 240 acres and in 1785 secured a patent named "Pumpton" from the receiver-general's office of Pennsylvania, which patent contained this unique clause: "Reserving only the fifth part of all gold and silver for the use of the Commonwealth to be delivered at the pit's mouth free of all charges."

This tract was owned successively by his sons, William and Alexander, and is now owned by his grandson, John C. McBride. Another grandson, William (now deceased), owned and his family still own and reside upon a part of the "Washington lands" in Mt. Pleasant Township. It is said that the McBride settlements were on the lands now owned by Luther Morgan, in said township. Mr. McBride's family was one of the three that formed the Associate Presbyterian Congregation of Clinton, Rev. William Wilson, pastor. James McBride died October 6, 1827, aged eighty-four years; his wife died March 6, 1838, aged eighty-one years. Both are buried in the Clinton Church Cemetery. They had an issue of ten sons, to wit: 1 Nathaniel, died in 1860, aged eighty-two years; 2 Francis, 3 James and 4 John at their deaths were aged 59, 69 and 88, respectively. 5 Mathew Hamilton, born in 1787, died March 12, 1871, aged eighty-four years. 6 Samuel died in 1887, aged eighty-seven. 7 Isaac died aged eighty-three years.

8 David died aged seventy-two years. 9 William, born 1797, died October 22, 1878, aged eighty-one. 10 Alexander, born in 1800, died November 20, 1885, aged eighty-five. By the help and industry of this large family of boys Mr. McBride accumulated a large estate, about 1,100 acres, which he divided among his children. Alexander McBride was one of the elders chosen at the organization of the Robinson Associate Congregation.

Mathew Hamilton McBride was married March 12, 1834, to Mary Bavington, daughter of Capt. John and Ruth (McKinnon) Bavington, one of the pioneer and influential families of Smith Township. They then took up their home in North Strabane Township.

To Mathew H. and Mary (Bavington) McBride were born three children, viz.: James Hamilton, who died October 23, 1862, from wounds received while in the military service of the State; John Bavington (our subject) and Samuel Bruce, graduated from Jefferson College, Canonsburg, Pa., in 1862, and at the call of his country enlisted in Co. G, (Capt. Frazier) 140th Reg. Pa. Vol. He was severely wounded at Fredericksburg and was discharged from service on account of this disability. As soon as his health permitted, he resumed his theological studies and was licensed to preach by the Chartiers U. P. Presbytery.

Mr. and Mrs. McBride spent the whole of their married life upon this home farm, where they brought up their children to manhood. They were members of the Associate, (now United Presbyterian) Congregation of Chartiers, and enjoyed the ministrations for many years of that venerable and notable pastor, Dr. Ramsey.

Mr. McBride was an old line Democrat, but never made himself prominent in politics. In educational matters, however, and every other question claiming the consideration of thinking men, he took a deep interest. He served as school trustee in his district for many years. Having taught school in his young manhood, he was able to act efficiently for the uplift of the common schools of his day. He was a progressive farmer and a successful stock raiser, to which business the best days of his long life were given. Mathew H. McBride died September 12, 1871, aged eighty-four years. His wife died February 12, 1873, and they are buried in Oak Spring Cemetery.

After his parents' death, John B. McBride obtained full control of the farm. On May 1, 1873, he was married to Alice, daughter of Maj. James S. Scott, of Washington County, Pa. An interesting family of six children have come to brighten their home, viz.: James Scott, born November 23, 1874, graduated at Washington and Jefferson College in 1897, mechanical engineer; John Bavington, born September 8, 1876, graduated at Washington and Jefferson College in 1898, practicing law at Pittsburg, Pa.; Charles Cubbage, born September 17, 1878, graduate of Duff's College; Samuel Bruce, born June 2, 1880, graduate of Jefferson Academy, Canonsburg, Pa.; Mary Alice, born September 28, 1883, graduated at Washington Female Seminary, 1903; George Wallace, born November 17, 1884, graduate Washington and Jefferson College, 1906.

The mother of these children dying November 17, 1884, Mr. McBride wedded on June 28, 1887, Frances Emma Jones, of Canonsburg, Pa. By this union there is no issue. The family are members of and liberal contributers to the Chartiers United Presbyterian Congregation, Canonsburg, Pa., and enjoy the respect and esteem of the entire community. Mr. McBride is engaged in general farming and stock raising. He is noted as a thorough and successful farmer in a region celebrated for its good farms and its model farmers. Like character and his genial personality have gained for him universal esteem and friendship. In the locality where he has spent practically his entire life he has always taken a leading part in the welfare of the community, having ever been willing to aid in those things which make for better educational advantages, better homes, better living and higher citizenship. Because of his sterling qualities of character, his loyalty to his country in the time of its need and his honorable career in private life, he is eminently deserving of the enviable standing which he now enjoys in this community.

In 1854 Robert McBride Lockhart, a brother to William McClaren Lockhart came to DeKalb Co. Ind

On Dec. 17, 1885 William McClaren Lockhart came to DeKalb. Co. Ind. and in the spring of 1856 their parents James + Jane (McBride) Lockhart came locating in Smithfield Twp, DeKalb. Co. Ind.

WILLIAM McCLAREN LOCKHART.

There is a scientific historical consistency in the compilation of publications of this nature, since here are perpetuated for future generations the life records of those who have been factors in the industrial and civic life of their respective communities and who have commanded the confidence and esteem of their fellow men. Such works are cumulative in value as the years fall into the abyss of time, and it is right and proper that the achievements of those who have proved themselves worthy in connection with the varied activities of their day should find such memorials as those offered in this connection.

William McClaren Lockhart was born on May [illegible], 1834, at Lexington, Richland county, Ohio, and was a son of James and Jane (McBride) Lockhart. The name Lockhart is believed to have originated in Scotland in the time of Robert Bruce, the famous Scottish chieftain. Sir Stephen Lockard was charged by Robert Bruce that in case Bruce were slain in a coming engagement Lockard was to take his heart out and put it in a small iron casket to return to Bruce's homeland. This he did and when the troops wavered in a desperate charge he threw the casket containing the heart into the midst of the enemy and bade the troops follow the heart of Bruce. They charged bravely, thus inspired, and won the victory. Lockard recovered the heart and returned it to its home and was from that time called Lockheart instead of Lockard.

James Lockhart was a native of county Tyrone, Ireland, and was a son of William and Mary (McClaren) Lockhart. He was left an orphan in infancy and was reared in the families of his father and his mother. He learned the trade of a linen weaver and at the age of twenty-five years emigrated to America with his uncle, James McClaren, and family, locating in Pennsylvania. There he was for six years employed at farm work, at first for six dollars a month, and later for seven dollars a month. He then learned the trade of a distiller in the employ of James McCullough, a Presbyterian preacher. Mr. Lockhart was in religion a Protestant, having been reared in the Baptist faith and a member of that church, but in America he united with the Presbyterian church. In Ireland he had been an enthusiastic Orangeman, strongly anti-Catholic in his convictions, and after coming to America was intensely loyal to his adopted country, and, though a Democrat in principle, stood firmly for the Union, recalling that on being naturalized he had sworn to support the Constitution of the United States. His wife, Jane McBride, was a daughter of Robert and Rosamond (Greenfield) McBride, who emigrated from the north of Ireland soon after their marriage, locating at Springfield, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania. Their parents both came originally from Ayreshire, Scotland. Robert McBride, a brother of James McBride, was a soldier in the war of 1812, taking part in the battle of Lundy's Lane. In 1854 Robert McBride Lockhart, a brother of William C., came to DeKalb county, Indiana, and began the erection of a sawmill in Smithfield township. On December 17, 1855, William C. came here, and in the spring of 1856 their parents, James and Jane Lockhart, came here, also locating in Smithfield township. From his early childhood until arriving at his majority William C. Lockhart lived in Lexington, Ohio, where he received a little schooling. When he was about ten years of age his father was caused a heavy financial loss by a dishonest partner, which reduced him from a competency to an indebtedness of five hundred dollars above the value of all his property. His creditors were called together and they told him to get rid of his partner, keep his property, continue in business and pay out as best he could, they having absolute belief in his honesty and integrity. This he did, and when William C. was twenty-one and his brother, Robert, twenty-three years of age, they had paid all but fifty dollars of the indebtedness and had a property of a value of nine hundred dollars. The financial condition of the family interfered with the education of the boys, who received but very little schooling, but they did the best they could and made the most of their opportunities. In the fall of 1854 William C. passed a teacher's examination and taught school with seventy-five pupils under him, in which he was very successful, being earnestly urged to take the school another year, but this he refused. The Lockhart brothers operated the mill owned by their father, part of the time night and day and a part of the time fourteen hours

NAME Mrs Doyle T. DeVoe
STREET ADDRESS R.R.1
CITY, STATE, AND ZIP CODE Kendallville, Ind. 46755

Please use the other side of this form to order photocopies of records relating to a person who served in the United States or Confederate Armed Forces. We can furnish photocopies relating to the following subjects:

a. United States (not State) pensions claimed on the basis of service before World War I;

b. United States (not State) bounty lands claimed on the basis of service before 1856;

c. United States military service performed after 1774 and more than 75 years ago and Confederate military service. (NOTE - We do not have information relating to military service rendered before the Revolutionary War or after 1916.)

Send us the completed form with one dollar. If you send more than one form at one time, your remittance should be for as many dollars as you send forms. Each order will be handled separately; so you may not receive all your photocopies at the same time. Be sure to enter your name and address on each form.

If we find a pension or bounty-land warrant application file which we believe relates to the person in whom you are interested, we will send photocopies of the documents we think most likely to be of interest to you. If no pension or bounty-land warrant application file is found, we will furnish copies of the military service record if one is available. If we do not find a file that appears to pertain to the person in whom you are interested, we will refund your money.

The military service records rarely contain family information. Furthermore, the record of a man's military service in any one organization is wholly separate from the record of his service in any other organization. We are ordinarily unable to establish the identity or nonidentity of men of the same name who served in different organizations. If you know that a man served in more than one organization and you desire copies of his military service record, a separate form and one dollar fee should be submitted for the service record in each organization.

If no reply is received to this order in six weeks, please write to us indicating the date of your order, amount sent, and the check cancellation date.

born to them seven are living. The father was an influential man in his neighborhood, and held several offices of trust. The mother died Oct. 25, 1855. Our subject received his early education in the district schools of his adopted county. When sixteen years of age he began to learn the cabinet-maker's trade, and served an apprenticeship of four years with J. & R. Ettinger, of Auburn, receiving $140 a year for his services. In August, 1862, he enlisted in the One Hundredth Indiana Infantry, Company A, and participated in the siege and battle of Vicksburg and battle of Jackson. While at Belfort, Ala., he was taken with rheumatism and was sent to the convalescent camp at Huntsville, where he remained till October, 1864, when he was given a furlough to go home and vote. After his return to Huntsville he was assigned duty in the light artillery service. He was mustered out at Nashville, Tenn., May 13, 1865. His health being impaired he was unable to work, and therefore attended school till the spring of 1866, when he went to Bureau County, Ill., and the following fall to Peru, LaSalle County. In 1867 he went to Omaha, and was in the employ of the Union Pacific Railroad till 1870, when he returned to De Kalb County and located in Waterloo. He was married in 1873 to Emeline Stroh, a native of De Kalb County, born Oct. 13, 1846, a daughter of William and Sarah Stroh. To them have been born three children; but two are living—Albert E., born Jan. 25, 1875, and Arthur A., born July 26, 1884. Frank W., born May 9, 1878, died Dec. 28, 1880. Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell are members of the Methodist Episcopal church. He is a member of Waterloo Lodge, No. 221, I. O. O. F., and Waterloo Post, No. 52, G. A. R.

Robert Wes McBride, Judge of the Thirty-fifth Judicial Circuit, was born near Mansfield, Richland Co., Ohio, Jan. 25, 1842, a son of Augustus and Martha A. (Barnes) McBride. His father was a volunteer soldier in the Mexican war, and died in the City of Mexico in February, 1848. His mother, now the widow of James Sirpless, resides at the old home, five and a half miles southeast of Mansfield. When thirteen years of age Mr. McBride went to Iowa and remained seven years. He acquired a good education in the common and high schools, and when seventeen began teaching in Mahaska County, Iowa. He taught three years, and in 1862 returned to Ohio and clerked in the hardware store of B. S. Runyan a year. In 1863

Augustus McBride died in Mexico City
During Mexican War.

he entered the service of the United States as a member of Union Light Guards, Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, an independent squadron of cavalry of picked men organized by Governor David Tod, and remained a member of this organization till it was mustered out, Sept. 14, 1865. After about eight months of active service he became disabled and was assigned to detached service as clerk, and served successively from clerk to a military commission at the central guard-house, Washington, and in the Adjutant-General's office till mustered out. He was then appointed to a citizen's clerkship in the Quartermaster-General's office, which he resigned the following November and returned to Mansfield. He taught school at his old home in the winter of 1865-'6, and devoted his leisure time to the study of law. In the spring of 1866 he came to Waterloo, Ind., and obtained employment as clerk and bookkeeper for R. M. & W. C. Lockhart, still continuing his law studies. During the session of 1867 he acted as one of the clerks of the Indiana State Senate, and at the April, 1867, term of De Kalb Circuit Court was admitted to the bar. In September, 1867, a partnership was formed with Hon. James I. Best for the practice of law, but in July, 1868, this partnership was dissolved and he practiced alone till December, 1870, when he formed a partnership with Joseph L. Morlan, the firm being McBride & Morlan. In 1876 William H. Leas was admitted to the firm which was dissolved by the death of Mr. Morlan, Aug. 23, 1878. After Mr. Morlan's death, Mr. McBride practiced alone till November, 1882, when he was elected Judge of the Thirty-fifth Judicial Circuit, composed of Noble, De Kalb and Steuben counties. Judge McBride was for several years Captain of Waterloo Rifles, Company A, Third Regiment, Indiana Legion, and is now Lieutenant-Colonel of the regiment. He was married Sept. 27, 1868, to Miss Ida S., eldest daughter of Dr. J. N. Chamberlain, of Waterloo. They have four children—Daisy I., born Sept. 25, 1869; Charles H., born Nov. 11, 1871; Herbert W., born Oct. 15, 1873, and Martha C., born Feb. 13, 1876.

McBRIDE BIBLE RECORDS

REFERENCE: Ohio Record & Pioneer Families, Vol. III, p. 179-183.
(Contributed by Eleanor M. David, 1446 Perry, Wichita, Kansas.)

The Bible, bound in rawhide and now in poor shape, was published in 1828 by H & E Phinney, Cooperstown, N.Y., and apparently obtained by John McBRIDE about 18130 for all enteries of earlier date appear to have been entered at the same time. Later entries are in different ink. The Buble passed to John's daughter, Maria, who married Lewis Cary Quaintance.

The Bible was that of John McBRIDE who was born 6 Sept 1782 in Frederick Co. Va., the son of Stephen and Hannah (SMITH) McBRIDE, Quakers. He married 11 Aug 1803 in Frederick Co., Va., not by Quaker ceremony, Ann MALOY, dau. of James and Rachel Carter Maloy. Between 1806 and 1808 John and Ann McBride, along with John's parents, moved to Columbiana Co., Ohio. In 1834 John and Ann removed to Crawford Co., Ohio. At first they lived in Holmes Twp., but later they apparently moved to near Mt. Gilead. Ann was buried at what was called in Quaker records "Sandusky" and John was buried at Gilead. He may have lived with his dau. Maria Quaintance. She lived at Mt. Gilead.

Dear Carolyn,
Thank you so much for answering my letter. I am excited because we may be connected! My John McBride's obituary says he was born in Kent Co. Ohio. Well I have never found a Kent Co. OH., just the city of Kent which is in Portage County. I will send you my family group sheet later but for now , here is my John's obit.. It came from an Auburn, Ind. newspaper and was given to me by my Aunt 20 years ago when I first started in this hobby. I recently found an obituary for my great grt grandmother's ,Anna C. McBride and that got me started on looking for info on John again.
Did you find Richard and Samantha McBride and their children on a census record? I have census records of John in Wilmington twp, Dekalb Co., and I think Smithfield twp. is next to it.

JOHN McBRIDE was born in Kent Co.,Ohio August 29th,1836 ,and died January 19th,1891 aged 54 years,4 months, and 2days.

He came to Indiana in 1854, was married to Catharine Krise June 8th,1858, united with the United Brethren Church in 1867. He was a good man, an affectionate husband, a kind father, and respected by all who knew him. He was one who stood by the church in its struggle against the unfruitful works of darkness. When the messenger of death came he was ready to go. He leaves a beloved wife,one son and three daughters to mourn. May the grace of God comfort the widow and help the children to follow Christ and meet their father in heaven.

Thank you again. Rita Sundstrom

Hi Carolyn,

Thank you for the info from Loralee - I did leave a message for her at the GenForum, but I see now she won't be able to tell me anymore. (Unless she has found more since then.) I would like to see the birthdates of the other siblings of Richard. I thought perhaps Roseannah was his sister. We may find the connection yet!!!! Actually the newspaper obit about William really does suggest that we are right!!!!! I was thrilled to find that & his biography, too. You are so organized - I love it!!!!! There is still hope for me, too!!!!!

I'm thinking that you have a picture of David McBride??? I would like to have a scanned copy of that. Do you have a scanner??? There is a fellow that says he has pictures of Maria Jane (McBride) & Joel Thompson, too. (Can't remember his name, but I do have it somewhere.) I would sure like to see those!!!! They sound like the same type pictures that we have of William & Mary (Hickox) Lockhart.

I will post the timeline when I get it finished - seems like I did one for the land records you sent me way back - I bet I have it saved on one of the zip disks!!!!! My computer crash really set me back, I will catch up again (I hope!!!!)

Good luck with your research!!!!! It is always exciting when you find something, but like you it seems like lately I just come to a deadend.... It will change!!!!! I just keep plugging away at it - I really want to look through the old newspapers & I know that's going to take awhile....

Thanks again,
Roxanne ☺

P.S. I'm glad you had a "Happy 4th of July"!!!!!

> Hi Roxanne - It's nice to hear from you. I am inclined to think that those Greenfields must be connected somehow to Roseanna. I had corresponded with Loralee in 2001, and I shared with her the Greenfield information I found at Carlisle. I had thought that perhaps Richard & Agnes were Roseanna's parents, but someone has suggested that the dates aren't right for that, so Richard may have been a brother. Your idea of making a timeline is a good one, and would probably help with this. We were in Pennsylvania earlier this summer. We did some research in York and Gettysburg and then stopped in Chambersburg on the way home. I was disappointed that there was not really much on the Greenfields there. The historical society librarian was very nice and helpful, but she kept saying that I really needed to look in Cumberland Co. Most of what she found for me, I had already seen at Ft. Wayne. It appears to me that the Greenfields were fairly prominent in Chambersburg, but the family must have either moved on or died out, or something. I had thought that I had sent you the brief newspaper articles on the Greenfields that I found at Carlisle, but it must be that I sent them to Loralee, instead.

I have a lot of dead ends in my research, which is a little discouraging. When I work on the New England families, I still find some material, but the Pennsylvania families are pretty frustrating. I would like to go to Lancaster Co. yet this year, but there are a lot of other things we need to do. I came back from York & Gettysburg without answers to the questions I went out with. The societies where we did research keep correspondence files on families, and I kept coming across letters asking the same things I wanted to know, without answers. Refreshing my mind on the research I had done and the information others had given me served to clarify my thoughts, and I realized that some of the information I had been given had to be wrong. More erasures on the family tree! I guess that is progress of a sort, though it doesn't feel like it.

You commented on the question of Richard McBride's birthplace - he may have been born in Springfield, but when asked for his birthplace, gave the nearest town he thought people would recognize. I sent for Henry Shatto's (grandfather of Rachel Shatto who married David McBride) pension papers for the War of 1812. In his application, he said that he was married in Carlisle. I have not found a record for this marriage. He may have been married there - or just named the most recognizable town in Cumberland Co.

I'm glad you enjoy the flowers. Yes, they have to be planted every year, as they are all annuals. Some of them would reseed, but unevenly. We spent a quiet 4th. Our grandson was with us from Sun. afternoon to Thursday afternoon, so we were glad to have it quiet. He will turn 11 this coming Wednesday.

I will go through the information I have on the Greenfields and send it on to you. Surely, someday someone will find the connection.

Best wishes,
Carolyn

It's in Montgomery County, so I went to their genweb site & discovered this:\par \par \pard\sb100\sa100 Crawfordsville Daily Journal, Feb 28, 1910: \cf1 Word has been received here of the death of WC [William McClaren] Lockhart at Waterloo, Indiana on Sat. The funeral occurred today. For many years Mr. Lockhart was in the saw mill and planing mill business in Crawfordsville, moving to Waterloo about 1883. He was 75 and for several years has been paralyzed. He was a cousin of Mrs. Cicero McCluer of this city.\par LOCKHART -\cf2\b \cf0\b0 1881 Montgomery County In History of H. W. Beckwith, p 307 (Chicago: HH Hill): W. C. LOCKHART, lumberer, Crawfordsville, was b. in Lexington, Richland County, Ohio May 27, 1834. His father, James was a native of Ireland his people having been driven from Scotland into No. Ireland during the persecutions. James, at the age of 25 emigrated to Pa, and there met his future wife, Jane McBRIDE. She was b. in Pa, Cumberland Co, and moved with her parents to Ohio. Mr. L. followed in the following year and was marr. \b [I suspected that!!!!]\b0 He was a distiller by trade, and learned his business under a Presbyterian preacher. Customs then were different to those of the present day, dealing in "ardent spirits" being supported by public opinion and engaged in even by the clergy. Mr. L. raised his family for years under its influence. In 1856 he removed to DeKalb Co, In and there d. Aug 16, 1877. \b [August 22, 1877]\b0 His wife d. Aug 20, 1857. \b [August 28, 1858]\b0 They were members of the Presbyt. ch. He was a member of the Soc. of Orangeman. W.C. L. was raised until 12 in the distillery. At that age he and his brother, Robert M. assisted largely by their mother, prevailed upon their father to quit the traffic and engage in farming. In 1855 he and his bro. built a sawmill in Dekalb Co., IN and engaged in the lumber business. In 1868 WC began the same business in Crawfordsville, and in 1869 moved his family to the same city. He built a sawmill on E. Jeff. St, which he still owns. He has since added a planing mill. He, in connection with his brother, owned and ran a saw mill in Parke Co. 5 years. In april 1879 he began the same business in Iowa and his bro. continues in the lumber trade in Dekalb Co. They have handled as high as 3,000,000 feet of lumber per year. In Aug 1861 Mr. L. assisted by Wesley Park, \b [Don't think this is right... Wesley Park is a place in Auburn, but he was sick so he didn't join up at this time.]\b0 recruited a company of soldiers in DeKalb Co., of which he was to have been 1st Lt. but owing to sickness with typhoid fever, the position after being held vacant for him for two months, was filled by the afterward Col. Auldrich. When well, in aug 1862 he entered as a pvt. in Co A 100th Ind Vol Inf and was elected 5th Sgt and promoted second sgt. In 1863 he was discharged on account of disability. He ret. to his home, and Dec 22, 1864 was marr. to Elizabeth E. Spenser \b [Spencer]\b0 of Shalersville Ohio. She died Oct 16, 1867, leaving one child, Jennie M. She was a member of the Christian Church. Mr. L. was next marr. May 6, 1879, \b [May 06, 1869]\b0 to Mary E. HICKOX, daughter of Joseph W & Sally (James) Hickox of Mansfield, Ohio. She was b. May 26, 1834 in Kent, Ohio. \b [May 26, 1833 in Brimfield, Portage Co., Ohio]\b0 They have one child, Robert W. She is a member of the Missionary Bapt Ch. He is a member of the societies of AF & AM ; IOOF; IOGF; and GAR and a staunch republican. \par Note: A lot of the info in this is close to what I have, but not quite right??? I'm not sure if it's typo error on the part of the submitter or what - need to look this up at the library for myself.... I may go through & put my dates & such in bold \b [ ]\b0 just so I know what to look for.... I did fix some of the punctuation errors (spacing mostly) & typo's I was sure of & took out the bold names!!!!!!\par 1878 Montgomery County Atlas (Chicago: Beers, p 54): Lockhart, Wm. C., PO Crawfordsville, Lumber Merchant, native of Richland Co OHio settled in this co. 1868. \par Union Township - People's Guide: Business was called "Lockhart & Brother"\par \b Now, the reason I'm typing this all up together!!!!! This is a long shot, but there are quite a few of coincidences here.... I decided that the name Cicero McCluer was probably not too common so I did a search at ancestry.com. I came up with 5 hits & they are all for the same fellow. 4 of them didn't go back with his wife's family & that's what I'm looking for. Well... The other one did & I found this, it's just a hunch, but I just wonder if her Richard Greenfield is a brother to our Roseannah (Greenfield) McBride??? This info was posted several years ago (I found more postings in the GenWeb posting place, I still need to go to the GenForum!!!!) I tried to email her but they keep bouncing, that's the reason I'm typing this all out right now - I don't want to forget!!!!!!\par \b0 Tree posted at: \cf3\ul \cf0\ulnone (I hope that works so I can find it again.... It worked from the email!!!!!)\par Info I'm interested in:\par Richard GREENFIELD: b. 1760; d. 17 Jun 1820 in Chambersburg, Franklin Co., Pennsylvania\fs24 \par \fs20 Nancy Ellen GREENFIELD: b. 1801 in Duquesne, Franklin Co., Pennsylvania; \fs24\par \fs20\tab d. 1861 in Lexington, Richland Co., Ohio\fs24 \par \fs20\tab m. I'm going to add a couple of her postings in this, also!!!!! Guess I'll add the email addresses I got for her, too - the first one said the mailbox was full & it gave another addy??? I didn't quite understand that, so guess I'll put them both in here & retype an email with both of them. Her name is Loralee Crookston. crookstn@erols.com & crookstn@starpower.net\par Guess I should add that I don't even know her connection to Richard Greenfield - if it's not direct line she probably won't be interested at all!!!!!! It does give us a few more leads though.... Guess I'll just add my whole email so I'll know where it is.... Well, I changed it just a bit (did it below, too) & sent to both of those addresses - will know in a few minutes if either of them went through..... Both failed.... I just went to the GenForum & have discovered more messages that she wrote back in 1998 - I'll leave a followup here for her - she may see it some day??? I did leave it - I took a LITTLE bit out of it though - I don't know if she'll ever see it, but at least there's a chance. I need to look through more of my McBride info that Carolyn sent, but I'm going to go ahead & post this whole thing at the site before I do that!!!!!!\par \b0 Hello Loralee, \par I am emailing about your Richard Greenfield. I have a Roseannah (Greenfield) McBride - GGGG Grandmother on my Mother's side of the family. Her birthdate is abt. 1757 & I'm not sure where she was born - in one biography it says that she & her husband are native of Ayeshire, Scotland. I just wonder if there could be a connection between her & your Richard? She named one of her children Richard, too - I just thought I'd email to see what you think & also to find out if you know more. \par The way I made the connection to your site is through my GG Grandfather's death notice in the Crawfordsville, IN paper!!!! It is short as he didn't live there anymore, so I'm going to copy it into this email for you to see for yourself. \par Crawfordsville Daily Journal, Feb 28, 1910: "Word has been received here of the death of WC [William McClaren] Lockhart at Waterloo, Indiana on Sat. The funeral occurred today. For many years Mr. Lockhart was in the saw mill and planing mill business in Crawfordsville, moving to Waterloo about 1883. He was 75 and for several years has been paralyzed. He was a cousin of Mrs. Cicero McCluer of this city." \par Family tree posted at: \cf3\ul \cf0\ulnone (I hope that works so I can find it again...) \par Richard GREENFIELD: b. 1760; d. 17 Jun 1820 in Chambersburg, Franklin Co., Pennsylvania \par Nancy Ellen GREENFIELD: b. 1801 in Duquesne, Franklin Co., Pennsylvania; \par \tab d. 1861 in Lexington, Richland Co., Ohio \par \tab m. Samuel SIBBET 4 May 1824 in Chambersburg, Franklin Co., Pennsylvania \par Mary Alice SIBBETT: b. 2 Apr 1834 in Funkstown, Franklin Co., Pennsylvania; \par \tab d. 8 Mar 1915 \par \tab m. Cicero MCCLUER on 24 Sep 1857. \par It's a long shot & I don't see where she ever lived in Crawfordsville, IN but it doesn't hurt to try!!!!! I've been working on the Lockhart Family for several years & just found this obit a few days ago.... I found another bio for him the same day!!!! How exciting - I didn't know that my William lived there long enough for any of this. He did live in Richland Co., Ohio, too!!!! I thought that was interesting. His mother (Jane (McBride) Lockhart) was born in Springfield, Cumberland Co., Pennsylvania.\par Roseannah GREENFIELD: b. abt. 1757\fs24\par \pard\fs20\tab m. Robert McBRIDE\par \par Jane McBRIDE: b. abt. May 28, 1796 in Springfield, Cumberland Co., Pennsylvania\par \par \tab m. James LOCKHART May 19, 1831 in Portage Co., Ohio\par \par William LOCKHART: b. May 27, 1834 in Lexington, Richland Co., Ohio.\par \par So, going by this William Lockhart & Mary (Sibbett) McCluer would be 2nd cousins!!!!!\par \par Let me know what you think!!!! Thank you!!!!!\par \par Roxanne Romine \par \pard\sb100\sa100\cf3\ul roxanne.romine@gte.net\cf0\ulnone\par P.S. Since I wrote this I have found that Cumberland County is right beside Franklin County - also found another posting that you made way back in 1998. It follows: \par I am looking for information on Richard Greenfield who lived in Carlisle in 1790 and then moved to Chambersburg. His wife was Agnes and known children, Hugh Greenfield d. 1838 and Nancy Ellen Greenfield b. 1801 and d. 1861 in Ohio. Hugh married Nancy Thompson in 1815 at Newville (she was from Springfield). After Nancy's death, Hugh Married Elizabeth Sibbet of Dickson. They lived in Franklin county, but after Hugh's death in 1838, Elizabeth moved back (1841 she was received back into the 2nd Presbyterian Church)to Carlisle and lived there until her death. Nancy Ellen married Samuel Sibbet in about 1820 and they lived in Quincy. Richard may have had another son named John. \par And, this message: \par I have very little information on Nancy THOMPSON. The information I have I got from the Historical Society in Carlisle. The information was taken from old newspapers and put on index cards. Nancy THOMPSON married Hugh GREENFIELD 14 Mar 1815 in Springfield, Cumberland, Pennsylvania. Nancy died at age 29 of consumption in 1822. So that puts her birth year about 1793. I know of one daughter, Mary Ann GREENFIELD, who died in 1836 in her 20th year (possibly the same disease?)\line\line I know nothing about Nancy's family. It is very possible that your THOMSON could be a descendent of a brother or of the same family. If I find out more, I will let you know.\line Thanks for responding. \par Our family lived in Springfield & at least one of the McBrides married a Thompson!!!! Someone told me that her Father (Richard McBride) was born in Carlisle, Cumberland Co., Pennsylvania on December 25, 1792. I really thought that he & all of his siblings were born in Springfield, but... It could all be coincidence, but it could be that our 2 Greenfield's are connected.\f1\par }

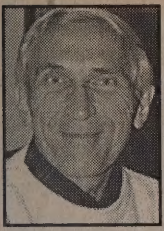
Judge McBride was bodyguard to Lincoln



BOB GAGEN

As part of his plan to emphasis the history of Noble County's 113-year-old Circuit Court room, Judge G. David Laur is searching for likenesses of the court's judges.

When Indiana became a state in 1816, its constitution provided for county courts presided over by a president judge who was advised by two associate judges. The appointed president was required to be a lawyer while associate judges were not. They were usually prominent, well-regarded local individuals elected by popular vote.

Indiana's new constitution adopted in 1852 did away with this arrangement and created circuit courts made up of one or more counties with a lawyer serving as circuit court judge.

Laur has chosen to display in his courtroom likenesses of judges serving Noble County since 1852. There are 21 of them, beginning with Elza A. McMahon, who served from 1852 to 1855, and concluding with Laur, present Noble Circuit Court judge.

When I last heard from Laur he had acquired either photographs or engravings of about half of the 21 he is seeking. When we met in the genealogy room of the Noble County Public Library recently, I was able to direct him to engravings of three on his list — James L. Worden (1855-58), Reuben J. Dawson (1858), and Hiram S. Tousley (1867-1872 and 1876-1882).

In a visit to the Waterloo-Grant Township Public Library last Saturday, I came upon an excellent engraving of Robert W. McBride, who served as judge of the Noble-DeKalb-Steuben circuit court from 1882 to 1888.

During that visit I came upon a most interesting bit of information about McBride. During 1864-65 he was a member of a cavalry unit that served as personal bodyguard to President Abraham Lincoln.

McBride was born Jan. 25, 1842, on a farm some three miles south of Mansfield, Ohio. His father was a volunteer soldier in the Mexican War and died in Mexico City in February 1848. At the age of 13 McBride went to Iowa and remained there seven years. After acquiring a good education in the common and high schools there, he began teaching in Mahaska County, Iowa. In 1862 he returned to Mansfield and clerked in a hardware store before entering the service of the United States in 1863 as a member of the Union Light Guard of Ohio, an elite volunteer cavalry unit made up of picked men and organized by Ohio Gov. David Tod.

Since early in 1864 this detachment, mounted on elegant black horses, had the responsibility of escorting Lincoln and his family and friends when they were traveling by carriage in Washington, D.C.

AP LASERPHOTO

During the Civil War Cpl. Robert W. McBride was a member of an elite cavalry unit that served as a personal bodyguard to President Abraham Lincoln. After the war he studied law and from 1882 to 1888 served as judge of the Noble-DeKalb-Steuben County circuit court and later on the Indiana Supreme Court.

It was said that the president repeatedly complained about his cavalry escort, insisting that he and his wife "couldn't hear themselves talk" during their drives because of the clanking of sabers and the clopping of horses' hooves.

However, at least on one occasion, this cavalry squad saved Lincoln from being abducted or worse.

It was generally known that the Lincoln family often spent time during Washington's steamy summer nights on the cool, leafy grounds of the Soldiers' Home, where a stone cottage was maintained for their use.

Familiar with the president's schedule for these visits, a Confederate officer and spy hiding in Washington enlisted the aid of several Southern sympathizers and plotted to seize Lincoln on one of his visits to his summer home, believing him to be lightly guarded.

Just to be sure of this the kidnappers' leader went to Lafayette Square, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House, to observe the president setting out on his journey.

"Imagine my astounding surprise and total collapse," declared the spy, "when I beheld the carriage of Mr. Lincoln moving out of the grounds of the White House preceded by and followed by a squadron of cavalry!"

So much for the attempt to kidnap the president.

Cpl. Robert W. McBride is mentioned twice in Carl Sandburg's massive biography of Abraham Lincoln.

One evening McBride was on duty by the front portico of the White House when the president came out and stood beneath a lighted gas jet. It was the duty of McBride to salute officers - and especially the commander-in-chief of the armies of the United States — by drawing his saber and holding it before him while standing at attention.

"Just how long he stood there I do not know," said McBride of the president. "I know he stood there so long I became very tired." Finally Lincoln noticed the corporal and gravely lifted his hat as a return salute and walked across the lawn to the nearby War Department.

While at the Soldiers' Home cottage in the autumn of 1864 the president would often stroll about alone in the evening, much to the discomfort of his guards.

One night about 11 a guard at the large entrance gate hard a rifle shot from the direction of the city. A few minutes later a bareheaded Lincoln rode up and said his horse had become frightened at the sound of a shot and jerked in such a way as to cause Lincoln's hat to fall off.

The sentry and Cpl. McBride then began a search for the president's familiar silk stovepipe hat. The found it down the hill from the gate "with a bullet-hole through the crown." Upon returning the hat to the president and drawing attention to the bullet-hole, Lincoln made some off-hand humorous remark about a foolish marksman and emphasized that he wanted nothing said about the incident.

(We would guess that Sandburg, researching for his 1936 Lincoln biography, came across the above information involving McBride from "Lincoln's Body Guard: The Union Light Guard of Ohio, with Some Personal Recollections of Abraham Lincoln," which McBride wrote and had published in 1911).

In the spring of 1866 McBride returned to Waterloo and began studying law while serving as clerk and bookkeeper at the lumber yard of R.M. & W.C. Lockhart in that city, while also studying law. In April 1867, he was admitted to the Indiana bar. For the next 15 year he practiced law in DeKalb County, alone and in various partnerships, and in November 1882, was elected Judge of the Thirty-Fifth Judicial Circuit composed of Noble, DeKalb and Steuben counties.

For many year McBride was a member of the Waterloo Rifles, Company A, Third Regiment, Indiana Legion, of which he became lieutenant-colonel. During this time he was an avid amateur archeologist.

Said to have been "an excellent circuit court judge for six years," he moved to Elkhart and practiced there for a short time before becoming a judge of the Indiana Supreme Court. After leaving that court he located in Indianapolis where he enjoyed a large practice, principally in the supreme and appellate courts. He passed away In Indianapolis in 1926 at the age of 84.

Notes for RICHARD McBRIDE: 1/31/2001- http://www.rootsweb.com/~indekalb/other/deathnotices.html - Richard McBride
Died in Smithfield township, January 3d, 1879, Richard McBride, aged 86 years and 9 days. The subject of the above was born in Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, December 23, 1792. Was one of the home guards of the State during the war of 1812, and by the laws of that State the home guards became voters at the age of 20. After that he never missed but three votes during his life. He came to Indiana in 1849, when it required one year to become a voter, then he missed two elections, and last October was not able to go. He was always identified with the Democratic party until the rebel Democratic legislature, of 1863, refused to vote appropriations to pay and feed Indiana union soldier; since that time he has been a staunch Republican. Pertinent Excerpts from: Biography of Theodore Rempis, pages 889/890/891/892/893, History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

Theodore Rempis was born on May 9, 1861. . . On October 19, 1887, Mr. Rempis married Elva Lillie Thomson, the daughter of Joel E. and Maria Jane (McBride) Thomson . . . On November 30, 1845, he (Joel THOMSON) married Maria J. McBride, the daughter of Richard and Samanthe (Smith) McBride . . . . Mrs. Rempis' maternal grandfather, Richard McBride, was born December 25, 1792, at Carlisle, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, and came to DeKalb county with his wife, Samanthe (Smith) McBride, whom he married on May 15, 1823, the location in this county being 1850. Here they bought a farm of forty-eight acres, of which he cleared about forty acres and put the same in good condition. In the war of 1812 he was a member of the Home Guards, and by the laws of the state became a voter at the age of twenty years for this service. In 1821 he moved to Revenna, Ohio, and to Indiana in 1849. He was an active member of the Democratic party until 1863, when the Democratic Legislature refused to vote appropriations to feed and clothe the Indiana Union soldiers, and thereafter he allied himself with the Republican party. During the year 1863 he went to live with his daughter, Maria J. Thomson, because of physical disability, and remained in her home until his death which occurred on January 3, 1879. His wife had died in December, 1876, and they are both buried at Cedar Lake, Smithfield township. They were the parents of six children: Maria J., John, David, Lucy, Mary Emma and Sterling, of which number Maria J. in the only survivor. Mrs. McBride was a faithful and earnest member of the Christian church, and performed much effectual work for that organization in early days in this locality. David McBride, son of Richard McBride, was a member of Company I, Fifty-fourth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry. He did in the service and was buried at Mound City. His brother-in-law went to Mound City, had the grave opened and brought him back and buried him at Cedar Lake, Indiana.

Polly BURROUGHS came from VT to OH about the year 1825. She was married to Mr. Wm. COOLMAN, proprietor of the Globe Tavern, which stood on the site of the present Etna House. Mr. COOLMAN was occupied much of his time at the courthouse, and in consequence the management of the hotel fell largely to Mrs. COOLMAN. She is remembered as a woman with a marvelous capacity for work and a model housekeeper. Some of the beautiful cut glass decanters and glasses which were used in their hotel are still in possession of the family.

Nor did Mrs. COOLMAN allow her household duties to entirely engross her mind, for she was a leader in social & intellectual circles. There were 3 sons & 2 daughters in the family. Her daughter Amelia was first married to Thomas BURGESS, and after his death to John G. McBRIDE.

Pertinent Excerpts from: Biography of Theodore Rempis, pages 889/890/891/892/893, History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company, Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

Theodore Rempis was born on May 9, 1861... On October 19, 1887, Mr. Rempis married Elva Lillie Thomson, the daughter of Joel E. and Maria Jane (McBride) Thomson... Joel E. Thomson was born at Shalersville, Portage Co., Ohio, on November 30, 1824, spending his early days in that place. He came to DeKalb county in the early days, settling on the well-known Thomson farm, Smithfield township, which, by hard work on the part of both himself and his wife, was developed into one of the best farms of the county, it being characterized by modern improvements in every respect. On November 30, 1845, he married Maria J. McBride, the daughter of Richard and Samanthe (Smith) McBride. One December 25, 1899, he fell and broke his leg, from which accident he was crippled for the remainder of his life; but he bore his affliction with patience and without complaint. His crippled condition, together with poor health and declining years, forced him to break up their home life and in 1902 he went to live with his daughter, Elva Lillie, with whom he afterward resides. He became a member of the Church of Christ at Shalersville, Ohio, when nineteen years of age, and through his efforts the Church of Christ at Cedar Lake, Smithfield township, was organized, he and his wife being charter members. Of this society he served efficiently as elder until his death, which occurred near Waterloo, June 12, 1903. Politically, he was a staunch Republican, taking a deep interest in local public affairs. He was the father of seven children, one of whom died in infancy, the others being: Cilicia A., deceased; Almira A., deceased; Francis Edwin; Ida Alice; Charles Sterling and Elva Lillie. Of these, Ida became the wife of Ameron P. Benjamin, a farmer, now deceased, and pillows, etc., for the sick and deserving soldiers; a great deal of credit is due the women, who so patriotically contributed to the needs of the soldiers. John L. Shatto, a brother of the wife's, was a member of Co. G, 44th Ind. V.I.; he died in the hospital at Evansville, In., and was brought home for burial; her grandfather Shatto was in the War of 1812, and he grandfather Leonard was in the Revolutionary War; the widow of our comrade married a second time, Frederick Harnes; they have one child, Eva M.; their address is Waterloo, DeKalb county, Ind.

5. ROSEANNAH GREENFIELD, born Abt. 1757 in Ayshire, Scotland?; died 20 Jan 1831 in Franklin, Portage Co., OH.

Notes for ROBERT McBRIDE:
Cumberland Co. History at a Glance- http://www.cumberlink.com/cumb/cumb.timeline.html - 1/31/2001
1725 - The Scotch-Irish came to Cumberland Valley settling along the Conodoguinet Creek & then along the Yellow Breeches.
1750 - Cumberland Co., encompassing 555 square miles, was carved out of Lancaster Co. on land west of the Susquehanna River.
1751 - What was known as the LeTort's Spring area was chosen to become the co. seat of Carlisle.
1753 - Benjamin Franklin came to Carlisle to negotiate a treaty with the Indians.
1765-66 - Courthouse w/office annex was built in Carlisle.
1776 - Three signers of the Dec. of Ind. were practicing attorneys in Cumberland Co. They were James Wilson, James Smith & George Ross.
1778 - Mary Ludwig, 23, became famous at the battle of Monmouth, NJ, by carrying water in a pitcher to thirsty soldiers & acting as a gunner. She became known as Molly Pitcher. She is buried in Carlisle's Old Graveyard.
1780 - PA adopted a law to gradually abolish slavery. But in 1800, there were still 228 slaves in Cumberland Co. & there was one as late as 1842.
1794 - Pres. George Washington came to Carlisle to organize an army to march to southwestern PA & quell the Whiskey Rebellion.

Children of ROBERT McBRIDE and ROSEANNAH GREENFIELD are:

2 i. RICHARD McBRIDE, born 25 Dec 1792 in Carlisle, Cumberland Co., PA; died 3 Jan 1879; married SYMANTHA SMITH 15 May 1823.

ii. Jane McBride, born Abt. 28 May 1796 in Springfield, Cumberland Co., PA; died 28 Aug 1858 in she lives near Cedar Lake, Smithfield township. She became the mother of nine children, one of whom died in infancy, and the others being, Orlie, Clayton, Marion, Jennie, Irma, Russell, Mary and Austin. Francis Edwin, who is a farmer in Smithfield township, married Laura A. Farrington, and they had six children, Carleton, Guy, Frank, Jay, Anna and Benjamin. Charles, who lives at Ashley, Indiana, married Elizabeth Parnell.

Mrs. Rempis' mother, Maria Jane Thomson, was born at Revenna, Portage county, Ohio, July 26, 1824, and in company with her husband made the long and tiresome journey to DeKalb county in 1847, the trip being made by team to Cleveland, thence by boat to Toledo, canal boat to Fort Wayne, and the team to DeKalb county. Her father was a member of the Christian church, was trustee of his township one term, and also justice of the peace and road supervisor. He was a farmer, but also had learned the trades of butcher, carpenter, cabinetmaker, undertaker and shoemaker, following these several trades at times together with his vocation of farming. He assisted in building all of the early school houses, barns and bridges, and had exceptional talents in mechanical lines. He also made cheese for the market for fifteen years, having thirty to forty cows on the farm for this purpose. Fraternally, in early years he was a member of the Independent Order of the Odd Fellows. He was a staunch member of the Christian church and performed a great deal of charitable work which never reached public attention, giving generously, also, to all worthy church and public enterprise. Because of his upright life, generous disposition and genial nature he was beloved by the entire community and enjoyed universal esteem.

James Lockhart, the aged father of Robert M. and William C. Lockhart, died of old age at the residence of his son, R. M., in this place on the 22d of August. The funeral services will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon, to which all of the friends and acquaintances of the family are invites. James Lockhart was born at Balla Golla, County Tyrone, in the province of Leinster, Ireland, August 17, 1793 and was in consequence 84 years and 3 days old when he died. He emigrated to this country in 1819 and has ever since been a good citizen and warm lover of his adopted country. Before emigrating to America he had become a member of the order of Orangemen, and was also a member of the Baptist church. After reaching his adopted home he attached himself to the Presbyterian church, of which he was still a member in good standing at the time of his death. He remained in full and unimpared possession of his intellectual faculties until within a few hours of his death, and then went into a peaceful slumber from which he passed away without a struggle, at peace with God and man.

Pioneer Women of Ravenna
Mary ABEL was born in 1770, and about the year 1803 came from Kent, Conn. With her husband, Moses SMITH, and their two daughters, to make their home in Ohio.

Mrs. Joel THOMPSON of Waterloo, Ind. says: "My grandmother, Mary SMITH was prompt and methodical in all things. In common with nearly everyone she worked up wool and flax to clothe her family. She would commence the work as soon as the sheep were sheared in the spring, and before winter the wool would be made into blankets and clothing for her family, with extra for possible needy ones. Her life was filled with a continuous round of home duties, and can only be of interest from a historical standpoint since it is representative of the lives of hundreds and thousands of noble women who laid the firm foundation for the beautiful superstructure which the women of today are raising

One of the few of the very early settlers whom we have been privileged to know personally was dear old "Aunt Judd." Her father, Moses SMITH, moved from Shalersville to Ravenna in 1804, when Lucina was four years old, and the remainder of her life was spent in this town. Mrs. JUDD was an ardent Christian, and when one came from her presence he felt the thrill of noble aspirations, even if only the most ordinary matters had been mentioned.

Mrs. JUDD and her husband were in perfect accord, and through their generosity many an aspiring youth with more brains than money has been helped to a thorough education, and because of it has been able to fill distinguished positions.

Mrs. JUDD was one of the first women to be baptized into the Disciple Church of Ravenna, and she never wavered in her allegiance to it. After the passage of the fugitive slave law their farm northwest of Ravenna village was one of the stations of the underground railway. This quiet little woman, with the resolute black eyes, was ever ready with food or clothing, with medicines or words of kindly cheer, to help the fugitives on their way to freedom. But life was not all work, nor all sacrifice, however sweet the toil may have been or how blessed the sacrifice.

"We didn't live then as we do now," said one plump little woman with silver hair, "but we had just as good times."

(husband isn't in 1860 census but if she was involved in the underground railroad, she should still be around - couldn 't find in Ancestry.com database. Try & research church)

Hi Carolyn,

Okay, 1871 - I wonder who it was for??? I've got to get the rest of the DeKalb County Cemeteries typed out - it may be in there somewhere!!!!!

Did you notice that the Cedar Lake Cemetery is on the DeKalb Site now, I transcribed it from the library's book. It has:
McBRIDE, D. A., Co. 1, 54th Ind. Inf.
________ , Mary L. (child stone nothing else read)
HARMES, Rachel, 1834-1912

& in the same cemetery, but not by them is a:
McBRIDE, Mary E., dau of M. McBride, d. 4 Nov 1858, age 21y, 4m, 12d

I wonder who that is??? There was a Mary E. McBride, age 13, living with Joel E. Thompson in the Sept. 6, 1850 Census for Smithfield Twp., DeKalb Co., Indiana. But I have Mary E. McBride, b. 1837, as a daughter of Symantha (Smith) & Richard McBride, is that what you have, also. I'm not sure where I got that because I was not listing my sources at that time..... I always do now!!!!! Anyway, she is buried by:
THOMSON, Almira, b. 5 Sept 1849, d. 5 Nov. 1872
Mary J., b. 26 July 1824, d. __________
Joel E., b. 30 Nov 1824, d. 12 June 1903

I suppose she could be Maria Jane's daughter before she married Joel E. Thomson, she would have been very young though, only about 13 or 14..... What do you think?

Thanks for the info from Robert McBride's will - I was going through my other email program this weekend (I haven't used it since the end of last year cause something is messed up with it & I don't know what.) . Anyway, I'm trying to get all of the old emails sorted out to make sure I don't throw any away that I might need & I found one from you that says your husband found the will on microfilm at the Ft. Wayne Library. That was back when Dad was having his heart trouble & Josh was leaving for college. I had forgotten all about it. Does it say when the will was made out??? That is a good find, I can't believe I didn't remember it!!!!! I just had too much going on right then. Dad is doing very well now & Josh is still living in Ft. Wayne, done with college for this year & no job. I'm not too happy with him right at the moment, but hopefully he will find a job soon. He is at that age where he thinks he knows it all, but doesn't really think ahead. I just can't believe he quit his job & hasn't found another one. Oh my.....

I wonder if I've missed anything else??? I knew I needed to get a little more organized here - I try, but it's a constant battle!!!!!

Good to to hear from you again & I hope you find something about our missing McBride Ancesters!!!!! I wish I had more time for research, but.... I just squeeze it in when I can.

If you want me to check on anything in my files, just to do some double checking, let me know. Also, want to tell you "THANKS again for letting me know about Augustus McBride's pension records that were at the Auburn Library!!!!!" I copied them this past week for Georgia Pirtle, who is his GG Granddaughter. She tried to send away for them, but they the National Archives say they do not have them.

Happy Hunting,
Roxanne :-)

Dear Carolyn,

It was so nice to meet you yesterday. The time went so fast!!!!! I really enjoyed it & hated that I had to rush out like that!!!!! I wasn't late to give Missy her stuff, she gets out at 10 after 3 instead of 10 til. Oh well, I would have rather waited than be late!!!!! I don't pick her up from school often because it is such a mess in their parking lot & I am usually working too!!!!!

I came home & looked at my FTM program & I have it in David McBride's notes that he may have married Orpha Stevens, I think I got that from something you sent to me. I'm going to have to start a notebook like you have!!!! That is a good idea to use locations as to where to keep the info in it. I wonder if the below is 2 different David's or if he was married twice??? Maybe that's why he left Portage Co.?

He may have married Emily L. Stevens in Portage Co., Ohio on 19 May 1825.
He may have married Orpha Stevens in Portage Co., Ohio on 16 July 1849.

That is also where I got the birth date for him (from you) in those papers you sent me that you copied from "History of the Big Spring Presbyterian Church" & it is the same as the cemetery. (I wonder if David (Richard & Jane's brother) was an editor or if it was his son that was the editor or maybe they both were & then the grandsons took over. I also wonder if Fred (from the cemetery) could be Wilfred??? That is so neat that you found that information at the Allen Co. Library!!!!! Was I suppose to send those papers you sent me a long time ago back to you??? I do still have them!!!!

About the War of 1812 - I still want to know what war that is!!!! I'm going to have to look that up. The father Robert would have been about 50 years old, while the son would have been 24, I believe. This is exactly what I have in his notes:

Robert was in the War of 1812 in the Battle of Lundy Lane. He got a disease from the war and died a few years later.

From the book, "Marriages and Deaths of Cumberland County, 1821-1830" - #511. 9 Feb 1826 - Died at Springfield Friday last, after a severe lingering illness, Captain Robert M'Bride, soldier of the late war, for several years one of the Commissioners of Cumberland Co. - in his 36th year of his age.
For this Robert, b. abt. 1790.

He may have married Mary Stewart in Portage Co., Ohio on 17 May 1835???? But he had already died, so..... must be a different Robert McBride.
So, according to William Lockhart - the 2nd one was his mother's (Jane McBride) brother. The age does fit for their family. I have a birth date or an abt. birth date for all of them except John.

Also - That E.S. McBride, Carroll St., Ins. Agent, b. Portage Co., Ohio, came Wisconsin 1858.
I wonder if that could be Edgar Sterling McBride s/o Marvin Gage McBride s/o Sterling McBride s/o Richard McBride - I got his name from Maureen Pierce. She lives in Arizona - she sent me her address once in case she dropped off the internet!!!!

And, finally before I go I do want to mention that poem - I read it while I was waiting for Missy to get out of school - that is terrible. It can't be the truth, can it??? I mean they had more children - it says that she lived with her grandparents and never came back home. I wonder who wrote that??? I'm going to go back to the library & finish copying that book soon. I started entering the people into FTM but I noticed I am putting all the dates in wrong!!!! I have 1 whole family done, too!!!!! I have to get that fixed before I forget. I think I'll do it right now!!!! And, I just took all the "p" out of Thomson, I still have 2 Thompson's that married into the Hartman Family & the Gushwa Family - wonder if they are related??? LOL Just kidding - I'm bad at that - I won't even think about it!!!!!!

Before I forget, I wanted to ask about that stuff being stolen from the Cedar Lake Church. Was it all taken at the same time??? And, if you ever think about it, ask your Aunt Lurah if she knew my Great Grandparents - Robert & Mamie Lockhart - I don't think Mom knows that they lived by the Cedar Lake Church, but that really makes sense because I know that Mamie's parents lived on that Ashley Road, too. I think I'll drive by there today maybe. Mom & I are going out to lunch with a couple of ladies that we worked with years & years ago, so we will be out & about anyhow. My Aunt Nan & Uncle Ben Quaintance just built a new house on that road - their son, Ben Jeffrey lives right beside them. I think that Mom mentioned to me that he said someone else lived around there & she didn't think so - I just can't wait to see if it is Robert & Mamie he was talking about. How interesting!!!!!!

Well, I just went to change those dates & they aren't wrong - meaning I did enter them right (I think.) I only had one date (I think, I'm getting myself confused here) & it is a coincidence that it was reversed, I think. You probably don't have Mary May Benjamin in your FTM, but you might - what do you have for her birth date - I got the one I have already entered from a Phillip Reinoehl who has it somewhere on the internet - he is my 3rd cousin, but I don't know him. I do know his parents, they are so sweet!!!!!! His Dad is the one that relates to Keturah Beth Benjamin that married Simeon Price Drew. You might know them - John & Marjorie Reinoehl??? Marjorie was a Hartman!!!!!

Now, it's a couple of hours later & here I am again, I can't remember if I asked you about this or not.

Now, in the Cedar Lake Cemetery Records I found this:
McBRIDE, Mary E., dau of M. McBride, d. 4 Nov 1858, age 21y, 4m, 12d
The year fits, but I thought she was Samantha (Smith) & Richard McBrides's daughter.

Well, Carolyn, there sure is a lot of McBride info at the DeKalb Co. Site - I went through part of it. LOL I have to quit for now!!!!! I started typing to a posting at the genforum, too - will finish it all later!!!!! It's a long shot but I just have to try it - will send it to you if he writes back to me & maybe even if he doesn't!!!!! I got off of what I was doing because I was trying to find something about that newspaper clipping your husband found a while back - that really bugs me, I'd like to know where he is buried & who it is!!!!! 1871 Kosciusko Co. "Mr. McBride's body was shipped to Auburn for burial."

Also, need to get that time line thing finished (it may be done) & sent to you or I'll print it off & give it to you if we meet at the library again. I hope this email is not too confusing!!!!!

More later,
Roxanne :-)

Dear Carolyn,

Dear Carolyn,

Much of the information that you sent me is the same as you have. Although, I do have two more siblings. Mary (Molly) GREENFIELD married John HUTCHESON (b. 1778 and d. 1855) at the Falling Springs Pres. Church on 16 Feb 1809. Molly died in 1832 of Cholera. She was buried in the Graveyard at the Falling Springs Presbyterian Church of Chambersburg (Church is gone, marker is still there.) They had six children: Elizabeth (married William Bolander of Carlisle, PA and went to Indiana to live, Eleanor Adaline (Married Johnthan Sloan and lived in Kettaning and died in 1900), Hugh Greenfield, and William J.G. Hutcheson. Two sons died in infancy. John was a justice of the peace nad owned an oyster saloon. John's father was Cornelius.

Elizabeth (Betsy) GREENFIELD, married Phillip HUTCHESON (brother of John). When Betsy died, Phillip married Mary QUARTERS. Elizabeth and Phillip were married in the same church, I have the marriage date some where, if you want it.

I have information on Hugh and Nancy Thompson's family, they had one daughter--Mary Ann Greenfield. She died at age 18. Nancy died from consumption and I think that Mary Ann died from the same disease. Hugh then married Elizabeth and had three children. Hugh died in 1838 in Greencastle. Elizabeth stayed there until 1840 and then moved back to Carlisle. I have information on their children, if you are interested.

It seems that Michael's children ended up in the adoption courts, I have those papers somewhere, too. I need to file everything so I can find it in a reasonable amount of time.

I found a John GREENFIELD living in Lancaster County after 1840. I don't know if this is the same John that owned the nail factory or not.

I don't know if this helps you at all. Nancy Ellen Greenfield and Samuel Sibbett are my ancestors. I was like you and only had a marriage date in the town of Chambersburg. But, over the years, I have found out quite a bit more about the Greenfield family. Some of my information I got at the Carlistle Historical Society, and through various contacts on the internet. It is fun to see the puzzle come together.

I know that one of Hugh Greenfield's daughter's moved to Ohio after she got married., but i believe she was about 50 when she got married, so the possibility of offspring was slim. I think the place she moved to was Greenfield, Ohio in Huron County. Hugh's posterity literally died out. His son, Lewis Thompson Greenfield, had 8 children of which only 2 grew to adults and they didn't marry. HIs other daughter didn't marry and I don't know about the one who moved to Ohio.

Let me know if I can help you in any other way.

Thanks,

Loralee

BIG SPRING

OR,

AN HISTORICAL SKETCH

OF

OF

BY THE

REV. ALFRED NEVIN,

OF THE PRESBYTERY OF CARLISLE.

> "Walk about Zion, and go round about her: tell the towers thereof. Mark ye well her bulwarks, consider her palaces, that ye may tell it to the generation following."—Ps. xlviii. 12, 13.

tensely the power of that Word of God which he preached to others. But he has fought a good fight; he has finished his course, he has kept the faith, and now we confidently trust he is in possession of that Crown of Righteousness which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will give to all them that love his appearing."

Soon after the withdrawment of Dr. Williams from the church at Big Spring (1830), the Rev. Robert McCachren, a native of Chester County, and a licentiate of the Presbytery of Newcastle, was called to be its pastor. This call he accepted, and in this relation he continued until it was resigned in October, 1851. Mr. McCachren's labours among that people were not without encouraging success. The number of members added to the congregation during his connexion with it, was four hundred and eighty-five. During the second year of his ministry the church was favoured with a season of the revival of religion, which resulted in an accession of seventy-three to the list of communicants. Some of the precious fruits of that awakening remain there to this day. Mr. McCachren since his resignation has not accepted of another charge, but still resides in Newville, and has the supervision of a classical academy of that place.

From him we have learned that the earliest elders of Big Spring, now known, were, John Carson, John McKeehan, John Bell, David Ralston, Sr., Thomas Jacobs, Alexander Thompson, William Lindsay, Atcheson Laughlin, all of whom served under the ministry of the Rev. Samuel Wilson, and some of them part of the time of his successor. The session at present consists of the following members: Robert McElwain, William Ker, Samuel Davidson, James McIlhenny, William Green, James Fulton, Samuel McKeehan.

It is with Newville, as with other localities in Cumberland Valley—in gazing upon it the mind is filled with amazement at the mighty change which has taken place. The time is almost within the memory of some who live, when the dark shadows of the gloomy forest fell upon all that region, and the savage Indian roamed over the surrounding hills and valleys; but now the eye is there called to survey a thriving village in which there are three churches for the worship of God, the circumjacent country highly cultivated and thickly inhabited, with a moral and religious population, the rushing railcar bearing the traveller along with dizzying speed, and the quiet magnetic wires annihilating both time and space with the electric celerity of their communication.

The first church erected at Big Spring, stood in the graveyard now in use by the congregation, within a few rods of the present building, and was erected about the year 1738. From all the information we can obtain in regard to it, it was a plain log building, such as we have described as being the first places of worship for several of the surrounding congregations, and like them it had a "study" attached to it. It seems to have been the opinion of our fathers that the minister of the sanctuary, should have some place near to it, from which, at least, he could come forth into the pulpit with his mind undistracted by conversation with the members of his flock, and his heart elevated by its communing with heaven. And we are free to acknowledge that we have no disposition to differ from this idea. Surely such an arrangement much better comports with the sacredness and effectiveness of the service to be performed, than does that which now so generally prevails.

At what time precisely the present edifice at Big Spring was erected, we are not able to say, but it was in all probability during the early part of the ministry of the Rev. Mr. Wilson. Until the year 1842, it was a plain stone building, having three doors, with the pulpit on the north side, and pews with high straight backs, and, on the whole, indicating far more regard for the essential than the comfortable and the ornamental; but at that time it was remodelled in modern style, and now ranks with the handsomest churches in the Presbytery. It is capable of accommodating about six hundred persons. The site which it occupies, a few rods northward from the town, is a most eligible one, and from it there is a beautiful view of the surrounding neighbourhood. Back of it, at a short distance, rolls gently along the clear and lovely stream from which it has received its name, and which for ages has been flowing on, apparently the same, whilst the crowds that have weekly been gathering on its brink, have, one after another, lain down within the sound of its murmurs, to sleep the sleep that knows no waking till the resurrection trumpet shall utter its voice.

Let us now take a view of the burial-place at Big Spring. A graveyard is always a solemn and interesting spot, whether we find it in the heart of a bustling and noisy city, where the present too much overpowers both the past and the future, or in the deep bosom of the country, where unbroken stillness reigns around, subduing the heart for the touching but wholesome lesson which it ought to learn, as the eye is fixed upon the resting-place of the dead. "While we cannot," says one, "subscribe to the doctrine of Chateaubriand, that the existence of graveyards, and our veneration for tombs, are convincing arguments for the truth of Christianity, we own that the influence emanating from the place of sepulture is by no means small; that the solemn shades of the burial-ground are congenial with a certain class of emotions which are natural to the human breast, and that there are voices thence which speak in impressive tones, for they seem to come from the very borders of the spirit-land. Hence the interest which some minds take in consecrated grounds, in God's acre, as the burial-place has been sententiously termed. Of those who have committed a friend to the last repose, there are few indeed who have not a secret sympathy for the spirit of the place." Many, very many there are

CALL FROM THE CONGREGATIONS OF CARLISLE AND LOWER PENNSBOROUGH TO THE REV. JOHN STEEL.

"Whereas at the union of the congregations of Carlisle and Lower Pennsborough in April, 1764, it was agreed that each congregation should pay seventy-five pounds to Mr. John Steel, our minister, as stipends, yearly and every year from time of said union, and said agreement was signed by six men of each congregation in the name and behalf of said congregations,

"Now in order to give ease and relief to said six men who signed in behalf of the congregation of Lower Pennsborough, and at the same time to secure to our said minister his yearly stipends, said congregation have this day concluded that forty-two men shall give their promissory note to said John Steel for his yearly stipends, and that said forty-two men shall be a fix'd committee of said congregation, and have power to regulate seats and order all the other affairs of said congregation.

"Therefore, in consequence of said agreement, and to answer the above said ends, we the subscribers, with the consent and by the appointment of said congregation, do offer ourselves and accordingly become jointly bound to Mr. John Steel, our present minister, to pay him, yearly and every year, the sum of seventy-five pounds, good and lawful

tter. Their report was filed January 11, 1820, ded being substantially as described in the petiaused some dissatisfaction. In a second report, 1822, the following terse description of the line was submitted to the court: "Beginning at the mouth of Jacob Guy's mill-race, thence north twelve degrees west to Isaac Justus' on the Beaver county line." This was confirmed at the following term of court, the portion bordering upon Washington county receiving the name of Findlay, in honor of Gov. William Findlay, one of the ablest men upon whom the honor of that position was ever conferred. He was born at Mercersburg June 20, 1768, of Scotch-Irish origin, and was early prominent as a democratic legislator. He was state treasurer, 1807–17; governor, 1817–20; United States senator, 1821–27; treasurer of the United States mint, 1827–41; he died November 12, 1846.

Prior to 1820 the following residents in Findlay township are remembered: James McNall and sons John and James; David McAdam and sons Alexander and James; Samuel Maloney and sons Samuel, Alexander, William and Robert; James McBride and sons John, David, Matthew, Isaac, Alexander, Nathaniel and Francis; Nicholas Swearingen and sons John and Nicholas; Charles Morgan and sons John, Simon, James and Daniel; Alexander Burns and sons William, Thomas, John, Samuel, Robert, Alexander, George and James; James Stewart and sons John, Richard, Thomas, James and Joseph; Rev. William Wilson and sons William, James, Robert, Samuel and John; —— Charles and sons John, Elisha and Elijah. In addition to these the Purdys, Eatons, Vandermarks, Guys, McMinns, Jeffreys, Byerses, Harpers, Cooks, Cavitts, Morrisons and Springers are remembered as early residents.

At an early day a gristmill stood on Montour's run, a mile below Imperial; the name of its builder is not remembered, but William Guy conducted it as early as 1820. Horse-power was used here in times of drouth, and subsequently a steam-engine was added. It has been but little used for the last twenty years. Forbes' mill, on Potato Garden run, and Strouse's mill, on the same stream, were in operation long ago. Both have gone to decay.

The village of Imperial was laid out by the Imperial Coal company, ten years since. Prior to that its site was the farm of Robert Wilson. The population is largely composed of miners and their families, and numbers about six hundred. Most of the houses are owned by the company. The town is superior in some respects to ordinary mining villages.

The company now operates three mines—two on Montour's run, in North Fayette township, and one at Bower Hill, on the Pan Handle road. The two first named are operated by wire-rope haulage. The daily output of the three mines is one thousand tons. The company operates coke-works on the line of the Montour railroad, near Montour junction. There are 102 ovens here, and a coke-crusher, for preparing domestic coke, has recently been added.

The Montour railroad, though a distinct organization, is under the control of this company. Four hundred men are employed in the mines of the company, at the coke-ovens and on the railroad. The officers of the company are U. A. Andrews, president of the Imperial Coal company; William McCreery, of the railroad, and F. L. Shellenberger, superintendent of both.

was annexed to the county. "Beginning at the mouth of Jacob Day's mill run, thence north twelve degrees west to Isaac Jacobs' on the Beaver county line." This was confirmed at the following term of court, the portion bordering upon Washington county receiving the name of Findley, in honor of Gov. William Findlay, one of the oldest men upon whom the honor of that post was ever conferred. He was born at Mercersburg, June 20, 1768, of Scotch-Irish origin, and was early prominent as a democratic legislator. He was state treasurer, 1807–17; governor, 1817–20; United States senator, 1821–27; treasurer of the United States mint, 1827–41; he died November 12, 1846.

Prior to 1800 the following residents in Findley township are remembered: James McNall and sons John and James; David Mulhern and sons Alexander and James; Samuel Mahaney and sons Samuel, Alexander, William and Robert; James McBride and sons John, David, Matthew, James, Alexander, Nathaniel and Francis; Nicholas Bennington and sons John and Nicholas; Charles Morgan and sons John, Robert, Jacob and Daniel; Alexander Burns and sons William, Thomas, John, Samuel, Robert, Alexander, George and James; James Stewart and sons John, Richard, Thomas, James and Joseph; Rev. William Wilson and sons William, Jacob, Robert, Samuel and John; —— Clarke and sons John, Elisha and Elijah. In addition to these the Gurleys, Nelsons, Vandermarks, Orrs, McMillans, Jeffreys, Hymers, Harpers, Cooks, Carsons, Harwoods and Spragues are remembered as early residents.

At an early day a gristmill stood on Montour's run, a mile below Imperial; the name of its builder is not remembered, but William Gray conducted it as early as 1820. Horse-power was used here in times of drouth, and subsequently a steam-engine was added. It has been but little used for the last twenty years. Harbel mill, on Potato Garden run, and Stewart's mill, on the same stream, were in operation long ago. Both have gone to decay.

The village of Imperial was laid out by the Imperial Coal company, its proprietors. Prior to that its site was the farm of Robert Wilson. The population is largely composed of miners and their families, and numbers about six hundred. Most of the houses are owned by the company. The town is superior in some respects to ordinary mining villages.

The company now operates three mines—two on Montour's run, in North Fayette township, and one at Rover Hill, on the Pan Handle road. The two first-named are operated by wire-rope haulage. The daily output of the three mines is one thousand tons. The company operates coke works on the line of the Montour railroad, near Montour junction. There are 108 ovens here, and a coke-crusher, for preparing domestic coke, has recently been added.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA, WHERE HENRY McBRIDE WAS ONE OF THE EARLIEST SETTLERS IN FAYETTE TOWNSHIP.

OF FAYETTE TOWNSHIP, ALLEGHENY COUNTY,
PENNSYLVANIA 1740 - 1840

THE FAMILY OF A REVOLUTIONARY WAR VETERAN

THE HENRY McBRIDE FAMILY

Henry McBride was one of the earliest permanent settlers in what is today North Fayette Township, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. He and his young family came to this region from Maryland prior to the Revolutionary War about 1773 (and possibly as early as 1771). They settled on a large tract of thick virgin forest which they painstakingly cleared and farmed over the years. Here they planted their roots and descendants of this hardy frontier people are still deeply entrenched in the area where the family first settled.

1733 TO 1764

Henry McBride was born about 1733, probably in Scotland. He married his wife, Gennet Alexander (sometimes found in records called Jane) prior to 1755. They married in Scotland but fled to Ireland to escape religious persecution. In 1764, they immigrated to America from Ulster, Ireland and landed in Baltimore, Maryland. (Note 1)

They settled in Maryland for six to eight years and in the early 1770s they migrated from Maryland into the dense wilderness west of the Appalachian Mountains. Traveling with their children, livestock and a small group of friends, the Samuel Jeffrey family, they settled in the thick and dangerous forests along Montour Run, just a few miles west of Fort Pitt. (Note 2)

Henry and Gennet's son, Archibald, was born in Maryland about 1765. He would have been about eight years old at the time of the family's migration in 1773. (Note 3)

Henry and Gennet McBride had at least seven children and there may have been others. Of the seven, there were: Archibald, Martha, Mary, Jane, Margaret, and possibly two other sons whose names I do not know. The 1790 census indicates that there may have been five children still in the household at that time; two sons and three daughters. Archibald and Martha were already married and on their own by then. How are you doing? If you aren't doing anything on the 4th, you can come over and visit me if you want to. Scott and the kids will be at his mom's and I will have the day off of work.

Last night Emily & I went to the fund raiser meeting at the daycare. The children are writing to celebrities to see if they will send something for the auction. I suggested that someone contact Colin Powell and Laura Bush(since they were contacting the President). She has written to Bill Cosby, Mia Hamm, Shaggy and one of the boy bands. We also suggested that someone might write to the NASCAR drivers. If you can think of anyone famous that would be likely to respond to the children let me know.

Round one goes to your daughter. David was obviously not listening to me when I told him he could not bring his dog over into my yard. He brought the dog over yesterday when Emily & I were leaving. I told Scott, that I did not want to see the dog in my yard again. Scott says I won't. Now I have the feeding-them-all-the-time battle to fight. I guess it was just assumed that I would be feeding both families. I think I'll suggest to Scott that David and Tammy need to start fixing their own meals and buying their own groceries or he'll have to get a second job so that we can afford to keep two families. (I have signed a contract with Jayco that includes a statement that I will not take a second job).

I have decided that I will not replace the coffee maker. Scott will just have to go without. I am however going to get a replacement for my cast iron skillet that disappeared. (and maybe a few more pieces). Yes, I am being vindictive about him giving away our stuff, but the skillet part just really ticked me off.

Karen said that Dan's back is doing better, they got a new bed and a new recliner.

Love you both,

Lisa

I could use it all. Prior to my contact with Roxanne, I was stuck at Sterling McBRIDE. Earliest thing I had on him was the 1850 census where he was living with Lucina & Charles JUDD. I tried to look around on the internet and ancestry.com but didn't come up with anything.

I've got 4 year old twins who won't start Kindergarten til the 2002 school year so it'll be awhile before I do any type of research that's not internet based. :(

Attached is a WORD document showing what I have on Sterling's ancestors so far. Shoot, was going through this document & I just realized why I was so frustrated not finding Smithfield in DeKalb County. I was in IL, not IN. What a difference one little letter can make . . . . :)

Hi Carolyn,

Here are the biographies from the Richland County Book. I'm confused on the Roberts, I thought this was our Robert's son Robert: From the book, "Marriages and Deaths of Cumberland County, 1821-1830" - #511. 9 Feb 1826 - Died at Springfield Friday last, after a severe lingering illness, Captain Robert M'Bride, soldier of the late war, for several years one of the Commissioners of Cumberland Co. - in his 36th year of his age. But, now I'm wondering.... Too many Roberts!!!!! I'll work more on this later, but did want to get the biographies sent to you. Let me know if you think they may be related.

History of Richland Co., Ohio - 1880 (Compiled by A. A. Graham)

Page 843 (Monroe Township, Richland County, Ohio)McBRIDE, ALEXANDER, farmer, was born in Hampshire Co., Va., April 11, 1798. His father's name was Thomas McBride; his mother's maiden name was Mary McVicker. His father was a native of Ireland; he emigrated to the United States about the year 1785. His mother was of Scotch-Irish descent. Thomas McBride, after his marriage, resided in Hampshire Co., Va., till the spring of 1817. In the spring of 1816, he came to Ohio, and entered the south half of Sec. 15, in Monroe Township. The spring following, he removed his family to this farm, which at that time was a dense forest. He continued to reside on this farm as long as he lived. He raised a family of seven children, five sons and two daughters; their names in the order of their births are: Alexander, Agnes, John, Archibald, Duncan, Wilson, and Mary; Alexander and John are the sole survivors of this family. Thomas McBride and wife were active members of the United Presbyterian Church for many years, and were much respected for their many virtues. he departed this life April 27, 1824, and was the first one buried in the Odd Fellows' Cemetery, near Lucas; he died in his 54th year. His wife died May 8, 1833, and was buried beside her husband; she was 60 years old when she died. Thomas McBride's brother, Alexander, who died May 15, 1825, in his 77th year, is interred in the same cemetery. The subject of this sketch being the eldest of his father's family, the burden of hard labor fell upon his shoulders. Being brought up in the woods, he withstood the dangers, and endured all the hardships, toils and privations incident to pioneer life. He had but few facilities for acquiring knowledge, but he made good use of those few. He remained with his father, assisting him in improving and cultivating his farm, till the 17th of March, 1825, when he was united in marriage to Miss Ruth J., eldest daughter of Benjamin and Susannah Barnes, of Washington Township. her mother's maiden name was Jones. he parents were both born in Maryland, and were of English descent; they came to the county at a very early day, and settled in Washington Township, on the farm now owned by the heirs of John Ford. Shortly after his marriage, Mr. McBride purchased 50 acres of land in Sec. 7, Monroe Township, which farm he improved and cultivated, and, by dint of hard labor and rigid economy on the part of himself and wife, he was enabled to add piece by piece, until he had a farm consisting of 100 acres. He subsequently purchased 103 acres, situated in Secs. 7 & 19 of this township. Mr. and Mrs. McBride are the parents of eleven children. The names of those who survived the period of infancy are as follows: Jackson, Thomas, Benjamin Franklin, union, Susan M., John A., James J., and Wilson S. Jackson was married to Susan Douglas, by whom he had four children, two sons and two daughters. He was a teacher and farmer by occupation. He died April 28, 1859, and was buried with the honors of Odd Fellowship, in their cemetery near Lucas. John A. died Aug. 13, 1841, and is buried in the same cemetery. Thomas is one of the most prominent lawyers in this county. Mr. McBride, in his younger days, was a man of great energy, as also a man of more than ordinary intelligence. He took a very active part in the improvements that were then being made in his township and county. He was one of the leading men of that early day. he held the office of Justice of the Peace for nine years in his township. he also held several other township offices for several terms. At that early day, Uncle Sam was not as wealthy as he subsequently became. The coffers of the Township Treasurer of Monroe were empty. Orders had accummulated in the hands of her officers, and there was no prospect of their being paid. A number of these officers (among whom was Mr. McBride) assembled at Lucas one day, to consult over this financial question. It was proposed by one of their number that John Iler should load their orders in his gun and shoot them away. This was accordingly done, and in this summary manner the township was freed from debt. Mr. McBride served as Township Clerk for eight years, and found his own stationery, without any compensation whatever. The ninth year he received a very inadequate remuneration for his services. He was a candidate the tenth year, but the office was then beginning to pay; he had competition, and was defeated. Mr. McBride united with the United Presbyterian Church at Mansfield, in the year 1841. He still retains his membership there, though of late years he has not been able to attend, owing to his advanced age, and the distance to be traveled. About twenty-five years ago, Mrs. McBride united with the Lutheran Church at Lucas. About the year 1870, Mr. McBride sold his real estate, and made a distribution of his property among his children, reserving a portion for the support of himself and wife during their declining years. From that time till the present, they have resided with their children. For the last seven years they have lived with their son-in-law, Samuel Barr. Mr. McBride hauled the poles to make a shed to cover the bricks that were used in building the first brick church in Mansfield. This was about 1821. His father subscribed $50 and his mother $10 to the building of this church. He signed the prospectus for the first paper printed in the county. It was called the Olive, and was published by Robert Crosthwart. It was first published about the close of the year 1818, or the first of the year 1819. It subsequently changed names and proprietors several times, and finally passed into the hands of John Y. Glesner, who christened it the Shield and Banner. Mr. McBride continued to take this paper till the year 1871. There is, perhaps, no man living in the county today, who came as early as Mr. McBride, who had attained man's estate when he came here. He and his good wife have shared joys and sorrows of married life for a period of fifty-five years. He is 82 years old, quite hard of hearing, but intelligent for a man of his years. She is 73 years old, hale and hearty, and in full possecession of her mental faculties.

McBRIDE, DUNCAN (deceased); he was born in Hampshire Co., Va., June 11, 1807, and moved with his parents to Richland Co. in 1817; they settled on mile north of what is now the village of Lucas, in their log cabin, which for a time had no floor but the earth; when a floor was had, it was the puncheon floor quite common in that day; a quilt was hung up for a door. Duncan McBride was of Scotch and Irish extraction, his father having eimigrated to this country from the North of Ireland when but a small boy; one of the anecdotes related by him was concerning their experience with porcupines. In those days they put bells on their horses and turned them out in the woods. In hunting for them they were very apt to run across the quadruped aforementioned, and being always accompanied by their dogs (of which the number was not small), they were readily tracked; the consequence was, the mouths of the dogs would be filled with the quills of the porcupines. On their returning home, it was their work to take the bullet molds and pull out the quills. He used to add that the amount of yelling and howling was horrible. At an early age, went to Mansfield (then a small villiage) to learn the tanner's trae with a Mr. Pugh. Having learned the trade, and taken to himself a wife in the person of Miss Elizabeth Chew, in the year 1828 he moved to the village of Perrysville, and while there tanned skins for the Greentown Indians. In the year 1829, he again removed on a farm in Nomroe Township, on the road leading from Mansfield to Perrysville, about one and a half miles east of Lucas, at the foot of Mohawk Hill, where he continued to carry on his trade, as well as till the soil, and where he continued to live till the time of his death, Oct. 18, 1862. He and his wife connected themselves with the Presbyterian Church of Perrysville, when rather young in years, and lived and died in that faith. He was quite prominent in the early history of the county; he has been heard to say that at one time he was acquainted with nearly every one in this county. He took an active part in politics, and was elected to different offices of public trust; the law of the land and the law of God were his delight and study, and it was said by those who knew him well, that he was as well versed in the law as the best lawyers of Mansfield. To him five children were born - Maria, the eldest, was married to James Marlow, and resides three miles west of Mansfield; Thomas, died at the age of 26; Lydia, died in infancy; William, resides one mile south of Lucas; Washington, resides four miles east of Mansfield. Mr. McBride died after a brief illness, and lies buried beside his fathers in the cemetery one mile west of Lucas, on a part of his father's farm reserved for that purpose. His wife, Elizabeth, was born Aug. 5, 1808, in Harrison Co., Ohio, near Cadiz, and moved with her parents to Richmond Co., when a young girl; she died Jan. 9, 1874, and was buried by the side of her husband; she was a loving mother, and died saying that, "she had gained the victory through our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

McBRIDE, WASHINGTON, farmer; P. O. Mansfield; he was born in Monroe Township April 1, 1840. Was married, in 1860, to Mary A. Swann; they had four children - Franklin E., William S., Lilly A., Laura E.; Mrs. McBride died Jan. 22, 1873; Mr. McBride married again, Dec. 17, 1874, to Mary A. Au, who was born in Pennsylvania; they have two children - Margaret E., Maria M. Mr. McBride is an intelligent man, and is a member of the Congregationalist Church.

McBRIDE, JAMES (deceased). Prominent among the early settlers of Richland Co., who were identified with its growth and prosperity, were the McBrides, of Scotch pedigree; their father emigrated to America soon after the Scottish insurrection, 1796, and first settled in Chester Co., Penn.; James was born in Little York, Penn., Feb. 3, 1812; his father's family came to Richland Co. in 1823, and cleared and put up the first building on the Robert Coulter farm west of Mansfield; during his long residence in this city of fifty-four years, he was largely engaged in stock-dealing, which he took principally to the Philadelphia market, crossing the Alleghany Mountains twenty-seven times before the days of railroad transportation. Mr. McBride was married, July 12, 1838, to Miss Lettelia Hoy, a daughter of Richard Hoy, who came to Richland Co., in 1816, and cleared and built on a farm north of Mansfield; James McBride died in Mansfield, Aug. 12, 1876, leaving three children, two of whom reside in the city, Sadie J. and Matie L.; Mrs. Lettelia Hoy McBride was born in Salem, Washington Co., N.Y.; she died June 6, 1870 in Mansfield; John G., second son, died Oct. 16, 1870, aged 25 years; J. Douglas, the oldest son, was born March 26, 1842, now a resident of Washington City.

McBRIDE, THOMAS, attorney at law. He was born in Monroe Township, Nov. 20, 1827; his parents, Alexander and Ruth J. McBride, came to this county and settled in Monroe about the year 1820, where the subject of this sketch received his elementary education in part, when he removed to Missouri and continued his studies until his return home two years afterward; from that time until he commenced the study of law, he was alternately engaged in teaching school during the winter, and working on the farm during the summer months; he commenced the study of law in this city, and was admitted to the bar by the District Court at Mount Vernon in June, 1857; commenced practice in Defiance, Ohio, where he remained eight years; while there he was elected Prosecuting Attorney of Defiance Co. two terms - from 1859 to 1863; he then returned to Mansfield, where he continued to practice his profession with M. May; the firm of May & McBride was dissolved in April, 1868, and McBride & A. M. Burns in April, 1874, when he entered into partnership with B. Burns & Son, under the firm name of Burns & McBride, and Burns, the junior member of the firm, having been elected Prosecuting Attorney of Richland Co., retired in April, 1877, since which time he has been engaged in the practice with Barnabus Burns, under the firm name of Burns & McBride. He was married in September, 1857, to Miss Barbara E. Brandt, of Springfield Township, by whom he has five children living, three sons and two daughters - Curtis Victor, Willie Edgar, Minnie Blanch, Florence Mabel Brandt, Thomas Hall, Hattie May McBride; the third child and oldest daughter died in her 7th year in Mansfield.

McBRIDE, ROBERT (deceased). Mr. McBride was born in Chester Co., Penn., March 20, 1808, of Scotch ancestry; his father, James McBride, was born in Ireland, whither his parents had gone during the insurrections in Scotland, and soon after migrated to America and settled first in Chester Co., Penn.; in the year 1823, the McBride's came to Richland Co., Ohio, and lived for a time on what is known as the Finney farm, and afterward on the Barr farm, west of Mansfield; while yet a young man, he came to Mansfield and opened a dry-goods store, in which business he continued until 1848; afterward, he was engaged in a number of enterprises, and was one of the prominent and extensive wool-dealers of this part of the country; for a number of years he was engaged largely in that business with a Mr. Sexton, of Cleveland. Robert McBride was married in the year 1845 to Miss Jane E. Shriner, of Pennsylvania, to whom were born four children, tow of whom are dead and two residents of Mansfield; James H. engaged in the practice of the law, and Robert in the dry-goods business; Mary, the only daughter, died in 1860; George died in 1874, and was a number of years one of the prominent business men of Mansfield and a young man of great promise. Robert McBride will be remembered by the older residents of Mansfield as one of her best citizens, a man of integrity, whom all respected. He died Feb. 14, 1865.

Hi Carolyn,

I have just this week met another cousin from our McBride Family, she is descends from Symantha (Smith) & Richard McBride, also. Sterling McBride was her brick wall, so she was really happy to meet me. Now, I would like to introduce the two of you.

The following I am copying out of an email she first sent to the guy that introduced the two of us. (I saw an obituary posted & wrote an email to him.) It will be in red & then I will go back to black for the rest of my email. Guess I should send the obit. link, also, maybe you haven't noticed it before?

http://cgi.rootsweb.com/~genbbs/genbbs.cgi/USA/Oh/PortageObits/65

I've hit a brick wall with Rev. Sterling McBRIDE.

This is my most favorite family because of the manuscript and it was the one I started with. I just went to computer earlier this year so I'm playing catch up and learning what a poor job of documentation I did :(

My descent from Mary DUNN GAGE is Mary Anne GAGE & Rev. Sterling McBRIDE, Charles Sterling McBRIDE & Edith MOORE (her father was Henry Alexander MOORE, another one of my Portage Co., brick walls - I have a medal of his from the Civil War but haven't been able to turn up anything yet),
Ethel Mary McBRIDE & Richard HASSARD,
Richard HASSARD & Mona Lurlyne JOHNSON,
Sandra Arlene HASSARD & Ernest Terry WHITE

Okay, back to me!!!! I'm going to enter her into my FTM file & organize the emails she has sent me the past couple of days. Then, I will catch you up & maybe you can help her where I cannot. I should be able to do most of it, but... One thing I don't know about for sure (& she asked about) is the: Do you have a copy of Moses Smith's will of 1818??? It was in your notes that I copied under Moses Smith & I sent her a Ancester Report for Sterling McBride. It has been fun reading her emails as she went through it, she is really excited.

Is it okay with you, if I send her your name & email address???

Have you corresponded with Kes Truelove before??? I can't remember, I know he made a posting to the DeKalb List when we first met & I emailed him a couple of times, but haven't heard from him again. Then, last week I saw where he posted again for the McBride Family - I was thinking of emailing him again, but haven't yet. He didn't really answer my email, so... Just curious if you had emailed him or not. I'm thinking of inviting Maureen to the Family Site, but haven't yet. It hasn't been working too well for me lately. I have been trying to add a Romine Family Tree to it & it just will not let me. I can't figure out what is wrong. It's making me frustrated!!!!!

Oh well, guess I've asked you enough for one email. I do tend to do that!!!! Chuck sent me the link to the obituary the same night I got your email reply & I wrote to Dan (guy that posted obit) the same night. Since then I have received 12 emails from Maureen & 4 from Dan to both of us!!!! That was Tuesday evening that I got your reply!!!! So, no wonder I'm a little overwhelmed!!!! Also, got moved to 2nd shift at work for next week. What a week I've had!!!!! Oh well, guess I won't get the winter blahs so bad. Ha-ha!!!! I saw your posting on the DeKalb list, too. Any responces??? I didn't get my roll call in this time. Maybe next time!!!!

Take care,
Roxanne :-)

Hi Maureen, Carolyn, Georgia & Chuck,

I'm going to try to stick only to the genealogy in this one!!!! I would like to introduce the 4 of you, since we are all from the McBride Family. Georgia, Chuck, & I all descend from Jane McBride who married James Lockhart 19 May 1831 in Portage Co., Ohio. Carolyn & Maureen both descend from her brother, Richard McBride who married Symantha Smith 15 May 1823. (Carolyn do you know where they were married at???)

I think you all know that Chuck is my brother & he is the one that usually finds all the stuff on the internet!!!! I'm the one that does most of the emailing. I know I told you, Maureen, that I can't take credit for finding all that info. It's really easy for me cause Chuck or Georgia send me a link to it!!!!! And, Carolyn sent me a whole lot of it through the mail, so... we just all are sharing it with you!!!!

Georgia, before I forget I found this very interesting. Maureen sent me an 1850 Portage Co., Ohio Census for: 1850, west half of Ravenna, Portage Co., OH, Census (Microfilm Copy M-432 Roll #733)
JUDD, Charles, age 51, farmer, real estate value $4000, b NY
JUDD, Lucina age 49 b. CT
McBRIDE, Sterling age 20, famrer, b. OH
BARNES, Philena P. (female) real estate value $945, b OH

It could be nothing, but I thought it was kinda funny that they have a Philena P. Barnes living with them. I wonder how old she was??? I just wonder if it could be from Augustus' wife's family??? Lucina & Charles Judd took in foster children. Lucina Judd is a sister of Symantha Smith who married Richard McBride, Jane's brother. We have to remember that Jane wasn't married to James at this time & might have lived at home when Augustus was born 2 Nov 1819. So, he was probably very close to this family. I also wondered about his wife's family, her parent's were: Mary (Smith) & Wesley Barnes. Another sister???? All I have for Mary (Smith) Barnes is that her father & brothers were in the revoluntionary war. There were a lot of Smith's though, so... Just thought I'd mention it.

Next, I'm going to copy in what Maureen sent me about her family. (Guess I'll put in red what she sent & in black what I added. Actually, Maureen has sent more, but this is a quick run down.)
Robert McBride and Roseannah Greenfield.
Richard McBride and Symantha Smith.
My descent from Mary DUNN GAGE is Mary Anne GAGE & Rev. Sterling McBRIDE,
Charles Sterling McBRIDE & Edith MOORE (her father was Henry Alexander MOORE, another one of my Portage Co., brick walls - I have a medal of his from the Civil War but haven't been able to turn up anything yet),
Ethel Mary McBRIDE & Richard HASSARD,
Richard HASSARD & Mona Lurlyne JOHNSON,
Sandra Arlene HASSARD & Ernest Terry WHITE (Sandra was adopted by Richard Hassard.)
to me - Maureen Elizabeth WHITE
Maureen Pierce

Phoenix, AZ

Okay, now Carolyn's:
Robert McBride and Roseannah Greenfield.
Richard McBride and Symantha Smith.
David A. McBride and Rachel Shatto.
Emma L. McBride and William Brugh.
Naomi Putt and Raymond Rensch.
Carolyn Rensch.

Okay, now Georgia's:
Robert McBride and Roseannah Greenfield.
Jane McBride.
Augustus McBride and Martha Barnes.
James McBride and Ellen Bott.
Ida "Maude" McBride & Charles Shoner.
George Shoner and Alma Mamie Eckrote.
Georgia Shoner.

Now, for mine & Chuck's!!!!
Robert McBride and Roseannah Greenfield.
Jane McBride and James Lockhart.
William Lockhart and Mary Hickox.
Robert Lockhart and Mary Hartman.
Edna Lockhart and Dawson Quaintance.
Sue Quaintance and Harold "Cork" Van.
Me - Roxanne Van and David Romine. Chuck Van & Linda Loffer.
My 2 children: Joshua David Romine & Melissa Sue Romine.
Chuck's 2 children: Rachel Jean Van & Jordan Christian Van.

Well now, I hope I got that all right!!!!! It is a basic relationship guide for us. I'm not sure if Georgia has all of Richard McBride's info or not. And, I'm not sure if Carolyn has all of our Jane's info. All I know for sure, is what I have. I know I've shared with you 4, but can't remember what I had when I shared!!!! If that makes sense????

I know that I just sent Maureen all that I have on the ancester's of Sterling McBride. We made our connection through an obituary that was just recently posted in the Portage Co., Ohio Site. We were lucky to both have responded to Dan's posting & he introduced the 2 of us!!!! We just "met" this past Wednesday, so we are just getting acquainted, also.

Well, I'm not sure what else to include in this email. But, I did want to share our new cousin!!!! Maybe we can come up with some new facts!!!! It's kinda funny how adding someone makes you think of something else. I think (if she wants to) that I will invite Maureen to the "Climbing Our Family Tree" web site. (Let me know if you want to try it, Maureen.) It hasn't been working too well for me lately, but it is a good spot to keep in touch & share photo's. I have quite a few families in there now, so it gets a little confusing for me at times. Actually, I do keep them all straight in my mind, but I always wonder about the rest of you!!!! Maureen uses FTM just like the 4 of us do, so that is good. Oh, Carolyn & Georgia, I finally updated to 7.5 so I should be able to read that file you sent me now. (Carolyn sent it months ago. I tried but it wouldn't open, told me it was damaged, probably from where I tried to open it with the wrong version???) I just went to see if I could find it & Carolyn, I can't believe it, but last September right before you left on your trip to Washington, you said that you received a bunch of info about the Smith Family from a cousin. I know it's not really related to me, but I'm kinda interested in it, too. I guess I just get caught up in all of this!!!! Is there any mention of the BARNES name???

I'm going to close for now, I need to absorb this!!!! And, also want to check out another family. (Why is it that I always get 2 people on the same day from 2 seperate families. Seems like it always works that way!!!! A girl I had written to almost a year ago about my Sholty Family wrote me on the same day as Maureen did. She moved to Africa!!!!! Unbelievable, but I do believe it!!!! Also, a man I emailed with several months ago sent an email the day before for my Hartman Family.) I did email him back right away, but haven't the Sholty person, I can't quite remember what I had asked her about & can't find it on my computer anywhere. I know it's there!!!!!

I'm anxious to learn more about our McBride Family, it will be hard to get past Roseannah (Greenfield) & Robert McBride, though. At least that's the feeling I get!!!! But, now there are 5 of us working on it & you never can tell where that missing link will be!!!!!

Keep me posted on all that's happening, please, & if I've left anything out, just ask!!!!

Roxanne :-)

Hello cousins! Philena BARNES was 33 in the 1850 census Roxanne cited below. Possibly, since she has property, either her parents or grandparents are dead and left it to her.

"Georgia, before I forget I found this very interesting. Maureen sent me an 1850 Portage Co., Ohio Census for: 1850, west half of Ravenna, Portage Co., OH, Census (Microfilm Copy M-432 Roll #733)

THANK you for all the sharing of information. Prior to last week, I was at a dead end with Sterling McBRIDE! What a difference a few cousins make.

I'll make a "McBRIDE" mailing list and begin sharing anything I might find. So far it hasn't been much. I was chasing the reference that Lucina SMITH JUDD (Pioneer Women of Ravenna, http://www.rootsweb.com/~ohportag/hist014.htm#sh_H_10) was involved in the underground railroad, which would mean she should have been around in the 1860 census. But I couldn't find her or her husband Charles. I enjoy placing the people into an historical context.

Dear Aunt Lurah,

I'm enclosing a family record sheet for Robert and Roseanna GREENFIELD MCBRIDE. Most of Roxanne's information comes from biographies in the DeKalb County History, except for stories written by older members of the family. The story is that Robert MCBRIDE and Roseanna GREENFIELD were born in Scotland and their families moved to Ireland before moving the USA. So far, I haven't found any documentation for this.

Roxanne's information has all five of the children being born at Springfield in Cumberland County, Pennsylvania. So far, I haven't found a Springfield in Cumberland County, but it might have been before Cumberland County was divided up.

Do you remember if there is a stone for Richard and Samantha McBride in the Cedar Lake Cemetery? I recently met a man named Richard Newcomer who has been corresponding with a lady from Ravenna, Ohio, who had requested a photograph of this gravestone. This woman is descended from Samantha's sister, Phila. I am hoping to learn more about the Smiths from her. Anyway, we stopped at the Cedar Lake Cemetery recently. I found stones for D.A. McBride, Rachel Harmes, Joel & Maria Thomson, Mary L. McBride (this stone is broken), Rempises, etc., but none for Richard and Samantha. There are several stones so worn that we couldn't read them.

We hope you and Wiley are doing well. Are you going to travel this winter?

Hi Carolyn,

Thank you so much for all of your kind words, they mean a lot to me. I know everything always works out, but sometimes it just gets a little overwhelming and I worry too much. I try not to, but just can't seem to help it. Dad is doing pretty well, he just looks tired, but guess that's to be expected. Mom's doing okay, too, but it's hard on her, also. Life kinda just slaps you in the face sometimes.

Wow - 7 pioneer settlers - that's neat. Who were they? - I'll keep a look out for their names, too. I just love to think how it might have been all those years ago. I absolutely love everything about doing genealogy - I wish it could be my job - just doesn't pay (financially) well enough, though. Yes, your info really helped a lot - I still don't have it all entered. I'm going to send you a genealogy report for what I've got entered in for Robert & Roseannah (Greenfield) McBride - I don't think it is complete, but I've gotten quite a bit done. These DeKalb Families really overlap (kinda) with each other & I still get them confused at times - they are all from my Grandma Q's family. I sure wish I could share it all with her. She would love this. She gave us pictures of our Great Grandparents with a Family Tree (she drew up) on the back of them. I have it somewhere on this computer, when I find it, I'll send it to you just to show you. She was such a neat lady & I have so many memories - I should write a story on her, I know. I would really love to get a book made up, that's my big dream.

I just inserted the report - I already had it!!!! I wrote you a note at the end of it. It's rather large, so I'm not sure you'll want to print it out. I'm so thankful for my family tree maker program!!!! It makes it so much easier to keep track of everything - it seems like that is a never ending job. I'm always looking for something!!!! I try to stay organized, but I get behind & get files mixed together a lot!!!! I'm always jumping around between the families. I can't wait to hear how the lady the guy from the Pioneer Settlers (Mr. Newcomer) relates to you - that's great!!!!

I was just looking through what I'm sending you & it really isn't all up to date, but guess it will have to do for now. One more thing before I go, (I've got to get ready for work.) we found a family plot for the Lockhart's - Robert & his wife, 2 of William's wives, their parents - Jenny Day & her husband are close by - anyway there is a big monument with the name Lockhart on it - but, William's name isn't anywhere on it - this is really bugging me. I've got to find out why it's not there & where he is buried. His name appears in the cemetery list, but with no spot listed (DeKalb County Site - Waterloo Cemetery). I'll tell you more later. Also, would be very glad for the info about Jane's possible baby with no father listed - so many mysteries. People had their problems back then, also.

Talk later & take care,
Roxanne :-)

Hi Carolyn,

Gee, it took me awhile to get back to you. I can't believe it!!!! I got your package & it is so interesting, I'm still working on it. Trying to get it all figured out. You sure found a bunch of info!!!! I've kinda been bouncing around here in my genealogy, as usual. I just do what I can, when I can & forget to get back to things. I don't even know where to start here. Did you already have all that stuff when we got connected or have you found it since??? It was real nice the way you highlighted it, it makes it much easier. So, first of all I noticed that it says Roseannah McBride died in Franklin, Portage Co., Ohio, not Springfield, Cumberland Co, Pennsylvania as William C. Lockhart said in his story. Really that's a small mistake for him considering he was writing it years later & it was his wife's mother - also looks like she died the same year they were married. I really wonder about Jane McBride, she & James were older when they got married & we found that she has a son named Augustus McBride - have I told you this before??? I just wonder if she was married to another McBride or just had him herself & stayed with her parents. I think I've found a descendant of his, also - she's just beginning in genealogy herself. I have tried twice to find a book at the Ft. Wayne Library that might have more info, but haven't gotten it yet. If I've not sent this to you before & you are interested just let me know. I know it isn't a direct descendant of yours, but if you're like me you kinda get interested in the other lines, too!!!!

I picked up the stuff that they want me to type for the DeKalb County Web Site - it's cemetery transciptions - Wow, there is sure a lot of typing to do!!!! I typed out the Fairfield Cemetery & mailed it (email) to Carolyn, now she is suppose to get it online. I can't wait to see it!!!! It's going to take me awhile to get them all done, I'm taking a break now, cause I want to do my stuff, too.

My Dad had a heart attack last Friday, that has been real rough - he is okay, now. He had to have 3 stints put in though, so he's going to have to watch it. I'm new to all of this & I don't like learning about it!!!! My heart sure does hurt now - my cousin had an attack about 3 months ago, had the stint thing done twice & then had to have a quad-drouple bypass surgery. I sure hope that doesn't happen to my Dad - he's retired, so maybe it will be easier since he doesn't have to work. I hope so!!!! Mom has been to the hospital every day, so she is wore out. I spent all day Friday with her & then went Saturday, also. They sure do take good care of them at Parkview Hospital, he was in CICU for 3 days & then had the surgery yesterday. My son started college this week & at the last minute told me he was moving to Ft. Wayne with a friend of his. This happened Wednesday & he moved out completely Sunday, so my life is changing!!!! We went to see him last night when we went to visit Dad & then he came home today after his classes, I still think he should have stayed at home like we planned, but... he has to learn that for himself. I don't think he can afford it, he does.

Well, Carolyn I really didn't write this to dump on you, but wanted to let you know why I had forgotten to let you know I got your package & that I really do appreciate it. THANK YOU SO MUCH. Now, I've just got to absorb it all & get it entered into the FTM - I started that tonight. I've got quite a bit on Richard McBride's family, are you going in that direction or did you just have that stuff from searching out his wife's family? I like the way you have it copied & organized. Another thing I was wondering about was the

Well Carolyn I really didn't write this to dump on you, but wanted to let you know why I had forgotten to let you know I got your package & that I really do appreciate it. THANK YOU SO MUCH. Now I've just got to absorb it all & get it entered into the FTM - I started that tonight. I've got quite a bit on Richard McBride's family. Are you going in that direction or did you get that stuff from searching out his wife's family? I like the way you have it copied & organized. Another thing I was wondering about was the page that says: BRIDES & then it has 4 McBride girls - one of them was Jane marrying James (my GGG Grandparents) - do you know where those marriages took place? I didn't have their wedding date at all. I was guessing that they were married in Ohio after 1820. And, another thing I'm kinda curious about is Richard & Samantha McBride's children. I had them all from a story I found on the DeKalb Web Site, 6 of them, anyway on one of those papers it says that John G. is the 2nd oldest son, from what I have it looks like he is the oldest - I wonder if I don't have all of them???

I guess that's all I have time for tonight. Thank you again & I will get more organized here & probably have more questions. I really don't understand the church info & I have a hard time with the land stuff, too. I've still got a lot to learn. Oh, one more thing - I got the FTM version 7.5, but I haven't gotten it on the computer, yet. Got to get that done. Have I already asked you how long you have been doing the genealogy? I can't remember. Also, was wondering if you were a member of the DeKalb Historical Society. I bet that would be interesting! I would love to go to their meetings, but don't know if I can swing it - just do not have enough time for everything!!!! You will be honored at their dinner sometime soon, right??? That is so cool - I still haven't made it to the Auburn Library, I really want to go to their genealogy section & look around. Have you been there? I bet there is a lot of info in the old papers that would be interesting - wouldn't it be nice to be able to search them with the computer? I'm really impressed with all of the info you have found - how did you find it??? I look forward to hearing from you & staying in touch.

Thanks again & Happy Hunting!!!!
Roxanne :-)

P.S. Have you heard anything from Kes?? He emailed me July 18 (I just looked it up.) & I sent him the story that William Lockhart wrote, but I haven't heard from him again. It's his wife's family that is connected to us. I think that she, also, would be a 5th cousin. Have I sent you a genealogy report from my FTM for the McBride Family? I thought I did, but don't see where I sent it. Let me know, it's pretty easy to do - I wonder if I was waiting to get it all updated? That could take forever!!!!

Hi Carolyn,

That is so neat that you & your husband like genealogy - I wish my husband liked it!!!! He is tolerating my interest in it - barely, but that's okay. I talk with my brother, Chuck, about it the most & that is very nice. My parents both listen, but just haven't gotten "bitten by the bug" like I have. I would have loved to have gone to the Ft. Wayne Genealogy Conference - did you learn a lot?

My "snail mail" address is:
Roxanne Romine
1040 Lane 200 Lake James
Angola, IN 46703

You sent me a Descendant Report for Mary Abell & a FTM file (that I can't read, yet - not until I get the upgrade, which should be here any day now. I hope I don't have problems putting in on the computer!!!) You told me that there may be some gaps in what you sent me. I don't think that I have gotten it entered into FTM yet, but I will.

My brother, Chuck, scanned the William C. Lockhart Story for me. I have sent it to Kes, but haven't heard back from him, yet. It is about William's life mostly, he wrote it just 3 years before he died. I think it's very interesting, but then he is my Great, Great Grandfather. I will be happy to send you the whole thing, if you like - I sent you the parts of it that mention the McBride's. (His mother was Jane McBride - sister to your Richard.) I still haven't gotten the McBride Descendant Report all entered and cleaned up. I need to get that done - it's just amazing to me at how much we have learned - it's just never ending!!!!

I have tried to stay organized, but that's a never ending job, also. Last Friday, I grabbed my Lockhart/McBride Folder & while Chuck was looking through it, (we have an hour drive to work - each way) I noticed the name Ethel Daniels for the mother of a Hartman. I now know that these Hartman's are related & when Chuck first gave it to me I had no idea!!!! Anyway, I went back to that site & that guy, Phillip Dale Reinoehl, had information right where mine ends. I also noticed that he has Ida Alice McBride in it - again it picked up right where mine left off. I still don't have his connection to Ida Alice figured out, but he is my 3rd cousin (I think) - I sent him an email, but haven't heard back from him. I will send you a link to that page - it's a little hard to follow & manuever through all of the names, but you might like it. I have to send it to my brother, also - he is the one that found it in the first place. I don't know how he finds so many connections, but he does - I think he searches a lot more than I do - I email & enter all the info more than he does, though. It works out well for us.

Well, guess I better go here. Glad to hear from you & you are right - this world does keep getting smaller & smaller - especially our little section here in the northeast corner of the state!!!!

Take Care,
Roxanne :-)

Hi Carolyn,

I got your Family Tree File, but only have version 6, so I can't open it. I ordered an update this morning - they said it should be here in 3 to 5 days - so guess I'll have to be patient. I have thought about upgrading anyway & this seemed like a good reason to get it done. Now I'll just have to learn it, yuck!!!! It will be worth it though, I'm sure. What version do you have? I ordered 7.5, I hope they don't come out with something else now!!!! I've also been thinking about subscribing to the Genealogy Library again - I got 6 months free when I bought my first Family Tree Maker. I did like it!!!!

I also got your Descendants of Mary Abell - I could read that just fine. Thank you!!! I have 3 more children for Symantha (Smith) & Richard McBride: Mary Emma, Sterling, & John. The only birthdate I have is for Mary Emma, born about 1837 - not sure if it's right! I think I got all the names from the Theodore Remphis Story which is on the DeKalb Site. I only copied part of it into Richard's notes. I have this book if you want me to check for any names - I volunteered to do some typing for the DeKalb County Site, but the girl in charge is on vacation for a week. I hope I can handle it!!!!! It is so nice to have them on the web site - makes it easy to search out names!!! I didn't have anything in my FTM file after Emma & Mary - David's girls.

I have the same children for Maria (McBride) & Joel Thompson - I didn't have a birth date for Elva & had Celina's as about 1843, all the rest match yours, except I only had the year with about - that means I probably got them from the census. I didn't use to type in the source of info, but am much better about that now. Well, gotta go. Thanks for everything & I'll let you know when I get FTM, Version 7.5, if we don't talk sooner.

Roxanne :-)

P.S. I heard from Kes Truelove today, but am out of time for tonight!!! :-(

Hi Carolyn,

Sorry it took me so long to get back to you. I work 3rd shift so Monday's are really rough. I, too, am excited about this. Last week I had nobody else (except my brother) working on the McBride Family & now there are 3 & another lady sent me info on Lucy McBride. How exciting!!!! I have Family Tree Maker for my Genealogy Program & it really helps keep me a little more organized. Still have to type everything in though & sometimes I do forget things. Chuck (my brother) & I want to get a Pioneer Certificate from the Auburn Historical Society - you could get one also for Richard McBride (I think), the person whom you submit for must be a direct descendant. The deadline was June 30, 2000 - but another lady that is on the committee sent me an email & said we could still do it. I've got to get on that, if you want more info I can email that, also. You are right, this is a constant battle to keep it all caught up!!!! There is so much I would like to do, but just don't have time!!!!

I'm not quite sure what to send you - I've gotten most of my stuff from the DeKalb County Web Site and you have probably already seen it. Some I've gotten from William's Story that he left behind for his descendants - like I said before I really haven't checked it out to make sure it's all true. Maybe that would be a good place to start - it's kinda hard to follow at times & it's very long - I'm not sure how interested you will be in it, but I have it already typed out & in the computer (somewhere) - I don't have it typed out on this computer. Darn!!! Well, I looked it over & started typing but there wasn't a whole lot more on the McBride's, but what I'm sending might help some. It would seem like there should be more information on his Uncle David McBride (the editor) - haven't really searched for it, though. I've been at this for about 1 and 1/2 years, now - it seems like I'm going in circles sometimes!!!! How long have you been at it? I'm trying to all the families at the same time & that's kinda hard, but I can't help it - I want to get it ALL done as far back as I can. Also, kinda like jumping around in the different families & meeting "new" cousins - I'm really hooked on it bad.

I've sent so many emails about this family in the past 3 days that I am getting confused!!!! I have a Descendant's Report for Robert McBride (it is 28 pages long - it has a lot of notes in it). I'm not sure all of the info is correct & I know it isn't complete at all. I'd like to work on it a little more, maybe clean it up & add your stuff to it before I send it. I would like any info on your family - I think it would be really neat to have it all together & maybe even make a book some day. I have some pictures of my Great Grandparents & of William C. Lockhart - haven't got them all together yet, but I will. I'm thinking about starting a myfamily.com website just for the McBride's (and maybe Lockhart's) - it would be a place to put everything so we could all share info - have you ever heard of it? I'm not real experienced with the internet - I've been doing that just a little longer than genealogy. What do you think? I sent Kes an email, also, but haven't heard from him again. (It's only been a couple of days.) His wife's family is from Joel Thompson, the one that brought David's body back in the story. It will be fun to get this all figured out - I just can't believe how a roll call can get the ball rolling!!!! And the DeKalb County Site - It's so neat to be able to search through the information so quickly - I volunteered to do some typing for them, I've never done anything like that before - the girl in charge is on vacation so I have a week before I hear anything. I hope I can handle it!

Oh, one more thing before I go - yes, I live in Steuben County - where do you live? I noticed the local net address & wondered about that. I forgot about it later!!!! Also, can't remember if I've told you about my family - I'm 42, married & have 2 children. Josh - age 18 & Missy - age 15 (almost 16). My Mom's parents lived in Auburn all my life (in the same house, until my Grandpa died & Grandma couldn't take care of it anymore - that was so sad.) - I have a lot of memories of Auburn. I look forward to hearing from you again - I just hated that I had to go to work when I got your email last night & then I just couldn't even concentrate when I got home this morning. Too bad I have to sleep & I only slept 5 hours - it will be another long night.

Roxanne :-)

The Lockhart and McBride Families are in the Smithfield Township Census - 20 June 1860 by A. B. Duncan (DeKalb County, IN). I think they came from Richland County, Ohio & before that Cumberland County, PA. Robert William Lockhart's parents were: Mary (Hickox) & William McClaren Lockhart. William McClaren Lockhart's parents were: Jane (McBride) & James Lockhart.

Hi Roxanne,
My wife is descended from Richard McBRIDE and Symmanthia SMITH through their daughter, Maria Jane McBRIDE who married Joel Edwin THOMSON in 1845. I know very little about the McBRIDE family - do we have a possible connection??? Joy, Kes Truelove

Hi List,

Before I send in my names I would first like to say "Thank You" to all of the DeKalb County Volunteers!!! You have such a great site at roots web & have helped so many people, myself included. I live next door in Steuben County & have lots of relatives in this area!!!! I don't even know them all, yet, I'm a beginner in my genealogy research - just started last year & I am just amazed at how much I've found & how much I didn't know or hadn't even thought about!!!! I just LOVE this searching & puttting together the pieces & the DeKalb County site makes it so much easier. I have a copy of the 1914 History of DeKalb County Indiana & would do some typing for you, but I'm not sure what you want done and how to go about submitting it. I will try to help out if I can - I don't have a lot of extra time, but have been thinking of volunteering for some time now and DeKalb County would be a good place to start. Did you know that there is a book at the Steuben County Library (in t! he genealogy section) of the Fairfield Center Cemetery Records, DeKalb Co., IN? It was compiled in August 1983-84 by Mrs. Rosann Friend.

I am researching the Quaintance, Lockhart, McBride, Hartman, Gushwa, & Wing Families in the DeKalb County Area. There are a lot of other names that branch off from these and I am interested in them also, but these are my direct line names. I would love to hear from anyone that thinks there might be a connection, I think that is one of the best parts of genealogy - finding family!!!!

My brother & I had intended to apply for the Pioneer Certificate for our Hartman & Gushwa Family, but did not get it ready in time. I think these are the first families that settled here. Joel E. Hartman married Sarah Gushwa (these are my Great, Great Grandparents) & they had 9 children (I believe): John E., Della F., Orpheus Grant, William W., Ezra, Mary Catherine (My Great Grandmother), Mertie, Emory A., & Vesta Belle. Joel moved to DeKalb County with his parents about 1847, they came from Summit County, Ohio & before that Lehigh County, Pennsylvania. Sarah was born in DeKalb County, her parents came from Somerset Co., Pennsylvania.

Mary Catherine Hartman married Robert William Lockhart on 25 Feb 1894 in Ashley, Indiana. They had 6 children: Carl, Ralph, Dorothy, Edna Grace (My Grandmother), Wilma, & Robert J. The Lockhart and McBride Families are in the Smithfield Township Census - 20 June 1860 by A. B. Duncan (DeKalb County, IN). I think they came from Richland County, Ohio & before that Cumberland County, PA. Robert William Lockhart's parents were: Mary (Hickox) & William McClaren Lockhart. William McClaren Lockhart's parents were: Jane (McBride) & James Lockhart.

Edna Grace Lockhart married Dawson Austin Quaintance. His parents were: Electa Eleanor (Wing) & Ben Trevor Quaintance. Electa & Ben moved here from Putnam County, Ohio in about 1919, but my Grandfather moved here in 1915 and lived with his maternal Grandparents, Electa (Sanford) & Austin Wing, who came to DeKalb County in about 1912 from Putnam County, Ohio.

Happy Hunting to all,

Hi Carolyn,

It's great to hear from you. I'm putting the McBRIDE family together so I don't have very much as yet but will share everything I have if you want it,

According to Roxane, Richard and Jane were brother and sister and their parents were Robert McBRIDE and Rosamond Greenfield. Robert and Rosemond left Northern Ireland for America (Springfield, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania) shortly after they were married, but their parents were from Ayreshire, Scotland. Richard McBRIDE was born in Pennsylvania.

I would be VERY interested in all your information about the SMITH family and In your family of David A. McBRIDE. As I gather and put together the McBRIDE information I will be more than happy to foreword it to you if you are interested.

Hanging in my front hall is a very large picture of both Maria Jane McBRIDE and another of her husband, Joel E. THOMSON. I look at her every day. Each picture, including the frame, measures 26" W by 30" H.

Really looking foreword to your family information - I wish you Joy,

Hi List,
I am researching my wife's mother's family.

LEAS, McBRIDE, MEEK, MIDDLETON, NORMAN, PARNELL, REMPIS, SMITH, SPANGLER, THOMSON

They were mostly in Smithfield and Fairfield townships.

Would like to make contact and exchange family information with any descendants and my wife's cousins.

Wish you all JOY,

Dear Aunt Lurah,

It was good to hear from you – hope you both are feeling well. We visited the Bag Factory in the spring and really admired the furniture.

I'm sure you are surprised to hear from me so soon, but I have made a couple of breakthroughs and I want you to know about them. Someone on the Internet sent me a clue as to the parentage of Deborah SIMMONS (Mary ABELL SMITH's mother), so I followed it up when I was last in Ft. Wayne. Deborah's parents were David and Priscilla SIMMONS SIMMONS. Both David and Priscilla go back to Moses SIMMONS or SYMONSON. Other surnames in these lines are CHANDLER, COBB, SOULE, ALDEN, MULLINS, BUCK, etc. There you are – all the Mayflower ancestors you would ever want.

I haven't even had time to chart these people yet, but eventually I will send you charts. The DeKalb County mailing list (internet) has been having a roll call of surnames, and I have made 4 new contacts. One is married to a descendant of Joel and Maria Jane MCBRIDE THOMSON and would like the information I have on Symantha SMITH's family. Another is from my father's family, JACKMAN/ALDRICH. One is descended from a SHATTO, and the other is descended from the Jane MCBRIDE who married James LOCKHART. She says that Richard MCBRIDE was the brother of Jane MCBRIDE. Their parents were Robert and Rosanna (or Rosamund) GREENFIELD MCBRIDE. They had 5 children: Jane, Robert, Richard, John & David.

All this at once is almost overwhelming, but it's great!

Love,
Carolyn

Hi Carolyn,

According to my GG Grandfather, William Lockhart, who was the son of Jane (McBride) & James Lockhart, Richard McBride was Jane's brother and their parents were Roseannah (Greenfield) and Robert McBride. I have a little more information if you would like it. I'm not sure if it is all true, but so far what he has said has been right. William wrote a story to leave behind for his ancesters, it is interesting!!! According to the story, Roseannah & Robert had 5 children: Jane, Robert, Richard, John, & David. You can email me direct if you like at roxanne.romine@gte.net - I will help anyway I can. I'd love to know more about Rachel & David's family, too, I noticed the connection when I did a search at the DeKalb County Site. It's such a great site!!!! I only have Emma & Mary as their children & nothing after that. I'm sending this to the list so all can see it. I thought there might be more McBride Descendant's out there!!! Oh, I just remembered how it went all the way ! across the page the last time I sent it. I wonder why? It was okay when I saw it in the email form. Oh well, guess I'll try it again.

I, too, am descended from Richard MCBRIDE & Symantha SMITH, but through their son David MCBRIDE. I have some information about Symantha SMITH's ancestry, but none about Richard MCBRIDE's.

Is it possible that Richard MCBRIDE is related to the Jane MCBRIDE who married James LOCKHART? Roxane? Kes?

Hi Carolyn,

It's great to hear from you. I'm putting the McBRIDE family together so I don't have very much as yet but will share everything I have if you want it,

According to Roxane, Richard and Jane were brother and sister and their parents were Robert McBRIDE and Rosamond Greenfield. Robert and Rosemond left Northern Ireland for America (Springfield, Cumberland county, Pennsylvania) shortly after they were married, but their parents were from Ayreshire, Scotland. Richard McBRIDE was born in Pennsylvania.

I would be VERY interested in all your information about the SMITH family and In your family of David A. McBRIDE. As I gather and put together the McBRIDE information I will be more than happy to foreword it to you if you are interested.

Hanging in my front hall is a very large picture of both Maria Jane McBRIDE and another of her husband, Joel E. THOMSON. I look at her every day. Each picture, including the frame, measures 26" W by 30" H.

Really looking foreword to your family information - I wish you Joy,

Hi Carolyn,

Thank you for the photo's of Big Springs Presbyterian Church & the notes. I don't quite get the notes, but maybe they will make more sense to me later. I printed them out & they came out pretty good. I haven't worked with land transfers at all so I do not really understand it.

Okay, now I'm getting my thinking cap on here!!!!! You got this info from Cumberland County, right??? So, it seems that Robert, Roseannah, Alex D., & George all certainly were in business together & I think were probably related. Humm.... Robert & Roseannah had a son named Robert (b. abt. 1790) that died in Springfield, Cumberland County, PA on 9 Feb 1826. In his notes I have:

Robert was in the War of 1812 in the Battle of Lundy Lane. He got a disease from the war and died a few years later.

From the book, "Marriages and Deaths of Cumberland County, 1821-1830" - #511. 9 Feb 1826 - Died at Springfield Friday last, after a severe lingering illness, Captain Robert M'Bride, soldier of the late war, for several years one of the Commissioners of Cumberland Co. - in his 36th year of his age.

He may have married Mary Stewart in Portage Co., Ohio on 17 May 1835???? But he had already died, so..... must be a different Robert McBride.

Now, I'm wondering about this. I got the first part from my GG Grandfather, William C. Lockhart's story that he wrote a few years before he died. I got the second part from something you sent to me. And, I don't remember where I got the 3rd part. (From you???) I just noticed by looking at it all together that it says he was 36 when he died, so I subtracted that from the year & got his birth date, but looking at that he would have only been 12 years old in 1812 - how long did that war last??? That's kinda young to go off to battle, I would think.

Okay, maybe his death has nothing to do with the sale. Maybe they were selling because they were moving to Portage Co., Ohio??? In the Richland County Book that Georgia bought, it has a biography in it for her Augustus McBride, who was the son of Jane McBride (My GGG Grandmother who later married James Lockhart & had my GG Grandfather, William Lockhart & his brother, Robert McBride Lockhart.) It also has biographies for Alexander McBride, Duncan McBride, Washington McBride, James McBride, Thomas McBride, & Robert McBride. I didn't think they were related to us, but I'm not really sure. I did type out their biographies if you would like to read them.

I'm also wondering if I sent you the story (or sketch I suppose it could be called) that my Great Great Grandfather, William McClaren Lockhart, wrote. That is where I got the connection to the McBrides, he did write it only a couple of years before he died, so I'm not sure he is all correct, but most has proven to be true. He doesn't mention his half brother, Augustus, at all, but then Augustus died quite a long time before he wrote it. So.... Let me know if you want me to send this to you or if I already have. This all gets so confusing for me!!!!!! I can't remember who I send what to sometimes......

I also want to tell you how much I enjoyed your narrative of your trip to Pennsylvania. My brother, Chuck, printed it out for me, so I do have a copy of it now!!!!! Thank you so much. I'm curious as to if you know Roseannah's parents & siblings. I don't have a marriage date for Roseannah (Greenfield) & Robert McBride - do you??? You are so good at researching - it something I definitely have a lot to learn about!!!!! I hope to get better at it someday.....

I have been busy planting flowers & still need to add some of my mulch. Also, Dave (my husband) wants to add a new section of landscapping (it's small, thank goodness) so I will probably have to help him with that. I know he expects me to think of what to put in it. It is getting a little late for this year to be planting more flowers, but I will think of something. I hope you are enjoying your summer & I am anxious to learn more from your research. I still wonder about John McBride from Koschiosko County, he is mentioned in William Lockhart's sketch also & then you found where a body was sent to DeKalb County from there to be buried. (Maybe his father's???) I keep looking for it to pop up in one of the cemeteries I have been transcribing. I did just find a John McBride, d. Jan. 19, 1891, age 54y, 4m, 20 d. & Anna Catherine McBride, d. Nov. 3, 1908, age 72y, 1m, 15d - both buried in the Mt. Pleasant (Ginder) Cemetery in DeKalb County. I couldn't find any connection to our McBrides though.

Well, Carolyn, thanks again for sharing everything with me. I just love it, I feel like I got to take a trip right along with you. What a nice way to share & to record your trip!!!!!! I was thinking the Big Springs Presbyterian Church was in Portage County, Ohio but now I think it was in Newville, PA which must be in Cumberland County. Is that right??? Have you ever been to Portage County, Ohio??? One more question for you - do you know where Symantha (Smith) & Richard McBride were married???

I look forward to hearing more from you & let me know if you want me to send the biographies from the book. I have them all typed out, I didn't make copies of them, but Georgia still has the book if you would want the original copy. I made a copy of Augustus' pension records that you told me about in the Auburn Library. She had sent to the National Archives & they say they don't have them. I'm sure glad you saw them at the library & that your Aunt had sent away for them & then donated them. It really helped Georgia out with her research!!!!!

Talk to you later,
Roxanne :-)

Hi Carolyn,

According to my GG Grandfather, William Lockhart, who was the son of Jane (McBride) & James Lockhart, Richard McBride was Jane's brother and their parents were Roseannah (Greenfield) and Robert McBride. I have a little more information if you would like it. I'm not sure if it is all true, but so far what he has said has been right. William wrote a story to leave behind for his ancesters, it is interesting!!! According to the story, Roseannah & Robert had 5 children: Jane, Robert, Richard, John, & David. You can email me direct if you like at roxanne.romine@gte.net - I will help anyway I can. I'd love to know more about Rachel & David's family, too, I noticed the connection when I did a search at the DeKalb County Site. It's such a great site!!!! I only have Emma & Mary as their children & nothing after that. I'm sending this to the list so all can see it. I thought there might be more McBride Descendant's out there!!! Oh, I just remembered how it went all the way ! across the page the last time I sent it. I wonder why? It was okay when I saw it in the email form. Oh well, guess I'll try it again.

Roxanne :-)

I, too, am descended from Richard MCBRIDE & Symantha SMITH, but through their son David MCBRIDE. I have some information about Symantha SMITH's ancestry, but none about Richard MCBRIDE's.

Is it possible that Richard MCBRIDE is related to the Jane MCBRIDE who married James LOCKHART? Roxane? Kes?

Wayne Assembly Plant will receive a $230-million generation pickups.

"They need to have continued involvement in that launch because no one knows better how to build the truck than the individuals doing the job each shift."

Nothing has changed in the relationship between Local 2209 and GM, Gevaart said, including the work both sides put into it.

"I don't think anything has changed in that we still have some things to work through and we're continuing to work forward," he said. "In any relationship, things are changed by what's going on around you economically … We always have to work on our relationship."

In addition to the extensive experience and expertise many workers at the plant have assembling full-size pickups, an upgrade to build the next-generation trucks in Fort Wayne made good business sense because of last year's investment there, said Kristin Dziczek at the Center for Automotive Research in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Consolidation at the Fort Wayne Assembly Plant of the heavy-duty pickup production previously located in Pontiac, Mich. involved an investment of $46 million, GM has said.

"I wouldn't say that Fort Wayne was in any danger because there's been a consolidation of truck production capacity over the last few years," said Dziczek, director of the labor and industry group at CAR. "We've seen the Canadian plant go down and consolidation in East Pontiac."

In relation to the full-size pickup production in Silao, Mexico, "in 2009, they negotiated a shift preference for the truck plants in particular … They had to have all truck production in the U.S. running at three shifts and running full out before they could add shifts in Mexico to With that and work that has come to them through GM's restructuring, "Flint and Fort Wayne have won out fairly well," Dziczek said.

Inside Indiana Business, which produces a weekly business television show and runs an online publication, said Fort Wayne was a big winner in this year's contract negotiations because it had a lot at stake.

It reported Sept. 21 that the Fort Wayne Assembly Plant faced closure as early as next year if GM had chosen to take its investment to build the next generation of pickups to either of two other plants it was considering for that work.

Inside Indiana Business attributed that information to UAW Region 3 Director Mo Davison, whom Business Weekly could not reach for comment.

On Sept. 26, Inside Indiana Business said the $230-million investment was "part of a deal, which GM had shopped to other locations." It said the investment negotiated by the union "saved the plant."

GM declined comment on details of the contract until after they were explained to the UAW membership and voting had taken place.

In addition to the prestige of having GM as an employer in the area, Udris said the Fort Wayne Assembly Plant's direct and indirect annual payroll of about $900 million has a huge impact on northeast Indiana's economy.

GM also has indicated that, of the 150 new or retained jobs mentioned in the UAW contract in connection with the investment at the Fort Wayne Assembly Plant, 100 of the jobs will be new, he said.

In return for this investment, GM received "the incentives we normally would have provided other businesses in a comparable Biography of Chauncey Ringler, pages 582 / 583. History of De Kalb County, Indiana. Inter-State Publishing Company, Chicago, 1885.

Chauncey Ringler, farmer and stock-raiser, is one of the successful pioneers of Fairfield Township. He was born in Somerset County, Pa., Jan. 6, 1822, a son of Henry and Martha (Keller) Ringler, native of Pennsylvania, of English and German descent. He was reared on a farm, residing with his parents till twenty-one years of age, and in 1843 he went to Ohio and worked by the month two years. He then rented land in Holmes County till 1849, when he came to DeKalb County, Ind., and settled on forty acres of timber land. He cleared a small spot and built a log cabin into which he moved his family, and then went to work to improve his farm. He lived on this land five years and then sold it an bought eighty acres in Steuben County, just across the De Kalb County line, where he lived five years. In 1859 he bought 120 acres of land across the line from Steuben County, and in 1880 bought forty acres adjoining, making a fine farm of 160 acres where he now lives, which he has improved and has now under a fine state of cultivation. He was married Nov. 27, 1845, to Elizabeth Almendinger, a native of Holmes County, Ohio, daughter of Frederick and Annie Almendinger. They had a family of four children---Franklin, Henry, Israel and Allen (deceased). His wife died Sept. 4, 1854, and Jan. 25, 1855, he married Susan Anstett, daughter of George and Susan (Stofer) Anstett, natives of France, who came to the United States about 1833, and to De Kalb County, Ind., about 1854, and thence to Steuben County where the father died in 1878, aged eighty years, and the mother 1881. To Mr. and Mrs. Ringler have been born twelve children, eight of whom are living---John, Caroline, Addie, Mary E., George A. Chauncy W., Susan M., and Nellie May. Charley, Catherine Jane, Harriet Malinda, and Edward L. are deceased. Mr. Ringler's father died in 1883, aged ninety-seven years, and his mother in 1884, aged ninety-three years. In politics Mr. Ringler is a Republican.

Hi Cheryl (& Carolyn),

Just got off the phone from talking to Carolyn & got her email address, will send this reply to both of you & also copy the info that you sent in the other email into it. I may have typed some wrong info into my FTM program, but you are definitely related. I believe Carolyn just told me that Susan & George Anstett are her 2nd great grandparents. Good luck with your genealogy, wish I were related, too! Believe I do have a Kirkpatrick in my VandenBroeck family! Ha, ha!

Roxanne

Carolyn,
Here is Cheryl's info from the other email:

She is a 4th cousin to my Mom & I worked with her a bit on my McBride Family - met her through the DeKalb list so maybe you already have communicated with her. Her name is Carolyn & it turned out that she & Mom already knew each other through church. She lives less than 5 miles from me... I still see her at church when I go, which I've not been doing lately... She sings in the choir, at least she did, and so does her husband. They are real nice people.

Hope it isn't so confusing that you don't understand it, probably not if you are really into genealogy, but you'll probably have to read it a few times. Sorry.... Guess really Carolyn might not even be blood to your ancester's at all, but she could be - you'll be able to tell better than I...

Pretty sure she sent me a new one right before my computer crash... Those crashes sure do mess a person up - that was my second one with that same computer - I am now using a different computer! ;-) But, still don't even quite trust it! Did have most of my stuff backed up here & there, but did lose quite a bit of my FTM in the first crash. Had bought my computer & then got laid off from work & really worked hard on the genealogy for a few months & then completely lost everything I had entered in those three months. So, unless I had printed something it was gone... All my emails, too... Had a real hard time getting back into it after that! Really still haven't like I use to, but I do still dabble here & there! Genealogy is just too fun!

> Good luck to you & let me know if you'd like to email with Carolyn. She is sweet, and had quite a lot of info on the McBrides. Looks to me like the Anstett's are a lot closer to her generation, so she may have a whole lot for you. Also, guess I should mention that I live in Steuben County & DeKalb County is actually right next to us. Could be a good connection for you - not sure where you live.

Hi Carolyn
I am so happy to find you. This is great.

I have gotten a copy of George and Susanna's marriage certificate from France also the first 2 childrens birth certificate's from France. I sent a letter to the Anstett people in the phone book but no one seem interested. I saw an article in a book about Wava Rowe. I wondered what happened to her line.
Do you have any pictures of anyone? Of the Anstett family the only one I have is Della who was George and Mary Jane's daughter. I have a picture of all Sherman and Della's children also.
Hope to hear. Cheryl

> Hello, Cheryl - It's good to find another family member. I have a copy of Berniece Ringler Rowe's book on the Anstett family, and I just checked to see how far it went on your line. It names your grandfather, Earl Strawser, as the child of Sherman and Della Anstett Strawser, but has no more information on him.

She married Levi Putt, a neighbor in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, and they had 5 children: Susanna, Frank, Sarah Ann, Joanna and George W. Frank married Maude Bell Brugh, and they had 5 children: Dwight, Naomi, Pauline, Lurah and Allen. Naomi married Raymond Rensch, and I am their only surviving child. Aunt Lurah is 90 years old and lives in East Lansing, Michigan.

Eckhart Public Library
"Ghost Towns of DeKalb County"
By John Martin Smith, County Historian

There were more than forty P.O. stops and small towns in DeKalb County. Do you know where they all located? John will share through a multimedia program information about these early towns of DeKalb County and will answer any questions that you have.

"Shopping for Memories"
By Jim Barron

He shares his latest book "Shopping for Memories, a Nostalgic Look at Downtown Ft. Wayne, 1900-1970." It gives details abt. many of the other businesses that comprised the heart of downtown Ft. Wayne. He will also talk a little on Wolf & Dessauer that he also has written books on. These books will be available for purchase at his program.

March 9, 2009
"Yearbook Hysteria"

Have a good laugh at the fashions & hairstyles of your old yearbooks. Please bring a yearbook/yearbooks that you were in (please mark it with post it notes) and we will pass it around. It gives us an opportunity to learn more about you and where/when you grew up. If you don't have a yearbook, please bring a picture of you in Junior High or High School. Or you could share a picture of a relative in a yearbook or picture at that age.

Letter from the President

I want to thank everyone that has helped over the year with projects, programs, contributing toward the newsletter, coming to our meetings and working hard to keep our society going. Your loyalty and support is phenomenal. Sometimes we have rough patches but you make it all smooth and good again! We have the same officers again which is great and we hope to have a whole new line of project chairmans (not including Homesteaders/Pioneer settlers, Editors and History). If you are willing to index books, work on cemeteries and cemetery records and readings, work on publicity, queries, take books/papers to libraries in Butler and Garrett please let me know. We can always use articles from the old newspapers, pictures (family, school, church, town scenes) for the newsletters and publication of books (mostly church). We would love to scan them and return the originals to you. Also family histories, charts are always welcome so we may share with the libraries and keep a copy for ourselves. We are in the process of pulling together a program of early Garrett History—could you help with gathering information or pictures? We are planning on putting it together as a power point presentation from contributed pictures, etc. and have people share their memories at the meeting….Please, if you haven't already, get involved in your society! And if you have been involved, thank you for your hard work and efforts to be there for us. I cannot tell you how much you have meant to me through the years. My mom always taught me to be honest, helpful and trustworthy to others and I appreciate those traits in people. Enough preaching! Have a great time in the New Year expanding your own family research and helping others with theirs. But take time for yourself and kick back and enjoy your family and relaxation.

Amanda and I will be presenting programs at Huntington in February and at the Fort Wayne Library for the Allen Co. Genealogy Society in March. The program will be "Identifying Old Photos." We also, at a later date, will be doing programs for the Noble County and Steuben County Genealogy Societies. If you missed the two part program that we offered last year—please join us for the condensed version at one of these meetings in the future. I guarantee you will learn something to aid you in identifying at least a date for those unlabeled photos you have.

Take care, Roselyn Wells, Pres.

Minutes

Oct. 13, 2008 The D.C.I.G.S. met Mon., May 13, 2008, 6:15 p.m. at the Willennar Genealogy Center, Auburn, IN. There were 15 members and guests present. Ed McDonald provided refreshments.

Roselyn Wells, Pres., called the meeting to order. Amanda Blackman, Recording Secretary, read the minutes from July & Aug.. The minutes from July were approved as corrected and the minutes from August were approved as read. Susanna Johnson read the Treasurer's report, which will be filed for audit at the end of the year. There is a combined balance of $5,927.72.

Under Old business, DCIGS had previously received a letter from Joe Eldridge regarding as article in the newsletter requesting more information about the Bookmiller sawmill. Ed McDonald researched this, found a picture of the sawmill and additional information about the Kohl side of that family. This information was sent to Mr. Eldridge and Ed received a thank you.

A report on the Waterloo Cemetery was given by Roselyn Wells. The 15 stones that were reported that still remained to be repaired were more like 40. Some are still in process of being restored.

During New Business, Roselyn Wells announced that Mary Dangler asked if we would consider adopting Ridge Cemetery for restoration. Approximately 80% of the stones are down and are mostly tablet stones. Amanda Blackman moved for DCIGS to commit to help restore the Ridge Cemetery. Ed McDonald seconded the motion. A brief discussion was held. A vote was held and passed unanimously. DCIGS will commit to help restore the Ridge Cemetery.

Roselyn Wells and Amanda Blackman brought up the proposal that it would be a good idea for DCIGS to purchase a digital projector to use at meetings and other events. Ed McDonald moved that DCIGS should purchase a $200 unit if available, and if not available the $400 projector. David Hardy seconded the motion. A discussion was held. The vote passed unanimously.

The Burgner Family History has been copied and is being taken to the libraries. This includes the Hollinger family.

David Harding brought in the Harding Family History and pictures of Old Churches.

Julia Duncan brought in CDs of "Diary of Joseph A. Ober" & the "Haynes-Ober Family Albums"

Bob Friend gave 1938 Murals by John Rea in Waterloo, Indiana to DCIGS.

Upcoming meetings were announced.

The meeting adjourned at 6:45 pm for a research night at the Willennar Genealogy Center

Nov. 10, 2008 The D.C.I.G.S. met Mon., Nov. 10, 2008, 6:15 p.m. at the Eckhart Public Library, Auburn, IN. There were 23 members and guests present. Barb Provines and Julia Duncan provided refreshments.

Roselyn Wells, Pres. called the meeting to order. Barb Provines read the minutes. The minutes were approved as read. Susanna Johnson read the Treasurer's report, which will be filed for audit at the end of the year.

Under Old business, local libraries are currently copying books that DCIGS has loaned for that purpose.

Roselyn Wells provided an update on the Cemetery Restoration. Roselyn Wells provided an update on the Cemetery Restoration. Work at the Waterloo Cemetery was done to older stones (damaged but not vandalized) to get them set up so they were not walked on or taken.

During New Business, Roselyn Wells will be typing and working on the sexton's records. We are making up books of the records showing where people were buried on the lot, who bought the lot and who was eventually buried there. Pat Williams, wife of the sexton would like to help.

Everyone is asked to bring something for refreshments to the meeting in December.

Elections for the 2009 officers were held. The following slate was proposed by Ruth Camarata. President-Roselyn Wells, Vice-President-Julia Duncan, Recording Secretary-Amanda Blackman, Treasurer-Susanna Johnson, Corresponding Secretary-Scot Vincent. Nominations from the floor were opened. None were proposed. Vote for proposed slate passed unanimously.

Members were encouraged to suggest program ideas for the upcoming year and new people were encouraged to get more involved!

Another update on the Bookmiller sawmill was provided.

Paul Reinoehl and Owen Eckert have passed away.

Upcoming meetings were announced.

Sally Garrett (Dingley) was introduced as the speaker. She presented the program 'Family Stories – Fact or Fiction". She covered whether or not to included in your family history such things as early pregnancies (like at 13 ½ years old), HAD TO marriages, suicides and notes, movie stars, murder, and cattle thieves.

Dec. 8, 2008

The D.C.I.G.S. met Mon., Dec. 8, 2008, 6:15 p.m. at the Eckhart Public Library, Auburn, IN. There were about 16 members and guests present. Everyone provided refreshments.

There was no formal business meeting. Roselyn Wells made some announcements.

Roger Lash presented the program, "Trash or Treasure". He provided informal appraisals of items brought in by members and guests. He appraised many items, some examples are toys, jewelry, pictures, a Civil War sword, playing cards and dishes.

MCBRIDE

Democratic Party has deserted its democratic principles and is now endeavoring to destroy the union. When I asked to become an adopted citizen of these United States I in good faith took a solemn oath to not only abide by but to support the Constitution of the United States."

My mother was Jane McBride, daughter of Robert and Roseannah (Greenfield) McBride, who emigrated from the north of Ireland soon after marriage and located at Springfield, Cumberland Co., Pennsylvania, where four sons and one daughter were born and reared.

Both their parents were natives of Ayrshire, Scotland. My Uncle Robert McBride was a soldier in the War of 1812 and participated in the Battle of Lundy's Lane. He contracted disease in the army and died a few years later. Uncle Richard lived to a good old age and died in Smithfield Twp., DeKalb Co., Indiana. Uncle John died at an advanced age at Pierceton, Kosciosko Co., Indiana. Uncle David, the youngest son, died at Sparta, Wisconsin, at an advanced age, was the editor of the Sparta Herald. He was a delegate to the convention that nominated Abraham Lincoln for the Presidency. My mother, Jane, died at the age of sixty two years, in Smithfield Twp., DeKalb Co., Indiana. My Grandmother McBride died from injury of a fall at Springfield, Pennsylvania. Grandfather died at Pierceton, Indiana at the age of eighty eight. My father died at Waterloo, Indiana at his sons, Robert M's in 1872 at the age of eighty eight.

From infancy to past 21 I resided in the same house on a 22 acre farm 1 and ½ miles north of Lexington. Nothing special having occurred until I was about 10 or 11 years of age. My father found himself bankrupt by a dishonest partner, reduced from competence to an indebtedness of about $500 above the value of all property, when the accounting was had with his partner who kept the books he called in all his creditors and made a showing to them. After due consideration by the creditors they said to father if we take all property it would not cover you indebtedness, get rid of your partner. We have decided that you will be allowed to keep all property left and go ahead; we know your ability and believe that in time you will pay off every dollar of indebtedness. Their magnanimous offer was gladly accepted and diligent effort was put forth to consummate it, economy and diligent effort was put forth by the family until time I was 21 and Brother R.M. 23 the debts were all paid except one note of $50 to Allen Beverstock and my Brother and I had personal property of a cash value of $900. At this time Brother and I had decided to go to DeKalb Co., Indiana and erect and operate a saw mill. Allen Beverstock said to us, "Boys, you will need all the money you have in starting you business, go along and pay the note when it suits your convenience," which we did gladly.

The financial condition of the family materially interfered with my education. I can only remember going to summer school two weeks and we never had a longer term than three months of winter school. One winter no school on account of no school house and on winter only two months term.

I very often had to stay out of school to work. Those times thrashing was nearly all done in winter with slow working machines which would take from one to three days at a place and as I always helped at the thrashing on twelve different farms I lost much time from school. I only attended High School (as then called) two weeks. I made the best of my opportunities when in school. In the fall of 1854 I passed a successful public examination at Mt. Geliad and taught the school at Walters Corners in Morrow County. Had an enrollment of seventy six scholars, several of whom were older than I was. I presumed that my services were acceptable as I was solicited to rehire which I declined as I did not like teaching.

On Dec. 17th 1855 I left my parental home for DeKalb Co., Indiana to join my Brother R.M. who had preceded me and commenced the erection of a sawmill which we started in operation on the 4th day of July 1856. Father and Mother joined us in Smithfield Twp. in the spring of 1856.

We operated the mill from the start to its utmost capacity, a part of each year, night and day, at other times 13 to 14 hours per day. Money was scarce and all bank notes of uncertain value and the panic of 1857 made very low prices and money scare in fact a heavy premium was necessary above the traffic prices of lumber and other commodities to obtain it. As an example of the high value of money, in 1858, I solicited John Shatto to sell us a poplar tree that we especially wanted at that time, and asked price, he said you can have the tree for five dollars on the saw bill which I am owing you but if you will pay me you can have it for $2.50. In the winter of 1857 we had to raise about $50 for a purpose that required money. Brother and I went to our customers with saw bills which they owed to amount of several hundred dollars, $7 was the largest amount received from any one, some could pay a dollar and some only 50 cents and a majority not anything and to raise the amount we had to have we had to get a load of wheat, 36 bushels, go to their barns to get it, accept it stroked measure and allow them the price we received for it at Ft. Wayne, a 32 mile haul over very bad road. The wheat being of poor quality fell short on the load 4 bushels from measurement. The shortage and collecting and marketing represent the premium that the money cost. How is that for the good old time that we often hear boasted of by some people?

By economy, close applications and hard work we overcame some of our financial embarrassments and by 1860 was in very good circumstances. In the spring of 1861 we rented a mill at Otsego, Steuben Co., for which we paid one years rent in advance, $400—and I went there to operate it, working from 16 to 18 hours of each 24, this continued until in the next day after the Bull Run defeat about 9 a.m. a man came to the mill and told us of the terrible defeat of the army. We all stopped work and went outside to talk of the matter when Brother R.M. rode up and after greeting us asked if we had heard the terrible news. I told him we had just heard it, he said, "Brother, I feel that the time has come that we should make a sacrifice, that one of

Mary Hickox and William Lockhart

Thinking that after I am gone that those of my family who survive me, and more especially to my grandchildren, that a biographical sketch of my life may be of some interest is my inducement to in my feeble way chronicle it for their perusal.

I, William McClaren Lockhart, was born May 27th 1834 at Lexington, Richland Co., Ohio, the son of James and Jane (McBride) Lockhart. My father, James Lockhart, was born in County Tyrone, Ireland, was the son of William and Mary McClaren Lockhart, was left an orphan in infancy and was brought up in the families of his father and his mother's people, learned the trade of a linen weaver, at the age of 25 he emigrated to America with his Uncle James McClaren and family, locating in Pennsylvania where he worked on a farm for James Clark for six years, first year at six dollars per month balance of the time at seven dollars per month. He then learned the trade of distiller in the employ of James McColough, a Presbyterian preacher. He was in religion a Protestant raised in the Baptist faith and a member for that church but in this country united with the Presbyterian church, he was in Ireland a member of the Orangemen and Anti-Catholic society.

The name Lockheart, Scotch history gives its origination in the acts of one Sir Stephen Lockhard who was a captain under Bruce the famous Scottish chieftain during the Crusades in the Holy Land. Sir Stephen was charged with the responsibility to procure and convey the heart of Bruce to his home in the event of his death. Bruce had a premonition that he would be killed in the contest and knew that his body could not be taken home, his desire was that his heart be taken from his body after death and enclosed in a small iron casket that he carried suspended by a chain about his neck. The consumption of that desire was the promise of Sir Stephen to fulfill which he faithfully did. He with his company were surrounded by the enemy and his men faltered in making a charge. Sir Stephen took the casket by the chain from his neck and called out, "men if you will not follow me, will you follow the heart of Bruce?", and hurled the casket into the hands of the enemy at which the company charged and cut their way through and not only escaped but recovered the casket which was born by Sir Stephen to the home of Bruce and for the faithful and vaient discharge the duty thus imposed on him b Bruce it was decreed that Sir Stephen's name should be changed from Lockard to Lockheart.

My father was intensely loyal to his adopted government, after the commencement of the War of the Rebellion he took decisive stand on the war question proclaiming the Rebellion must be put down and the Constitution and Union preserved let the cost be what it may. I heard a man say to him, "Lockhart, how is it that you were always such a strong Democrat and have left us and joined the black Abolitionists party." His answer was, "I am as good Democrat in principles as I ever was but the now so called us should offer our services to the country." I acquiesced in his expressed view and said, "I will offer my service." Robert said, "No, you need not if you will promise to stay with the work which will be contributory as we are cutting gun carriage lumber for the government." I said, "No, you have a wife, I have none, I will go, I will remain with the mill yet three days to complete the promised bill of lumber and then shut down and be at home Friday night." On my arrival at home I found an enlistment roll awaiting me and arrangements made that I commence recruiting a company in connection with Wesley Park of Auburn, who it was understood was to be captain and I first Lieutenant, for the next two weeks I engaged in recruiting and settling with mill customers which work I completed on Friday previous to Monday at which time we were to go into military camp at Ft. Wayne. On arrival at home Friday night I was so sick that I had to be helped into the house and to bed. Dr. Sol Stough was called and pronounced my sickness Typhoid Fever. Before mustering the company Captain Park brought out the surgeon who examined me and said that if I recovered that it would be a long time before I would be able for the service. Not having been mustered in I was dropped from the muster roll and Aldrich of Pleasant Lake took my place as first Lieutenant and in regular line of promotion became Col. of the regiment inside the first year. The company was K the regt. the 44th Ind.

I had three relapses which gave me a long siege from Aug 1861 to 1st of May 62 before I got out and by the middle of June I had recuperated so that I took my place at the saw in our own mill. The time being expired for the rental of the Otsego mill which had cost us by forfeiture nearly two thirds of the $400 we had paid I continued by work in the mill, gaining strength and flesh never having felt more vigorous. Weighed about 190 lbs. and stood erect six feet one inch. About the first of August I was determined to go to the army. I was offered the second Lieutenant if I would join Capt. Beers Co. of the 88th Ind. but declined I did not desire an officers position as I was going into the service from a sense of duty I preferred to go as a private. I told my brother that if he did not find a man to take my place at the saw by the 13th of Aug. that I would shut down the mill and go. On the night of the 12th Brother told me that Henry Osburn would be there by noon the next day and urged me not to shut down the mill after dinner on the 13th I filed the saw put on a log and cut one line then handed the lever to Osburn and said good bye. He took my place at $1.25 per day and board and I started out to offer my services to the government at $13 per month.

Robert took me to Auburn and as the company had gone I hired conveyance to Ft. Wayne and found the company quartered for the night in the Hill and Orbison Warehouse, where I joined them and only found two Men that I personally knew, George Buchanan and Henford E. Meeker. Next morning the company was called into line was examined by a surgeon and sworn in. I was in the ranks and accepted after which I stepped up to Captain Rhodes and said, "Captain, I have accepted and sworn in, I would like to sign the roll." He said, "Mr. Lockhart, we would be glad to have you with us, but I am sorry to say that every position even to that of corporal is promised." I said, "Captain, I don't ask for any position only that of a private neither do I want any other position."

Three weeks later when the form of election was gone through I was elected fifth sergeant to which I protested but the protest was disregarded. We were soon shipped to Indianapolis there being only three companies of a regimental formation. We three companies were sent to Madison, Indiana from there to camp Gray a few miles up the River accompanied by a Co. of cavalry and a section of artillery and from there we went farther up the River and crossed over into Kentucky and took possession of Carlton a Co. seat at the mouth of the Kentucky River where we remained a few days and were then shipped back to Indianapolis and the formation of the 100th Ind. was completed. We were then shipped to Cairo, Illinois by fall and then Memphis, Tennessee by the Mississippi River. We were found days and nights on the River which was so low that we could run but little at night and at one place we had to disembark on the Arkansas shore and march for some distance on account of the shallow water. We only remained a short time in Memphis until we started south with army of Grant and Sherman destined for Vicksburg.

On reaching College Hill, Mississippi the troops were reviewed and the army divided, Sherman with his forces returning to Memphis and going down the Mississippi, Grant whose command we were in continued the march South to the Yockmey River from which point we had to retreat north Price and Vandovers army whom we were pushing towards Vicksburg had made pretence of resistance, I think as a feint while with a part of their force flanked us and captured our base of supplies at Holley Springs and took possession of the Memphis and Charleston R.R. both of which we recaptured on our retrograde movement our Reg't with others was stationed at different points along the R.R. to guard damage or recapture. Our Reg't was kept on this duty to the 6th of May 1863 with headquarters at Grand Junction and Collinsville, Tennessee.

On the 7th of May our Reg't was marched up to Memphis and on the 8th embarked on the river for Vicksburg. On the 6th of May was my last connection with the Reg't not being physically able to make the march of 24 miles to Memphis I with others was sent up to Memphis on flat cars. On arrival at Memphis I was in an unconscious condition and was taken to the Washington Hospital not regaining consciousness until next morning. I remained there a few days and then was transferred to Ft. Pickering to convalescent camp where I remained until about the first of July at which time I was in charge of Gerards at the powder magazine. At my earnest solicitation to be sent in charge of twenty four privates to Navy Yard but the march of about two miles proved too much for my condition. I was prostrated and after six days there without any medical attention I was taken to the Overton Hospital where my condition improved and about the 10th of August I was furloughed home and put in care of Brother R.M. who came after me. On expieration of first and second furlough extended 30 days longer, with yet 20 days on furlough I paid my transportation to Indianapolis thinking that I could get transportation from there to Vicksburg to join my Regiment which was my greatest desire but I had to pass an examination and accept a discharge to which I protested to no avail as they said I would never be of any further use to the government.

It was with the deepest regret that I had to accept of the situation as it was the height of my ambition to continue in the service until its conclusion. The medical director told me that in his opinion I could not survive but a short time. But said he with your natural make-up a fine almost perfect physique your temperament and a strong will power it is possible you may die of old age but there is a thousand chances against one for such a result. My heart at that time was so much enlarged that it was visible through my clothing when pressed lightly against my breast. In latter part of June the old German surgeon in Ft. Pickering told me that nothing surer that I would be under the ground inside of three weeks. Twenty years since the close of the war, Dr. D.J. Swartz, who was our assistant surgeon of the Reg't said to me, "Lockhart, nothing but that indomitable will-power of yours has kept you alive this long." I mention these things with the view that it may be of benefit at least to some who read it of the importance of bringing in exercise all the will power they may be able to command and I believe the power can be materially strengthened. I do most thoroughly believe that I have many times averted death by its exercise not only of the will but by physical resistance. One occasion the combined force of will, voice, and exercise of one arm was necessary to prevent a collapse. When I told the Dr. he said you saved your own life, had you gone to sleep it would have been your last sleep.

Before passing from the war record I wish to say that there were many things that I might say that would be of some interest to my grandchildren but would make the record to voluminous. I had no brilliant career as a soldier; I was only one among the many who voluntarily offered their services to the preservation of the union. The restoration of which makes us the greatest nation of earth of which we are justly proud. That I did not participate in any of the great battles of the rebellion was no fault of mine our command during the period that I was with it discharged the duties assigned to it with fidelity in the varied duties as soldiers which are numerous aside from actual fighting we did much marching, picketing and other guard duty, endured wet, cold, hunger, in fact we endured all the hardships of war except actual fighting, had skirmishes which often resulted in greater loss of life considering the number engaged than in the greater battles. I feel a consciousness that I faithfully and fully discharged my duty as a soldier to best of my ability and only regret my physical inability to continue to the close of the war. I was discharged from the army Oct. 22nd 1863 after having served fourteen months and nine days. My diseased condition due to my service has handicapped me ever since but notwithstanding that I do not regret having done all I could in the defense of the union.

On the 22nd of Dec. 1864 I was united in marriage to Elizabeth M. Spencer at Shalersville, Ohio. Our lives were happy until she was prostrate with internal cancer and died Oct. 16th 1867 and interred in the Waterloo cemetery. To this union was born Jan. 2nd 1866 a daughter, now Jenny M. Day, of Waterloo, Indiana.

On the 6th day of May 1869 I was married at Mansfield, Ohio to Mary Hickox. On Nov. 28th 1872 was born to us a son, Robert W. Lockhart, now of Fairfield Twp. On Feb. 6th 1884, she died of heart failure. Our life together had been a very happy one; she also was buried in Waterloo Cemetery.

On the 17th day of Oct. 1887 I was married at Jackson, Michigan to Julia (Hickox) Osborn, a sister of wife, Mary. She died at Waterloo, Indiana Dec. 16th 1891 of cancer and was buried at Waterloo Cemetery.

On Jan. 4th 1894 I was married at Corunna, Indiana to Elizabeth Ames Ansely, who is now my companion.

When sufficiently recuperated from my army sickness in 1864 I resumed the lumber business with my brother R.M. in connection with the saw mill business we were engaged in the purchase of hard wood lumber at many points on railroad and canal which we sold in the eastern markets. In 1868 we extended our operations to central and southern Indiana. In Dec. 1867 I moved my family to Crawfordsville, Indiana as a base of operation where we erected a saw mill of large capacity and later a planning mill and wood working shop also erected and operated a saw mill in Park Co. Shortly prior to what is known as the Panic of 1873 an invoice of our property showed that at a fair cash value we were worth ninety thousand dollars represented largely by Farm Lands City and Town property, machinery, lumber, and timber. We were holding at that time more than two million feet of lumber logs and lumber trees but this was not considered in our assets as its value was only in prospect when manufactured and sold. This stock was purchased by money advanced by the eastern firm who was to have the lumber when delivered ready for market no interest was to paid on the advance money but was charged to our account and payable on delivery of lumber. Deliveries were made during the open season of navigation after close of shipping season of 1873, we were urged to continue the purchase of stock saying this panic will be only temporary. We will want all the lumber you can furnish and you can have all the money you want to put into stock, by their advice I purchased over two hundred thousand feet of logs to add to the already heavy stock on hand about the holidays they represented to us a desired change and division of their business which made settlement necessary. That instead of carrying the advance on account we should put in note and the western division of the firm would handle our lumber and liquidate the notes held by the eastern firm. That would have been all right had it carried with it the prices that was then understood by verbal agreement to attain but by the time of delivery the bottom had fell out of lumber prices from 33 to 40 percent and the new firm would only allow current prices and under these conditions and every branch of the lumber business demoralized we found ourselves in a very embarrassed condition but we went ahead doing best we could or at least pursued the benefit of the Bankrupt Law which at that time would have enabled us to save enough to have got a start again clear of encumbrance but at a meeting with my Brother in Indianapolis to which I was called we decided that it would be a dishonest course to pursue and we would not avail ourselves of it but would take the chances to work through to success which I am confident we would have done had it not been for later misfortunes. Our saw mill in Park Co. burned down our dry kiln at Crawfordsville, burned at a loss of over $1600, we lost $950 by the failure of Wm. Overland at Waveland, we lost over $1200 by the CD & VR Road Co. together with a number of smaller losses amounting to over $1200 but not withstanding those losses we were recuperating.

I extended my lumber operations to Iowa on the Des Moines River in the summer of 1879 resulting in a gain of about $1000 during the season of 1880 I purchased lumber and cut logs which I intended to cut into lumber by portable mills with which I had arranged but the opposition of my Brother and J.J. Kinney who was furnishing me money prevailed their idea being to run the logs down the river to Des Moines and to erect a band mill to saw the lumber. The attempt was made with 1000 logs which were distributed for 70 miles along the river there being insufficient water to float them at any time during the season. That fall and winter was spent in getting logs collected from the river bed and banked to prevent their loss by creaking up of ice at spring flood time. In May 1881 I went to putting in logs commencing 15 miles below Ft. Dodge and collecting all as we went down. We were 41 days on the drive and 10 days securing them in boom in upper part of mill dam at Des Moines. When logs were in boom I considered them secure until I could get them out of water and sawed into lumber expecting in a few days to start my mill which I had erected the summer before, but an unexpected and unprecedented flood came and raising the water several feet above the bank against which the logs were boomed. The boom held secure but the logs swing out by a cross current when the water gets deep enough to carry them over the bank and away they went down the river no doubt some of them to the Mississippi River and others scattered all over the lower Des Moines valley. I recovered a good many later but at an expense that there was no profit. I had better not attempted their recovery. My loss with the flood was over $21,000. I continued to operate at Des Moines four years without result of profit. I then closed my mill and lumber operations permanently and shipped mill and machinery back to Indiana and turned over to J.J. Kinney on settlement of our account.

In the last 12 years of my lumber operations I prospected the timbered streams of Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, Kentucky, and Northeast Tennessee. During my prospecting I found and obtained options on two valuable properties, one on the lower Wabash in Indiana and one on the Marydizene River in Southwestern Missouri. In both purchase of the land was required Indiana land $3200 Missouri land 3300 acres 91 miles south of Kansas City on M.K. & T.R.R. and besides the valuable timber which would have paid for the land and left a large profit on the lumber part of it was all under laid with a deep vein of coal. Was only a few miles from the famous Jay Gould mine. This profit I had an option of for $42,000. Both of these properties I was offered to furnish me all the necessary money to purchase and operate by a substantial capitetest on favorable terms. Had I had the capital on my own I would not have taken less than $20,000 for the Indiana options nor less than $50,000 for the Missouri options but not withstanding my confidence in their value I gave them up, my nerve failed me not that I felt the risk but to accept the responsibility of so large an amount of money belonging to another, I felt a realization when too late that it was the worst financial mistake of my life. Large fortunes have been made by many men by having the verve to accept of opportunities offered where the risk was much greater than in the matters that I have mentioned. While my nerve failed me in accepting those offered opportunities and no doubt others of less magnitude it never failed me in matters undertaken nor in times of danger or trouble. In my career I past through many dangers where I realized that there was but very small chance for life, my verve never failed me and in some instances I believe saved my life. * THE END * Roxanne had more information on the Lockhart and Hartman families. We will use this in the next newsletter.
